THE AFRICAN CRY.

BY REV. J. O. RICHARDS.

Christians we have heard the summons
Of the suff'rers o'er the sea;
Must we close our ears against them,
To the summons pay no heed?
Can we keep the great commission
Which the Lord has giv'n to each,
Saying, Go to all the lowly
And my precious Gospel teach?

Chorus—Yes the heathen still are crying,
Crying for the bread of life;
Hasten, Christians to release them
From the bond of sin and strife.

Every zephyr brings some tidings
Of the souls in darkness still;
Waiting, sinking, suffering, dying,
Till the Church her charge fulfill.
May this summons rouse the slothful,
Who the word of life have heard,
To proclaim the blissful tidings,
Spread abroad the healing word.

Savior, fill our hearts and consciences
With a burning love for souls;
May we never be contented
Until all are in the fold;
Until every soul that liveth
On the isles across the sea,
Learns that Jesus Christ, the Savior,
Purchased them upon the tree.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—The General Committee, composed of the bishops and General Conference district representatives, with the officers and representatives from the Board of Managers of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, will meet in Chicago, Monday, Nov. 11. The first session will begin in First Church, corner of Clark and Washington streets, at 10 a. m.

—The great Congress on Africa, to be held at Gammon Theological Seminary Dec. 13 to 15, promises to be a meeting of unusual significance. Among the speakers expected are: Bishop Wm. Taylor, of Africa; the Hon. E. W. Blyden, ex-president of Liberia and minister to the Court of St. James; Orishetuka Faduma, an African prince, graduate of the University of London. Chaplain McCabe, two of our bishops and other eminent representatives of American churches will also probably take part. The latest missionary reports from the great societies laboring in Africa will be a feature.

A FRATERNAL INCIDENT.

The Oregon Conference of the M. E. Church, with Bishop Bowman presiding, and the Oregon Conference of the A. M. E. Church, with Bishop Lee presiding, met in the same city in that State recently. Our brethren sent greetings to the African brethren and invited them to join in a protracted meeting, which they accepted. It was a magnificent gathering. Bishop Bowman addressed the brethren in a speech, remarkable for its tenderness and pathos, and closed by invoking the blessing of God upon this daughter of our Methodism. Bishop Lee, who is one of the truly great men of the African M. E. Church, grandly and ably voiced the sentiment of his brethren in favor of that union which stands for mutual sympathy and helpfulness in the great work of spreading Scripture holiness throughout our land and of bringing the benefits of the gospel to bear upon all men without regard to race or color. All honor to the Oregon brethren, who see the way clear to stand upon the broadest Christian platform in their adherence to the grand doctrine of human brotherhood.

A FOUL BLOT UPON THE STATE OF TENNESSEE'S ESCUTCHEON.

The Associated Press dispatches tell another horrible story of outrage, bloodshed, butchery, by an infuriated mob of 300 men. Jeff Ellis, a Negro who confessed (of course) to the murder of a white woman near Braden, Tenn., was the subject of torture unsurpassed since the days of the inquisition. While the crime, if any was committed, was indeed revolting, the method adopted for the punishment of the so-called self-confessed murderer is one of the most diabolical in the history of our civilization. Unhappy Tennessee is again the scene of an outrage upon public justice, which should stamp it as the lynchers' paradise. Memphis, Millington, Cole City, Summit, and other places which we cannot at this moment recall, have been christened with the blood of Negroes and dedicated to the moloch of anarchy and race hatred. It is hard to realize that the great commonwealth which gave to the Union's cause during the late civil strife some of its bravest defenders, and which hallows the last resting place of her immortal and honored dead at historic Chickamauga, should allow her fair escutcheon to be polluted with the record which these bloodthirsty mobs are making. But here is the ghastly record which these later day Tennesseeans are making:

"MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 15.—The mob, with Jeff Ellis, the Negro murderer, in custody, reached Braden about 1:30 this morning. It numbered about 300 men, who had gathered from Galloway, Braden, Mason, Summit and neighboring towns. Upon reaching the scene of the crime the torture of the Negro was begun. His fingers, toes and nose were cut off. He was further mutilated and hanged to the nearest telegraph pole, after which his body was riddled with bullets. The bloody work began by slashing one of Ellis' ears. One of the better element in the mob left when this was done, saying he did not want to take part in anything except the hanging of the murderer. The Negro screamed from his torture, but his other ear was cut off a few minutes later. The mob became madder at the sight of this work and those who were mutilating the Negro found ample encouragement. They next cut off all his fingers and tore away part of his clothes. They mutilated him in a horrible manner. The Negro was covered with blood and his head looked like it had been scalped. The mob was not even then willing to end the Negro's agony. They made him stand up so all the crowd could see him. Finally, fully thirty-five minutes after the torture of the Negro began, the rope was put around his neck. The telegraph pole was seventy-five feet away. The rope was a very long one. The free end was taken up the pole by a man and thrown across the cross. The crowd jerked the Negro to the base of the pole, and while the crowd shouted the mutilated form of the Negro was swung to the cross-arm."

This is the sowing. But what will the harvest be?

—October 1 the ladies of the Five Points mission, New York City, threw open their new six-story building to the public. It is one of the largest and finest of its kind in the city, having every advantage and improvement in the line of its work for the poor children of that famous neighborhood. No public school of New York has a finer corps of teachers. Mrs. Skidmore, one of the founders, fifty-one years ago, was present. Rev. Dr. A. K. Sanford is the efficient superintendent of the mission.

T. THOMAS FORTUNE, President.
WM H. STEWARD,
Chairman of the Executive Committee.

This will undoubtedly be a meeting of great importance, and the press generally throughout the country ought to be directly represented. One day is far too short for the discussion of the subjects outlined in the program and for the consideration of other topics which must necessarily engage the attention of the association. We are informed that there are two hundred and six papers published and edited by Afro-Americans in this country, and the amount of good or evil they are accomplishing is almost without calculation. It would be a wonderful forward movement if these editors and publishers, and others connected with these journals, could get together, become acquainted, and have an interchange of thought and sentiment, and plan for the uplifting of the race.

—With its capital in the hands of the victorious French, under General Duchesne, and civil authority administered by a French governor, General Metzinger, and terms of peace agreed upon between the Hovas and their conquerors, subject only to ratification in Paris, Madagascar becomes, to all intents, a French province. Thus, one by one, the semi-independent nations are absorbed by the insatiable powers, none protesting because all are involved in the same criminal pursuits.—Western.

—Two dire conflagrations visited this city last week—one covering a small area, but causing a big insurance loss; the other covering five squares, in Algiers, and causing untold privation and loss to the citizens.

Are We Gaining or Losing Ground?

REV W L. DUNCAN, P. E., Texas Conference.

When I see the negligence of our conferences I cannot hold my peace. From Hearne, on the H. & T. C., all the way up to Dallas, we scarcely have a church. Take the town of Mohair, with its growing inhabitants, especially with our people, there we haven't a single church; though I find some of our people in that town. We (the Texas Conference) have a growing church, possibly four or five miles from the town, and at a word would have one in the town.

Take the towns of Ennis and Hammond, especially the first named town; why it reminds one of a city with any number of our people both in and out of town. I cannot truthfully say that we have a church either in town or country. These places, for the want of proper attention, have suffered too long already. West Texas Conference "Turn on the lights." Somebody may say, what is this to you? This is not in your conference. I say it is a good deal to us; we are a part of the great Church, and the things that concern her concern us. When we hear the cry from Macadonia—"Come over and help us"—is it not our duty to speak? True, I love men, but I love the Church of God better, and must speak out the things that concern her. These towns must be built up with Methodism and we must do our part of it, though we have waited long. There is Corsicana, almost a city, I don't know what for church we have there.

I was in the city of Dallas the other day, and while there visited our church and others. In that city of 75,000 or 80,000 inhabitants, more or less, we have only one church, and that by very hard struggle. We ought to have there two or three churches instead of one. The people are surely there. Brethren of the West Texas "Turn on the lights." I see the inevitable. If you don't make haste and occupy these towns, etc, you will sadly find yourselves in the sea and that without oars. Heed the Master's instructions: "Occupy until I come."

From Brenham, taking in the towns of Burton, etc., all the way up to Rockdale, we (Methodists) scarcely have a single place or church. Somebody is to blame for this sin (to neglect duty is sin). We are not simply to go into these cities where paved sidewalks, electric lights and street cars are, but go into these small towns where our people are suffering for the old Church. Your conference, the West Texas, is as old as ours, or nearly so, but we double you both in membership and territory. Give us those towns, etc., and we will show you what Methodism means. Between Lee and Burleson counties, just across the Awar, many of our Methodists from Brenham and other parts are there without shelter. Some of them prayed Rev. S. E. Ewing, one of our preachers at Caldwell, to come and help them—"A cry from Macadonia; come and help us." Of course he did not go. He was afraid, because that part of the territory belongs to the West Texas Conference. "Turn on the lights brethren." To lift up a prone and prostrated race is an immense work, requiring skill, wisdom and power of the highest conceivable order. We want men that are consecrated to God and His cause, and that will go wherever sent to build up His kingdom. Some men, it is said, get into the ministry to get from the plow or hard carrying, to have an easy time. If this be true, they had better stop down and out before the Master comes.

The borders of our Methodism must be widened, the race must be lifted up. To accomplish this, men must forget self, seek the fallen, cheer the faint, and lead them with bleeding feet to Christ. We want unselfish, cause-created men for Christ, that will go and have the people among whom they labor to divest themselves of all elements that tend to weaken, and continue to point them to Christ. I mean nothing but love to the ministers of Jesus Christ, and am your brother in tribulation, and will be until we strike hands in glory. We, the Texas Conference, have not done what we could have done; but we, in the name of the Master, are widening the borders of this territory slowly but truly. The General Conference is just a head, and we shall ask that the boundary line be changed. Some of us understand this change. "Turn on the lights!"

"The Triumphs of the Cross, or the Supremacy of Christianity as an Uplifting Force, in the Home, the School and the Nation, in Literature and Art, in Philanthropic and Evangelistic Organization, shown by the Facts in the Yesterday and To-day of the World." By ex-President E. P. Tenney, A. M., author of "Coronation," "Constance of Acadia," etc.; with special chapters by Edward Everett Hale, D. D., LL. D.; Theodore Cuyler, D. D.; Rt. Rev. F. D. Huntington, S. T. D., D. C. L, LL. D., L. H. D; Daniel Dewchester, D. D.; Wayland Hoyt, D. D.; Joseph Cook, LL. D; Bishop John H. Vincent, D. D., LL. D; Charles H. Parkhurst, D. D., and other eminent authors; and with the collaboration of over two hundred representative religious workers, international and interdenominational, illustrated by three hundred and twenty-five original photographs and works of art, by famous masters. Boston: Balch Brothers, 36 Bromfield street.

The perusal of this magnificent book gives constant and increasing pleasure. The reader is at once brought face to face with living facts, with the grand and glorious achievement of Christianity. The book is a "quick help to an easy and reliable acquaintance with a most important topic, and impresses the reader at every step with the priceless benefits which have been placed within his reach by the painstaking and arduous labors of the distinguished author, with his no less distinguished collators. It is a glorious reflection that our great and grand Christian system is becoming more and more a recognized factor in the world's best progress, and that people of all lands are manifesting increasing interest in the study of its wonderful achievements. To intensify these desires and accelerate this onward movement is the aim of this delightful volume.

FROM RHEUMATISM
C H. King, Water Valley, Miss., cured by
Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith."

The Miraculous Draught of Fishes

Scripture Lesson: Luke 5:1-11.

"Thy way is in the sea;
Thy paths we cannot trace;
Nor solve, O Lord the mystery
Of thy unbounded grace."

It is a blest truth the Son of God once walked upon the face of the earth. Nineteen centuries ago He lived, and moved, and had His being even as we now live, move, and have our being. Hence it was that one bright and beautiful morning He was seen walking along the banks of the lovely Lake of Galilee. The scene stretching out before Him was at once picturesque and beautiful. The little lake was as calm and peaceful as are the dreams of a nursing babe. Vessels of every description are seen floating upon its bosom, "from the war vessel of the Romans to the rough fisher boats of Bethsaida, and the gilded pinnaces from Herod's palace." But it is not long that He walks alone. He is soon recognized, and immediately surrounded by an eager, anxious throng. Being completely hemmed in by the crowd He enters into one of the ships, and pushing out a short distance from the shore, He sat down and taught the people.

1. Scene of the Miracle.—It was the Lake of Gennesaret; a place of unusual beauty and activity. Says Schell: "Surrounded by the hills of upper Galilee, with snow-capped Hermon standing like a sentinel overlooking all, lies the lovely Lake of Gennesaret." Stanley says that "it is the most sacred sheet of water which this earth contains."

2. Christ Teaches the People.—Though disliked, abused, and falsely maligned, Jesus was nevertheless a popular preacher. What vast crowds attended His preaching! Why? For the reason that He taught them as one having authority. The people recognized His teachings to be the Word of God. Hence it was that they dogged His footsteps and followed Him day and night in order that they might catch the precious truths that fell from His hallowed lips.

3. His Commands.—Christ knew that Peter and his companions had toiled all night and yet had caught nothing. He commands them, however, to "launch out into the deep." "His word could have brought the fish to land, but had he thus done, there would have been taught no lesson of faith. It would have been a wonder and nothing more. The world has lost faith. It has tried the various panaceas without relief, and so despairs of any good. Christianity comes—Jesus comes—saying, 'Forget the past, make another trial, launch out according to my word'." Once more he spoke: 'Let down your nets for a draught." Cumming beautifully says: "Verly lovingly does Peter add, 'Nevertheless'—though my own reason is against thine .... it shall be prostrate at thy feet. My conclusions shall be dismissed; and because thou biddest me, I will do it. What a precedent! Peter, if he had rugged features in his character, had also under these rugged features depths of tender and beautiful emotion, lowliness and humility of heart, worthy of all imitation on our part."

4. The Miracle.—"And when they had this done"—fulfilled the conditions—"they inclosed a great multitude of fishes, and their net broke." This was indeed astonishing! Such results they had not anticipated. And what was perhaps equally as remarkable and astonishing, if not more so, was the fact that though "their net broke," they did not lose their draught. Thus Christ demonstrated his "power over the beasts of the field and the fowls of the air and the fish of the sea."

5. Results.—Peter at once recognized his unworthiness of Christ's presence. Laidlaw says: "A sinful man! Yes; it is well. Just such sinful men come to themselves, most deeply conscious of their sinfulness, the Lord needs to be his messengers." Consequently Christ says to Peter: "From henceforth thou shalt catch men," and accordingly "when they had brought their ships to land, they forsook all, and followed him."

Gleanings.

It is a good thing to be able to adjust one's self to circumstances.

All work is useless unless performed in obedience to Christ.

It is when we get a vision of God that we feel our littleness.

God always summons busy people to do his work.

Our acknowledgments to God should always be just and sincere.

They who would be true followers of Christ, must leave all and follow him.

How to Secure New Members.

1. A desire to secure new members. While a chapter is young the need of increase in membership is apparent to every one, but as it grows older and more prosperous there is danger of losing sight of this important object, and, instead, devoting our energies to preparing fine literary and social entertainments, and in building up the Christian character of those already inside. We must not forget our motto, and should ever have in our minds the necessity of reaching out after the young people and drawing them inside the influence of our societies.

2. A knowledge of the aims of our league, and an appreciation of the good things which are in store for those who enter. If we do not think well of our society we are not likely to be active in bringing others in.—Epworth Herald.

From Infancy

My daughter was troubled with scrofula. A swelling formed in one of her ears and broke open. It discharged freely and the whole side of her head became affected. The trouble continued ten years and she lost the hearing in that ear. After an attack of typhoid fever she was left very weak. She coughed and raised a great deal. We resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and after taking six bottles she was greatly improved. Now the sores are perfectly healed and she has good hearing in that ear." MRS. M. WILKINSON, Parham, Tenn.

DOWN WITH PUGILISM.

The action of Governor Culberson, of Texas, in convening the legislature to put a stop to the proposed slugging match between the celebrated bruisers, Corbett and Fitzsimmons, meets the hearty endorsement of all good American citizens. But the horde of pickpockets, gamblers, hoodlums, bunco-steerers, burglars, wine hibbers and the sporting fraternity generally, who follow up and live by these brutal exhibitions, or by horse racing and other kindred amusements, are determined to defy the constituted authorities, and boldly announce that the slugging should come off elsewhere. It will be a wonderful triumph of good, decent government when the legislatures of the several States in which these favorite contests are held, should pass the most stringent laws against prize fighting, the lottery, horse racing and the other numerous forms of gambling that are a constant menace to the youth of our land. The craze for gaming, betting and other questionable sports has become so serious as to enter into the great social and commercial concerns of the country. We frequently read of the downfall of young men who trace their first downward steps to the race track, the gambling saloon, and the places generally frequented by those who are under the fascinating influences of a sporting life. Good people everywhere should give every movement looking toward the suppression of pugilism with its kindred evils, the benefit of their best moral support.

IT IS NAUGHTY.

It is a very delicate question, but we think one that deserves attention, nevertheless. It is well known as colored represent nearly all shades of color, from the jet black to the pearly white. Indeed, some white people are called colored if there is even a tinge of African blood in their veins. As we pen these lines, there are three men sitting near, the whitest man of them goes as a colored man; the other two being known everywhere as white men. If one-eighth of African blood will make a white man colored, how many eighths of white blood would be required to change an African into a white man? And if in the process of the change the African is degraded or the white man improved, or vice versa? are important questions. But we leave all such problems for the philosophers of the coming century, since those of our own who have labored assiduously to predicate social superiority upon the mere question of color have miserably failed. "So mote it be." But the "tinge" or visible admixture is the matter that concerns us just now not a little. In the estimation of ever so many white people this little tinge of African blood marks the dividing line between the races, determines their relationship and furnishes the pretext for that treatment which results in the ostracism of the people who happen by this illogical process of reasoning to be inferior. It is not our purpose to discuss this question ethnologically, but rather commonsensically. We assume that we are all related to the great human family, the good book teaching us that God "hath made of one blood all the nations to dwell upon the face of the whole earth," etc.; determining their bounds, fixing their habitations, and teaching them upon every page of his great code of moral ethics to be brotherly, helpful, kind. In this the Father of us all sets a most wholesome example, loving all his children, and making equal and ample provision for the happiness of all. But this existing abhorrence and aversion! this great dread of the admixture of the races will not appear so formidable when it is known to be almost exclusively an Americanism. Strange as it is, and paradoxical as it may seem, habit, practice and sentiment were once directly opposite in this country, evidences of which are just numerous enough to establish the fact. As to whether there has been marked improvement by this admixture is a debatable question. It is the habit, character and environment which determine the status of people, rather than the blood. Color cuts no figure in the general aggregate, although in some instances it is a most effective bar to the individual who is more or less touched by the brush of this material artist. But it cannot always be this. In bringing about this desired change the colored people themselves must be leading factors. The colored people must not be ashamed of their color. No matter how dark nor how bright, the color of the skin is a very insignificant thing. The Negro has reached some very high social conditions, and has won the admiration of friends and foe, not because he was a black, or brown, or copper colored, or mulatto, but because he showed himself a man. It is manhood that the people will respect. We have heard of instances where colored people of brighter skin have sought employment as white people, and who were compelled to discard their associates, and even relatives; and stories are told of organizations of colored people from which either darker or lighter people were excluded. This is all wrong. It will assuredly bring all who foster and encourage such unnatural practices into contempt. Mr. Henry Rightor, the distinguished correspondent of the New Orleans Times-Democrat, in giving a critical and impartial statement concerning the Negro exhibit at the Cotton States Exposition, has, among other good things, this to say:

"A rather odd and perhaps significant fact that is observable in going through the exhibits of the Negro building where those in charge are dominantly mulattoes, is that the word Negro is avoided in speaking of the race, and 'colored man' or 'colored woman' used instead. This one fact seems to point the way to a moral, and that is that the black man and the yellow man as well must learn that if he hopes to dignify and elevate his race he must not be ashamed of his name. The leopard cannot shed his spots, and if he throw the skin of a lion over him it is but a harder burden to carry."

Without discussing the propriety of either the word colored or black or Negro to distinguish the Afro-American from other races, we do believe that in order to dignify and elevate the race, with which the Negro is essential, he should neither be ashamed of his color or the names which point to his distinguished ancestry.

—Readers will remember the account published some years since of the Rev. Calvin Fairbank, of Angelica, Allegheny County, N. Y., one of the heroes of the anti-slavery contest. About 1840, while a school teacher in Kentucky, he was the means of rescuing a beautiful slave girl who was put up at auction. Some of the most prominent abolitionists of the day—Levi Coffin, Edward Harwood, Salmon P. Chase, Nicholas Longworth and others, joined in contributing the amount necessary for her purchase. She was made free at Cincinnati, and graduated at a young ladies' seminary with great honor. Mr. Fairbank, however, had aroused the bitter hostility of the entire slave-holding interest. He was arrested under charge of aiding slaves to escape, was imprisoned in the penitentiary and lashed nearly to death. He remained in prison for seventeen long years, and endured hardships and sufferings more terrible than it is possible for us now to understand. The release which freed him left him broken down in health and resources. A little time since he prepared a small book, "How the Way was Prepared," telling the story of his own tragic career, and this was published by a friend with a view to providing for his declining years. The sale has in a degree accomplished its purpose; but now, as he is on the verge of his eightieth year, the necessities are still great and his needs are urgent. There are not many years remaining to him, and surely those who recall the heroic witness that he bore to freedom and right will be glad to assist in some degree; at least by the purchase of the book, costing $1.50.—Independent. [It is for sale at this office.]

—The Singer sewing machine and a year's subscription can still be had for $14; also the peerless "Advocate" machine for $18. No other paper makes so liberal an offer.

A GOOD STAND.

"A good stand is better than a bad run" is an old aphorism. We honor the man with convictions; but we especially honor him who believes he is right, and who stands by his convictions because he believes they are right. Our genial and able confrere of the Texas Freeman has been saying some things about "The common Negro," which has provoked not a little comment, favorable and otherwise. We would not give a fig for that sickly sentimentalism which panders to the whims of a few people who pose as friends to the Negro, but are afraid to point out his weaknesses. There is a common Negro, and he is very numerous also. It is also true that this class is more often found among the law's violators, and as often the victims of the mobs, than are the more respectable. In the very nature of things this is true. Of course, many of the very best of our people have fallen victims to mob violence. No one with a grain of common sense will deny that. But it is just as true as Gospel that the "common Negro" has not always been innocent. But this does not mitigate the crimes of the blood-thirsty aveugers, of whom we are writing, on the slightest pretext to take the law into their own hands, and torture, and burn, and mutilate them. The better class of Negroes who live in the Southland have the tremendous work before them of lifting these "common" and vicious classes up to the higher and better social conditions which they have reached. Our Northern editors sympathize with us, as they ought, but they can form but a feeble conception of the tremendous work which is required, and which is being done by our Southern Afro-American journals, which, with a few exceptions, are loyally and earnestly helping to better the condition of this "common class." Our esteemed contemporary says:

"There can really be no denial that we have among us a vicious element that lacks race pride and is without the saving grace of ambition to rise to either a higher moral or intellectual altitude. It is a conceded fact that the odium cast upon the race by all the other elements of our citizenship is due to the continued and inexcusable conduct of this element; and yet it can hardly seem fair for the more favored, intellectual and ambitious element to leave these people to their fate. They certainly do not merit our respect, but the duty we owe to ourselves is to assist in the regeneration and education of these people. They are of us, and their conduct, whether good or evil, affects us in the eyes of other people."

This expresses our idea exactly. "They are of us," and we must, must help better their condition.

—The Christian Advocate of a late date says: "A minister of large experience and extensive observation, a member of another denomination, but of large heart and most fraternal views toward all the orthodox churches, remarked in our hearing: 'You Methodist people were wisely directed when you went into your Epworth League organization. I see already a marvelous stir among young people in all directions, far beyond what I saw a few years ago. Your Epworth system will keep the young people as a working force in their church home, where they ought to be as much and as certainly as the parents ought to be there. If it is better for the world that we old people should work under separate denominational banners, then, also, it is better for the world if our young people work in the same way. There cannot be any difference of system in Church work between parents and children without serious loss to each. You Methodists, I repeat, were wisely directed when you organized your Epworth League. Ere long we shall do likewise.' This and more in the same line was said in substance by the distinguished minister whose words are here quoted. Are they wise words?"

"The Common People,"

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's PILLS are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

Houston (Texas) District.

Houston District Conference.

The Houston District Conference convened at St. James M. E Church in Houston, Texas, Sept. 3-6, with Presiding Elder Wm. Bartley in the chair. The secretary of last conference called the roll when all pastors, except three, responded with a large number of delegates. F. Parker was elected secretary, with J. Jones assistant. B. M. Taylor was elected recording secretary and F. Garry treasurer. The usual committees were appointed, including one to write up the report on the SOUTHWESTERN, urging the pastors to do more for the circulation of this Christain paper.

The presiding elder made his report on the spiritual and temporal condition of his district, which showed that good advancement had been made all along the line. The pastors reported on the religious condition of their charges, pastorial labors, benevolent collections and circulation of our Church periodicals and books. These reports were full and good.

At this juncture, after some discussion, it was agreed to return home and do better by the valuable SOUTHWESTERN. The reports showed that $625 had been raised for the connectional societies of the Church as well as many souls saved. The local preachers and exhorters made good reports. R. H. Warren and Jesse Speed were licensed to preach. District stewards, S. S. superintendents, presidents of Epworth leagues, class leaders and delegates presented written reports of their work, which showed that those departments are looked after with much care.

Dr. I. B. Scott, president of Wiley University; Presiding Elders W. H. Logan and W. L. Duncan, and O. I. Jones, S. S. agent, were introduced to the conference and made appropriate and helpful addresses.

The religious and literary program was taken up each afternoon with telling effects. Conference adjourned to meet next at Columbia, Tex.

HOUSTON DISTRICT LEAGUE CONVENTION.

The annual session of the District League was called to order on Saturday morning by President T. A. Fortson, A. M., professor in mathematics at Prairie View State Normal School. F. Parker was elected secretary.

The president made his report on district league work, which was encouraging. The religious and literary program was taken up, when Professors F. I. Richardson and O. T. Wilson, Mrs. L. J. Travis, Revs. B. M. Taylor, O. I. Jones, Wm. Bartley, T. A. Fortson, F. Parker, J. Jones and others prepared and read excellent papers.

Having given the greater portion of the day to the literary program, discussing the different phases of league and league work, we entered into election of district league officers, which resulted as follows: Prof. T. A. Fortson president, with Revs. O. I. Jones, E. D. Ramsey and J. A. Thompson vice presidents; O. T. Wilson corresponding secretary, F. Parker recording secretary, Mrs. Eliza Williams treasurer, Revs. Wm. Bartley, B. M. Taylor and Dr. J. H. Wilkins executive committee.

SUNDAY SCHOOL INSTITUTE.

Monday, Sept. 9, was given to the Sunday School Institute work, with Rev. Wm. Bartley presiding. A regular program of exercises were carried out, with many good papers from representatives of this work. The session was a profitable one. The institute having run down, we proceeded to elect a full set of officers for the ensuing year: Rev O. I. Jones president, with F. Parker, J. A. Thompson, J. Jones and E. W. Peltaway vice presidents; B. M. Taylor, Mrs. G Graves, W. A. Parks and J. W. Martin secretaries; F. Parker recording secretary, and Mrs. B. M. Taylor treasurer.

Thus closed a prosperous week's work.

Sunday was a grand day in Houston at St. James: 10 a. m., Love Feast, by Rev. J. Jones; 11 a. m., Rev. Wm. Bartley preached; 3 p. m., Rev. F. Parker delivered the missionary sermon; 8 p. m., Wm. Brooks filled the pulpit.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The Spirit of the Age, and other sermons, by David James Burrell, D. D. Price $1 50. New York: Wilbur B. Ketcham, 2 Cooper Union.

This beautiful volume contains thirty-seven brief, but highly interesting, sermons taken by dictation, and somewhat briefer than in their original form. The author has given to the world this beautiful series of discourses upon the current topics of the age, "clear, direct, and adapted to the needs of the average man." A careful perusal of this delightful volume will amply repay the reader, since it will assuredly furnish an inspiration to all who seek the truth as it is.

Prof. James Bryce, M. P., the eminent English statesman, has written a paper for the November number of The Century on "The Armenian Question." Prof. Bryce declares that the European powers are morally responsible for the sufferings of the subjects of Turkey to the extent "that they have kept in being a monarchy which has long since deserved to perish.

The complete novel in the November issue of Lippincott's, "In Sight of the Goddess," by Harriet Riddle Davis, deals with life at the capital. The tale is written with abundant local knowledge and striking ability. Dr. A. L. Benedict writes lucidly and most sensibly on "Medical Education and the Education of Medical Men." Philadelphia—25 cents a number.

"The Pocket Magazine" is the title of a new candidate for journalistic success. It promises to give its readers the best literature of the day in compact and attractive form. Each number will contain a novelette, besides short stories, essays and poems, and each number will be complete in itself. Among its contributors will be the best writers in the English language. Primarily, "The Pocket Magazine" is intended to amuse and not to instruct. Its projectors will aim to make it clean, wholesome, and at all times interesting. Froderick A. Stokes Co., New York; price, 10 cents a number, $1 a year.

Christian Education in China.

In 1893 I had three such schools; in 1894 sixteen, and now I have just one hundred, with about 3,0 0 pupils. Think of it! Within the past six months we have brought fully 2,000 children under Christian influence for the first time. They are now daily studying Christian books and learning to sing our beautiful hymns. Your free-will offerings and prayers are being accepted and heard. At nearly every quarterly meeting some from the schools are baptized. Last January we adopted new regulations and courses of study for day schools. A four years' course of study for the teachers, upon which they are to be examined annually, and a course for the pupils upon which they are to be examined quarterly, were adopted. Teachers' institutes are held annually, during which the Bible course of study and methods of teaching are carefully taught, and lectures upon practical topics delivered. At the end of each quarter the teachers come together, make their report, receive their salary, and also such instructions as I deem advisable. A very efficient young graduate of the Anglo-Chinese college superintends the schools under my direction, visiting each as often as possible.

My colporteurs visit each school assigned them at least once a month, spending a day with the patrons of the school, selling God's Word and giving instruction therein. A pastor visits each school at least once a week for the purpose of helping and encouraging the work; he also superintends the quarterly examinations. Our college and theological students, local preachers, exhorters and gifted laymen hold services and Sunday school in the several day school rooms each Sunday afternoon. During vacations, women from the women's training schools and young men from our theological and Bible training schools go out and work in the villages and wards where the schools are located, thereby frequently organizing classes and circuits and leading many to Christ. A man with a magic lantern visits the schools, spending one night in a place exhibiting Biblical and also American scenes, fully explaining the same. This is proving a most valuable method for enlightening the masses and gaining their favor. Thousands throng to see and hear. I require written reports from all workers, and personally visit each school as often as time will permit.

Some of my best schools are held in heathen temples and ancestral halls. Where idols have been worshiped for generations the Bible is now studied, its truths preached, the songs of Zion sung, and the God of the universe worshiped. Rev. N. J. Plumb recently dedicated a heathen temple to the worship of the true God, and the time is nigh at hand when scores will be thus transformed. I have been obliged to refuse more than thirty urgent requests to open schools in as many different places. In eight instances the people were told that if they wanted schools they should go on and support them as far as possible themselves, and if money could be raised they should have help. The money came, but not until the schools had been opened for six months. We insist upon every pupil paying something toward the support of the schools, unless poverty compels them to live on two meals a day. The self-support will average about twenty per-cent of the expense of the schools.

Now, dear friends! What of next year? "How much owest thou?" Do you want to make an investment that will pay at least one hundred percent? Do not all feel like helping these poor boys and girls, now seeking for the "true light." Remember these schools are supported by "special gifts" and the people here. We depend on no missionary fund, but upon God and the generosity of His people. These sources have not failed us in the past, and we believe will not in the future. Before January 1, 1896, I hope to receive pledges to support two hundred day schools—one hundred in addition to those already established. My contributors for 1894 increased their number of schools for 1895. I trust those of 1895 will do the same for 1896. Some have already signified their intention so to do. May I not have the satisfaction of hearing from the others soon? Who will help support the new schools that will be asked for next January? Who will heed the Macedonian cry for help? Any person or persons pledging $10 to support a day school as above described, one half to be paid in January, 1896, and the remainder the July following, can name their school, will receive a detailed quarterly report in Chinese and English, a photograph of the school, a Chinese letter with translation from the teacher, and an idol that has been worshiped. For $20 I will send a photograph of the school the money helps to support and an idol. For $10 I will send an idol. For smaller sums (not less than one dollar) I will send a photograph of the school supported by these gifts. Please send pledges direct to me as soon as you decide to help, in order that I may promise as many schools as possible. February is the best time to open day schools in China. Send the money to Dr. A. B. Leonard, 150 Fifth avenue, New York City, requesting it to be forwarded to me to support a day school. Please do not let your special gifts lessen your contribution to our Missionary Society. Thousands are depending upon her, and she must be supported. I also want thousands of picture cards and Berean leaf clusters. Any card with a picture on one side will be acceptable. We paste texts on the back and give them as rewards of merit, requiring the pupils to memorize the texts. For every hundred cards I will send a Chinese copy of the Lord's Prayer and Ten Commandments. For every Berean leaf cluster I will send the same and a Chinese curio. Every boy and girl, every Sunday school and Epworth League, all young and old, can share in this glorious work. Send cards direct to me, unsealed, as printed matter. Send prayers daily direct to the "Throne of Grace," that these millions now sitting in heathen darkness may be brought into the light and liberty of the Lord. Help us, dear friends, to lift up Christ so this people may be drawn to Him. This field is white unto the harvest, but the laborers are few. Who will volunteer? Those who feel that God wants them in this field, please write Dr. A. B. Leonard. We actually stand in need of at least twelve new missionaries. They should be on the field this very year.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, NOV. 10, 1895.

Saul Chosen King.

(1. Sam. 10. 17-27.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The Lord reigneth: let the earth rejoice." (Psa. 97. 1.)

When Samuel was old "he made his sons judges over Israel." It is well for fathers to associate their sons with them in business. Samuel's sons "turned aside after lucre, took bribes, and perverted judgment." It is not strange that Israel desired to get rid of them. Good fathers sometimes raise bad sons. This was true of Aaron, Eli, Samuel and David. "All the elders of Israel" met in council, and went in a body to Ramah, and asked Samuel to give them a king. They gave three reasons for this request—"Thou art old; thy sons walk not in thy ways; now make us a king to judge us like all the nations." Samuel was grieved and took the matter to the Lord in prayer. This showed wisdom and piety. The Lord told him, it was Himself, and not the aged judge, they had rejected. We cast off God when we set aside His people. Samuel called the people together and told them the results of a kingly government. Their children would be made servants; their lands would be confiscated; their servants would be put under the yoke; and a tenth part of their increase would be taken for the kings support. Yet they said—"Nay: but we will have a king over us." God had commanded Samuel to "protest solemnly unto them" against having a king, but if they "refused to obey his voice," then "hearken unto their voice, and make them a king." The Lord sometimes gives what we ask, not because it is best for us, but because we desire it. The story of the asses going astray, of Saul searching for them, and of his finding Samuel and being anointed king, clearly shows Divine power and guidance. When God saw they were determined to have a king, He helped them bring about their desired result.

I. Before choosing the king (17-19). 1. The people were called together. They assembled at Mizpeh, a town four or five miles northwest of Jerusalem. There they met before the great battle with the Philistines; there Saul was chosen king; and there Gedaliah was assassinated. It is not necessary to suppose the ark was there. "Unto the Lord" may only mean that Samuel invoked the Divine blessing. The object of this gathering was to elect a king Every voter should take part in the elections.

2. The address of Samuel teaches— (1) "That God had chosen Israel. Out of all the world He had selected this race to be His peculiar people. not because He loved Israel and hated the rest of the world, but because He would work out the salvation of the world through Israel. (2) That God had guided Israel. He had led them out of Egypt, through the wilderness, and into their own land. He had given them the cloudy pillar and the working of Providence to direct their paths. (3) That God had protected Israel. He had delivered them from all their foes, had raised up defenders and rulers, and had given them a place among the nations. (4) That God had ruled Israel. He had expected them to look to Him for a personal ruler in their affairs. He wished to train them up to become a nation of kings, a self-reliant people, not slaves to any monarch, but free men of the Lord" (Hurlbut). (5) That they had rejected God. They had cast Him from them and taken another in His stead. We reject God when we slight His offers of mercy, when we neglect His Word and worship, when we refuse to acknowledge His benefits, and when we trample His laws under our feet.

II. Choosing the King (20-25). 1. The tribes presented themselves before the Lord. They drew near to Samuel and felt that they were in the presence of God. They understood that all that should be done would be ordered by the Lord. We should often present ourselves before the Searcher of hearts, confess our sins and ask His pardon. We may draw near to Him by faith, prayer and thanksgiving.

2. The king was chosen by casting lots. The whole matter was under Divine guidance. Surely it was God's will that Israel should have a king. Kings were to proceed from Abraham; Balaam had prophesized of a scepter yet to rise in Israel; and Moses had made provision in the law for the appointment of a king over the Lord's people (Whedon). The elders were no doubt familiar with these facts. Their sin lay not in asking for a king, but in not awaiting God's time. They were over anxious. We are exhorted to be patient.

3. After the new king had been chosen "he could not be found." He had been anointed before this, and knew the nature of this gathering. He was humble, unambitious, and loved best a lowly life: hence he "hid himself away among the stuff." He likely did this because he was conscience of unfitness for so great a work; because it would expose him to the enmity of his neighbors; because he understood, from what Samuel had said, that the people had sinned in asking for a king; and because the affairs of Israel were at that time in a bad condition (Henry).

4. Saul was found and brought forth. We cannot hide from God. We do well to submit to His will. He will, here or hereafter, cause every one of us to be brought to the light. All our deeds, words and thoughts will be made known to the world. We may hide our sins from men but not from God. May we ever live with the last judgment in view.

5. When Saul stood before the people they saw he was "A choice, and goodly, young man." He was a perfect specimen of humanity. Tall, broad, and of a fine spirit. It was the possession of these great gifts that caused him to be chosen king. God has done much more for some than others. It is much easier for some persons to be greater than others. Yet those who are not so well favored by nature, may by greater effort on their part, succeed as well or better than nature's favorites. Ability, opportunity, tact and perseverence are essential to success. The reign of Saul, with all his natural gifts, was a consummate failure. Success and failure have their degrees.

6. The tribes as a body received him and said—"God save the king," or "Let the king live." So they shouted when Adonijah, Solomon and Joash were made kings over them. Popular sentiment ebbs and flows like the tide of the ocean. It may cheer to the echo to-day and sink to perdition to-morrow. When Jesus made His triumphal entry into Jerusalem the people cried out "Hosanna," but in less than a week the same crowd shouted "crucify Him." Popular applause is easily won and as easily lost. Better far is the favor of God than the transient praise of men.

7. "Samuel told the people the manner of the kingdom, and wrote it in a book, and laid it up before the Lord." This kingdom was to be a limited monarchy. It had its constitution and laws, to which its king same as its people were subject (Dent. 17. 14-20). When this book, on "the manner of the kingdom," was completed, it was given to the priests for safe keeping. The tender, sympathetic, loving Christ is our King.

III. After choosing the king (26, 27). 1. The people were sent to their homes They had been called together to do a certain work, that duty had been performed, and now they are sent home. It is not best to remain longer in any one place than is necessary. Samuel was a man of prayer, but he also knew how to preach and transact business.

2. Saul did not immediately assume the reigns of government. He "also went home." A company "whose heart God had touched" went with him. The Lord moved a certain number to admire, even love, the new king. God inclines our heart toward Himself, and touches it with His Spirit that we may love and serve Him.

3. There were some opposers. Who ever knew a good work to go without opposition? The ground of their complaint is not given. It was likely founded in jealousy, ignorance or wickedness, for they were "children of Belial." It was all unjust, for Saul had not wronged them. The new king "held his peace." He was as though he had been deaf.

Prof. W. H. Peeke, who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any living Physician; his success is astonishing. We have heard of cases of 20 years' standing cured by him. He publishes a valuable work on this disease which he sends with a large bottle of his absolute cure, free to any sufferer who may send their P. O. and Express address. We advise anyone wishing a cure to address, Prof. W. H. PEEKE, F. D., 4 Cedar St., New York.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

Jacksonville District.

Dear Brethren—We have entered upon the duties of the last quarter of our conference year. Let us put forth our best efforts in bringing up the benevolent collections, especially the Missionary, Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education, and Church Extension. I rejoice to say that two-thirds of the charges on the district have had very successful revivals during the last quarter; let the other third make an effort to do likewise, for without the salvation of souls as a result our preaching is vain and our ministry a failure. We shall expect and insist upon a full itemized report from the trustees to the fourth quarterly conference. Let us remember our pledge made at our district conference relative to our periodicals, especially the SOUTHWESTERN. Your co-laborer in the vineyard of the Lord,

J. GRANT, P. E.

Tupelo District.

Brethren—Your second district conference will convene at Amory, Miss., Nov. 20-24. Please collect your Freedmen's Aid and forward to Dr. Libby, president of Rust University, at once. Collect all other benevolences and be ready to report in full at the conference. The licensing and renewing of license of local preachers and exhorters depends upon their subscribing for the SOUTHWESTERN. Brethren be in the first day.

S. H. NEVILS, P. E.

Little Rock District.

Dear Brethren—The very serious sickness in my family for the past few months has prevented me from being among you as much as I had hoped; yet, I am thankful to a kind Providence that the work moves on grandly. The reports at our last district conference showed quite an advance in our benevolent collections, and if this rate of increase is kept up to the end of the year, our district will make a record of which we may feel proud. Now is the time to push every interest. If we fail now in the months of harvest, we can't hope to make any material advance over the past year. Some of our charges are having good revivals with glorious results. Push every interest and success is assured. May His grace abide in your hearts. Cordially,

W. H. MORRIS, P. E.

Notice.

All local preachers of Aberdeen District, Upper Mississippi Conference, will meet the committees on the first day, which will be Wednesday, Oct. 30, 1895.

L. J. TERREL, Crawford, Miss.

Forest City District Conference.

The district conference convened at Cotton Plant, Arkansas, according to announcement, with Presiding Elder J. W. Jackson in the chair. Fifty members answered to their names. W. S. Sherrill was elected secretary, with E. R. Grayley and J. H. Green assistants.

Reports show an increase in all departments of Church work. Raised for benevolences up to date, $210.

Dr. M. C. B. Mason was with us and spoke in strong terms concerning his work in the F. A. and S. E. Society.

Our presiding elder is full of energy and push for the SOUTHWESTERN. No local preacher's or exhorter's license will be renewed unless he takes the paper.

The Forrest City District is trying to put herself on a self supporting basis.

On Sunday at 11 a. m., Dr Mason preached to a crowded house; at 3 p. m., D. W. Johnson preached, and 7 p. m., Dr. A. J. Fletcher, one of the leading men of our conference, preached.

W. S. SHERRILL, Secretary.

A Slave from Boyhood.

[From the Red Wing, Minn., Republican.]

"I am now twenty-four years old," said Edwin Swanson, of White Rock, Goodhue county, Minn., to a Republican representative, "and as you can see I am not very large of stature. When I was eleven years old I became afflicted with a sickness which baffled the skill and knowledge of the physician. I was not taken suddenly ill, but on the contrary I can hardly state the exact time when it began. The first symptoms were pains in my back and restless nights. The disease did not trouble me much at first, but it seemed to have settled in my body to stay and my bitter experience during the last thirteen years proved that to be the case. I was of course a child and never dreamed of the suffering in store for me. I complained to my parents and they concluded that in time I would outgrow my trouble, but when they heard me groaning during my sleep they became thoroughly alarmed. Medical advice was sought but to no avail, I grew rapidly worse and was soon unable to move about and finally became confined continually to my bed. The best doctors that could be had were consulted, but did nothing for me. I tried various kinds of extensively advertised patent medicines with but the same result.

"For twelve long years I was thus a sufferer in constant agony without respite; abscesses formed on my body in rapid succession and the world indeed looked very dark to me. About this time when all hope was gone and nothing seemed left but to resign myself to my most bitter fate, my attention was called to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. Like a drowning man grasping at a straw, in sheer desperation I concluded to make one more attempt—not to regain my health (I dare not to hope so much) but if possible to ease my pain.

"I bought a box of the pills, and they seemed to do me good. I felt encouraged and continued their use. After taking six boxes I was up and able to walk around the house. I have not felt so well for thirteen years as during the past year. Only one year have I taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and I am able now to do chores and attend to light duties.

"Do I hesitate to let you publish what I have said? No. Why should I? It is the truth and I am only too glad to let other sufferers know my experience. It may help those whose cup of misery is as full to-day as mine was in the past."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $1.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Lake Providence District Conference.

The Lake Providence District Conference convened in St. Peter's M. E. Church according to announcement, with Rev. F. T. Chinn presiding. E. Hutchinson was elected secretary, with Misses Tucker and Johnson as his assistant. N. McNeal was elected statistical secretary, with Miss Howora and Mrs. Tyler as his assistants. Miss P. A. King delivered the welcome address. E. Hutchinson preached the responsive sermon.

Monroe District is moving upward and onward. The presiding elder made his report, which showed marked success on all lines of the Church work. Well prepared sermons were delivered during the session of the conference. Reports from the different charges showed that the work was successfully moved. Local preachers, exhorters, class leaders, Sunday school superintendents, Epworth League and King's Daughters reported, all of which were encouraging. The good old SOUTHWESTERN was remembered. We hope in the near future to have the paper in every home on our district. The different subjects for discussion were handled with ability. A. B. Venable, G. J. Rogers, W. H. Hannah, F. M. Lashington, N. McNeal and Emerson Hutchinson preached during the conference. The conference was blessed with the presence of Rev. Nickerbocker of the M. E. Church South, who spoke of the improvement among the colored ministers and members.

Prof. Harris, principal of the colored high school of Lake Providence, gave us a grand lecture. Sunday was a grand day throughout. Presiding Elder F. T. Chinn preached the closing sermon, which was very edifying. Brother F. M. Lashington and his good people made all feel at home.

Next conference will be held at Mt. Nebo. EMERSON HUTCHINSON, Sec'y.

SWEET COUNSEL.

By CHARLES WESLEY.

Glory be to God above,
God, from whom all blessings flow;
Make we mention of his love,
Publish we his praise below:

Called together by his grace,
We are met in Jesus' name;
See with joy each other's face,
Followers of the bleeding Lamb.

Build we each the other up;
Pray we for our faith's increase;
Solid comfort, settled hope,
Constant joy, and lasting peace.

More and more let love abound;
Let us never, never rest,
Till we are in Jesus found,
Of our paradise possessed.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—The old standard hymns of the Church should not—must not—be discarded for the newer and often meaningless hymns which are so often introduced into our service. Our hymnal contains the best selection of hymns extant, and our preachers should insist upon it that they shall be used in our pulpits.

—The Rev. Edward W. Blyden, D D., LL. D., having been summoned to England on important business, many of those who expected to see him in our Southland may be deprived of the privilege. The doctor hopes, however, to return if possible in December, in which event he may make his contemplated visit to New Orleans and other Southern cities.

—We call especial attention to the very timely suggestions of Bishop Mallalieu, which will be found on page 2. We insist upon it that the Holy Scriptures will furnish to the minister of the gospel the most thorough and complete equipment for his work that can be found this side of heaven. Very few will be able to master the good book as a whole; but many, aye, all, ministers and laymen can become very familiar with some portion of it. The good bishop has pointed out the way in which this can be done in his admirable suggestions.

—The article of Rev. R. L. Hickson, of the South Carolina Conference, on "The Status of the Colored Man in the M. E. Church," states the case plainly and comprehensively. It is putting it rather strongly to say that the greatest barrier the colored man has to his advancement is himself. This statement is worthy of deep thought, and contains much sound logic. The entire article abounds in good strong utterances, and should attract the attention of those who are disposed to look at matters from a merely sentimental standpoint. We cordially endorse the views expressed.

OUR GREAT RACE TRIUMPH.

A brief stop over at Atlanta, Ga., afforded us an opportunity of looking into our Negro exhibit there. We were surprised, delighted and inspired. Chief Commissioner Penn was at his post, and in his genial and affable manner impressed the visitor more and more with his sterling qualities. The exhibits are a study. Art, industry, literature, science, philosophy, are all here, and grandly proclaim the capacity of the Negro to do something worthy of the admiration of all men. The easy, graceful and polite attentions of the ladies and gentlemen in charge of the exhibits was among the things to be very highly commended. As we looked upon these exhibits our idea was, that to say these exhibits speak well for the Negro expressed little or nothing; but to say that they represented the best thought of the age and reflected credit upon every American citizen, would be putting the credit where it justly belongs. In quality there are indeed no better exhibits on the grounds. Nearly all the space is about filled, yet there would have been many more really fine exhibits by Negroes were it not for the fear of the outrageous discrimination practiced against these people by several of the railroads running into Atlanta; the Southern railroad system being possibly the only exception. But this exposition will do more to break up this diabolical outrage than anything that has ever happened. Notwithstanding these inconveniences, we could wish that every Negro man, woman and child could attend this exposition. Quite a number of important congresses are announced; but none will surpass, and few equal, those beginning with December 12 and continuing until the 15th inclusive. During these congresses our own Methodism will be represented by an unusually large attendance. A congress of Episcopal Methodism, represented by hundreds and thousands of her colored clergy and laity will furnish the grandest opportunity of the century for taking an inventory of what the Church has been doing toward the social, moral, intellectual and industrial elevation of the Negro. This meeting will be held on the grounds of the exposition on the 12th of December. We propose to have a great love feast, and to have living testimonials from living witnesses, as to the influence, power and spirit of the Church upon the hearts and lives of the race. On the 13th, 14th and 15th of December, and immediately following the Methodist Episcopal Congress, will be held the Congress on Africa, which will be the greatest event of its kind in the history of the world. There will be no clap-trap, or attempt at drawing the crowds by the use of questionable methods, but a real congress of the best representatives of the race from the United States and from distant Africa, with some of the most distinguished philanthropists of the century. It promises to be the most important gathering that has ever assembled. Africa—its teeming millions; its vast agricultural, commercial and social interests; its relation to American civilization; its present and future history; its influence upon the future history of the world, and the Negro race in particular; the relation of the Afro-American to its future, etc., are among the questions which will be considered. We hope that during these days our people will pour into Atlanta by hundreds and thousands.

By all means, the Negro exhibits should be seen by the youth of the race. The building in which these exhibits are displayed is a splendid piece of architectural skill, erected entirely by Negro hands, and is as attractive as any other building on the grounds. The exhibits are well placed and arranged, affording the visitor a most excellent opportunity for observation and study. There is a splendid cafe attached, which is patronized liberally by both races without the slightest friction. Altogether, the Negro building, with its splendid exhibits, is the most magnificent object lesson ever presented to the children of Ham; and must, in the estimation of all thoughtful people, present the great Negro question in a newer and better light. As we stood among these wonderful exhibits our thoughts went back, back, back through the centuries where once the light that shone through glittering hall and stately throne cast its beams upon those who held in their hands the destinies of the world. Africa's glory faded, and surrendering her altars to idolatry, she has slumbered through forty centuries, to be aroused only by the advancing civilization of the nineteenth century. The Negro exhibit at the Cotton States Exposition stands as one of the best results of that civilization, and presages the thorough awakening of the teeming millions of the Dark Continent more than anything that has ever occurred.

BISHOP HOLSEY TO DR. THIRKIELD.

The very able letter of Bishop Holsey, of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church of America, to Rev. Wilbur P. Thirkield, D. D., president of Gammon Theological Seminary, which we gladly publish, is a most comprehensive document and reveals a condition of affairs in the M. E. Church South, toward her acknoledged black protege, which we would rather have to be not true. We have heard it stated, over and over again and have applauded it, that the Methodist Episcopal Church South was spending thousands and tens of thousands of dollars to improve the moral and intellectual condition of the Negroes in the South, and especially those over whom that great Church exercised a sort of a supervision, that we all felt was mutual. It is quite probable that in a general way many of these good Christian people contribute toward the enterprises which are instituted for the benefit of colored people. But it is very evident that but little help, comparatively speaking, is being given to Lane and Paine Institutes, which are established especially for the benefit of colored people alone, and which are controlled largely by boards who are members of the M. E. Church South. Just what might be expected under this unique and quasi system of autonomy! We do not care to discuss this "setting off" business. Personally, the thought is only and all the time obnoxious, and since such a course has no warrant in Scripture, we are opposed to it in any denomination and especially among Methodists. Our brethren of the C. M. E. Church certainly deserve credit for holding on, with all these things against them and of carrying forward their educational enterprises thus far with so little outside help. They certainly need not feel ashamed of so brilliant a record. These heroic brethren have certainly been taught to depend upon their own resources, a lesson which will be found to be exceedingly helpful. But what is all this to the continued reminder that they are socially and religiously the inferiors of their Christian brethren. The bishop has spoken wisely doubtless, yet we could wish, for the sake of our glorious Christianity, that some of the conditions which he reveals were materially changed. The last few lines of his remarkable letter shows that the bishop has not been favorably impressed with the moral tone of the Church which has steadfastly stood against that Christian fellowship, without which all profession of religion is a farce. But these great questions, touching the civil and religious rights of the people, can only be settled in one way and that is, in God's way. We are glad to be numbered among those who believe that such a way will soon be accepted by the followers of Jesus.

The Bishop's Reply.

MR. EDITOR SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE:

I have read with intense interest the very able article of Dr. Thirkield in your paper of the 3d instant, on "The Master's Prayer and the Negro's Plea." The article is the sentiments of a noble, true and high-toned Christian man, in which the living Christ breathes upon his golden words of love. The Church, the world, and especially the Negro race, should thank God (and take courage) that such a man lives among us.

Dr. Thirkield indicates in his excellent paper that the M. E. Church South has done much, "adequately to equip" "Paine and Lane Institutes," for the work and prosecution of Negro education. This seems to be the common impression among those on the outside, but I am sorry to say that the M. E. Church South has done nothing comparatively in behalf of the two schools referred to. They are both "on the ragged edge of despair," and are a reproach

Some Important Suggestions.

Dear Dr. Hammond—At the Tennessee Conference the question of the importance of committing passages of the Bible to memory was up for consideration. The desire was expressed that I should insert in the SOUTHWESTERN some choice and helpful portions of the Word of God, suitable especially for preachers. They are the following: The Ten Commandments found in the twentieth chapter of Exodus—the fourteenth chapter of Job; the first, nineteenth, twenty-third, fifty-first, ninetieth, one hundred and third, and one hundred and sixteenth Psalms; the first chapter of Proverbs—fifty-second, fifty-third, sixty-first and sixty-fifth chapters of Isaiah.

In the New Testament I would recommend the Sermon on the Mount; the fourteenth, fifteenth and sixteenth chapters of John's Gospel; the twelfth chapter of Romans, and the thirteenth chapter of first Corinthians.

If any Christian man or woman, and especially if any preacher, will read and study these chapters until they have committed them to memory they will find themselves possessed of a wonderful intellectual and spiritual treasure. Indeed one verse of the Bible, like John 3:16, stored away in the memory, is a great treasure. If anyone can repeat from memory the first three verses of the fourteenth chapter of John they have something that will comfort and cheer them in the darkest hour.

These portions of the Bible just specified will be of greatest value to the preachers as they are full of most profitable and inspiring texts. There are in them first rate texts enough for a hundred sermons. Every thoughtful and studious preacher must know that nothing so much enriches a sermon as an apt quotation from the Bible. Besides we may well remember that the sword of the spirit is the Word of God, and also that the Lord Jesus repelled every temptation of the devil with a quotation from the Old Testament Scriptures. The preacher who is mighty in the Scriptures will always command the attention of the people, and his ministry will be fruitful of good.

Brethren, study the Word, preach the Word, commit the Word to memory, and God will bless his own truth.

W. F. MALLALIEU.

For the SOUTHWESTERN.

The Status of the Colored Man in the M. E. Church.

By R. L. HICKSON, Columbia, S. C.

Having studied the question of the colored man in the M. E. Church very thoughtfully and prayerfully, I have arrived at this conclusion: That the greatest barrier he has to his advancement is himself. Let the subjected be viewed from any standpoint reasonable, and any man free from a prejudiced mind, one who is full of Christian liberality in his views, cannot but arrive at a similar conclusion. I remark, in the first place, that the platform of the M. E. Church is as wise and Christian-like to my mind as any, as far as I know, and far beyond many. She believes in the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man. Now, any church that discriminates against a man because of race, color or nationality is not in possession of Christianity; but religion only which is possible, not only for special persons to have, but for any individual in the world, even heathens. But there are churches, denominations, whose organic names carry with them the idea of discrimination, and it is not surprising to ever hear of their speaking disparagingly of the colored man in the M. E. Church.

Are their statements founded on fact? Has the colored man made less advancement in the M. E. Church in the past thirty years than in the others? How do they compare intellectually, morally and religiously? That they are in the front ranks, goes without saying. This is accorded to him by colored men of other denominations; their many shortcomings and weaknesses notwithstanding.

Why should men of our own ranks and in other denominations magnify the bishopric and other offices of high standing as they do? Those who are not of us, do it to proselyte. They try to make the future look as dark to a colored minister in the M. E. Church as midnight; and, strange to say, some of our brethren believe it.

Is there any one jealous of the schools and colleges in the South, planted there for the education of the colored youth? We have so many more than other denominations that the "Old Church" sends out boys and girls as preachers and teachers respectively, who come to us, back to their own churches to work in them for the betterment of their church. This no one can truthfully deny, and it is done more extensively in the M. E. Church than any other. She does more: for many a time those who are thus educated and are not preachers, are employed as teachers in our own schools without any unmanly demands made upon them. But when others desire to employ our young men and women, as a rule, they first demand that they join their church or there is no place for them. A great deal may be said along this line to the shame of the guilty. But, let us come within our own doors for awhile and view the dilema. Every article in the papers, every speech that is made and every conversation that is held about the future of the Negro in the M. E. Church, are damaging to his future success in said Church. I mean the practice of such by their own people. This is not my practice, but a necessity. I desire to be distinctly understood that what I say about ourselves, does not throw us below colored men in other churches. I think it is generally believed and known that the Negro in the M. E. Church will hold his own in the various walks of life with not only other Negroes, but with any man. But the true situation is to follow: The work of Negro education is, in a sense, just begun. Travel through the extreme rural districts of the Southern States and get the true situation as it is, and the whole North will be startled, as perhaps never before, on account of what is yet to be done toward the elevation of the Negro.

We have educated men in the true sense of the term, and they can be counted by the thousands. It is also true that they will to some extent continue to suffer in many instances because of the yet uneducated millions of their contemporaries.

There is no need of a crisis at this period, but there will be if the actions and expressions of unrest do not cease.

Are the intellectual and educational attainments the only necessities of merit that the Negro needs to take his place among men? I answer, No.

Will the man so bury his manhood and continue to receive the thousands, nine-tenths of which is contributed by those of another race? On the other hand, is it a pleasant thing for the contributor to suffer? Are we getting along slower than others? Bishops and general secretaries are not the only smart men in the world, and being elected to such positions of high standing does not make them any more learned. Now, in all candor, let me ask, who pays our bishops' salaries, and the salaries of our general secretaries, college presidents, professors and agents? Suppose the Church would say in the next General Conference, "We will put colored men in any position in the Church that will risk the pay out of the pockets of colored men." Do you suppose that the number of candidates for positions would remain as great?

To be plain, I think we had better "let well enough alone." Go to our colleges, editorial sanctums and over the field of agents and you will find our men among them, who are evidently receiving their pay from other sources than from our own colored people. We need to be educated up to the standard of giving more largely and more freely before wisdom can be seen in even the shadow of unrest.

Elevation and positions will come to any people who are prepared for it. I hold that we are seriously unprepared until our people are trained to depend more upon themselves and less upon others.

Furthermore: What causes the colored man to think of demanding more than he is now getting? Deserve it? What has he done—what is doing? Is he to be a perpetual parasite? Take a man and educate him, pay his expenses, elevate him and give him the best places in against the law of nature, and I do not blame the Church if she turns a deaf ear to all such demands. It is a great thing to be a college president, bishop or missionary secretary, but it is a greater thing to pay him for his services! I believe that the time would naturally come when the color of men would be lost sight of in the Church; but I believe that he will have to be more thoroughly identified with the spirit and purposes of the Church before it will come.

England and Rome.

Under this heading Harper's Weekly says: "A welcome evidence of the softening of the asperities of religious controversity is furnished by the letter which Pope Leo XIII has addressed to the English people. If the traditional odium theologicum has not wholly disappeared from the field of religious discussion elsewhere, there is no trace of it in this document, which is couched in the language of the most exquisite courtesy and animated by the true spirit of Christian charity. In the elevation of its sentiments and the dignity of its tone the letter is among the most admirable productions of one of the ablest of Popes. It is worthy of study as a literary effort and as a state paper. Of the consummate skill which dictated it, it is enough to say that in a long and earnest appeal for the restoration of unity between the Church of England and the Church of Rome there is not a word which could offend the sensibilities of the stanchest English Protestant, not an expression which does not carry with it the conviction that it was dictated by genuine kindliness and sincere esteem. And yet it is only as a literary production, or as an evidence of the bettered tone of religious discussion, that the letter has any value. It may well remain as a pleasant memory. It will neither mark nor cause any change in the situation. Neither in England nor in any English-speaking country is it possible to conceive of a body of Protestants of any degree whatever accepting an invitation to return to submission to the Church of Rome. The whole of English history since the separation forbids it. There is not an event of national importance from the first dissolution of the monasteries to the last vote on the Irish land bill which has not widened the separation. All English history would have to be reversed, to be rewritten, to be written backwards, to make a restoration of unity possible. English history for the last three hundred and fifty years has been chiefly a history of success, but success and defeat alike have helped to make England Protestant. The lesson is taught alike by the Tyburn gallows and the Oxford fagots. The candle which Latimer lighted has never been put out. The defeat of the Armada, the regicide at Whitehall, the Protectorate and the Restoration, the union with Scotland and the rebellion against James, in a word, every event that has taken place on British soil since the time of Henry VIII has intensified the feeling which makes Great Britain irrevocably and inexorably Protestant."

OUR BOOK TABLE.

The series of articles on India, by Edwin Lord Weeks, which have been appearing for some time in Harper's Magazine, ends in the November number with a paper on "Recent Impressions of Anglo-Indian Life," beautifully illustrated by Mr. Weeks. Perhaps no other man could give so faithful and striking a picture of the clashing conditions incident to the British occupation of India as Mr. Weeks.

The Ladies' Home Journal for November is an admirable Thanksgiving magazine. Dr. Parkhurst's paper on "The Father's Domestic Headship" lucidly, and with fine discrimination, defines a father's duties and responsibilities in the home. Edward W. Bok editorially directs serious attention to our national evil—extravagance. The November Journal is especially engaging in its illustrations and bright in every line, exactly adapted to the Thanksgiving season's diversion of all members of the household. NOT A SICK DAY

For Over Thirty Years!

RESULT OF USING

AYER'S PILLS

"Ayer's Cathartic Pills for over thirty years have kept me in good health, never having had a sick day in all that time. Before I was twenty I suffered almost continually—as a result of constipation—from dyspepsia, headaches, neuralgia, or boils and other eruptive diseases. When I became convinced that nine-tenths of my troubles were caused by constipation, I began the use of Ayer's Pills, with the most satisfactory results, never having a single attack that did not readily yield to this remedy. My wife, who had been an invalid for years, also began to use Ayer's Pills, and her health was quickly restored. With my children I had noticed that nearly all their ailments were preceded by constipation, and I soon had the pleasure of knowing that with children as with parents, Ayer's Pills, if taken in season, avert all danger of sickness."—H. The Day of Pentecost.

Scripture Lesson: Acts 2:1-41.

"Come, Holy Ghost, our souls inspire,
And lighten with celestial fire;
Thou the anointing spirit art,
Who dost thy seven-fo'd gift impart:
Is comfort, life, and fire of love."

There was annually held at Jerusalem those great feasts: The Passover, commemorative of the deliverance of Israel from Egyptian bondage; the Feast of Tabernacles, commemorative of Israel's wanderings in the wilderness, and the Feast of Pentecost, commemorative of the giving of the law on Mt. Sinai. The Feast of Pentecost came fifty days after the Feast of the Passover, and was originally called the Feast of Weeks. It was the largest of all the memorial feasts, and was looked forward to with great pleasure and delight, celebrating, as it did, the end of harvest. "The spiritual analogy of the Pentecost, therefore, is Christ the Bread of Life by the anointing and indwelling of the Holy Ghost."

1. The Disciples in One Place, and of One Accord,—Whether they were in the Temple or in their own upper room, we cannot say. They were at Jerusalem, however, and in one place. They were also of one accord. How strange this! While the Master was with them they occasionally engaged in strife as regards which should be the greatest. But we hear of no such now. Gathered together and of one heart and mind, they patiently await the descent of the Holy Ghost.

2. The Descent of the Holy Ghost.—"And suddenly there came a sound from heaven as of a rushing, mighty wind, and it filled all the house where they were sitting. And then appears unto them eleven tongues like as of fire, and it sat upon each of them, and they were all filled with the Holy Ghost." "This," says Whedon, "was the great fact of the Pentecost; the great fact of the New Testament dispensation—the advent of the Spirit."

3. The Effect upon the Disciples.—They began at once to speak in strange tongues. Before, they were known as ignorant fishermen and taxgathers. But now, they speak with other tongues, not stammeringly, but readily, properly and elegantly. It was indeed a great and wonderful miracle. No wonder the people were all amazed and marvelled. Says Cox: "Whatever those may say who wish to reduce the miraculous element of Scripture to a minimum, we can only believe that the disciples were for the time made to speak in foreign languages which they had never learned."

4. Peter's Great Sermon.—What a wonderful transformation! He who had thrice denied his Lord and Master, now stands forth in His defense. Nor does he do so hesitatingly, but boldly. Truly, he had not received the Holy Ghost in vain. He begins, in order to secure their attention, by appealing to the writings of their prophets. Having thus done, he draws their attention to, first, that Jesus was the Son of God; second, that they had wickedly slain him; third, that God had raised him from the dead; and, fourth, that of these truths they were witnesses. Wonderful sermon! Hard though it was to prove his points, yet he succeeded in establishing them.

5. The Effect of the Sermon.—Their consciences were stirred; they were pricked in their heart, and said unto Peter and the rest of the apostles: Men and brethren, what shall we do? Thus they acknowledged their guilt, and plainly saw their lost condition. Peter then said unto them: "Repent, and be baptized, every one of you, in the name of Jesus Christ, for the remission of sins, and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Ghost." Three thousand gladly received his word and were baptized. "And they continued steadfast in the apostles' doctrine and fellowship, and in breaking of bread, and in prayers. Says Goodwin: "They joined themselves to the apostles' company, listened to their teachings, and acted accordingly; they were not ashamed to confess that they belonged to the new society, who owned a crucified Master, and they did not wish merely to adopt a new name and not also to show by their conduct that their Christain name was a reality."

What Special Benefit Do We Derive From Attendance on the Epworth League?

By FLORIDA TAYLOR, Cromwell, Ky.

The word special means particular, the word benefit means to gain advantage; hence we have what particular advantage we gain in attendance of the Epworth League. We notice first the object of the Epworth League is to promote more moral piety among the young members and friends of the Church, and to assist them in the attainments of purity of heart. This is the object as set forth in the League, and our motto is "Look up and lift up." It is natural for us to suppose that one cannot be elevated too high in the moral standard of Christianity, and the particular advantage one may gain by attending the League is that they are brought in contact with the best members of society, and therefore receive the principle and elements of the moral law, and are led to embrace the precious truths that underlie the fabric of true moral manhood and womanhood, and assist them in the accomplishments of the true moral task; therefore, they gain the vantage ground and find themselves to the top of the alps of difficulty. They are assisted in the path to godliness and true holiness, and are made to realize the great, grand and glorious purpose for which man was created as social beings. These, Mr. Presidents, are some of the particular advantages that one may gain by attending upon the service of the League; and last, but not least, it is the means by which they are brought into the Church and obey the commandments of the Lord: "Come ye out from among them and be ye separate, and touch not the unclean thing, and I will receive you, and ye shall be unto me sons and daughters, and I will be unto you a father; thus saith the Lord God Almighty."

The Importance of Music in the Sunday School.

By Miss JENNIE E. WRIGHT, Eola, La.

Says one of our poets, "Music is the voice of the soul." If that be so, we can readily say that it is much needed to guide our weak voices in uttering praises to the Most High. In our Sunday School it helps the little ones in various ways, especially in keeping up time, and in perfect unison and accord. It is a wonderful guide in mingling the numerous voices together and blending them all in one sweet tune.

"It is the delight of the soul," says Tennyson, and that which delights the soul interests us, and gives life to every thing around us. Whatever can help to make home attractive, and to cultivate and strengthen family ties, it is to be sought for as a great good. Likewise, in the manner it applies to the Sunday school. While it serves as an unfailing recreation, it also tends to cheerfulness and good feeling. It is not only helpful to the Sunday schools, but is a help in other ways. Girls are prepared as teachers and for other avocations. Now, a knowledge of music sufficient to enable one to teach, direct a choir, or to be useful in some other way, is attainable by a great majority, and this with the expenditure of less time and effort than is necessary to qualify one as a good teacher of common English branches of education. The great demand for such services has in times past been inadequately supplied, and there can be no doubt that this need will continue and increase. We perceive then that it not only helps the Sunday school at large, but it benefits us if we adopt the study. As long as music refines our nature we may feel sure that we cultivate it as an art, that the spirit of music is with us. But whenever it fails to ennoble us, our singing and playing is but an empty sound. Music is for all, and while many may neither have the time or the inclination to study, they have, nevertheless, given to them the power to enjoy it when having it performed. There is scarcely a human being who does not love to hear music. Some, however, polish it so highly that its rays shed a flood of light into the hearts of many. It is a respectable profession, which is open to women. It is not a useless luxury, when considered in this light. Sacred music has many charming qualities and great attractions, more especially in the Sunday school. It acts something like a magnet, as it has the power of drawing and attracting. It gives life to the little ones and wonderfully delights them. Good music will strengthen, while silly music will weaken our characters. Vulgar music will hurt our morals, and though the best of music may at times fail to do us good, it is sure never to do us any harm. Next to a good life, music is best calculated to make man happy. The hearing of good music invariably tunes our hearts to love God and live better, and if the passing clouds of gloom throw a shadow over the many blessings surrounding us, music often brings back the sunlight and makes us again thankful for the privilege of being in so beautiful a world as this. We will always be better for hearing good music. As we enjoy sunsets the best when seen from our own porch, so music sounds sweetest in our Sunday school. As some words of the Lord are sweeter than the most winning phrases of strangers, so music sounds sweetest if considered from the lips of those we love best. Yet music may lift us higher and higher, until the whole world appears as one family. If it hath charms for us at our home, it certainly hath the same attractions for our Sunday school. If there were no music in this world of ours, it would be a very cold and dreary place; but we have music on earth and we are told that there is music in heaven. "If music be the voice of the soul," then play on until the shrewd notes shall sound as sweet as the strains of the harp in heaven.

To Walk Properly.

Lippincott's Magazine says: Stride out to your full measure, but don't try to go beyond it; and try not to fall short of it as you go on. Keep the knees as straight as you can conveniently, and this will oblige you to rise on the ball of the foot behind at at each step. The calf of the leg is a valuable element in walking, and yet many walkers, by throwing their weight upon the knees and the muscles of the front of the upper leg, lose the push and spring of the calf altogether. Such men habitually stand with knees bent, like a "sprung" horse, and only straighten the knees by an effort. The arms should swing freely, the head should be up and the chest expanded; breathe deeply and breathe slowly. Few people walk right, yet it is an easy thing to learn; and when it is learned you can walk farther, faster and more enjoyingly than if you do it wrong.

IN LEAGUE WITH EVIL.

For downright cruelty, if not say a persistent determination to depart from the teachings of the Golden Rule, the following excerpts, taken from the Epworth Era, an official organ of the M. E. Church South, and the Texas Christian Advocate, of the same Church, takes the palm. The most rabid Negro-hater could not handle bitter invective, nor stir up race prejudice more effectively than have the professedly Christian editors of these journals in the excerpts which follow these lines. The Epworth Era, speaking of the action of the South Carolina Constitutional Convention, with reference to the wholesale disfranchisement of the blacks, says:

"This is true, first, that no considerable portion of the white people in any Southern State desire to deprive the Negro of any of his just rights; and, secondly, that the Negroes are infinitely better off under the white man's government than under his own; and, thirdly, that the proposed movement in South Carolina is the instinct of self-preservation, and has behind it the whole history of the progress of mankind."

It is a very great pity that the minds of the young people of the Methodist Episcopal Church South are to be poisoned by such wilful misrepresentations. It is late in the day, indeed, to be informed that the "Negroes are infinitely better off under the white man's government than his own." We have had enough of that heresy. The glory of our government lies in the fact that it is "of the people, and by the people, and for the people." Will the young philosopher tell us that the only qualification required of those that shall govern is, that they are white? That talk about South Carolina's "instinct of self-preservation," and attempt to connect the piratical acts of the Tillmanites and Nullifiers with the "whole history of the progress of mankind," is mere sentimental gush. "Self-preservation" indeed! It is a reflection on the "chivalry" of the great commonwealth that—with all the machinery of government in their hands, backed by the moral influence at times of a narrow and bigoted ministry—they cannot easily hold in check these much-to-be dreaded Negroes!

The Texas Christian Advocate evidently sympathizes with the devoted and loyal South Carolians in their heroic efforts to disfranchise the vast illiterate vote within the State by introducing into the organic law a property and intellectual qualification for Negroes only. Our distinguished contemporary says:

"This step is absolutely necessary to maintain the supremacy of the intelligent and moral element of the State. * * * To talk about universal suffrage in a State where the ignorant, demoralized Negro element is largely in the majority, is preposterous. The white man ought to rule and must rule. This is an axiomatic and indisputable proposition."

There is remarkable unanimity between the utterances of these modern journals, in whose estimation, doubtless, the government administered by the hands of white men—no matter what their moral or intellectual qualifications—is their highest ideal! It is, after all, then a question of color, and these persons will continue to exhort their followers to bow at the shrine of an unholy prejudice, which has already been characterized as the crowning villainy of the nineteenth century!

On the other hand, the Michigan Christian Advocate, organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church, commenting on these utterances, declares that they are unworthy of the Christian spirit, and further, that:

"This is true, first, that no considerable portion of the white people in any Southern State desire the Negro to enjoy his full political rights; and, secondly, that in the Southern white man's estimation the Negroes are infinitely better off under the white man's government than under their own; and, thirdly, that whether or not, we propose to keep them there."

Verily, these words from Michigan are the words of a friend, and the Negro will highly appreciate them.

We believe, as we read between the lines of these delicate Southern excerpts, that we perceive the fear, not of the illiterate Negro, but of that other one who—in spite of just such pernicious and uncharitable utterances, in spite of odious discriminations, in spite of even "spiritual wickedness in high places"—will be recognized as an important factor in the coming social and moral and political problems of our land.

BISHOP HOLSEY TO DR. THIRKIELD.

to the great M. E. Church South and Southern Christian manhood. What little has been done, has been done by the co-operation of the colored M. E. Church and the mother Church. All sorts of inducements, and all sorts of appeals, have been made, but our mother seems deaf, with no plan or the power to exercise a respectable share of Christian liberality to those who late were their trusted slaves and chattelled heathens. One thing seems clear—that is, the time has not come, if ever it will come, for these Southern Methodists to do anything for the colored race. Sentiment is against it—in Church and State. Those good people among them who would do something by way of creating a better sentiment on this line are too few and feeble to change or revolutionize the moral mass. The work of establishing the two schools (Paine and Lane) to any respectable degree grows less and less in interest as the years go by. Ninety-five percent of the preachers are all right on the work of Negro education, but not ten percent of their congregations are with them, and the preachers can do nothing that is not in accord with public sentiment. The commissioners sent to them have all been failures, and what has been contributed for the purpose has been given by the preachers and not by the members of the Church. I think it is time for all persons on both sides to quit talking about what the Methodist Episcopal Church South is doing for the Negroes. She is doing nothing, and does not intend to do anything that is worthy of note. Bishop Lane is going from conference to conference, and in the name of God and humanity begging pennies, and pennies is all that he gets. He is building a small brick house on an obscure lot of four acres, in an obscure town, and in an obscure part of the great State of Tennessee. On this small enterprise both white and colored have contributed and made it what it is. The Paine Institute is but a little better in its limited facilities. What it has done, it has done it on half rations, and is hoping to live, yet expecting to die. The fact is, the M. E. Church South can do nothing in the way of establishing and maintaining institutions of learning for the Negroes. The prejudice against Negro education is too great, and will always be too great until a period shall be reached in the march of Christian civilization when the Negro will not see it befitting to appeal to them for aid. God speed the time!

But Dr. Thirkield says again, "Many broad-minded men of that Church (the M. E. Church South) express the conviction that it is a misfortune for the South and for the Church that such separation ever came." This is a charitable view to take of a bad case. Where are those "broad-minded men of that Church" now? The colored Church was "set off" by these "broad-minded men of that Church," but not "set" so far "off" that we could not be found. Nay, the trouble is, the colored Church is too easily found. The M. E Church South takes a great deal of trouble in seeking for the heathen in far-off lands, while the most interesting and needy heathens are in their yards, fields, kitchens, rural and urban districts, filling the jails, penitentiaries, and chain gangs, which in themselves are a disgrace to barbarism as well as an index to a so-called Christian civilization. As to the colored members remaining in the M. E. Church South, it could not be done, unless by physical force. First, because the Negroes would not stay; secondly, because elements so dissimilar as ex master and ex-slave could not, for a day, remain in harmonious Church relations any more than they could abide in harmonious social relations. The two peoples occupied two different social levels and two different lines of moral and civil propulsion. The master was a civilized, intelligent and refined gentleman, while the slave was a crude heathen with some superficial ideas of Christianity. The slaves were mere heathen Christians. They were without any clear knowledge of the truth and exalted virtues of the Christian religion. They had neither time nor capacity to investigate, think or reason. Indeed no people can be elevated to any respectable degree by the mere preaching of the Gospel. The mental faculties must be trained and the elements of the mind expanded, so as to form proper conceptions of the duties of Christian life. This degree of mental culture could not obtain in a system of African slavery like that which existed in this country.

Had the colored members remained in the Methodist Episcopal Church South they would have been practically out of it while legally in it. In no case could a colored man have been admitted as a delegate to the General Conference, and the colored conferences would have been without voice or representation in the general government. This would have not only placed the colored conferences in a unique position, but every act of the General Conference would have been questionable if not spurious. How could one class of free men make laws for the other class of free men, all having the same rights upon the grounds of equity and justice, which is the very essence of Christianity. Again, so far as the helping hand is concerned, we are practically in the Methodist Episcopal Church South. All that they could have done for us within her pales, can be done for us without her pales. The Paine Institute was created by the official acts of their General Conference. She holds and controls it conjointly with the colored Church. The trustees of the school belong to both Churches, with a controling majority on the side of the M. E. Church South. Everything awaits her dictation, and moves only with her approval. So far as the effect upon the South is concerned, by the separation, the new organization has kept the faith once delivered to the saints. The standard of morality is as high as it would have been had we remained with her. I know there is great advantage to be constantly in contact with a superior civilization, but we are in as close contact now as we would have been had we remained. Our bishops and leading men have been as pure morally as they could have been in the mother Church. As there is now no social and religious mingling and fellowship, there would have been no more in the former relation. As to that—social and religious contact—we have neither lost nor gained.

A SPLENDID WORKMAN.

Rev. Vincent D. Jenkins, pastor of Oak Hill Circuit, in the Savannah Conference, is one of the most wide-awake pastors in our Southern work. There is a splendid future before him, and as sure as he is faithful and consecrated to the work, the Church will recognize and advance him. Such letters as the following have the right ring:

KINGS, Georgia, Oct. 24, 1895.

Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, D. D.:

Dear Brother—Enclosed you will please find $12, for which you will send the paper to the persons named in my letter of this date. Silver Dollar Day at Richard's Chapel on October 20, resulted in $81 27 and twelve cash subscribers for the SOUTHWESTERN. I can send in a much larger number before the fiscal year ends and I have a mind to do it. I have just closed out a glorious rival, and every church on the circuit has been blessed; about 100 souls have been happily converted to God and added to our great Church, and $50 have already been raised for benevolent purposes and my committees are still at work. I am yours for Christ and the M. E. Church,

VINCENT D. JENKINS.

The SOUTHWESTERN certainly will help in promoting revivals and in building up the Church generally. Try it.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—The attendance at George R. Smith College, Sedalia, Mo., is far in excess of that of any previous year.

—Bishop Wm. Taylor expects to sail from New York for Africa about Dec. 1. After holding the Liberia Conference he will return to the United States some time in April.

—The Republican, of Vermillion, S. D., says: "It is said that the recent conference of the South Dakota M. E. Church showed up over 250 clergymen. Now, who would have supposed there were that large a number of Methodist ministers in this State? Methodism is mighty and it will come awful near prevailing in this commonwealth—and no harm will result if it does."

—Rev. H. W. White, the efficient presiding elder of the Nashville District, Tennessee Conference, has prepared a beautiful souvenir, containing a choice selection of beautiful and inspiring reading matter. The first to fourth round of quarterly appointments, a number of choice texts of Scripture, with benevolent apportionments to each charge, closing with a swarm of Bs worth knowing. The injunction "To B loyal and faithful in circulating the SOUTHWESTERN" was timely.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

The Columbus (Ohio) Evening Press of October 19 has the following appreciative notice of one of the SOUTHWESTERN's most ardent supporters:

"Mrs. Frank Walker, the colored delegate from New Orleans, was invited to sing during the evening, having sung at the convention (Women's Home Missionary Society) yesterday. She was assisted by Mrs. D. C. Meade, also from New Orleans. Mrs. Walker is president of the Auxiliary Society of the Church and district manager of the South New Orleans District."

—A brief paragraph can hardly do justice to the interesting announcements which The Youth's Companion makes for the coming year. No fewer than three cabinet ministers are announced. In a fascinating group of articles Frank R. Stockton tells how he became an author, General Nelson A. Miles gives reminiscences of his army days, and Andrew Carnegie recalls his earliest struggles in getting a business footing. The publishers make the following liberal offer: New subscribers who will send at once their name and address and $1.75 will receive free a handsome four-page calendar for 1896 (7 x 10 inches), lithographed in nine colors, the retail price of which is 50 cents, and The Companion every week until January 1, 1897. The Sunday School and Its Influence.

MRS. A. T. STRICKLAND, A. M., Hensly, Ark.

When we look around us in our astronomical world, in our physical world, and in our moral world, and see how much one body is effected and controlled by other bodies, we see how great and how necessary is the power of influence.

This essential quality is very beautifully and forcibly depicted by the Creator both in the solar system and in our universe.

The sun, the great center of our solar system, reflects its heat and light, warming and brightening our earth directly by day, and as reflected by the moon and other members of the planetary system by night.

Thus the sun illuminates the moon and other planets, and they in turn illuminate our earth. So does all plant life absorb and reflect the light of the sun. The lily in the valley, the daisy by the roadside, speak to man of the goodness of God and brighten the earth by reflecting the light of the sun.

We see the sunlight in every blade of grass, every blossom and bud, in the frolic of lambs and the warble of birds. We ourselves are animated by it. The sun is, for a season, hid from our view; when the clouds are dispelled our life is brightened, and all who come in contact with us feel the effect.

The Sabbath School is the cradle of the Church. It is by the Sabbath School that the Church is perpetuated. The Sabbath School of to-day is the Church of to-morrow.

A little child is conducted to Sabbath school by his parents, or by an older brother or sister, before he understands the purport of it, he is assigned to a class where there are other little boys and girls of his own size, he is pleased with the surroundings, his companions, the brightly colored picture papers, and the loving countenance of his teacher. He goes home bounding with joy, carrying with him a beautiful mental picture of what he has seen. He is anxious for the approach of another Sabbath. He grows up under the influence of the Sabbath School, nurtured by Scriptural truths and inspired by beautiful word pictures of noble characters, given him by his teacher.

Some ladies discussing the subject of holiness turned to a tiny girl and asked: "Little one, what is your idea of holiness?" The child, after meditating a moment, replied: "I don't know unless it is to be like my Sunday School teacher." Thus the child gets her meaning of the Scriptures from the shining face, the gentle words and the Christian ways of the one who ministers to her on the Sabbath.

A child thus brought up under the influence of the Sabbath School and Christian teachers has implanted within him a moral stamina that will be to him a wall of defense as he enters upon the arena of life. He loves the Church as a child loves his parent, and for its interest he will live and labor.

The Roman Catholic Church, that most zealous of creeds, having for its aim the ingathering and enslaving of souls under Roman papacy, directs the strength of its attack upon the children. The bishops and priests are stealthily planning some method of ensnaring the young. With the shrewdness of a spider they lure them along by offers of artistic and industrial education, etc., and watch every opportunity to seize their prey. They do not give so much time or attention to the older persons, for they know they will be able to see the fallacy of their system.

It is such influences as these that our pastors, Sunday School superintendents and teachers should speak out against. We should be as watchful to guard and shield our children from these influences as they are to ensnare them. The world is full of allurements to the young. Satan comes not only in the form of a serpent challenging Eve with the forbidden fruit, but is on every street corner, in every social gathering, and often in the garb of religion. It is the duty of the Church to be ever on the alert to guard and shield them from these snares, and no branch of the Church is better able to do this than the Sabbath School. Millions of young people are gathered together in the various Sabbath Schools for the study of God's Word. Here they listen not only to the views of others, but are asked to express their own views. The teacher holds up before them the noble characters found in Scripture in such a manner as to inspire emulation. And this should be the aim of every teacher to make the lessons so practical, the characters so humane, as to inspire the pupil to the imitation of the worthy and the shunning of the unworthy. Have them see the truthfulness and uprightness of Joseph, the courage and manliness of David, the faith and endurance of Daniel, the high educational and moral development of Paul, and greatest of all, the purity of the meek and lowly Savior. A teacher should not go before his or her class without having made a prayerful study of the lesson, having availed himself of every source of help, both by association and study with the superintendent and other teachers, and by consulting the opinion of different writers, and he should not consider his money misspent in purchasing such help as can be obtained. He should be acquainted with each of his pupils, not merely to know him when he meets him, but should know his temperament, know where is the weak point of each, know something of his home life and social life, and have him feel that his teacher is his friend. The teacher can, in this way, warn them where the shoals are and help them to steer clear of them. For as the Grecians were always warned to steer clear of Scylla and Cherybdis, so there are many temptations in life which it is safest to steer clear of.

If we would have a race of strong moral character let us look carefully to the young, let us think more highly of refraining than reforming. If we would have a man strong in muscle we would not barter his health in his youth or allow him to grow up without the proper amount of exercise; or if we would have him a power in mind, we would not allow him to grow up to manhood without developing his mental faculties. The same is equally true in morals. Take our men and women of strong moral worth, who are bold in the defense of the right and in condemnation of the wrong, whom all races delight to honor, and we find they are those who had the proper environments in early years. But if we would trace the record of those whom we find in our county and State prisons, in the slums of our cities, or those whose end is the gallows, we find that they are the class found at baseball, in the streets, or other places of revelry on the Sabbath, and not in Sabbath School, while they are children.

The superintendent and teachers should endeavor to make the Sunday School attractive and entertaining by presenting the good and useful in such a way as to fascinate the young. They should keep the fact that they are learning God's Word ever before them, and that they should fashion their lives thereby. Each pupil should be taught that he is the light of the Sabbath School, and should help to lead others. For our influence, silent or laudable, is emanating from us constantly; and whether this influence be for good or evil, is the question which we should each settle. How many of us, when our deeds are reckoned, will find that we have come short by saying or failing to say, by doing or failing to do, the right thing to save some youth from degenerate paths. It was a great thought, born of a mighty mind, generated by an all-wise God, when Robert Raikes called the neighbors' children to talk to them about Christ. Others seeing the good results caught up the strain, and it has echoed and re-echoed till to-day there are Sabbath Schools in every country and in the isles of the sea, taught by every nation and tongue. They each first selected their own lessons, then the United States adopted a system of lessons, and finally the whole world has a uniform system in our International Lesson Papers, prepared by a committee of representatives from every Christian denomination. And each Sabbath the same lessons are studied, the same Scriptures are searched, and the same praises are sung to the same Creator the world round.

The Influence of the Home in the Uplifting of our People.

TWENTY-FOURTH LETTER—BY T. E. W.

Too Much Woman.

For conscience sake, let us cease this everlasting prattle about the present being "woman's century" and "woman's age," implying each time that we say it that the women of any previous age were driveling idiots, and casting a slur upon the very women who gave us our being, writes Edward W. Bok in a vigorous defense of the woman of a generation ago, in the May Ladies' Home Journal. Why is this "woman's century" any more than was any century before it? Just because a few more thousand women are engaged in business? Does that fact make a "woman's century?" We haven't determined yet, by any means, whether the present tendency of woman going into the rougher commercial pursuits is to her interest or to the benefit of those who will follow her. A little caution here is a very good thing. What sense is there in this constant ding-doning into the ears of our girls that they are born at the "dawn of woman's emancipation?" Emancipation from what? Will this sort of thing teach our girls to have a greater respect for the women of past generations? If we keep up this harangue much longer I shall not blame our youngest girls if they get the notion that the world only began about forty or fifty years ago. If we expect children to have a respect for their mothers, and their mothers' parents, we cannot eushroud the times in which they lived with the darkness of ignorance and bigotry. The women who lived before the present agitators of the "woman's century" were born did a thing or two in the world's history, far more, I venture to prophesy from their present talk, than the women of to-day will do in these latter days if they pursue their present course.—Ex.

The Minister's Wife.

Many and diverse are the expectations of the people in regard to their pastor's wife, differing, to be sure, in various charges, but always sufficient to tax to the fullest extent her physical, intellectual and spiritual powers, if she is willing to do whatever she finds to do.

First, she should be so thoroughly good-tempered naturally, or have become so through grace, that she can cheerfully submit to the upsetting of carefully laid plans, although involving seeming necessities, because of the unexpected things so constantly occurring.

She must be ready to assume, and capable of filling, any vacant office in the Church societies when difficult to find a lady adapted to the place.

She should be present, as far as possible, at the social and religious meetings, promptly doing her part and thus setting a right example.

Sometimes she is expected to be the leader among the ladies in their financial enterprises, fruitful in resources and plans, wise and energetic in carrying them out.

Often children's meetings of various kinds, class meetings, Junior Leagues, mission bands, as well as (among the adults) missionary auxiliaries, Bible classes, etc., are dependent upon the minister's wife for their inspiration and the watchful care necessary to keep them active blessings to the Church.

Moreover her house should always be in order, her children neatly clothed and well trained, a credit to the society her husband serves, and the said husband should, on no account, ever be neglected.

She must be a comforter, a confidante, a counselor.

Surely, an ideal Methodist minister's wife needs to be a wise, thoroughly practical, fully consecrated, untiring Christian woman; but the usefulness of a minister with such a wife by his side is increased many fold.—Mrs. G. C. Osgood, in Zion's Herald.

After Thirty Years.

[From the Achtabula, Ohio, Beacon.]

Mr. Fred Taylor was born and brought up near Elmira, N. Y, and from there enlisted in the 189th regiment, N. Y., V. I., with which he went through the war, and saw much hard service. Owing to exposure and hardships during the service, Mr. Taylor contracted chronic diarrhœa from which he has suffered now over 30 years, with absolutely no help from physicians. By nature he was a wonderfully vigorous man. Had he not been, his disease and the experiments of the doctors had killed him long ago. Landanum was the only thing which afforded him relief. He had terrible headaches, his nerves were shattered, he could not sleep an hour a day on an average, and he was reduced to a skeleton. A year ago, he and his wife sought relief in a change of climate and removed to Geneva, Ohio; but the change in health came not. Finally on the recommendation of F. J. Heffner, the leading druggist of Geneva, who was cognizant of similar cases which Pink Pills had cured, Mr. Taylor was persuaded to try a box. "As a drowning man grasps a straw so I took the pills," says Mr. Taylor, "but with no more hope of rescue. But after thirty years of suffering and fruitless search for relief I at last found it in Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The day after I took the first pills I commenced to feel better and when I had taken the first box I was in fact a new man." That was two months ago. Mr. Taylor has since taken more of the pills and his progress is steady and he has the utmost confidence in them. He has regained full control of his nerves and sleeps as well as in his youth. Color is coming back to his parched veins and he is gaining flesh and strength rapidly. He is now able to do considerable outdoor work.

As he concluded narrating his sufferings, experience and cure to a Beacon reporter Mrs. Taylor, who has been his faithful helpmeet these many years, said she wished to add her testimony in favor of Pink Pills. "To the pills alone is due the credit of raising Mr. Taylor from a helpless invalid to the man he is to-day," said Mrs. Taylor. Both Mr. and Mrs. Taylor cannot find words to express the gratitude they feel or recommend too highly Pink Pills to suffering humanity. Any inquiries addressed to them at Geneva, O., regarding Mr. Taylor's case they will cheerfully answer as they are anxious that the whole world shall know what Pink Pills have done for them and that suffering humanity may be benefited thereby.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists. or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

The Chemistry of the Kitchen.

Some benefactor of the human race ought to set an example to his fellowmen by endowing in one or more of our leading female colleges a chair of cooking, or rather of domestic chemistry. It is well enough for young women to be trained in all the learning of the age. For them to know Latin, Greek and Hebrew, to understand mathematics, astronomy, piano playing, vocal music, art and the other elements of elegant education is highly desirable; but, at the same time, while these are remembered, it should not be forgotten that as every young woman, sooner or later, expects to have a home of her own, she should be thoroughly indoctrinated into the manner in which it should be kept. Until the happy day comes when co-operative housekeeping shall become the fashion, and all the victuals consumed in the household be brought from the central depot and district three times a day, the cooking must be done at home and every mistress of a household ought to understand every detail of cooking as well as of the other mysteries of housekeeping.—St. Louis Christian Advocate.

Saul Rejected.

(1. Sam. 15 10-23)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"To obey is better than Sacrifice." (1. Sam 15. 22.)

Saul remained in seclusion but a short while after he had been proclaimed king. He was soon put at the head of the army, and defeated the Ammonites. He was then established in this kingdom at Gilgal. Samuel made his farewell address to the people. Saul aroused the Philistines. They made war on Israel. The people of God were filled with fear. The king offered sacrifices for them. For this rash act God told him his dynasty would end with his reign. The Philistines were defeated. Saul made a hasty, wicked vow. His son Jonathan unknowingly broke it. The people prevented him from being put to death. This was the king's second grave mistake in ruling Israel. Yet God gave him victory over the kings of Moab, Ammon and Edom.

I. God and Samuel (10, 11). 1. "The word of the Lord came unto Samuel." This message must have been clear and forcible. The prophets were men, and no doubt often shrank from deliverlug an unpleasant message. We should not fear to declare the whole counsel of God. It is not known how this message came to Samuel: likely by dream or vision. The will of God is revealed to us through His written Word.

2. The Repentance of God. It does not mean, as with us, a change of mind. He said—"I am the Lord, I change not." It is attributed in Scripture to Him when bad men give Him cause to alter His course and method of procedure, and to treat them as if He did repent of kindness shown (J. F. B.). The emotions of indignation, grief and pity no more imply imperfection in Deity than does the emotion of love. Verse twenty-nine of this chapter teaches that God is not subject to the fitful changes that sometimes mark the conduct of men.

3. The sin of Saul. (1) "He is turned back from following me." He has ceased to do the Lord's will. Apostasy usually begins in the neglect of duty. We follow God when we live in the teachings of the Bible. We are exhorted to "Neglect not the gift that is in" us. (2) "And hath not performed my commandments." The precept here broken was—"Now go and smite Amalek, and utterly destroy all that they have." This order was given because the Amlekites had opposed the children of Israel in their journey through the wilderness. They had slayed the feeble, faint and weary. It was not observed by Saul. He and the people had spared Agag the king, and the best of the sheep and oxen. Disobedience was the sin that caused Saul's overthrow.

II. Samuel and Saul (12-23.) 1. Samuel praying for Saul. (1) "And it grieved Samuel." He "was wroth." He was filled with righteous indignation. He was not angry at God, or himself, but at Saul for his disobedience. He loved the king. When love is disregarded it sometimes produces resentment. There is a kind of anger that is allowed, even commended, in the world of God. (2) "He cried unto the Lord all night." This was an intercessory prayer—it was for Saul. It was an earnest prayer—he cried in the agony of his soul, It was an importunate prayer—he wrestled with God all night. It was a non-prevailing prayer—it accomplished nothing. Saul had twice before displeased God, and he was not again to be trusted. Not one word of this prayer is put on record.

2. Samuel searching for Saul. (1) "Samuel rose early to meet Saul in the morning." It is not likely he slept any during the night, and in the early morning he set out to find Saul. The message was weighty and powerful, and must be delivered immediately. God's people push their work. They are "not slothful in business." (2) "Saul came to Carmel." This was a town in the land of Judah, seven or eight miles southeast of Hebron. Extensive ruins in that place still bear the name of Kurmul. The object of this visit was to "set him up a place." To erect a monument, or hand, in commemoration of his great victory over Amalek. His design in this was no doubt vain glory. The man who vaunts his good deeds is usually trying to hide his faults. He had better been repenting of his sins. (3) Saul "passed on" and went "down to Gilgal." The wording of this clause indicates that he marched in great state. He was now a popular king. In going down from Carmel to Gilgal he descended about 3000 feet in thirty miles. Gilgal was in the Jordan valley, about half way between Jericho and the Dead Sea. There was the tabernacle and the ark, there he had been, in a public way, proclaimed king, and warned against disobedience, and now at that place he is to be rejected. The object of his visit to Gilgal was to "sacrifice unto the Lord." The wicked same as the good may offer gifts unto the Lord.

3. Samuel meeting Saul. (1) The address of the king. a. "Blessed be thou of the Lord." This is an overstrained courtesy. It savors of hypocrisy. It is well to address in a pleasant way those we meet. b. "I have performed the commandment of the Lord." This was half true and half false. The order was for him to destroy all. This he had not done. Yet he had smitten the Amalekites and gotten a great victory over them. To affirm he had done right before he had been accused of doing wrong was to virtually acknowledge guilt. Sinners are ever laboring to justify themselves. (2) The question of Samuel—"What meaneth then this bleating of the sheep in mine ears, and the lowing of the oxen which I hear?" This interrogation has in it an air of holy humor and cutting irony. It was a clear, bold way for Samuel to introduce his mission to Saul. It at once placed the king on the defensive. It is foolish to boast obedience to God, when we love the world, seek the praise of men, and indulge the flesh. (3) The answer of Saul is a feeble effort to excuse himself. He gave two reasons for his disobedience. a. "The people spared the best of the sheep and of the oxen." Elsewhere we read—"But Saul and the people spared." Here he excuses himself and casts all the blame on the people. Those who are forever justifying themselves and condemning others are usually the greatest sinners. The people dared not spare anything without his consent. It is a bad heart that will not confess its own guilt. b. They were spared "to sacrifice unto the Lord thy God" This was likely false. The idea of sacrifice seems to have been an after thought. It was probably the love of gain that caused them to save the sheep and oxen, and the love of praise that constrained them to praise the king. But we know God hates robbery for a burnt offering. A good intention will not justify a bad action. Every word uttered by Saul indicates the breaking down of his moral character.

4. Samuel delivering God's message to Saul. (1) The dealings of God with Saul. a. The Lord had exalted him. He had chosen him when he was little in his own eyes. They that humble themselves shall be exalted. He had made him the head of all the tribes. In addition to this He had anointed him king over Israel. We should appreciate the blessings of God. We do well when exalted to remember from whence we came. b. He had given him a plain command—"Utterly destroy the sinners, the Amalekites." This order Saul understood. He consented to obey for he set out on this mission. But the love of plunder overcame him. He broke the law. Rejection and death for transgression is well. Our doom is as sure as his if we violate God's law, and do not repent. (2) The conduct of Saul toward God. He disobeyed, lied, acted the hypocrite, and played the coward. It is no wonder God cast him off. We need not hope for the Lord's favor while our heart is vile and we are self-willed. (3) "To obey is better than sacrifice." God made us. Creation implies the right and ability to govern. He has given laws to rule our heart and life. We have the power to obey, and it is best for us to do so. Obedience was first, and sacrifice followed as a result of disobedience. God is more glorified and self more denied by obedience than by sacrifice. It is much easier to bring a bullock to the altar than to surrender self to God. (4) "Because thou hast rejected the word of the Lord, He hath also rejected thee from being king." Here is the conclusion of the whole matter. The heart of Saul was not right. He displeased God in many ways. He began well, but he did not so continue. Awful are the scenes of Gilboa. The life of Saul forcibly proves a growth in sin.

Gainesville (Fla.) District Conference.

The Gainesville District Conference convened at New Zion M. E. Church, Sept. 24, to end on the 30th in a Pentecostal meeting. On Tuesday morning the roll was called, and 75 traveling and local preachers answered to their names, it being the largest body of delegates over assembled on this district, which brings out clearly the executive ability of our worthy presiding elder, Rev. Peter Swearengen. The reports showed pregress on all lines, especially in the growing membership. Owing to the hard times now prevailing here we are not in advance of last year in raising our finances. There were some able papers read by James F. Elliott, pastor at Gainesville, on "The Negro in the M. E. Church," and one by Prof. Wm. Rochelle, on "Why I love the M. E. Church," which were able and instructive. The Pentecostal was all that could be hoped for. Our worthy presiding elder threw his whole soul into it, and it was indeed a spiritual feast. Many crowded the altars, and many claimed to be sanctified.

Sunday was a great day in Zion. Long before 11 o'clock buggies, carriages, horse carts, wagons, hacks, ox carts and footmen were gathered; and when Rev. Swearengen, the presiding elder and theologian, ascended the rostrum, there was not standing room. Our church at Jonesville, which is 55 feet long by 35 feet wide, could have been filled twice again for those that were on the outside. All who heard that glorious sermon will not forget it. At 3 o'clock Rev. J. Grant, presiding elder of the Jacksonville District, preached in his usual logical way, which was a masterly effort indeed. At night Rev. A. S. J. Allen, fraternal delegate from the Palatka District, in his usualy way preached; everybody happy. Thus ended the largest and most progressive district conference ever held on this district. F. M. SPICER, Sec'y.

—That the colored man is wanting in confidence, race pride, and honor is a sad but lamentable fact; but after all he is not to blame for so little of these essential elements in a race's developments when we remember the fact that they were for more two hundred years taught just the opposite. It is an easy thing to overcome evil with evil, but it is very hard to overcome evil with good. But as soon as the colored man begins to think, we have no fears but what he will rival any race for wealth, intelligence and morality.—Knoxville, Tenn., Gleanor.

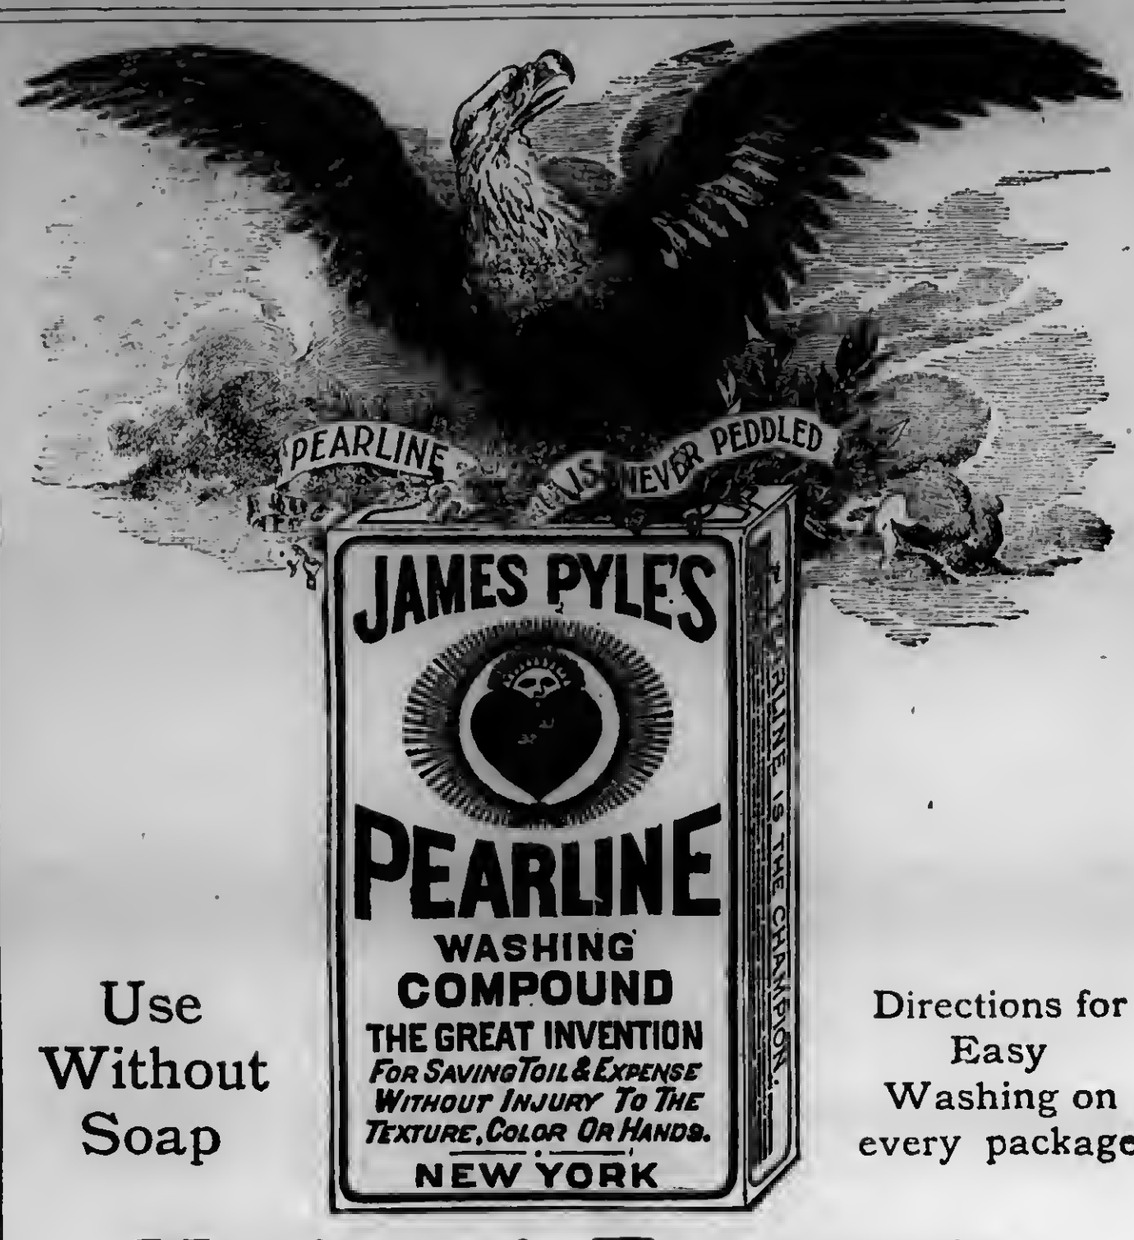
Five Minutes.



Few people realize the value of five minutes. It is a small fragment of time. Most of us waste many more than five minutes every day. Yet destinies lie hidden away in these spare five minutes. Five minutes a day spent in systematic reading of good books would make any man fairly intelligent. At the ordinary rate of reading a man can read over two thousand pages in a year. This would be five books of four hundred pages each. Let them be good books, and the mental power generated will be enormous. Save your time, young people. It is worth more than gold. If a man had to take his choice between saving spare minutes or saving gold dollars he would be the far wiser of the two who preferred the minutes to the gold coin. Look after the five minutes.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

OUR GREAT CONGRESSES.

We very greatly desire to see a mighty outpouring of our Methodist clergy and laity at Atlanta, Ga., during our great congresses. The Methodist Episcopal Congress will be held on Tuesday, November 12, at which time representative Methodists will speak on matters pertaining to the progress of the Church in the several departments of its great activities as they relate to her colored membership. A splendid program will shortly be issued. This will be followed by the great congress on Africa which is expected to be the greatest gathering of its kind during the century. This important meeting will be held under the anspices of the Stewart Missionary Foundation. On the 13th, 14th and 15th of December, immediately following the Church Congress. Bishops Taylor, Ferguson, Dr. Blyden and Prince Orishetuka Faduma of Africa, Bishops Joyce, Grant, Potter, Williams, Walters, Dr. Alex. Crummell, Prof. Booker T. Washington, Hon. J. H. Smyth, and the Editor of this paper are expected to address the congress. We clip the following from the Bulletin just issued:

"With this array of talent qualified to represent the condition and needs of Africa and the obligation of the American Negro to missionary work, a program of unsurpassed interest and profit is assured. With the contemporaneous attractions of the Exposition, especially of the marvellous exhibits of the progress of the colored race in America during the last thirty years, as seen in the Negro building and its contents, and with the very low railroad rates, there is a reasonable prospect of enthusiastic audiences which will crowd the largest auditorium."

We hope our brethren will arrange to visit the exposition during these great congresses. Railroad rates will, by that time, be in better form; hotel accommodations can be secured at lower rates; besides there will be the great advantages derived from touch with the best representatives of our Methodism and the race. Keep the dates in mind—Congress of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Dec. 12; Congress on Africa, Dec. 13, 14, 15. Let all pastors, laymen, educators, Sunday School superintendents, and in fact every American Negro, arrange to be present during these congresses.

THE KIND OF MEN TO PUT IN THE LEAD.

Accompanied by a good list of cash subscribers, came the following from one of our most efficient presiding elders:

"Dear Sir—I shall do all possible for the paper, as it seems to become more and more interesting in point of reading matter, and the people on my district are now taking a greater interest in the paper. I am trying to put it into as many homes as possible. The people begin to speak out in the highest terms of the SOUTHWESTERN. A. J. PHILLIPS, P. E.,
"Hot Springs District, Little Rock Conference"

—Just as we go to press, the sad news comes to us of the death of Rev. J. H. Williams, member of the West Texas Conference and pastor of our church at Sherman, Texas. His death, which occurred October 26, was sudden and unexpected, but his life was thoroughly consecrated to God. He rests from his labors. Rev. J. H. Wormley of Denison, Texas, conducted the funeral services.

—The North Carolina piles up the majority which the colored conferences are giving the Baltimore-Colorado amendment to admit women. Its vote stood, ayes 50, noes 3. It may be the colored vote that will emancipate Methodist women. All honor to the North Carolina Conference!—Western Christian Advocate.

BUTCHERY BY THE UNCIVILIZED.

Burned at the Stake in the Public Square of Tyler, Texas—A Negro Murderer the Victim of the Lynchers' Rage—The Husband of the Murdered Victim Applies the Torch.

Thousands of people from all parts of the State, among them many ladies and children, came on special trains to see a Negro burned to ashes! If we are to believe the Associated Press dispatches, all those horrible things occured at Tyler, Texas, on Tuesday, October 29. The unusual thing about this "lynching bee" was that the mob took a vote as to the mode of punishment to be meted out to the self-confessed murderer. It has been reported, also, that the mob was composed of some of the best citizens; judges and officers of the civil courts being among the spectators, and no attempts are made to conceal the identity of those participating in the burning. The lynching of Negroes is on the increase. The most horrible tortures are resorted to by the mobs. Women and children are evincing, more and more, a curiosity to witness these diabolical exhibitions. The reaping has begun. Railroad companies transport hundreds of people to the place where it is known that a Negro is to be lynched. Women and children stand by and witness the tortures of the "black brutes," as they are called, with evident satisfaction! Sworn officers of the law surrender their prisoners with hardly a show of resistance; teachers of the public schools dismiss their pupils that they may witness these horrible scenes of barbarity; the local press, religions and secular, often vacillating, and frequently encouraging the lynchers—we confess that we are dumbfounded and amazed.

But what are the people going to do about it? It is a fearful thing, those outrages, by vicious and brutal Negroes and white men. Negroes do not have a monopoly of this business—only, the white fiend either gets away or worries the courts out of patience by long and expensive trials, more frequently mistrials. We believe the guilty ought to be punished—surely and speedily; but, in heaven's name, let it be done legally. What splendid immigration advertisements! What inducements to Northern people and others to invest capital in Texas, Tennessee and other Southern States where such horrible incidents are of frequent and almost daily occurrence! The prompt action of Governor Culberson, and the strong words of condemnation by the leading secular and religious journals, is evidence of the popular disapproval of the methods resorted to by the lawless fiends at Tyler. But this is not enough. A grave responsibility rests upon the better class of the American white people in the South to institute speedy and effective measures, whereby the conditions which produce these brutal outrages shall cease.

In our humble judgment, the "dive," the "brothel," and the inexorable laws fixed by the white man, by which the Negro is compelled to live in enforced isolation from the better class of citizens, are among the fruitful causes of the evil. And it will remain so, or changed for the better, just as the Southern white man wills. The Negro is not alone responsible.

—It is very desirable to have a full exhibit of the work of Negro authors, journalists, and other literary work of the race, to be in place before the meeting of the Afro-American Press Congress on Nov. 12. Chief Commissioner I. Garland Penn has issued an important appeal, which we were not able to publish in time, calling attention to this exhibit, and also officially denying that any discrimination is made against colored visitors at the exposition. Having twice visited the exposition, we cheerfully confirm the statement of the chief commissioner.

DR. J. W. E. BOWEN'S ORATION.

No mere excerpt will do justice to the magnificent speech of our Dr. Bowen at the formal opening of the Negro exhibits at the Cotton States Exposition at Atlanta, Ga., on Monday, October 21. It was a clear, concise, comprehensive putting of the Negro's case in equity, with such convincing logic, matchless oratory and impassioned eloquence as to carry conviction to all hearts. Part of the magnificent speech will appear in this number and the conclusion in our next.

We take pleasure, also, in publishing the remarkable address of President Collier, on receiving, on behalf of the commissioners, the Negro Buildings. No intelligent person can read this splendid address without being convinced that the Negro is winning the confidence of the people of the great Southland, as a most important factor in its great problems. The compliment paid to the race by the distinguished gentleman, outlines, in our judgment, the future policy to be pursued in dealing with the Negro and promises an era of interest, and sympathy and activity, such as has never been witnessed before.

The whole race is indebted to the indefatigable Chief Commission I. Garland Penn, with the few gentlemen who assisted him so nobly in stirring up such an interest and securing such co-operation as has made the Negro Building the centre of attraction. Every Afro-American in this country, who has not visited this remarkable exhibit, should avail himself of the cheap rates that now prevail, and hie him away to Atlanta.

The Afro-American Press Congress Nov. 12, and the Methodist and African Congresses Dec. 12 to 15, will be occasions of special interest to to the race.

A WELL-DESERVED TRIBUTE.

Rev. T. Cotton, in a letter to the Western Christian Advocate, concerning "Central Tennessee College and its President," closes his letter with the following well-deserved tribute:

"It is a great blessing for this people, and for the entire South, that so many of the colored race, in seeking the educational advantages found at this great institution, have been brought into contact with, and under the influence of, such pure and excellent Christians as are found in the faculty of Central Tennessee College. I refer especially to President Braden, his afflicted but saintly wife, and their devoted daughter—the accomplished and self-sacrificing Mary—on whom the lamented Bishop Wiley long ago pronounced a blessing. Mingled with the admiration which must be felt for such noble work and workers, there is, to my own view, something pathetic in the completeness with which their lives have gone out to the cause for which they have toiled and endured during nearly three decades—given to a still despised race, too many of whose representatives are apt to fail in gratitude toward their wisest and best friends, and listen to the deceitful words of self-appointed, self-seeking leaders and demagogues of both races."

Our sentiments exactly; and we believe we voice the sentiments of tens of thousands of our people.

PROPHECY FULFILLED.

Chaplin C. C. McCabe says:

A million for missions was once prophecy. It is now history.

One million two hundred thousand for missions was once prophecy. It is now history.

One million and a quarter for missions is a prophecy that bids fair of being fulfilled in 1895.

A million and a half for missions is a prophecy now. It will be history by and by.

Pray for us that we may have a full report at conference.

Pittsburg, Texas.—Brother T. Young says: We laid the corner-stone of Moore's Chapel on Sept. 28. We had a grand time, and collected $17. Rev. T. Moore preached on Sunday. S. Gray and Rev. Blackridge of the C. M. E. Church, and Brothers McKing, Johnson, Neal, Hamilton and Rogers witnessed the laying. The presiding elder of the Marshall District preached acceptably.

Goodman, Miss.—Pastor H. Y. Saulter writes: I have just closed a two weeks' revival, which resulted in the conversion of 18 precious souls and in that number my wife was happily converted. Praise the Lord for his manfold blessings. Invaluable services were rendered by Rev. W. H. Hundley, of Pickens. Goodman is on the upward march, and peace prevails on our borders.

Shubuta, Miss.—Brother A. B. Logan writes: We have closed our second revival on the Shubuta charge, which resulted in the conversion of 26 precious souls. During the last of these revivals, which was held in the town of Shubuta, the parsonage was visited by a number of members and friends, which was quite a surprise, the pastor and family being in the church looking after the penitents, and left many tokens of their love.

Eddyville, Ky.—Pastor J. E. Warren, of Grand Rivers, writes: After many years of hard toiling the old M. E. Church stepped to the centre of Dawson Spring, one of Kentucky's best watering places. Now we are here and never a Methodist could say this before the Sept. 10, 1895, when I walked in, a man of God, and told the sons and daughters of Wesley to fall in line. This will be the place for our church. Pray for us.

Cedar Creek, Tex.—Pastor J. H. Swann says: Our fourth quarterly conference was held with Rev. Mack Henson presiding. The pastor reported 8 conversions and 10 accessions. The elder preached two excellent sermons, and 53 communed and six children baptized. Collection $13 25; total, quarterly, $97 75. On the night of Sept. 13, a host of members and friends stormed the parsonage with many pounds of choice grocories, which were highly appreciated.

Lake Providence, La.—Brother F. M. Lashington says: Our revival just closed with 11 souls happily converted and 15 accessions, making 26 added to the church. The church is alive and we are now the leading church at this place. We have been working for a long time to pass from under the cloud, and out of all the Lord hath brought us by his love and we are marching on to victory. We will soon be able to send a few more subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN.

Mayesville, Ky.—Pastor R. L. Dickerson writes us: Our church is getting along finely. This is, thus far, the most prosperous year of our ministry. The church is being built up along all lines We have built a neat parsonage with five rooms, a pantry and a cellar, and is one of neatest in the conference. We have paid off $200 old indebtedness. We have had three rallies, which netted $250. Our classes are well attended and our league ranges from 250 to 300 attendance.

Abbeville, Miss.—Brother C. W. Butler informs us: We have had a grand time all over the circuit. Our Fair Point revival meetings have just closed with 108 conversions and 85 of that number have joined our church. We are moving along nicely, and the circuit is in better condition than ever before. We have not forgotten our pledge; we have sent in four subscribers and you shall have the other six and more if I can get them. We are now planing for a SOUTHWESTERN Rally. Pray for our success.

Hickory, Miss.—Brother P. R. Crump writes: Closed our meeting at Sylvester Church in Newton, with nine conversions. Elder A. M. Trotter was with us three days. The meeting closed with a rally for pastor's salary, which resulted as follows: Leader No. 1, N. Berry, $8; No 2, C. Scott, $5 75; No. 3, Green Raney, $3 25; No. 4, H. Gardner, $7 65; No. 5, P. Berry, $4; No. 6, M. Hampelton, $2; the steward, $2 55. Miss V. O. King and Miss Laney Campbell presented $3 15 for a pulpit Bible. We order two Bibles to-day from our Book Concern. The SOUTHWESTERN was not forgotten. Enclosed find list of seven cash subscribers, and more to come.

Houston, Tex.—Brother F. Parker says: Rev. Wm. Bartley, presiding elder, was with us a few days since and held his fourth quarterly conference. He preached two good sermons to my people. The trustees' report showed that $850 had been raised and applied to debts of long standing. The benovolent collections have been raised in full. The running expenses of the church, including salaries of ministers, are well up. A large number of my members, too numerous to name, headed by Mrs. M. L. Gordon and A. N. Atkins, marched to our house last Thursday night and surprised us with many useful things. We are grateful to them for this and other expressions of their care for our welfare.

Lake Village Mission, Ark.—We have two Sunday Schools on this field. Arkansas City is one of the points on this mission. Here we have five members and a nice little school. Gains Landing is another point on this mission. We have no members here, but there are many people and the prospect is good. At Lake Village our people are buying homes and educating their children. I cannot say much about Sterling. It is a large section of colored people, well situated, and has no Methodist Church whatever. This mission is composed of two counties, and we have not a Methodist building on the field. There is a great work to be done here morally, spiritually and intellectually.

Forsyth, Ga.—Pastor E. E. Kirby writes an encouraging letter as follows: Our protracted meetings was all that could be expected, and resulted as follows: At Knynett, 10 days, 22 joined the church; at Rockmart, 10 days, 57 joined, and at Hopewell, 10 days, 102 joined, and the Lord gave us a most glorious display of power. One hundred and eighty-one came into the Church of God, and of that number 166 were happily converted to God. Our third quarter was held with our much-beloved elder in the chair. The reports showed progress. Presiding Elder J. P. Wragg looks after every part of the church. He preached very helpful sermons. Forsyth circuit is coming to the front; backsliders are reclaimed and true-believers built up. The elder brought some extra copies of the SOUTHWESTERN to give to the brethren, and now I have 10 cash subscribers to send in. [Praise the Lord —ED.]

LIFE SAVED

By the Persistent Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"I was troubled for years with a sore on my knee, which several physicians, who treated me, called a cancer, assuring me that nothing could be done to save my life. As a last resort, I was induced to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, and, after taking a number of bottles, the sore began to disappear and my general health improve. I persisted in this treatment, until the sore was entirely healed. Since then, I use Ayer's Sarsaparilla occasionally as a tonic and blood-purifier, and, indeed, it seems as though I could not keep house without it."—Mrs. S. A. FIELDS, Bloomfield, Ia. *

AN APPEAL TO THE KING.

By Rev. J. W. E. Bowen, Ph. D, D. D., at Atlanta, Georgia, October 21.

"Mr. President, Ladies and Gentlemen: As a rerpesentative of the American Negro I venture to address a modest statement and an appeal to the king. We realize that although the king is invisible his personality is tangible. He occupies a front seat in the halls of legislation; he dictates the political policy of the nation; his nod of approval is more significant than the mythological nod of Jupiter, while his disapproving nod spreads fear and consternation far and wide amid the ranks of his subjects. He determines what statutes shall be enacted, and should his subjects in a mad freak enact any statute contrary to his wishes he annuls them immediately and relegates the reckless and vitaline political Titans to the limbo of political forgetfulness. He sits in a high chair in the police, the criminal, the equity, the appelate and supreme courts of the States and of the nation and interprets the law: He then prescribes to the police, the sheriff, the constable, the mayor, the governor and president how these interpretations shall be carried out. The great body of his law is unwritten, but they are executed with scrupulous exactness in the minutest detail. He sets the pace in the drawing room; the swing of his baton describes the movement of the foot, the hum of the music and the color, quality and style of the dress.

"The whirligig of time is merciless and providential—merciless to the indolent and reckless, but providential to the faithful and honorable. The poetic truth that 'There is a divinity that shapes our lives, rough hew them as we may,' may be rewritten in the prosaic facts of to-day as found in the experience of individuals as well as in that of peoples and of nations. The changes are so rapid and radical in human society, flitting before our gaze like the fast-unfolding views of a huge panorama, or like dissolving and charming lines in the kaleidoscope, that we can scarcely get more than an outline or rightly esteem their far-reaching effects. The eye grows weary and the brain is overpowered in contemplating these monotonous and astounding changes. And yet we have but come to the outskirts of a mighty and harmless cataclysm in society when the present inequalities and misadjustments will be remedied and human society become so based that there shall be equality of opportunity for every human being. In actual illustration the Greeks are at our doors. We are too near the recent civil and fratricidal strife to appreciate this fact, whereby a new people was born in a day, a people that to all practical appearance, as well as by antecedents, were no people at all. And even more marvelous is that other incomparable fact standing alone in its gracious magnanimity and in the silence of its untarnished splendor in the revolution in the moral and social sentiment toward the Negro on the part of his former master. This fact alone is a sufficient and unwritten confirmation of the existence of an undertow of righteousness in human society; and moreover it is a reasonable guarantee that ultimately all the world will become brothers.

"Our eyes have seen strange sights and our ears have heard strange sounds. When Booker T. Washington delivered his unmatched speech from this platform a distinguished citizen of Georgia, the successor to one of her proudest sons, said: 'That man's speech is the beginning of a moral revolution in America.' That utterance is proof in itself that the revolution has already come, and it only remains for time to crystalize its various phases and essentials into the component elements of civilization.

"The erection and equipment of the Negro building, the Negro's place of seemliness and honor, in this most notable of Southern expositions and the general satisfaction expressed with his accomplishments are all additional marks of unperceived but positive change in society. And once again the Negro wishes to put himself on record in the most positive, hearty and unequivocal terms, without the least tinge of Jesuitical sophistry that he loves the land of his nativity and is ready, as of yore, to pour out his heart's best blood for the institutions of that land. The sad and sweet memory of his historic sorrows saturate this atmosphere and every foot of ground in Southern soil is made holy because it embalms the sacred dust of his faithful sires. The memory of our deeds is still a fragrant and fruitful theme. I appeal to the bronzed lips of yon orator on Marietta street, who stands supremely alone in painting the devotion of my ignorant sires. Hear him in his speech before the Merchants' Association of Boston in their annual banquet, December, 1889: 'I see a slave scuffling through the smoke, winding his black arms around the fallen form, reckless of the hurtling death, bending his trusty face to catch the words that tremble on his stricken lips, so wrestling meantime with agony that he would lay down his life for his master's stead. I see him by the weary bedside ministering with uncomplaining patience, praying with all of his humble heart that God would lift his master up until death comes in mercy and in honor to still the soldier's agony and seal the soldier's life. I see him by the open grave, mute, motionless, uncovered, suffering for the death of him who in life fought against his freedom. I see him when the mound is heaped and the great drama of his life is closed, turn away with downcast eyes and uncertain step starts out in the new and uncertain fields, faltering, struggling but moving on until his shambling figure is lost in the light of this better and brighter day. And from the grave comes a voice saying: "Follow him! Put your arms about him in his need, even as he puts his arm about me. Be his friend as he was mine."

Our ears are become familiar with the so-called race problem, which has been popularly interpreted to mean the Negro race problem. A truer and larger conception of the subject would speak of the human race problem, instead of the narrower Negro race problem. This great problem assumes a different name in different parts of the world. We have nihilism in Russia, socialism in Germany, communism in France, socialism and the submerged tenth in England, while in the United States it is as multiform in its elements as the nation is composite in its blood and physiognomy. In California it is the problem of the Chinese, in the great middle west it is the Scandinavian and other foreign struggles; in the North, Central and Eastern States it is the Irish and Italian problem, while overreaching all of these is the problem of the battle for bread, and in the South it is the Negro problem. It is, therefore, no sign of breadth of vision to declare that there is only one great problem in the United States, and that one is the Negro problem. These problems will require centuries of persistent effort that they may be solved upon the ethical and equitable basis of the New Testament teachings. In dealing with all of these the principles of equity and of brotherhood should obtain.

It is a basal and sociological truth that, other things being equal, like treatment and like opportunities produce like results, breadth and quantity of which will depend upon the native power and inherent ability. What is the condition for the development of the noblest type among men? There can be but one answer to this question, namely, equality of opportunity. The largest struggle of human society is to attain this concrete reality of civil justice. Under it each will produce according to his ability for the good of mankind, and that good will not be a passive uniformity cast into the stereotyped mold of racial capacity, but will be complex in its essentials and divinely human in its cast.

The Negro has learned that three feet make a yard in mathematics, and he believes that it makes a yard in politics, economics and ethics; in Europe, Asia and Africa; among whites and among blacks. It is noteworthy that inside of one generation the Negro should learn such valuable lessons. And in consequence of which he has begun the study of himself and is seeking to locate himself as a factor among men. The Negro has a definite sphere to fill in history, and although his day is a day of small beginnings, the present results are prophetic of large victories in the future. His educational life has just begun, and his teachers without bias say that he will some day fill the world with his name. This belief to the contrary notwithstanding, the old question still lives and with vital pertinacity challenges the soberest thought of statesmen, ecclesiastic and political, namely: Has the Negro any place in American life? If so, what is that place to be? But the most encouraging feature about this question is the fact that the Negro himself has addressed his best thought to this answer. A certain school of political economists assume to lay down a maxim to govern the formation and development of a nation this theory: Without amalgamation of blood there can be no national life to those not amalgamated. This is as crude a notion as the ancient theory of the flatness of the earth. The present progress of mankind in every clime is its best refutation. Nevertheless, in spite of the fact that the noble Sinbad is almost ridden to death by this Old Man of the Sea, it must be observed that America is the only country that is at work upon this problem. England and Europe have not had the courage nor disposition, if they had the wisdom, so much as to read the problem through once. But the American people have the disposition and the audacity not only to read it through, but to begin its wise solution upon the broad basis of humanity, and please God, the Negro will have sense enough to stay and contribute to its correct solution until this nation shall become in truth homogeneous in sentiment though heterogeneous in blood.

The United States is the sphere of nationality and not of rascality; blood makes a race, but sentiment a nation; and the chief corner stone of the nation is the first statement in the original charter of the proud republic: "We hold these truths to be self-evident that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." The question of the equality of the race as familiarly understood and as commonly interpreted is a threadbare and rusty saying and is as groundless in reason and in the concrete facts of to-day.

There is no such thing as perfect equality of individual or race. This is a figment clung to by minds that are woefully deficient in rudimentary training or are still wrapped in the swaddling bands of medieval infancy. The true or native equality of men as stated by the great Jefferson in the fundamental charter of the republic and as rationally and biblically interpreted in biology, philosophy, reason, Scripture and common sense is, that all men are natively and equally endowed with the essentials of humanity and of divinity. And because of this, each and all should be permitted to develop his endowment for the good of society within the limits of unprejudiced legislation. Such an interpretation and process of development must lead to the largest good for the largest number.

Tired Women

Find in the blood purifying, building-up qualities of Hood's Sarsaparilla just what they need. Mrs. Isa Griggs of Ennis, Texas, gives her experience below: "I suffered almost death with local troubles, which developed into a very serious affection and made a surgical operation necessary. I was completely broken down, had numerous boils, and when I commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla I weighed only 112 pounds. Now I weigh over 125 pounds and am in better health than for the past fifteen years. Formerly I was covered with eruptions; now my skin is clear. I can truly say

Hood's Sarsaparilla

HELPS AND HINDRANCES TO THE CIRCULATION OF THE SOUTHWESTERN.

It has given us no little satisfaction to know that the friends of the SOUTHWESTERN are increasing, and that notwithstanding the obstacles in the way of our very peculiar work there is a splendid uplook in favor of the official organ of the Church. Our advance pay system and the revival of business prosperity throughout the South, (judging by the rate names are now coming in) promises to send our list to a point never before reached in the history of the paper. We have been hindered considerably by the persistent efforts of thoughtless brethren who have sought to crowd out the official organ of the Church and substitute in its stead useless and expensive periodicals, instituted generally for the gratification of mere personal ambition. It is needless to say that but for these the SOUTHWESTERN might have reached a self-supporting basis ere this. But we record with grateful emotions the constant and increasing interest and co-operation of a goodly number of faithful brethren, white and colored, whose confidence and endorsement are a sufficient compensation for any sacrifice rendered or toil endured. It will doubtless interest our many readers to know that our reading constituency is distributed throughout the seventeen colored conferences of our Church, in nearly all of which there are periodicals of some sort published. There are sixteen of these which are issued quarterly, monthly, semi monthly and weekly, with an aggregate circulation of 6,000 copies. Their books will show that at least $3,000 have been collected for subscriptions and advertisements. Three have been invested in printing presses, type, and other office equipments, at least $6,000. Strange to say, that nine-tenths of the persons owning, controlling, or otherwise engaged in conducting these enterprises, are either members of the annual conferences or prominent lay members of the Church. That these periodicals are not self-supporting goes without saying. We confess it looks a little unbusiness like, if not sinful, to waste from three to five thousand dollars annually upon enterprises which, in the nature of things, are of doubtful propriety. If this influence and money were directed toward the support of the SOUTHWESTERN, as it undoubtedly should be, we would have one good self-supporting paper which would be a credit to its constituency and to the Church. But the most serious aspect of this monumental indifference is the lack of denominational pride on the part of these would-be editors and their weaker admirers, upon whose minds it has probably never dawned that the Book Concern dividends which are annually distributed among the conferences are the results of the sales of our Methodist books and periodicals, and that the $5,000 or more which they annually sink in these private or semi-official periodicals reduces the amount to be distributed among the superannuated and worn-out preachers, and the widows and orphans of deceased traveling preachers. And yet these same gentlemen will applaud vociferously the announcement of the dividends, when at the same time they are doing all they can to reduce the amount. We happen to know of Methodist clergymen and members of the annual conferences who are stockholders in some of these periodicals, and whose interest in them is as intense as it is apathetic in the official paper of the Church, that has honored them with a place in its ministry. It is safe to say that such persons have but little disposition to heed the very brotherly request of the late General Conference not to establish any more papers, and to discontinue those already established, whenever it could be done in accordance with existing obligations. We reaffirm our conviction that the SOUTHWESTERN ought to be the official representative of every department of our Church work in the South. If it had, as it deserves, the practical co-operation at least of those who speak well of it, it would soon become a more important medium for the dissemination of information concerning our Educational, Church Extension, Missionary, and in fact all departments of our Church work, especially in the South. This being thrown in our favor, we could have a paper as large as the largest of our Advocates going weekly into the homes of thousands of our people. We have had frequent conferences with brethren who very greatly desire the success of the SOUTHWESTERN, and the conclusion invariably reached is that local competition, encouraged as it often is by members of our annual conferences, who, having a penchant for the establishment of the periodicals mentioned, push them to the great detriment of the official organ of the Church. Especially is this true where the managers, editors and proprietors of these periodicals have the right of way into the homes of the people by virtue of the official relations which they sustain to some department of our Church work. It is needless to say that they take large advantage of these privileges.

Nevertheless, we feel deeply grateful to the earnest, faithful and loyal brethren in all the annual conferences, who are pushing the canvas for the SOUTHWESTERN so that we are able to add to our lists over 100 new subscribers each week. To these must come the consciousness of having rendered faithful service to God and our beloved Methodism. To the others we submit the words of the Master: "He that is not with me is against me, and he that gathereth not with me scattereth."—(Luke, 11-23.)

PREAMBULATING.

Our brief visit to the North Carolina Conference at Greensboro, N. C., on the 25th of October, was greatly enjoyed. Bishop Mallalieu was in the chair, and gave us ample time to respond to the royal welcome accorded us by the loyal and progressive North Carolinians. The conference grows wonderfully, and there are fresh evidences that the type of Methodism which they are planting throughout the old North State will produce a harvest of which all Methodism may be proud.

This conference probably beats the record of our colored conferences, having collected more than its apportionment. The SOUTHWESTERN was cordially endorsed, and many more names were added to the list of subscribers. The conference promises to put a SOUTHWESTERN in every home within the conference boundaries. Rev. T. M. Collett was elected delegate to the General Conference, with Prof. J. D. Chavis of Bennett Seminary as reserve. Drs. J. W. Hamilton, Manly S. Hard, Earl Cranston, C. H. Payne and President W. P. Thirkield were among the distinguished visitors. Of course our honored Bishop W. F. Mallalieu had the right of way to all hearts. His presidency of this conference will never be forgotten. Salvation full and free was the burden of his counsels, and he fairly excelled himself in his great sermons on Sunday. The conference vote on the proposed amendments showed that these loyal men, many of whom had felt the iron yoke of slavery, to be in line with the spirit of Methodist progress. The Hamilton Amendment receiving their entire negative, and the Baltimore-Colorado their entire affirmative vote. We were delightfully entertained by Prof. Morris, at his beautiful home on the campus, and at that home of the Methodist preachers, Sister S. S. Jones of the Piedmont House.

Reluctantly bidding adieu to these grand brethren we were soon whirling away toward Abingdon, Va., the seat of the East Tennessee Conference. The genial Dr. Hard was among the passengers on the train which bore us away. We parted at Greensboro; he to find needed rest in the arms of morpheus, while the writer was left to formulate plans by which he could capture the East Tennesseeans at Abingdon, Va. The ride through the magnificent Shenandoah valley was a tonic and an inspiration. There was something so decidedly home-like in these old Virginia hills. Precious memories are awakened as we pass villages and towns where our brethren have nobly fought to establish our own glorious Methodism.

Abingdon is reached and the place of meeting likewise. Bishop D. A. Goodsell, D. D., genial, persuasive, kind, is holding the reins with characteristic firmness, yet so tempered with love that everything moves along as smooth as a wedding bell. This was a remarkable session in many respects, and enough to tax the patience of almost any presiding officer. There were ominous clouds at times which threatened the peace and harmony of the heroic little band, but the guiding hand of the gentle and loving bishop carried the ship through the storm and all was safe. The conference was assured more than ever that it was expected to make a record for fidelity to the trust reposed in it by the great Church in all departments of its activities, that it is to maintain a high moral standard while keeping abreast with the best thought of the age. It has a splendid future and a glorious class of younger men who are expected to do valiantly for God and our Methodism. The tender and fatherly counsels, and the matchless sermon of the bishop will never be forgotten by these brethren who love him as a father. Votes on the amendments showed that the conference was in line with the increasing majority. There was no vote on the "Hamilton Amendment," and a unanimous affirmative vote on the Baltimore Colorado plan. Rev. F. L. Donohoo, the able and cultured pastor at Abingdon, assisted by his good people, gave the conference very excellent entertainment. Brother W. H. Pleasants, the sweet-spirited and capable presiding elder of the Wytheville District, and the writer were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rencher, a most honorable family, and among the wealthiest of our people in the Old Dominion. We were most delightfully entertained. We found our genial friend, Mr. Henry Longbon of the Western M. E. Book Concern, a most valuable visitor; and the conference will not soon forget the splendid services he rendered them. Dr. Judson S. Hill, the popular president of Morristown Academy, was elected delegate to the General Conference, with Rev. R. F. Buckner, one of the strongest young men of the conference, as reserve. The SOUTHWESTERN was royally received, and secured many more additions to its increasing list of subscribers. Revs. G. W. Staples and Eli Provine are the new presiding elders.

—The Atlanta Journal of October 3 has a fine portrait and the following sketch of our own Dr. J. F. Goucher of the Baltimore Conference:

"The Rev. John F. Goucher, the youngest son of John Goucher, M. D., was born on the 7th day of June, 1845, in Waynesboro, Pa. He graduated from Dickinson College in 1868, took his degree of A. M. in 1872 and the degree of doctor of divinity was conferred upon him by the same institution in 1875. Dr. Goucher's life has been worthy of note in three directions, as a clergyman, an educator and a philanthropist. His interest in educational work has been practical and helpful. Besides his splendid work at home in 1881 he projected and directed the organization of the Anglo-Japanese College at Tokio. Through his representatives he secured for it a charter from the Japanese government and the first concession for foreigners to purchase land and to reside outside of the foreign reservation. In 1882 he planned and established a system of primary-vernacular schools in Rohilcund, India, which now includes primary and secondary schools, over one hundred scholarships for boys and girls, with a daily attendance of more than three thousand children, for the expense of which he and Mrs. Goucher still provide. He was one of the original incorporators of the Woman's College of Baltimore, and from the first he has been the chairman of the executive and building committees. On May 27, 1890, he was called unanimously to the presidency of the college, which position he now holds."

—This office was very highly favored by a visit of Rev. James Morrow, D. D, formerly pastor of Ames M. E. Church, this city, and now general secretary of Pennsylvania Bible Society. We were greatly impressed with the doctor's kindly spirit, genial and affable manners, and regretted the termination of the very pleasant visit. The doctor goes to Southern California in obedience to the advice of his physician, for health and recuperation.

The Epworth Herald says:

"We want to see the General Conference do one of two things: Either take away the time-limit from the pastorate, or attach it to all official positions in the Church. Why should a pastor be forced to move at a specified period, and a college president or an official editor or secretary allowed to hold on indefinitely?"

To which the Western Christian Advocate replies: "And a bishop?" If not, why not?

This little booklet is the tribute of stricken hearts, to the memory of a sweet-spirited little boy, Arthur Ninde Potts. Tenderly, tearfully and lovingly the story is told of a loving father, whose overwhelming grief and yet firm and unquestioning faith in the heavenly Father, gives the reader an excellent opportunity to recognize the hand of God in the affairs of his faithful children.

Mt. Zion M. E. Church moves forward grandly. Sunday services were profitable; two accessions. Rev. T. G. Montgomery is at his post and leading acceptably.

Little Samuel Toify, a member of Union Chapel Sunday School, died on Oct. 10 last. He was a bright little fellow, and although quite young, met death as the true Christian does.

There was a fair attendance at the Preachers' Meeting on Sunday the 23d. Rev. T. G. Montgomery presided. Rev. E. Fields read and expounded the Sunday school lesson. Rev. H. Taylor, who was appointed to speak on baptism, its significance and mode, was not present, and the subject went over. Rev. Dr. Morrow, a former pastor of Ames Chapel, this city, was present and made a short address.

In Memoriam.

Rev. Alexander J. Ford.

Rev. Alexander J. Ford was born 43 years ago, in St. Mary's parish, La., and converted about twenty-five years ago under the ministry of Rev. Samuel Osborne at Franklin, La. He served the Church as a class leader, recording steward, Sunday school superintendent and local preacher. He was elected a layman from Franklin to the Lay Electorial Conference of the Louisiana Annual Conference, held at New Orleans, at Wesley Chapel, Jan. 21, 1880. He served on a committee of three with A. Mitchell and A. T. Grigsby, and reported the results of its work in the election of Graham Bell and W. B. Smith as delegates to the General Conference of 1880. He was recommended from Franklin to the traveling connection on trial in 1881, in a class of fourteen young men—Revs. J. W. Lewis, M. J. Dyer, H. C. Armston, J. H. Wright, T. McCary, F. T. Chinn, H. James, M. Monroe, J. Rogers, S. S. Wright, J. H. Rylander, C. Crockett and E. Harrison, on Jan. 25, 1881. His first appointment was to Cheneyville, by Bishop Fess, and served one year. His second appointment was to Homa and served two years. His third appointment was to Clinton street, New Orleans, where he served two years. His fourth appointment was to Glenco and Island and served two years. His fifth appointment was to Alexandria, where he served five years. His sixth appointment was to St. James, Shreveport, serving two years, 1893-1894. His last work at the Louisiana Annual Conference, held in Monroe, La. He was elected statistical secretary and preached his last conference sermon on the night of February 10, at Sam Jones' Tabernacle. He received his last charge by Bishop Thomas Bowman, Feb. 11, to Union Chapel, New Orleans.

His failing health and illness was beyond all medical aid and the skill of physicians was not equal to the great destruction of nature. He falls in the midst of many warm friends. He sleeps a blessed sleeps. Sleep on, dear brother, until we too shall cross the Jordan.

There is a sunny rest for every troubled breast,
And grief may bide an evening guest.
But joy shall come with early light,
For God hath worked each sorrowing tear;
And heavens long age of bliss shall pay,
For all his childrens' sufferings here.

Brethren, care for the orphans and the widow. We all shall meet again to part, no, never. STEPHEN PRIESTLEY.

Our Schriever (La.) Letter.

SCHRIEVER, La., Sept. 28, 1895.

On taking up the dear old SOUTHWESTERN this week my heart was made glad to see that Rev. Dr. A. E. P. Albert had been appointed vice president of Gilbert Academy, and it met my approbation, as I believe it does every member of the Louisiana Conference. I also called an educational meeting in the interest of the school at my appointment for Oct. 3, and shall do my utmost for the school. My heart was made glad when, to my surprise, I met the doctor and his family, in company with Miss Lillie Vinet, on Saturday, 28th inst., en route for their new field of labor. We wish to say to the doctor and the friends of the institution that they can depend on us for our help, and we pray the blessings of Almighty God for the general success of the school. I shall from time to time hold such meeting as I have called for this school, for if education was ever needed anywhere it is in this vicinity, and at this time. We have scores of young men and women that are getting into trouble every day, and to my knowledge it is because so little care has been given to education. From what I have seen this year I have made this resolution to be a better friend to education than ever I have been. God bless all of our schools and educational centres, that they be filled with worthy students, and that every preacher may lay his hand to the wheel and help push the cause with more force than ever before. Very truly yours,

A. J. PROCTOR.

PRESIDENT COLLIER.

His Address at the Cotton States Exposition, on the Opening of the Negro Exhibit, at Atlanta.

For the first time in the history of industrial expositions we see here a building set apart and dedicated to the Negro race. For the first time at the inaugnration of an onterprise like this a Negro orator figured among those who were commissioned to spoak of its significance and pnrpose. The well-tempered and eloqnent words of that reprcsentative received applanse when they fell from his lips, and have won the cordial commendation of the right-thinking people of every race in this conntry.

In assigning an important part in this exposition to the Negre race, the management was moved alike by the desire to make this show of Southern achievement and ambition as comprohensive as possible, and hy a sentiment of good will and helpfnlness toward that element of our citizenship which has but recently been thrown upon its own resources and responsibility. The wisdom of hoth these views is amply vindicated here. We have before illustrations of the intollect, industry and skill of the Negro race snfficient to interest the most critical of all the observers of this great collective display and to make every Negro in the United States and the world contemplate in hope and pride the possibilities of his race. You have here commanded the respect and challengod the admiration of all yonr fellow-citizens. The people of this city and of this section are proud of the exhibit you have made. They have ever since the omancipation of the Negro, given him a wider field for the cultivation of his higher powers than he could find anywhere else in the world, and the resnlt is there are more Negroes engaged to-day in gainful and elevating pursnits in the former slave States of this Union than in all the rest of the world. There are more opportunities for the intellectnal and ambitious Negro in these States than he can find elsewhere in the conrse of the snn, and I call every scion of the Negro race before me to witness the statement that the relations between the whites and the blacks in the South are every year and every day becoming more cordial. There is no reason for any conflict between the two races which have by God's providence been thrown togother here. There is every reason why they should dwell together in peace and assist each other in working out their common destiny. They will be here together for all time to come. They speak the same langnage; they worship the same God; they hold the same ideas of conduct, and they meet every day in the most friendly relations, mutnally benefiting each other. They have a common interest in this country; they must under God's providence prespor and suffer together. One of the best assurances that the Negro will progress in this conntry, is found in the practical character of the edncation his schools now afford. The leading Negro schools and colleges in the South eqnip their pupils for actual and profitable service in the community, and their elevating tendency is clearly discernible. We have before us here many specimens of the work that has been wrought by the educated mind and the trained hand of the Negro. This exhibit would do honor to any people and the verdict of the jury of awards, which will soon be made, will emphasize in no uncertain way the merit of their labors. The recognition here bestowed upon these proofs of Negro thrift and ambition is only one of the many assurances that in his efforts to advance he has the best wishes and the ready assistance of his white fellow citizens. All things considered, the progress of the Negro in the South since his emancipation must be accounted one of the marvels of history. He has in those years written the brightest chapter in the history of his people. He has helped faithfully to rebuild the shattered fortunes of the South and it is right that he should share in the rehabilitation. Bright and ambitions men and women of this race have brought here the products of their invention, their patience and their skill. They have contributed to this exposition one of its distinctive features. They have forged another link which binds together the whites and the Negroes in this land, where both may achieve their highest destiny.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, NOV. 24, 1895.

The Woes of Intemperance.

(Isa. 5. 11-23)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Woe unto them that rise up early in the morning, that they may follow strong drink." (Isa. 5, 11.)

Isaiah was the son of Amos. His name signifies "Salvation of Jehovah" But little is known of his early life and circumstances. Some say, but with little certainty, he was a brother of King Amaziah. He was married, and resided in Jerusalem, near the temple. He lived to be very old, and was a prophet sixty or more years. He wrote a biography of King Uzziah, and also a sketch of the life of Hezekiah. The collections of his prophecies that have come down to us, clearly teach the judgments of God, and the mercies that will follow. By some of the Church fathers he has been called the "Evangelistic Prophet," because so many of his predictions refer to Christ. He stands pre-eminent above all the other prophets in the contents and spirit of his predictions, and also in their form and style. Tradition says he suffered martyrdom during the reign of King Manasseh, by being sawed asunder under a tree near Jerusalem (Heb. 11. 37). We study today the drunkard's woes.

I. The woes of them that attend the wine feast (11, 12). 1. The time spent there. They rise early in the morning, go to the place of festivity, tarry there through the day, and remain till late in the night. Drinking is their chief delight. For it they give up sleep, home, wife, children and friends. It is their thoughts by day and their dreams by night. No one who begins to drink thinks this will ever be his condition. But the appetite grows, and as it strengthens he weakens. Soon it becomes the master and he the slave. 2. The effect of wine and strong drink is to "inflame them," to burn them up. It creates a thirst that is never satisfied. It inflames the brain, lungs, stomach and blood, and sets them on fire of hell. It makes us waste money, talents and time. It causes us to lose strength, health and good name. It unfits us to think, or work, for God, the Church, or self. Yet in the face of these facts many thousands continue to drink. 3. The harp, viol, tabret and pipe were instruments used at their feasts. These were no doubt employed to draw and entertain customers. The same, and other agencies, are used to-day to attract to the saloons. The children of this world are wiser than the children of light to get gain. The saloon keepers have everything that will draw, and many fall by their temptations.

II. The woes of them who "regard not the work of the Lord" (13-17). That do not consider that He is their Creator, Benefactor and Redeemer: that He has given life and all that sustains the same. Many evils result from disregarding the commands of the Lord. 1. Captivity—"My people are gone into captivity." This may refer to the bondage of the nation, or to the slavery of the individual. The drunkard, libertine, tobacco user, morphine eater, and many others are in perfect bondage to their appetites and passions. 2. Poverty—"Their honorable men are famished." Their goods have been wasted, their lands squandered, and their money exhausted. All the drunkard has he will give for strong drink. And when all is wasted he has nothing to show for it only a bloated form, bloodshot eyes, red nose, disheveled hair, and tattered garments. Poor miserable wretch. 3. Judgment—"The Lord of hosts shall be exalted in judgment." Good or bad, we are immortal, and will live beyond the grave. Heaven and hell are real, eternal, and we are destined to enter the one or the other. The mean, the lofty, and the mighty, same as the righteous, shall stand before the flaming bar of the Judge of the quickened dead. The one class "shall descend into hell," while the other will "feed after their manner" around the throne of God in glory. 4. Punishment—"Hell hath enlarged herself." The liquor traffic slays its thousands every year. The mouth of hell must be enlarged and her capacities extended, in order to receive the throng that go trooping into it. No drunkard shall inherit the kingdom of God. "When our judges tell us from the bench that nine-tenths of pauperism and crime are caused by drink, our physicians that if only irregular tipling was abolished half the current sickness of the land would cease, and our statesmen that the ravages of strong drink are equal to those of the historical scourges of war, famine and pestilence combined, surely to swallow such a gint of spoil the appetite of hell must have been enlarged, and the mouth of hell made still larger" (G. A. Smith).

III. The woes of those who "sin as it were with a cart rope" (18, 19). Those who defy the Almighty, and plunge deep into iniquity. When warned they say—"Let Him make speed, and hasten His work." Let "the Holy One of Israel draw nigh." They teach by their conduct that there is no God, no heaven, no hell, and no soul: that this life is everything. But their false notions will not change facts. These places are real, and our ideas of them will not alter them. The desire is often father of the thought. We hope certain things are not true, and then we believe for our hope's sake that they are not.

IV. The woes of "them that call evil good and good evil" (20). They not only fail to do that which God approves, but they condemn it: speak against it, and do what they can to overthrow it. We are far out of the way when we speak against the Bible, Church and Sabbath. But we are removed to a much greater extent from the path of duty when we put evil for good, darkness for light, and bitter for sweet. That is, when we defend that which is wrong. Yet such is the case with the wine drinker. Every man's way is right in his own eyes. People endeavor to defend themselves after doing the worst of crimes. They become "wise in their own eyes, and prudent in their own sight." They boast that they have the knowledge and skill to understand and overthrow the reasons of the good. They have not yet learned that they must become fools in order that they may be wise.

V. The woes of "them that are mighty to drink wine." Of those who boast that they are able to receive much strong drink without being overcome by it. There is a class who have a great deal of body and but little brain who can receive a large amount of alcohol without being overthrown by it. But the same persons could endure much along any line of hardship. God will hold those who kill themselves inch at a time, by excess of any kind, as guilty of murder. When the wicked rule then law is not enforced, the innocent suffer and the guilty go unpunished. The whiskey element of our land is, as a class, the law-breaking element. They do not want law. They prevent and ignore it. Vice, and not virtue, make people lawless. The good, and not the bad, make and enforce law. "Think on these things."

"Melancholy marked him for her own;" but he took Ayer's Sarsaparilla and cheated her.

Washington Conference Correspondence.

ROCKVILLE, Md., Oct. 26, 1895.

After a long silence I thought I would speak to the public about the work on the Rockville Charge. We have been hard at work trying to build up the charge, and are having much success in repairing churches and paying off old debts, and the churches are much revived. Benevolent collections in advance, souls added to the church, revival still going on, and many at the altar crying for mercy. Our new church at Rockville was $1300 in debt; we have paid $350 on it to date. Sunday schools in good condition. Presiding elder and pastor all paid. So the God of Jacob is leading the army. Pray for us.

Dear Brethren—The record for 1895 must be completed this quarter or never. I ask and urge your hearty co-operation in pushing the district to the front. Let each apportionment be fully met. A Living Shadow.

[From the Greenville, N. C., Reflector.]

The following interview has just been given our reporter by Mr. G. A. Baker the overseer at the farm of Col. Isaac A. Sugg, of Greenville, N. C. It will interest anyone who has ever had Typhoid fever. Mr. Baker said in part:

"I was living in Beaufort county, and on the 2d day of October, 1893, I was stricken down with typhoid fever. I had the best physicians to attend me and on the 15th day of January, 1894, I was allowed to get up. I was emaciated, weak and had no appetite. I could only drag along for a short distance and would be compelled to sit down and rest. This continued for some time and I began to give up hope of ever getting well. I lost my position in Beaufort county and having secured one in Pitt county, clerking in a store, I undertook it, but was so weak I could not do the work and had to give it up. The disease settled in my knees, legs and feet. I was taking first one kind of medicine and then another, but nothing did me any good. I was mighty low-spirited. I moved out to Col. Sugg's about four or five months ago and commenced taking Dr. Williams' Pills. I took three a day for about three months. I began to regain my appetite in a week's time, and then my weakness began to disappear, and hope sprung up with a blessedness that is beyond all telling. At the expiration of the three months I was entirely cured and could take my axe and go in the woods and do as good a day's work as any man. I was troubled with dyspepsia and that has disappeared. It is also a splendid tonic for weak people. I say, Mr. Editor, God bless Dr. Williams; may he live for a long time. I know he will go up yonder to reap his reward, for he has done a wonderful lot of good. Tell everybody that asks you about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People that if they will come to me I can certainly satisfy them as to their merits. I always carry a box of pills with me, and whenever I feel bad I take one." We were forcibly struck with the earnestness of Mr. Baker, and his statements may be relied on.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of la grippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexions, all forms of weakness either in male or female, and all diseases resulting from vitiated humors in the blood. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price (50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50), by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

All subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN for 1896 will include the paper for the balance of this year free.

Consumers should ask for, and be sure that they get, the genuine Walter Baker & Co.'s goods.

CHRIST, THE SOLID ROCK.

My hope is built on nothing less
Than Jesus' blood and righteousness!
I dare not trust the sweetest frame,
But wholly lean on Jesus' name:
On Christ, the solid rock, I stand;
All other ground is sinking sand.

When darkness seems to veil his face,
I rest on his unchanging grace;
In every high and stormy gale,
My anchor holds within the veil:
On Christ, the solid rock, I stand;
All other ground is sinking sand.

His oath, his covenant, and blood,
Support me in the whelming flood:
When all around my soul gives way,
He then is all my hope and stay:
On Christ, the solid rock, I stand;
All other ground is sinking sand.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., assistant corresponding secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society, delivered his famous lecture on "Some Providential Movements for the Evangelization of Africa," at Sedalia, Mo., recently. The proceeds of the lecture, $32, were devoted to furnishing the parlor in George R. Smith College. The lecture is spoken of very highly.

—The Charleston Inquirer has the following spicy bit of truth, which is worth noting:

"We are the NEGRO RACE, and in spite of the frantic cry that white must be kept 'pure' and 'supreme' it is difficult to prove who is white. If every man who has Negro blood in his viens could be traced, we doubt not that there would be found many 'white' Negroes, as a drop of blood, according to Southern sentiment, changes an Anglo Saxon to a Negro. As it now is, the race ranges in color from coal black to lily white."

—And so it must be recorded that the great association for the advancement of women met, deliberated and adjourned in this city last week without one helpful word in favor of their sisters in ebony. It was a splendid opportunity to do some real missionary work in this great prejudice-cursed city. But this meeting was held in the South, and it is not always so popular down here for our friends of other parts to manifest much interest in the Negro. What an opportunity to speak a helpful word. Perhaps "those women" had not read of the terrible lynchings and burnings of Negroes in the adjoining States, or perhaps the effusive and cordial welcome they received, together with the generous Southern hospitality which was bestowed, made them forget for the time being their duty to say a helpful word to those other women, the neediest of all.

—One of the most important movements of the times is the organization of the Query Club by a number of leading Chicago colored men.

The plan of operation adopted covers a wide field. It was proposed that a special study be made of the sociological conditions which prevail in the South, by securing from competent colored men and women who live in that section reliable data bearing upon the industrial life, savings, the condition of women and their moral atmosphere, the state of feeling of the whites in the various localities, and the character of intelligence which may mark the different communities of the colored people.

This movement promises to accomplish much good in the uplifting of our people, provided they keep out the irrepressible candidate for the leadership. He generally breaks up every movement of the kind. Look out for the would-be president!

THE NEW NEGRO.

In the splendid address of Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, in the Negro Building at Atlanta, occurs the following significant sentence: "Finally, O King, a new Negro has come upon the stage of action," and with graphic word painting our new Negro is made to appear in a most presentable shape. Let it be understood that the new Negro is an evolution. He is the product of the most thorough course of social, moral, mental and physical discipline ever known. That he has survived that fiery ordeal is one of the marvels of the century. He stands to-day as a remarkable illustration of the "survival of the fittest." His past history will be his inspiration to future achievements in every realm and sphere that indicates human activities and interests. "He is thinking," thanks to the dominating influences of the true Christian religion; he will be brought more and more under its wondrous power, and being loyal to its spirit and teachings he will be a most potential ally in its defense. The greatest missionary field of all the ages is open to the Christian world through the new Negro. He holds the strategic position. Eight millions under Christian training means Africa for Christ. Let him be manipulated, and let him pass on.

A GOOD SCHEME FOR ANY PASTOR.

Brother E. D. Giddens, P. C., at Cave Springs, Ga., offered the ADVOCATE and the Singer sewing machine as prize in his rally. The announcement was only made two weeks previous and yet the result was $127 79 raised. Mrs. Lula White gets the machine, and we hope will greatly enjoy its use, as well as the reading of the paper. Others secured the paper. We also gratefully note the fact that 121 souls have joined Brother Giddens' church this year. "Praise God from whom all blessings flow."

The SOUTHWESTERN is an acknowledged evangelist.

STRONG WORDS FROM THE HUNTSVILLE DISTRICT, TEXAS.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted at the recent session of the Huntsville District at Corrigan, Texas:

Resolved, That the license of no local preacher nor exhorter shall hereafter be renewed who fails to take the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE annually.

—Dr. E. W. Blydeu has written to President Thirkield that he hopes to return from England to meet his engagement for the Congress on Africa. If he is detained, he will send his paper to be read.

"A JOSHUA IN THE CAMP."

Mr. H. Rufus White, editor of the Suburban Enterprise, of Towson, Md., thinks he perceives in Prof. Booker T. Washington all the elements of true leadership, and hence writes a little book embodying his views and giving his reasons why all Afro Americans should acknowledge the leadership of this modern Joshua. Mr. White compares the present condition of the Negro to that of the Israelites in the wilderness, and Moses (the lamented Frederick Douglass) having been taken away, the race is now looking about for a leader and a teacher broad and liberal in his views; well versed in the relation which the races sustain to each other; a lover of his own race; a respecter of what is noble and good in the other, and a friend of both. These qualities the author declares he has found in Prof. Washington. Probably the best and most significant sentence in the book is this: "There can be but one standard by which the claim of any man upon greatness can be successfully established, and that is through his works and their results" [Italics ours.] If this is true, and we believe it is, the future leaders of the race will be among those who do something, who represent some important interest, who stand for some great idea or purpose, or enterprise, which will bring them in touch with all the people. Under this new leadership the battle must be transferred from the arena of mere politics, and oratory, and persuasive speech, to that which looks toward the material development of the race in every department of its activities. Unlike the military leadership, where the commanding general must align his forces in order to hurl them successfully against the enemy; or the political leader who succeeds in impressing his constituency as to his superior magnetism and mastery of the details of the campaign; the movement that looks toward the bettering of the social, moral, intellectual, industrial, and even political condition of the Afro American, needs not simply a leader, but leaders. We need not so much a Joshua to inspire with military valor, as a Moses, unconscious of his own personal strength, a leader of men, the most magnificent of ancient or modern times. Self forgetful, meek, of sterling moral grandeur, he sought not his own but the good of his fellow-men; at all times his highest ambition was to lead men to acknowledge God. It will not be out of place to say that this kind of leadership is as necessary to-day as at any period in the world's history. The man who keeps out of the saloon, who saves his money and purchases a home, no matter how humble, is an acknowledged leader. He is a much more potential agency for good than his fluent neighbor who can talk politics by the yard, and to keep right with the boys increases the receipts of the rum-sellers.

To have pure homes, and virtuous wives and daughters, requires leaders who love these homes, and whose high moral character will be the bulwark of their defense. The pulpit, the press, the school room, must and will meet this demand for leaders of our people. It is a work of tremendous magnitude, and there is plenty of room for all who have at heart the welfare of the whole race. The demands are imperative, and the call is for leaders; leaders; LEADERS! Good, pure, true. Let us thank God that there are those who possess pre-eminent qualifications for the leadership required, and instead of hampering their progress by invidious comparisons, or making them the subjects of obsequious adulation or fulsome praises let us hold up their hands, as did Aaron and Hur those of Moses, and the battle will be decided in our favor.

THE CONGRESS ON AFRICA.

At the Cotton States Exposition, Atlanta, Ga., December 13 to 15, 1895.

A Congress on Africa, with the freshest, clearest, most accurate, most inspiring information from the Dark Continent, given by natives, travelers, missionaries and scholars competent to speak of this amazingly interesting land—of its resources, climate, peoples, missions, civilization, prospects. This is one of the most interesting and valuable of all the series of congresses to be held during the Atlanta Exposition. It will be carried out under the direction of the "Stewart Missionary Foundation for Africa" of the Gammon Theological Seminary. The date is December 13 to 15.

The Exposition authorities officially recognize and publish this as one of the series of congresses that are bringing to Atlanta so many notable people.

In extent and importance, this will be second only to the great World's Fair Congress on Africa Africa as it is; the people as they appear; mission work, colonization, discoveries, resources, prospects—all will be set forth and illustrated. Natives of Africa will speak of their own land. Travelers will personally describe what they have seen. Missionaries from the Dark Continent will set forth clearly the religious life of the people. The relation of the American Negro to the civilization and redemption of the Dark Continent, will be fully set forth.

As thousands of Negroes in the South have been sadly misled by false views on Africa, often presented by designing men, this feature of the congress will be of immense practical value. It promises to throw a flood of light on this question, and may settle this unfortunate agitation for years to come, from the most distinguished representative from the Republic of Liberia, who will be present and will discuss fully the whole subject of colonization. As Dr. Blyden has made his home there for many years, and was its most distinguished president and is now recognized as the most learned Negro scholar and author in the world, he is entitled to speak with authority.

Dr. Blyden will speak on Africa and the future of the Negro race, and will take part in the discussions of the congress. Since his arrival in America, he has had columns of interviews in the leading New York papers and has contributed an article to the North American Review on the African Problem.

Another distinguished speaker on the program is Mr. Cyrus C. Adams, one of the editors of the New York Sun, recognized as the leading authority in America on African affairs. Mr. Adams will present a paper on "Some results of the African movement," and will also give his remarkable illustrated lecture on "New things we have learned about Africa." By use of the stereoptican and an original series of slides, the gradual progress of our geographical and commercial knowledge of the Dark Continent will be clearly set forth.

A most interesting figure at the congress will be seen in the person of Orishetukeh Faduma, a native of Africa, now spending some time in America in the study of its people and civilization. He is a graduate of the University of London and has held honorable positions as an educator under the English government in Sierra Leone. Rescued from the Yoruba country, in West Central Africa, his parents came under missionary influence, and this son of Africa has won the distinction of gaining a scholarship in the great London University. The story of his experiences and observations in his native land will surely be of thrilling interest.

Hon. J. H. Smyth of Richmond, Va., ex-minister to Liberia, will speak on "The African in Africa and the African in America."

Dr. Joseph E. Roy, chairman of the African Congress at the Chicago World's Fair, will give his lecture on "Africa and America," with his series of original views thrown on the canvas. This unique representation of the progressive and educated Negro in America as contrasted with the native African in his uncivilized state, has been in great demand ever since it was first presented at Chicago.

Bishop I. W. Joyce, of Chattanooga, will preside at one or more sessions and will speak, as will also the Hon. W. J. Northen, ex-governor of Georgia.

Among the other distinguished lecturers on the program are: Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, New Orleans, whose theme is "Africa, its relation to Christian civilization." Dr. M. C. B. Mason, who will speak on "The Methodist Episcopal Church and the evangilization of Africa." Dr. Alexander Crummell, pastor of the leading Episcopal Church among the colored people of Washington, D. C., will read two papers; having traveled in Africa and being an author of recognized standing, the two papers to be given by Dr. Crummell will be of interest and importance. Dr. J. C. Hartzell, identified with the work of Negro education for nearly a quarter of a century, will give a paper on "Africa in America and beyond the seas." Dr. J. W. Hamilton of Boston, a distinguished lecturer, will take up an importance phase of the African problem, to which he has given years of careful thought.

The above speakers have agreed to be present during the congress, and in addition to the presentation of this remarkable series of papers, they will take part in the discussions sure to be called forth.

Among the other important features of the congress may be named a paper from Bishop H. M. Turner, who has decided views on the African question. It is hoped that the bishop may himself be present to read the paper. Dr. Carroll, editor of The Independent and superintendent of the United States Census of Churches, will present a statistical paper on the colored churches of this country. He will also give a paper on the relation of the American Negro to Africa. Another valuable feature will be the latest statistics from the various American and foreign missionary societies that are laboring in Africa. It is expected that this will be full and accurate, and thus show just the state of mission work and prospects in the Dark Continent.

The general theme to guide the congress in its deliberations is "The relation of the American Negro to the civilization and redemption of Africa." The greatest freedom, however, will be allowed to each speaker in the expression of his views.

The papers will be grouped according to general subjects, and each group will be followed by a discussion. The presidents of a number of the leading institutions among the Negroes of the South have been invited to open each general discussion.

A museum will be opened, containing scores of articles of native handiwork. The genius of the native African will thus be exhibited by fabrics in iron, brass, wood, cloth, grass and ivory. Hundreds of stereopticon slides, illustrating African life, customs and scenery, will be thrown on the canvass. By these original photographs Africa and her people will be seen as they are. One session will be given to African Folk Lore, and the genius of the Negro for music may be presented by a distinguished musical critic, and illustrated by original melodies.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

"My Brother and I;" selected papers on social topics by Farrar, Hughes, Gladden, Gustafson, Ely, Cable, Rees, Mitchell and Behrends, with an introduction by William Ingraham Haven.

In this very interesting book there are ten chapters, written by the distinguished authors whose names occur on the title page, and upon some of the most important topics of the times. The Rev. William I. Haven, who was requested by Dr. Schell and the general cabinet of the Epworth League to make this selection of living papers has wrought excellently, and the young people of the Church are under many obligations for this addition to the literature of the Leagues. New York: Hunt & Eaton. Cincinnati: Cranston & Curts. Price 90 cents.

Cornish stories, by Mack Guy Pearse; illustrated. The old Cornwall "Vivid" has given inspiration to the author of this unique story for the production of some character sketches which interest and please while they point an important moral. New York: Hunt & Eaton. Price 70 cents.

"A Great Appointment;" by Myra Goodwin Plantz. New York: Hunt & Eaton. Cincinnati: Cranston & Curts. Price 90 cents.

This is a beautiful story, illustrating some phases in the life of a consecrated young minister, before whose faith and devotion the greatest difficulties meet into more insignificance. Accompanied in his arduous work by a sweet-spirited sister, brilliant victories are achieved as they go forward under the watchword of love.

The November Century is to celebrate the beginning of the twenty-sixth year.

The November issue of The Arena closes its sixth year. Among the important contributions is a very suggestive paper by Prof. George D. Herron, on "The Sociality of the Religion of Jesus;" Senator J. T. Morgan discusses the silver question; Ex-Governor James M. Ashley, an old-time Republican, congressman and governor, on "The Impending Political Advance;" Professor Frank Parsons, of the Boston University School of Law, a masterly paper on "Municipal Lighting." With the December issue the price will be reduced from $5 to $3. Arena Publishing Co., Boston, Mass.

The article on "Public School Music," by Mr. Samuel W. Cole, in the November number of the New England Magazine, is a notable article, and one which ought to be read carefully in educational circles all through the country. Mr. Cole readily believes that the public schools can be made to promote the interests of the best music and to inspire a taste for good things in our boys and girls. His account of what he has accomplished may prompt many teachers and directors of the schools to similar enterprises. Warren F. Kellogg, 5 Park Square, Boston, Mass.

AN APPEAL TO THE KING.

By Rev. J. W. E. Bowen, Ph. D., D. D., at Atlanta, Georgia, October 21.

With regard to the Negro's place in American life, it was formerly stated that he was only fit for servitude; that the best part of him was his faithful muscle; that even to-day and forevermore he must remain a serf or a hewer of wood and a drawer of water to the vast revolving machinery of civilization; he must be the ignorant workman and the unassimilated pariah of American society. It is to his credit that in his early days he had brawn; that it drove the ax that rang through the forest of the Old Dominion, and the plow that upturned the sod of Louisiana and Mississippi for the cane and cotton, while his voice endowed their leaves with a tongue never before heard. With his powerful right he scattered the silver grain in the Carolinas, and the golden grain in Maryland and Georgia, and disemboweled the mountains of Tennessee of their ancient black treasury, and from his earliest days in this country unto very recent day, his sweat was almost the only oil for the machinery of Southern industry and his arm the driving wheel of its trade. And when we shall be removed from the struggles of recent times in the social and political world to the centuries beyond in which the prejudice engendered in the participants of the strife shall be known only to history, then under the unblurred eye and the cold and unsympathetic logic of the patient historian the period of the servitude of the Negro will shine forth with the luster unapproachable in American history.

When it is asserted that he must be a worker, all sensible Negroes answer yea and amen! A worker in clay wrenching from nature her hidden stores; a worker in wood, iron, brass, steel and glass turning the world into habitation fit for the gods; a worker in the subtile elements of nature in obedience to the original command to subdue and conquer it; a worker in the realm of the mind contributing to the thought products of mankind, thereby vindicating for himself a birthright to the citizenship of the republic of thought; a statesman in Church and in State; a publicist and a political economist, in short, he must be a man among men, not so much a black man, but a man though black. And for the attainment of all the possibilities of his rich, unexplored Africa nature of docility and tractability; of enthusiasm and perseverence with his burning African fervor, there must be measured to him as well as to the white man three feet to make a yard. Such an equality of opportunity not only establishes an equality of responsibility, but must be reached before human society shall prosper under the normal laws of true development.

The Negro does not shrink nor ask to be exempted from the working of the latter half of this statement, namely, equality of responsibility; but he simply prays to the American sentiment for equality of opportunity in all matters that affect the welfare of the State, security of the homes of the people and institutions of the republic. We say to the king that the story of our past fealty is the best answer we can make touching our future devotion and interests. It is on record for us, written by one of the greatest of democratic presidents, Andrew Jackson, that he may be actuated by lofty purposes as seen in the noble defense made by Negro soldiers of the city of New Orleans in the second British war. It is on record for us that in all of the social upheavals between capital and labor the Negro has never been found with fire brand in hand. We point with pride to our loving and loyal history that we are humane as well as human.

Before asking now what is the Negro's place in American civilization, a larger question comes into notice that affects all men, namely, what is the place of any branch or family of the human race in their sum total of humanity? The man who attempts to answer this question will risk his wit. The Negro's place will be what he makes for himself just as the place of every people is what that people make for itself, and he will be no exception to the rule. The method whereby he shall make that place is under consideration. One class contends that he must make it by staying in the three "R's" and they are specially at pains in ridiculing the higher education of the Negroes, even for leaders in Church or State. Yea, he must learn the three "R's;" he must master the king's English and then he must plume his pinions of thought for a flight with Copernicus, Keppler and Herschel; he must sharpen his logic for a walk with Plato, Emanuel Kant and Herbert Spencer; he must clarify his vision for investigations with Virchow, Huxley and Gray; he must be able to deal in the obtruse questions of law as do Gladstone, Judge Story and Judge Speer; he must fortify himself to rightly divine the Word as do Cannon Farrar, Bishop Foster, Bishop Haygood, Dr. John Hale and Dr. H. L. Woyland. In short, the education of the Negro must be on par with the education of the white man. It must begin in the kindergarten as that of the white child, and end with the university as that of the white man. Anything short of this thorough preparation for all of the stages of life for the Negro would be unfair to a large part of humanity. We ask that nothing be done that would spoil his nature, emasculate his personality, but let everything be done that would fit him to fill every situation in life that man may fill from the blacksmith and hod carrier to the statesman and philosopher. And if such preparation require a knowledge of the old blue-black spelling book or of Aristotle's logic; a knowledge of the plow or the trip hammer, or of the spade, or of the driving wheel; or of simple addition or integral calculus; or the first reader or Kant's "Critique," simple justice and common sense require that he be acquainted with whatever shall fit him to fill his station in life. Does this mean that the Negro is to be turned into a white man? Is he to be so educated that he will cease to be what God meant that he should be? Nay! verily, for any education that makes a people dissatisfied with their racial personality is a farce and a reproach.

Gentlemen of the South and of the North, may I speak for myself; if so, "Hear me for my cause and be silent that ye may hear." You are the representatives of the noblest civilization that ever leaped from the brain of man. In the earliest days of Puritan discipline in this country, and even in England, your fathers were giants in the land, and in many parts their sons are worthy successors. Your indomitable courage and resistless power have won for you victories upon the battlefields that reduce the victories of Xerxes and Alexander to the achievement of novices. Your triumph in the world of mind in science, philosophy, history and ethics are unparalleled in history. Your ethical and political conceptions have honeycombed the world, and although your record is stained with spots unworthy your training and privileges, still like the sun—though spotted, it is glorious. Your conception of the sacredness of the family relation and the value of personal charity, and of the paramount necessity for the protection of womanly virtues, is the crown and glory of your splendid history. We cannot but bow to you for these magnificent achievements. As a representative of the thinking people of my race I take off my hat to the white man of this country, North and South, when he swears by all that liveth that the sanctity of his home and the purity of his family shall be maintained inviolate at every hazard. Our noblest nature affirms this. We have come to learn that the purity of woman means the purity of the family, and the purity of the family means purity of the race and nation, and whosoever insults that purity is an enemy to society and in league with hell. And when it is said that we have no conception of the value of purity or the sacredness of the marriage relation we simply ask that the sins of the vicious be not charged to the whole race. We confess with shame face that our notions of these relations, on the whole, have not been what they should be. With this confession it ought to be stated that our training on the whole has not been what it should have been, but the race is making a heroic effort to expel from its system all the virus of degrading sin, and thus far we have made progress. We pray thee to deal gently with thy servants in this respect, seeing that we are struggling to make our race a race of purity, sobriety and Christian power. We do not ask that the criminal escape, but we plead that the court shall ferret out his crime by due process of law, and that he receive the full measure of punishment according to law. We ask that justice, sure, unbiased and remorseless be meted out to all criminals, black and white, who violate the purity of any woman, white or black, South or North, and we here would join hands with you around our common altar and swear allegiance to those principles to aid you in finding and punishing the criminals wherever found. Thus the education that the Negro needs is the education that the white man needs—to make him honorable, virtuous, industrious, and to fit him to fill his place whatever it may be.

DOCTOR NELSON'S OPEN LETTER.

Readers of the SOUTHWESTERN will doubtless remember our review of the circular letter of Rev. W. H. Nelson, Ph. D., D. D., under the caption of "A Strange Document." They will bear testimony that no unkind or uncharitable word was uttered. We regretted the publication of the letter, and took occasion to say so without entertaining any harsh or unkind feeling toward its author.

In his open letter, which we publish below, the doctor complains, among other things, that we gave his words a false meaning and did not publish the letter entire, so that our readers might be better able to reach intelligent conclusions. We stated substantially in our editorial of October 17, replying to the address "to the colored members of the M. E. Chuch," all that was really germane to the doctor's argument; which was intended to call attention to the book published by Bishop Foster on the "Organic Union of Episcopal Methodisms," which the doctor evidently believed was the cause of great unrest and dissatisfaction among the colored ministry and membership of the Methodist Episcopal Church. We did not deem it necessary to quote all that was said in the circular letter, since the whole argument was predicated upon the quotations which we published. Nor is it necessary to traverse the whole ground, which has been gone over, in order to reply to the "Open Letter" to which we refer.

Reading the doctor's address to his brethren, also his open letter to the editor of this paper, there is but one intelligent conclusion to be reached, viz: That after reading Bishop Foster's book he sees only disaster and dissolution before his colored brethren of the M. E. Church, and that separation of the colored membership from the Church seems to be the only way out of the dilemma.

It is highly probable that the doctor is not alone in that opinion and that the "hundreds of letters" he has received in response indicate the progress of thought in that direction. There are, however, no just grounds for such a conclusion. Our contention is that it is decidedly wrong and mischievous for either our own brethren or brethren of other denominations to insist that the Methodist Episcopal Church is lacking in her interest in the welfare of her colored constituency because she has not called a council to investigate the statements of Bishop Foster, to the effect that if the colored man remains in the M. E. Church he must do so with the distinct understanding that he sacrifices every aspiration and ambition to fill the highest offices within the gift of the Church. How absurd and unreasonable! We insist upon it that the splendid record which the Methodist Episcopal Church has made during more than a century in favor of the moral, social and intellectual welfare of the Negro, and especially those of her own communion, is a complete and absolute refutation of any such insinuation and by whomsoever made.

Reading between the lines of the "Open Letter" we believe we recognize the plea for "fair play," which is not altogether without reason. We are forced to admit that the anomalous relationship which we sustain to the Church in some sections of our great country is not always productive of our highest social development, to say nothing of other important phases in the work of character building. Under such conditions there will be "unrest" and "great disadvantages." But our colored brethren must bear not a small share of the responsibility, since by their votes and consent this relationship was consummated. But no question is settled unless it is settled right; and, having unquestioning faith in the ultimate triumph of right, we can do no less than to hope for, and pray for, and work for just such an era when our Methodism in the South will present a solid front to the enemies of righteousness, and in true Christian co-operation with other religious denominations will march forward to the conquest of our great Southland for God and humanity.

We wish to say to our colored brethren that the discussion is on, and that the sentiment in favor of a fair consideration of all questions touching this important subject is growing stronger and stronger. Let us stand together, striving to make our own Church a power in the land, while we honor those who exalt our blessed Christ.

An Open Letter.

Editor of SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE:

Dear Dr. Hammond—In your issue of October 17, you make mention of the letter I wrote to some of the presiding elders and ministers of our Church. In your mention of it you show a very uncharitable act in only setting forth certain parts which you give a false meaning to, and did not publish the whole so that each might think for themselves. Again you said: "Persistent efforts are being made to misrepresent the Church, and put it in a false and equivocating attitude toward its colored constituency;" and then said my circular letter is of that nature. But a thoughtful reading by any unprejudiced mind will not thus agree, for there was no such intention and there is no such evidence from anything in the history of my life. Facts are facts, and the only thing that prompted the letter was a zeal for the best interests of the Church, especially in reference to its colored membership, concerning whom the unpleasant facts mentioned exist. I said I had no complaint to make of the white element regarding religious and material kindness to the Negroes, but this so great kindness stands in a way to become like a pail of milk which is kicked over by the cow which gave it. Leaving it clear to be seen that I meant that much of the practical application of law in the Church would tend to so weaken the colored membership that it would become an insignificant factor. But do you see how you misrepresent my thought, and even words? Now, doctor, you must allow the fact that other Negroes in the Church are thinking and are looking at facts detrimental to them; and you must allow the fact that all don't think as you do and that you cannot well think for all. You state what you believe and don't believe, this privilege you ought allow others. According to hundreds of responses to my letter I know you are not thinking for all, not even a large majority, in the ministerial ranks of the Church. So far, however, as seeking commendation, I never thought of that when I began to write, neither was I seeking notoriety; but my breast heaves day and night with ardent desire to see our Negro membership placed on more advantageous grounds for their material and religious good. What I want and all I ask in the Church is fair play to both white and black, and I think you do me and every other colored man a great wrong to take our utterances and interpret them unduly, so as to place us under suspicious disloyalty. No man is more loyal to, and has worked harder for the Church during twenty-three years, than I. And I write and work that the constituency, of which you and I are a part, may be always accorded Christian treatment and recognition as those who are not black. And I am not one to sit back and call truth error, or darkness light, but such thing by its name, and wink at no wrong, even in an angel. You say, "There is no very 'immediate' danger of any great number of our colored members 'marching out of the Church.'" But I ask is there any distant danger? Is there any probability of any, which you yourself seem to believe there is, and which belief is based on the very things, if at all, against which I contend. I want the Church to so legislate and act that there will never be any "immediate" nor mediate danger of losing one. I am satisfied, doctor, that the so called "autonomy" is not best, nor do I want it; yet, sir, something must be done to hold and meet the wishes of 200,000 people, becoming educated every day, and nothing less than full recognition will satisfy them. However, I am with you for anything that will bring about the greatest harmony and advance the Redeemer's kingdom in the earth. W. H. NELSON, Mobile, Ala.

NOTICE TO CORRESPONDENTS.

We have on hand quite a number of well-written articles which we would like to publish. We regret, however, that we cannot do so. Any intelligent reader will see almost at a glance that we have not the space for long articles; hence we must, and will, after this date decline to publish in whole or in part any paper exceeding one thousand words. This rule is absolute. We are forced to adopt it for the good of the largest number of our readers. We ask our correspondents, one and all, to condense their matter, and try and help us improve our paper more and more.

A GOOD RECORD.

Among many tender letters received, many of which we cannot use, is the following which we publish for its simplicity as well as for the moral which it points:

"This day of our Lord, November 3, 1895, on Sunday, we were married fifty-one years ago. My wife's maiden name was Silena Catlin, as her master was named Catlin. We were both members of the Methodist Church before we were married. We are both living and seventy-one years of age.

Through many dangers, toils and snares
We have already come.
'Tis grace hath brought us safe thus far
And grace will lead us home.

"H. W. CONNER."

Blessed pair. Three-score and ten years have been allotted to them, and more. More than half a century of blissful wedded life, up through slavery to freedom. It was well that they cast their lot with the grand old Church who, to break the chains of the slavery by which they once suffered, "sent more soldiers to the field, more nurses to the hospitals, and more prayers to heaven than any other." God bless the Church, and God bless the aged couple who find sweet communion with the saints around our altars.

"E'en down to old age, all my people shall prove,
My sovereign, eternal, unchangeable love,
And when hoary hairs shall their temples adorn,

STUDY THE COLUMN.

Last week's report showed that one hundred and one cash subscribers had been sent in. Look over the list, and study the names of our workers. There are presiding elders, pastors and prominent laymen who are determined to help the Church, which they love, to put the SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE into at least ten thousand homes. We could say many good things about these faithful workers, but their work will give them a better recommendation than any word which we might say. The figures opposite their names indicate the number of subscribers they send in. By all means get acquainted with these names. Watch the columns each week, and get an inspiration for the canvass.

—"Here is a fact which illustrates the darker side of our Negro problem. The SOUTHWESTERN CHRISTIAN ADVOCATE, the organ of the colored Methodist Episcopal churches in the South, reports a presiding elder in Louisiana who has lost 'a whole membership of a hundred souls' in one place where the people were compelled to leave their crops and get out of the county in ten days. He does not dare give his name nor the name of the place. That is wonderfully like what is done in Armenia."

This, from the New York Independent, is true, except, in the report referred to, the incident occurred in Texas instead of Louisiana. But we can give truthful reports of the same sort from most of the Southern States at a moment's notice.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Rev. H. James of St. Paul's M. E. Church at Shreveport, La., has been seriously ill. We are glad to know that he is improving.

—Rev. J. H. Pierre of Morgan City, La., was in the city last week, visiting his brother who is lying very ill, with but slight hopes of his recovery.

—Rev. Stephen Duncan, the efficient presiding elder of the Shreveport District, Louisiana Conference, is pushing the canvass vigorously for the SOUTHWESTERN. He sends in three more subscribers.

North Carolina Subscribers.

We regret very much that we have failed to receive the appointments of the North Carolina Conference, which adjourned on Tuesday, Oct. 22. The secretaries usually honor us with their conference reports, and especially with the appointments, in order to help us reach subscribers as early after the adjournment as possible. We regret the delay in this case. The copy of the appointments, clipped from the North Carolina Methodist, having arrived just as we go to press for this issue, and this too after our urgent request to the secretary for the copy. Our subscribers within the bounds of the North Carolina Conference will see that the delay in receiving their papers must not be chargable to any neglect in this office.

An Appeal to the King.

We have come to day to present to you and to the country a few products of our brain and skill wrought out under adverse and trying circumstances. We present them humbly and modestly, not as completed products, but as the earnest of our undeveloped power and the prophecy of our possible future. We record with grateful recognition the magnanimity of our Southern friends in this opportunity given us to come before the country in a new light. This act in itself is a clear indication of future developments. By observation it will be seen that the exhibits from the schools among the American Negro are by far in excess of that of a promiscuous character, and this is as it should be, for the largest life of the Negro since emancipation has been a school life. These results are due to our philanthropic friends. The Negro would be unworthy of the confidence of his Southern white friends to prove himself a sordid ingrate did he not hold in grateful memory the unstinted deeds of his philanthropic Northern friends. When the smoking throat of the angry gun ceased to belch forth death and destruction, and when the shotted cannon ceased in its carnage of death and the thunders were "hussed on the moor," suddenly there leaped upon the stage of action a people crude, rude, ignorant, superstitious, with only a few marks of divinity left, but enough to be identified as human. Then it was that the messenger of love came into our bleeding and sorely distressed South, and with a patience and cheerful generosity that would make the angels hush their heavenly harps to watch and admire, they began their tedious, discouraging and seemingly fruitless, but self-imposed task, to teach the Negro the elements of civilized life in a state of freedom. The philanthropists in the North, of every Church and of no Church, poured out their millions for the work. Their monuments and those of the workers are in every Southern State in brick and mortar, the lighthouses of civilization, the fortresses of American patriotism, and the institutes of religion. Their names are legion, but among them stand out prominently John F. Slater, Daniel Haud, Alexander Meharrey, Clinton B. Fisk, Mr. Fayerweather, Elijah H. Gammon, William F. Stewart and others. And moreover the sacred dust of some of these heroes and heroines lie sleeping in Southern soil. On yon hill, beneath the classic shade of Atlanta University, is laid in perpetual peace the remains of the late Dr. Ware, whose very life is a constant source of inspiration to all who knew him, and there is an atmosphere of holy awe that surrounds that solitary grave. The monuments of these heroic laborers and generous givers is in more than brick and stone. It is in flesh and blood, in the multitudes of broadly educated and scholarly and cultured men and women who are working out a magnificent destiny in the South, in the leaders of the race, in the pulpit, at the bar, in the medical profession, in the school room, in the workshop, at the bench, and in every trade and calling, to bless mankind and advance civilization. Their work has begun to show what the possibilities of the Negro mind are. Their recent work is subsequent to all that was done for the Negro prior to the war by Southern whites. And ever true to our proverbial and African instinct and the warm blood that circulates in our veins, we place upon the brow of these, our noble friends, the garland of our heart's divinest gratitude.

These simple results that may be seen in the Negro building are from a people just thirty years in freedom. They represent many spheres of labor and enterprise and show what may be accomplished under a more perfect system of life and labor. They show, moreover, that the Negro has been an apt and faithful student of his teachers in the mechanism of his skill as well as in the intellectual product of his brain. Thirty years of freedom is scarcely enough to take the first steps in the arts of peace. It has required centuries for the Anglo-Saxon to reach his present commanding position. The Negro's present days of infancy and of small beginnings are no criterion to measure his future by. The depths from which he has come and the obstacles surrounding him must be remembered when expressing judgment of him; and when superficial writers on the other side of the water, as well as on this side, declare that the Negro can never assimilate a high civilization nor approach the present attainments of the Anglo-Saxons, they betray an immaturity of thought worthy of the school boy's effort. This proves that the social problems of any country are to be learned only by long years of contact and unprejudiced study. A railroad observation in sociology may make fascinating reading, but it lacks the elements of endurance and accuracy and cannot command the respectful notice of more than novelistic readers of one decade. To understand the rapid strides that the Negro has taken one must know the pit from which he was digged, and the rock from which he was hewn. The cold facts of his present standing press out in bold relief with the distinctness of a mosaic and declare that there is a wealth unmeasured in that hidden mine. The first step has been taken, and if the South and the North will measure to him an equality of opportunity there will come as the result splendid achievements for society. He longs to have a full chance; he longs to do nobly.

Finally, oh king! a new Negro has come upon the stage of action. As you enter the main entrance of the Negro building you will observe the statue of a Negro with broken manacles upon his wrists. His frame is muscular and powerful; his eye is fixed upon his broken but hanging chain; his brow is knot in deep thought. This is the new Negro. What is he doing? He is thinking! And by the power of thought he will think off those chains and have both hands free to help you to build this country and make a grand destiny for himself. In generous affection for our native soil, in fealty to our institutions, and in a universal love for all men, his spirit is that of his fathers made over. Being to the manor born, he cannot be alienated in sentiment and patriotic devotion to the institutions of the South and of the whole country. It is noteworthy, however, that this Negro has had born in him the consciousness of a racial personality under the blaze of a new civilization. With this new birth of the soul, he longs for an opportunity to grow into the proportions of a new and diviner manhood that shall take its place in the ranks of one common humanity. This Negro, when educated in all of the disciplines of civilization and thoroughly trained in the arts of civil and moral life, cannot fail to be an invaluable help to our American life. It is his deepest desire to rise and work manfully, and he is willing to hide his time until the American white man shall have that conquer in him that always conquered, namely, the love of fair play. Having been so generously treated by our Southern friends in this exposition, we shall go forth to prove to them that, in the development of the South and in the protection of our institutions, we are at heart one with them. And in the classic words of Edmund Burke before his constituents in Bristol, England, we pray: "Applaud us when we run; console us when we fall; cheer us when we recover; but let us pass on, for God's sake, let us pass on."

Dear Editor—I wish to find my people, which I left many years ago in Charleston, S. C., living on King street. I was 12 years old when I left them. My mother's name was Gracie Ewing; my brothers were Dealing and John; my sister, Nellie. We belonged to Joseph Simmons, who sold me, and I came through New Orleans to Texas, where I have lived ever since. Pastors please read to your congregations and if you hear of them, write to me at Hempstead, Texas, care of W. A. Fortson.

Dear Editor—Please allow me space in your paper to enquire for my relatives. I was raised in Pickens county, South Carolina. Father's name was Jerry; he belonged to Tiry Swift. My mother's name was Chrsey, and she and the children belonged to a Widow Terrell; mother had nine children—six boys and three girls; the boys were named Washing, Joshua, James, Anderson, Alexander and Jerry; the girls were Nary, Martha and Lucinda. After the Widow Terrell died, myself and brother James were sold to a trader who brought us to Fayette county, Alabama, where I left brother James, and I was at last sold to a Mr. Spears, who brought me to Texas in 1860. The last time I heard of brother James he was still in Alabama. Father and the children I left in South Carolina. Any information will be gladly received by me. My name is Lucinda Spears. Address,

"Through Storyland to Sunset Seas" is the title of one of the neatest and most attractive books the Southern Pacific has gotten out yet, telling of the Sunset Limited Route, from New Orleans to San Francisco. A vast deal of money has been expended in getting up this book, which has some 200 pages or more, elegantly bound. The illustrations are abundant, many of them showing points of interest in New Orleans which have never, perhaps, been as faithfully delineated, while the illustrations of scenery, etc., all along the route to San Francisco are splendidly arranged and nicely executed. Mr. Morse, general passenger agent of the Southern Pacific, with his able and efficient advertising assistant, Mr. Ingraham, has gotten this book out for the delectation of the traveling public. It will bring a great deal of transcontinental travel over the Southern Pacific.

—"Joining the Navy, or Abroad With Uncle Sam," by John H. Paynter, the first colored man to contribute to our naval literature, is an instructive and entertaining account of life aboard a United States war ship. A charming recital of the author's two years' service in the United States Navy. Valuable details of methods and discipline; visits to foreign lands; realistic description of the customs, manners and life of the people of Spain, Egypt, India, China, Japan and Africa; exciting adventures; striking incidents, picturesque scenes; reminiscences and friendly criticisms. It is sold by subscription only, and agents are wanted. See advertisement in another column. Published by the American Publishing Co., Hartford, Conn.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 1, 1895.

David Anointed King.

(1. Sam. 16. 1-13)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Man looketh on the outward appearance, but the Lord looketh on the heart." (1. Sam. 16. 7.)

After Samuel told Saul God had rejected him from being king over Israel, Saul confessed he had sinned in transgressing the commandment of the Lord. But the mere act of confessing sin, without being sorry for it, or renouncing it, will avail nothing. Esau and Judas repented of sin, but it did not lead to a reformation of life. They went from bad to worse. There is a line, seen or unseen by us, beyond which there is no return. We are tending to a goal, and when it is passed probation ceases. It is folly for some men to repent. Saul had been tried and proved unworthy, weighed and found wanting. Jehovah could hardly do less than remove from his hands the reins of government. The lesson we study to day tells us how God found another king for His people.

I. Offering the sacrifice (1-5). 1. The order. (1) A mild reproof—"How long wilt thou mourn for Saul?" It is not known how the Lord spoke to Samuel: likely by dream or vision. The prophet's affection for the king, love for his country, and hatred for sin, caused him to grieve for Saul. We should be true to our country, love those about us, and weep over the fallen. (2) Get ready—"Fill thine horn with oil." Horns were the drinking vessels of all ancient nations. Every traveler was supposed to carry one. The anointing oil was composed of Olive oil, Myrrh, Cassia, Cinnamon and Sweet Calamus. We should get ready before setting out on a journey, or beginning any great work. Haste betrays ignorance. The Lord does nothing in a hurry. (3) Make the journey—"Go to Jesse the Bethlehemite." From Ramah, the home of Samuel, to Bethlehem, the home of Jesse, was about ten miles. The father of David is the only person in the Bible by the name of Jesse. Ruth the Moabitus was his grandmother, and Rahab the Canaanite was his great grandmother. There was much Gentile blood in his veins. Jesus, who died for all, was physically related to both Jews and Gentiles. Jesse was no doubt well known to Samuel. He seems to have been a man of wealth and influence. God is constantly saying to us, through His Word, go to this or that person and convey to them His message of love. Soul-saving is a hand to hand work. (4) State your business—"For I have provided me a king among his sons." The Lord still retained and exercised the right of appointing a ruler over Israel. Saul was the choice of the people, but God approved their decision. David was chosen by the Lord, and the people received him. The reign of Saul was a complete failure, but the rule of David was a grand success. The people make many blunders, but God never makes a mistake. Christ is our King, He was chosen by the Lord, and has been approved by many people.

2. The excuse—"How can I go? If Saul hear it, he will kill me." The sacred historian has not concealed from us Samuel's weakness. The Bible records the vices, just as it does the virtues, of its heroes. This proves its inspiration. Samuel did not like to stir up the wrath of the king. Saul may have been at this time possessed of an evil spirit, and if so, was liable to do any insane act. There was no doubt some foundation for his fears, because God does not reprove him. Where the Lord has not condemned, let us keep silent. Samuel is one of the purest characters of the Bible. He never before or after this played the coward. This act shows a waning of faith. He is a poor, timid saint who asks to be excused from any part of the Lord's work.

3. The Remedy. (1) Concealment—"I am come to sacrifice." This plan is of the Lord, therefore it is good. God devises nothing but what is right. It is a religious and not a political contrivance. He does not go as a ruler to execute judgment, but as a priest to offer sacrifice. The Lord's messengers should be peace-bearers. Samuel was instructed to tell but half his mission. Secrecy is a part of the Divine plan, but concealment is not falsehood. No man should ever tell a lie, yet he is not in every circumstance obliged to tell the whole truth. Concealment of a good plan for a noble purpose is justifiable. This is often done in war, in medical treatment, in politics, and in family government. (2) Guests—"Call Jesse to the sacrifice." That religious feast was for him and his family, yet others were invited. The Gospel feast is for all, and everyone is invited. Jesse and his household were no doubt believers in, and worshipers of, the true God. (3) Work—"Anoint unto me whom I name unto thee." We will never go wrong when we follow Divine guidance. But Divine guidance is not the direction of conscience or reason, but of the Word of God. This order was carried out. (See further on.)

4. The obedience—"And Samuel did that which the Lord spake." (1) There was excitement when he came to Bethlehem—"The elders of the town trembled at his coming." We infer from this that they had not been living as God desired; that they knew Samuel to be a prophet mighty in word and deed; and that they feared lest he should call down upon them the judgments of heaven. What he was to that people Jesus is to us—a prophet to teach us, a judge to rule us, and a priest to sacrifice for us. (2) The command—"Sanctify yourselves." They were, by washing, changing their raiment, and fasting, to prepare their heart for the worship of God. When we approach the Lord we should sanctify our hearts, emotions and desires, that all may be in keeping with His will.

II. Choosing the king (6-13). 1. The rejected sons of Jesse. (1) Man's method of choosing a king is by looking "on the outward appearance." The tall frame, broad shoulders, large head, high forehead, and pleasant countenance, are gifts pleasing to man. The sons of Jesse were likely fine looking and intelligent. Samuel, like all other people, thought he knew what was in a man when he saw him. And when Jesse's oldest son came to him, he said—"Surely the Lord's anointed is before me." But he was greatly mistaken. We may be deceived in the same way. Be not hasty to approve or condemn anyone. "Judge not according to the appearance, but judge righteous judgment. (2) The Lord's method of choosing a king is by looking on the heart. Man chooses from outward fitness, God from inward ability. Man judges from the body, God from the soul. The heart here is the man, the body is the residence. The heart is the thinking, reasoning, willing, agent; the body is matter acted upon. The heart is the only agent by which we can correctly judge. We do not know the hearts of others, therefore we are not fully competent to judge them. It is not the good face, or clothes, or station, or membership, that makes the saint, but the good heart only.

2. The accepted sons of Jesse. (1) He was inquired after—"Are here all thy children?" God is ever asking about the people. He would be told of their whereabouts and state of mind. He inquires through His Word, Spirit, Gospel and Church. (2) His occupation—"He kept the sheep." A noble employment, and a type of the great "Shepherd and Bishop of our souls." They that fill well their place are the ones that go higher. (3) He was called—"Send and fetch him." He seems not to have been thought of till now. He was no doubt, in Jesse's opinion, the one least likely to become the head of the family and nation. God calls into His work those who are suited for it. (4) His appearance—"He was but a youth, and ruddy, and of a fair countenance." He was at this time about 20 years of age. Ruddy means red, and likely refers to his hair. Countenance refers not to the eyes alone, but to the entire face. His features were even, and his expression frank. He was no doubt fine looking, but it was beauty of soul that constrained the Lord to select him. (5) He was anointed—"Samuel took the horn of oil and anointed him in the midst of his brethren." Jewish tradition says he whispered in his ear the meaning of the anointing. It is likely his father and brethren understood not what Samuel had done. This anointing was not to set up a king in opposition to Saul, but to point out his successor. Christ is the anointed of God, and we are the anointed of Christ. It was a type of the Holy Spirit. (6) The result of this anointing—"The Spirit of the Lord came upon David from that day forward." This could not have been if his heart had not been right. It gave him courage and strength.

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and functions, it is important that the blood be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of its various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs brings on consumption. The only way to cure this disease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to the medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsaparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the disease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood, removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsaparilla do this but gives renewed vigor to the whole system, making it possible for good health to reign supreme.

Here's a pretty mess!

a fine subject for Pearline. Wash the child and everything on it, with Pearline. They'll come out absolutely pure and perfect, as far as cleanliness is concerned.

Pearline for bathing; Pearline for washing clothes; Pearline for washing everything that you'd put water to. Pearline is safe for the most delicate skin or most delicate fabric. Not only safe, but it makes a saving. There's no wearing rub, rub, rub, or tiresome scrub, scrub, scrub.

Send it Back Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 435

The East Tennessee Conference.

The sixteenth session of the above conference met at Abingdon, Va., October 16, 1895, Bishop D. A. Goodsell, D.D., LL.D., presiding. Judson S. Hill was unanimously re-elected secretary, with G. H. Pettis assistant. William T. Marley was elected conference treasurer, and R. T. Smith, Leroy Diggs and F. E. W. Morton his assistants. R. J. Buckner was elected statistical secretary, with I. R. Hill, G. W. Ziegler, D. T. Turner and W. E. Mitchell assistants.

The presiding elders' reports showed a healthy advance in all lines, though the hard times has greatly affected all interests. The total raised for benevolences is $646 as against $631 last year; membership 4501, which is 342 less than reported last year. The pastors explained this apparent decrease by stating that they were exercising more care than formerly in keeping the Church records.

Peter Martin was received by transfer from the Tennessee Conference. Alexander Ellison, an effective elder in the A. M. E. Church, and William Parks, a deacon in the C. M. E. Church, were received on their credentials.

Harrison Harris and George W. Henderson were received on trial. E. J. Cox was continued in the studies of the second year, and William Goldston continued in third year. Jerry M. Watson and Wm. A. Jackson were admitted into full membership; George W. Mayes withdrawn; A. Roach and C. W. Walton withdrawn under charge.

The votes on the constitutional questions were: For Hamilton Amendment, the conference declined to vote; for the Baltimore Amendment, 39 against 2. For ratio of representation, 1 against 37.

The anniversaries were seasons of great interest. Dr. Hamilton for Freedmen's Aid and Dr. M. S. Hard for the Church Extension Society were heartily received and ably represented their societies.

Dr. Earl Cranston spent a few hours delightfully and made one of his best addresses.

Among others who visited the conference was Dr. E. W. S. Hammond, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, who has endeared himself to the members of the conference to such a degree that must be gratifying to him. His addresses and sermons were listened to by large and enthusiastic audiences.

Bishop Goodsell greatly endeared himself to the conference by his tender and fatherly advice and counsel. No bishop has ever presided over the conference more satisfactorily, or who has a warmer place in the hearts of our preachers.

Judson S. Hill, the president of our school at Morristown, was elected ministerial delegate, and R. J. Buckner reserve delegate to the General Conference.

The Lay Electoral Conference met on Friday, the 10th. Anderson Davis was elected chairman and A. F. Fulton secretary. By invitation Bishop Goodsell and J. P. Hill addressed the conference. After which J. R. Johnson was elected delegate and Prof. A. F. Fulton reserve. Brother Johnson is a leading merchant of Pulaski, Va., and the owner of valuable iron ore mines. Prof. Fulton is one of the teachers in the Morristown Normal Academy. The conference voted in favor of lay representation and against the election of presiding elders, also against giving them coordinate authority in the cabinet and separate sittings in the General Conference.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry

St. Louis District Conference.

The St. Louis Presiding Elder's District Conference of the Central Missouri Conference convened Sept. 4, at Ironton, Mo.; J. Will Jackson, D. D., in the chair. Revs. A. S. Palmer and T. H. Lockwood were elected secretaries. There were twelve ministers present, and six local preachers and exhorters, with a number of stewards. The session throughout was pronounced one of the best in the history of the district. The reports from all the charges showed a decided increase in every department of the church over last year.

The Sunday School convention also met in conjunction with the conference, and was made quite interesting. Mrs. Levina Vaughn, of Ironton, read an excellent paper on the "Education of the Masses," which provoked quite a discussion; also Mrs. H. A. Henley on "Hygienne," and Rev. A. S. Palmer on "The Philosophy of Progress." The preachers and members of the body exhibited the highest Christian intellectual and social culture.

The closing exercises were held in the Opera House, where an able address was made by Rev. W. H. H. Brown, of St. Louis. It is worthy to mention the noble and impartial way Dr. Jackson presided over the conference and convention.

The next district conference and convention will be held at Desoto, Mo.

Palestine District Conference.

The Palestine District Conference met in Landsen Chapel, near Mexia, Tex., as per appointment, to hold its annual annual session. It was a most profitable one spiritually. The following pastors were present: A. W. Parker, Mason Wilson, Reiley Hillary, G. W. Love, S. H. Grant, L. H. Barnett, J. S. Ferson, Carey Davenport and Daniel Atkins, with fairly good reports, showing 1920 members, 150 conversions, 1163 Sunday school scholars, and $122 8J benevolent money.

Very complimentary resolutions were passed concerning the SOUTHWESTERN and its editor, and pledging the conference to raise 100 cash subscribers between this and the Annual Conference.

—I was glad to see a brief editorial in the New York Independent, referring to Rev. Calvin Fairbank, copied into a recent number of the SOUTHWESTERN. I feel an earnest desire that the appeal may receive practical attention, and that our ministers and members, especially those who belong to the race for whom he endured those seventeen awful years of imprisonment with many thousand cruel stripes, will help to relieve the necessities of this still living hero and martyr of freedom by sending to him at Angelica, N. Y., the price of his book—"How the Way was Prepared." I visited him in his gloomy prison once in war-times, but was unable to help him. The book is for sale at the office of the SOUTHWESTERN.

$100 Reward $100,

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

A FAMOUS REFORMER.

Rev. C. J. Freeman Speaks Freely of his Life and Work.

He Has Written and Preached on Both Sides of the Atlantic—Recently the Victim of a Peculiar Affliction from Which He was Released in a Marvelous Manner.

From the Herald, Boston, Mass.

REV. C. J. FREEMAN, A. B., PH D.

No. 157 Emerson street, South Boston, is the present home of Rev. C. J. Freeman, A. B., Ph. D., the recent rector of St. Mark's Episcopal Church at Anaconda, Mont. During the reform movement which has swept over Boston, Dr. Freeman has been frequently heard from through the various newspapers and although a resident of comparatively recent date, he has exerted much public influence which has been increased by the fact that he was ten years ago on a commission appointed in England to investigate the troublesome question of the vice of great cities.

He has preached before cultured audiences in the old world, as well as to the rough pioneers in the mining towns of the Rocky mountains, and his utterances as well as his writings have been in the line of progress and liberality, well-seasoned with practical common sense. Dr. Freeman has written this paper a letter which will be read with much interest. He says:—

"Some five years since I found that deep study and excessive literary work, in addition to my ordinary ministerial duties, were undermining my health. I detected that I was unable to understand things as clearly as I usually did; that after but little thought and study I suffered from a dull pain in the head and great weariness, and all thought and study became a trouble to me. I lost appetite, did not relish ordinary food, after eating, suffering acute pains in the chest and back. There was sourness of the stomach, and the most of my food seemed to turn to sour water, with most sickly and suffocating feeling in vomiting up such sour water.

At this time I consulted several physicians. One said I was run down, another said I had chronic indigestion; but this I do know, that with all the prescriptions which they gave me I was not improving; for in addition, I had pains in the region of the kidneys, a very sluggish liver, so much so that I was very much like a yellow man, was depressed in spirits, imagined all sorts of things and was daily becoming worse and felt that I should soon become a confirmed invalid if I did not soon understand my complaints. I followed the advice of physicians most severely, but with all I was completely unable to do my ministerial duty, and all I could possibly do was to rest and try to be thankful. About eighteen months' treatment I found I was almost afraid to walk across my room. Amid all this I was advised to take absolute rest from all mental work. In fact, I was already unable to take any duty, for the reason that the feeling of complete prostration after the least exertion, precluded me from any duty whatever, and it appeared to my mind that I was very near being a perfect wreck. As for taking absolute rest, I could not take more than I did unless it was so absolute as to rest in the grave. Then it would have been absolute enough.

"It is now quite three years, since, in addition to all the pains and penalties which I endured, I found creeping upon me a peculiar numbness of the left limbs, and in fact could not walk about. If I tried to walk I had to drag the left foot along the ground. The power of locomotion seemed to be gone, and I was consoled with the information that it was partial paralysis. Whether it was or not, I do not know, but this I do know, I could not walk about and I began to think my second childhood had commenced at the age of 41 years.

"Just about two years ago or a little more, a ministerial friend came to see me. I was sick in bed and could hardly move, and he was something like old Job's comforter, although not quite. He had much regret and commiseration, which was very poor balm for a sick man. But the best thing he did say was this: "Did you ever see Pink Pills?" I said, "Who in the world is he?" He said, "Why do you not try Pink Pills?" He said good bye very affectionately, so much so that doubtless he thought it was the last farewell. Nevertheless, after thinking a little, I just came to the conclusion that I would make an innovation and see what Pink Pills would do. I looked at them, and I said can any good possibly come out those little pink things? Any way, I would see. I was suspicious of Pink Pills, and I remembered the old proverb: "Sospetto licentia fede," "suspicions is the passport to faith." So Pink Pills I obtained, and Pink Pills I swallowed. But one box of them did not cure me, nor did I feel any different. But after I had taken nine or ten boxes of pills I was decidedly better. Yes, I was certainly improving, and after eight months of Pink Pills I could get about. The numbness of the left limb was nearly gone, the pains in the head had nearly ceased, the appetite was better, I could enjoy food and I had a free, quiet action of the heart without palpitation. In fact, in twelve months I was a new creature, and to-day I can stand and speak over two hours without a rest. I can perform all my public duties which devolve upon me, without fatigue, and do all the walking which I have to do, and am thankful for it. I can safely say I was never in a better state of health than I am to-day, and that I attribute it to the patient, persevering use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"I fully, cordially and strongly commend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to all or any who suffer in a similar way, and feel sure that any one who adopts Pink Pills with perseverance and patience cannot find their expectations unrealized or their reasonable hopes blasted. But he will find that blessing which is the reward of a full trust in a reliable remedy. I shall always wish and desire the greatest success for Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and always cherish a deep feeling of gratitude to the friend who first said to me buy Pink Pills. I have tried them and know their true value, and am truly glad that I did, for I have found them, from a good experience, to do more than is actually claimed for them. Very faithfully yours,

C. J. FREEMAN, B. A., Ph. D.,
Late Rector of St. Mark's, Montana.

THE LORD'S PRAYER.

Our Father, God, who art in heaven,
All hallowed be thy name;
Thy kingdom come; thy will be done
In heaven and earth the same.

Give us this day our daily bread;
And as we those forgive
Who sin against us, so may we Forgiving grace receive.

Into temptation lead us not;
From evil set us free;
And thine the kingdom, thine the power
And glory, ever be.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—Mrs. E. H. Moore, of Athens, O., the venerable mother of Dr. D. H. Moore, of the Western, received another stroke of paralysis Oct. 26, and the end, it is thought, is not far off. Her life of saintly devotion has endeared her to multitudes.

—Dr. Samnel Ashton Keen, a noted evangelist and anthor of Delaware, O., widely known in religions circles throughout the United States, is dead, aged fifty-three years. The deceased came home four weeks ago snffering from heart tronble, which resulted in his death. Dr. Keen was also well known as the anthor of "Faith Papers," "Praise Papers," and "Pentecostal Papers," which have gone into many thonsands of homes and religions libraries.

—A periodical circulated largely among young Sonthern Methodist people, says that Negroes onght to be convinced of the necessity of pntting a stop to this crime for which they are flayed alive or burned. Who is to convince, the Negroes? The editor of that paper, with others of the denomination which it represents, are not the Negro's friends, since they favor separating him from the rest of the people whom God has made, socially, morally, spiritually and in every other way imaginable. Out on snch friends!

—Bnrrell Bond, a Negro and ex-slave, but now a prosperons farmer, last week carried 300 ponnds of tea to Memphis, which he had grown on his place in the St. Francis basin, Ark. Two years ago Bond bronght the seed in New Orleans and planted it. The crop last year was good, bnt this year the yield was splendid. The tea was tested by a local expert and pronounced to be of a good grade. Bond will engage extensively in tea cnltnre next year. He has made arrangements with an edncated Negro to read to him several papers on tea cnlture. This is the first tea ever raised in the State of Arkansas.

—Prof. W. H. Parham, of Cincinnati; Wm. R. Stewart, of Yonngstown, and the peerless editor of the Cleveland Gazette, H. C. Smith, are the three colored members recently elected to the Legislature of the State of Ohio. It is an event of no small significance to the race, that three of its very best representatives are thus honored by the great and glorious Bnckeye State, which honors itself in giving to her sister States this practical demonstration of her level-headed progressiveness. This is the first time for Messrs. Parham and Stewart, whom we know to be tried, well qualified and true, and the second term for "Our Harry," whose splendid record in the last Legislature fnlly merited the increased vote which gave him a plurality of over ten thousand votes. Truly, Ohio is a great State, and leads the country in matters pertaining to the welfare of the Afro-American.

WHAT THEY SAY ABOUT THE SOUTH'S GREAT CRIME.

It is a hopefnl omen when the leading newspapers of the country are disposed to speak ont on this great subject as they should. Lynching onght to stop, and it will stop if the white people will do their honest part. The New Orleans Christian Advocate, official organ M. E. Chnrch, says:

"Gov. Atkinson, of Georgia, has recommended to the legislature the passage of a law designed to prevent lynching. The maiu featnres of the proposed statnte are, first, the empowerment of the governor to remove from office any sheriff or similar officer who fails to protect a prisoner in his charge; second, making the county in which a lynching occurs pecnniarily responsible to the relatives of any prisoner who may be lynched. It is thonght that favorable action will be taken on the governor's recommendation at once. If so, Gov. Atkinson will become famous as the pioneer in a mnch-needed reform.

At the Boston meeting which was held on Tnesday, to denounce and protest against lynching Negroes in the Southern and other States for the crime of rape, the following resolntion was adopted:

"The heartless, blood-thirsty disregard of the snpreme law of the land must cease. Massachnsetts declares it. She calls upon all lovers of law and order to rise in their might and majesty and say amen to the declaration. She takes no part in the falsehood that the Negro race is more immoral than are other races; that they are rapists. It is her firm conviction that the charge is false, and that it is manufactured to appeal to a sentiment calculated to cover np and palliate to a great extent the burning alive of black men—the real design being concealed, which is to crush the lawful, growing aspiration manifesting itself among black men."

The Jewish Ledger, published at New Orleans, La., has this:

"If those pious soul-savers, who, in their anxiety to rescue the Hottentot, the Chinamen and the Jew from the everlasting fires of perdition, overlook the ntter depravity and ignorance that prevails at home under their very noses, desire any further proof of the number of sonls in want of 'spiritnal' and material aid here in America, they have only to scan the daily papers for the past two weeks and be satisfied. Every day the columns of the press fairly teem with news of outrages perpetrated by ignorant Negroes, who being captured are meted ont snch fearful torture by the "Christian" gentlemen in the neighborhood that the accounts cannot be read without a shudder of disgust and horror. Some of these Negroes have suffered such torture at the hands of their "good Christian" captors, that even the horrible crimes they have committed have been eclipsed in ghastliness by the devilish torture inflicted npon them."

Rev. J. B. Colbert, Washington, D. C., says:

"Lynch law and mob rnle are a sin before God, a disgrace to any civilization, a crime against humanity, and they who resort to it for revenge betray the instincts of the savage brute and stamp themselves in the eyes of civilized people as miserable cowards."

The Northwestern Christian Advocate speaks out on this wise:

"We do not recall the case of any colored man who has been found guilty and pnnished according to law. The prevalent practice is to lynch the accnsed without trial. Therefore it sonnds like light trifling when the Epworth Era advises ns to 'convince the Negroes of the necessity of putting a stop to this crime" for which they are flayed alive or burned alive."

THE FUTURE CHURCH.

"There is room now in the world only for churches whose influences come from their goodness, morality, justice, charity, reasonableness, weight of argument and amount of truth. A church which demands or claims anything more than the simple anthority of the truth is a chnrch in which liberty is crucified. I believe in churches which are large-thoughted, which ignore all class distinction, which broaden men and demand that men shall think for themselves, which hold a theology that is axiomatic and practical, and which push only self-evident truths. Such churches are only the pillar and grond of truth. Give the world snch churches and the religious creed will soon cease to be nnpopular."—Rev. David Gregg, Presbyterian, Brooklyn, N. Y.

We have the promise somewhere in the book of Holy Writ to the effect that the whole world shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, that the mountain of the Lord's house shall be established upon the tops of the monntains, that the "Ransomed of the Lord shall return and come to Zion with songs and everlasting joy npon their heads, and that sorrow and sadness shall all flee away." The blessed old volume abounds with promises concerning the establishment and enlargement of the great Chnrch, which shall be "Glorious and without spot or wrinkle or any such thing." The future Church will exalt our Christ. It will seek to establish His truth and righteousness in the earth, and bnilt as it is upon "the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ himself being the chief corner-stone," its success is assnred. There is, in fact, room in the world for no other.

"Sure as thy truth shall last to Zion shall be given;
The brighter glories earth can yield and brighter bliss of heaven."

WELL SAID.

The Knoxville (Tenn.) Gleaner is responsible for the following bit of wisdom:

"The idea very prevalent among white people, and some few colored, that the colored man does not read newspapers is a mistaken one, and that the best method through which to inform them is the pulpit, is equally untrne. We do not presume to say that there are chnrch-goers who don't read any newspapers, for there are, bnt we do say that the efficient element in the Church, and those who would and do control public sentiment in the race are those men and women who read newspapers and who go to chnrch also."

Oh, yes, it goes without saying that the better class of our people read the papers and go to church also. And further, if they would pnt into practice what they hear and read they would be immensely better off in very many respects.

—James C. Matthews, colored recorder of deeds at Washington nnder President Cleveland's first administration, was last week elected jndge of the recorder's court in the city of Albany, N. Y. The office carries with it the powers of a Snpreme Conrt Justice. He was nominated and elected on the regular Democratic ticket by a majority of over 2,000. It is the highest judicial office ever held by a man of his race in this conntry. Mr. Matthews is to be congratnlated on secnring that which no other Negro has secnred up to date. He had a majority of 2,000. Surely the world moves. Bnt we do not anticipate an exodus of Repnblican Negroes to the Democracy.

—TO THE LOUISIANIANS—A POINTER.—Rev. H. C. Wilson, of Hubertville, La., has sent in eleven cash snbscribers this year. Can any pastor in the conference beat that? We will await an answer.

Hanson Talbett, of precieus memery. May 14, 1867, he enlisted in the United States Army, where he served three years, being henorably discharged in 1870. After which he went to Colnmbns, Texas, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church on prohation. In addition te bis pastoral work, he has taught scheel for several years and bas thus been helpful to his fellowmen. He is an able preacher and keeps in tench with the vital questions ef the day by reading and study. He was happily married to Miss Anna Billnps in 1878. Four excellent children are the resnlt of this uniou. Sister Smith takes the lead in religious and social matters in the district, and the work thereby is greatly advanced.

The Colnmbus District, nnder the strong leadership of Brother Smith, is doing geod work for God and the Chnrch, and is one in which the SOUTHWESTERN is largely circulated.

Nervous Prostration

Complete Recovery by the Use of

Ayer's Sarsaparilla

"Some years ago, as a result of too close attention to business, my health failed. I became weak, nervous, was unable to look after my interests, and manifested all the symptoms of a decline. I took three bottles of Ayer's Sarsaparilla, began to improve at once, and gradually increased my weight from one hundred and twenty-five to two hundred pounds. Since then, I and my family have used this medicine when needed, and we are all in the best of health, a fact which we attribute to Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I believe my children would have been fatherless to-day had it not been for Ayer's Sarsaparilla, of which preparation I cannot say too much."—H. O. HINSON, Postmaster and Planter, Kinard's, S. C.

Epworth League College Day.

To the Chapters of the Epworth League:

Friday, Nov. 29, has been set apart as Epworth League College Day. Then, or on some other convenient day of the same week, a meeting should be held in every chapter of the Epworth League to attract the attention of the young men and women of the Church to our Methodist Colleges. Catalogues of our various academies, colleges and universities should be circulated, addresses made on the value of a collegiate education and the advantages of attendance upon our denominational schools set forth. Invitations should be extended to Methodist college alumni to point out the schools which by reason of denominational control, location, equipment and endowment should be attended. Go to college should be the one theme for the assembly.

A program has been prepared under the direction of the General Cabinet and published by the Book Concern, but if chapters do not wish to undergo the slight expense attaching to its use, a program should at once be improvised by the proper local committee. Let every chapter observe Epworth League College Day, Friday, Nov. 29, or some other day of that week. JAMES N. FITZGERALD, Pres't.
EDWIN A. SCHELL, Gen'l Sec'y.

Children's Day Collections Needed.

The next meeting of the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be held at the office in New York, 150 Fifth avenue, Dec. 4. As November closes the fiscal year of the Board, it is of great importance that all monies raised for the Board last Children's Day should be sent immediately to the secretary at New York in accordance with the requirements of the Discipline. It is hoped that the brethren in the spring conferences especially will give kindly heed to this request and not retain their money until the session of their conference next spring. Such a course prevents the money being credited in the year in which it was raised and keeps it from the large number of needy and worthy applicants who are now appealing to the Board for help.

All subscriptions to the SOUTHWESTERN for 1896 will include the paper for the balance of this year free.

Publishers' Announcement.

The Literature of Theology—A New and Important Work by Bishop Hurst.

We have just issued Bishop Hurst's new work, The Literature of Theology. It is a classified bibliography of theological and general religious literature, and has been long in preparation. In 1882 his Bibliotheca Theologica appeared. That work was never stereotyped, and is now out of print. It was the first work in English to give a scientific classification of theological and religious literature, according to the departments. With that work as a suggestion, rather than a basis, the author has developed the same ideas into this new complete and exhaustive volume.

It is an octavo of about 750 pages, in the best style. It is supplied with two copious indexes. As a guide for the selection of the best books in theology and general religious literature it should go into the library of every minister, of every Sunday school teacher, of every Epworth League worker, and indeed into every Christian home. It comes down to date, and even gives the prices at which all desirable books on every given topic can be bought. This work as a whole is the result of great labor, and is one of the most important contributions to our Christian literature that has appeared for many years. HUNT & EATON.

By order and in behalf of the Board of Bishops.
EDWARD G. ANDREWS, Secretary.

Bishop Goodsell holds the European conferences, and Bishop Foss the Japan, China and Korean conferences.

The market is full of cough mixtures, but one trouble with most of them is that when they do a little good the patient has to take so much that he gets to loathe the taste. The Pineola Balsam is superior to other cough remedies because it is agreeable to the palate and its good effects are immediate. In a few days an ordinary cough is gone altogether. Bronchitis and asthma are more stubborn, but they too are cured by Ely's Pineola Balsam. A remedy worth trying. Twenty-five cents is all it costs.

An Important Notice—Tennessee Conference.

Dear Brethren of the Tennessee Conference—I have had your minutes at the press for twelve days looking around for money to pay for them. We raised $56 at the conference, and one dollar has been paid since making $57, and the minutes will cost $100. The publisher says that the secretary has so much more in the minutes this year than last that he cannot do it for less than $100. The vote of the conference was: The supplies of the conference should pay one dollar or the presiding elders should pay it, but I have not received any money from them; but a few of the supplies, and the most of them on Brother L. M. Moores' District. All the traveling preachers have paid one dollar but three or four, and I have on the roll twenty-seven supplies that have not paid. Now you can see if I had that money I would have had $84, and the minutes would have been out of the press to-day and on their way to you. But instead of that I had to stop and borrow money enough to make out $75 before the publisher would do anything. But they will be out in ten days. Will the presiding elders please send the supplies money?

E. W. S. HAMMOND, D. D., EDITOR.

AGAINST MOB LAW.

The Christian Advocate, Nashville, Tenn., notwithstanding intimations that its constant denunciation of mob law might become wearisome to its readers, has made up its mind to go right on and "Fight it out on that line if it takes twenty years." Our esteemed friend (the editor) means just what he says. No man will ever accuse Editor Hoss with cowardice. He has convictions and the courage of them also. Here is a sample:

"Believing as we do in the Divine authority of civil government, we have no course left us but to oppose with all our might the reckless and fatal policy of putting human beings to death without the forms and processes of fair trial. Are the people of this country prepared to throw away the heritage of civilization, and to go back to the penal methods of Comanche savages?"

"Let it be added that in all cases the only proper thing to be done is to proceed according to the forms of law. And no man should be made to suffer till his guilt has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of a competent tribunal. Those who take it upon themselves to execute vengeance without preliminary investigation and fair trial, are murderers, and nothing else."

The suggestion that there are those within the patronizing territory of the Advocate who are supposed to grow weary of its brave and pungent denunciation of mob law, is evidence of their disposition to condone the offenses of these red-handed murderers who despise the courts and trample the laws under their feet; and no marvel when, as that stanuch and uncompromising friend of human rights, the Northern Christian Advocate, says in a recent issue: "We are assured that some of those who, by motions and postures, signify their approval of the barbarous immolation of a human being, are members of some Southern churches." The good Doctor Hoss is right: those people who take the law in their own hands and undertake to execute vengeance without investigation and fair trial, are "murderers, and nothing else;" and all who understand the situation as we do down here, will add that the people who aid, abet and encourage those who do such things, either by voice or pen, sentiment, gesture, "motion or posture," are but little less guilty than those whom they thus encourage, church members or not church members. We are thankful to Almighty God that there are other Southern editors who are determined to "fight it out on this line" also. The Advocate has indeed uttered brave and helpful words, and we could heartily wish that our genial and esteemed confrere could feel as we do—that the institutions of comparisons between the supposed chief actors in these crimes, which are the worst conceivable, and the character of their really innocent victims, when spread upon the pages of such an influential journal as the Advocate, has a tendency to inflame the public mind, thereby disturbing the delicate poise of the scale which must inevitably prevent the exact administration of justice. Moreover, they minify to some extent the strong utterance made by the great official in favor of the supremacy of law. The SOUTHWESTERN cheerfully seconds the noble appeal of the Advocate, "to all those who have the ears of the Negroes in this country, and beg them to throw the full weight of their influence against the repitition of these diabolical assaults upon white women." We favor this plea with all our heart. But we would respectfully call attention to the fact that colored women are as frequently assaulted as are white women, and probably moreso. And the offenders are not always Negroes. For obvious reasons, but little public attention is paid to such occurrences. We would go further, and have such a healthy condition of moral sentiment that white women and black women would be absolutely safe in any community from the hands of either the white or black brutes. We believe that such a condition is possible, and that public indignation will be just as intense against an offender in white as against one in black. We regret that it is not now possible. We would like to call the attention of all who are really solicitous for the changing of these conditions to the fact that there are multitudes of colored people in nearly every community throughout the South who have been touched by the uplifting and helpful influences of the higher Christian civilization. The schools and other institutions instituted by those noble-hearted people, who saw the image of God in His ebony-hued children, have played no small part in bringing about results which must be gratifying to every unprejudiced person. That these people are working in the face of almost overwhelming odds to redeem their wayward brethren, no faithful student of their history will deny. Fortunately their ears and their hearts can be reached. If the voices which shall arouse them to increased activity and zeal in the uplifting of their brethren shall come from among those who profess to know them best, and who because of that knowledge, shall act the part of the "Good Samaritan" well. But the Pharisee who boasts of his righteousness, and at the same time binds heavy burdens upon men's backs which he would not touch; and the Levite who so stands upon his traditional exclusiveness that he cannot recognize in his neighbor the poor fellow that had fallen among thieves, do not represent the Negro's needed friends.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The constant goodness and forbearance of Almighty God, which have been vouchsafed to the American people during the year which is just past, call for their sincere acknowledgement of devout gratitude. To the end, therefore, that we may with thankful hearts unite in extolling the loving care of our Heavenly Father, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the 28th day of the present month of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, to be kept and observed by all our people. On that day let us forego our usual occupation, and in our accustomed places of worship join in rendering thanks to the Giver of every good and perfect gift for the bounteous returns that have rewarded our labors in the fields and in the busy marts of trade, for the peace and order that have prevailed throughout the land, for our protection from pestilence and dire calamity, and for the other blessings that have been showered upon us from an open hand. And with our thanksgiving, let us humbly beseech the Lord to so incline the hearts of our people unto him that he will not leave us nor forsake us as a nation, but will continue to us his mercy and protecting care, guiding us in the path of national prosperity and happiness, endowing us with rectitude and virtue and keeping alive within us a patriotic love for the free institutions which have been given to us as our national heritage. And let us also on the day of our thanksgiving especially remember the poor and needy, and by deeds of charity let us show the sincerity of our gratitude.

By the President: GROVER CLEVELAND.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Question 1.—If a local preacher is accused of some crime, or a rumor is afloat about him, and an investigation is to be made, where should the investigation be made?

2. Would it be right for the investigating committee to go where the offense is said to have been committed to look after the matter?

3. Can a preacher in charge try a member, the church not being represented at such trial?

4. Would it be right for all parties concerned in the investigation to meet at the place where the rumor started?

5. If a preacher in charge commits a crime, for which he is to be tried, the crime having been committed in his pastoral charge, where should the presiding elder try him?

Answer 1.—Wherever the cause of justice will be best advanced. It may be found necessary to have an investigation at the place where the offense is said to have been committed. A wise, judicious presiding officer can be trusted to determine these matters. But the accused has the right to ask for a change, when, in his judgment, he believes that a fair and impartial investigation cannot be held in the place where the offense is said to have been committed.

2. Certainly, if the facts cannot be obtained otherwise. There should be no objection against taking all the necessary steps to secure a full, fair and impartial investigation.

3. No. Every accused member has the right of a trial by a committee of his peers. The committee may not be members of a quarterly conference, but they must hold membership in some regularly organized Methodist Episcopal Church.

4. See answer first.

5. A presiding elder has no right to try a preacher in charge. If a preacher in charge, who is also a member of an annual conference, is under report of being guilty of some crime expressly forbidden in the Word of God, sufficient to exclude a person from the kingdom of grace and glory, in the interval of the sessions of the annual conference, the presiding elder shall call a committee of members of the conference who shall have power to investigate such reports at such a place as may be deemed best by the presiding elder. But in the case of local preachers or probationers in the annual conferences or supplies appointed by the presiding elders, the preacher in charge or the presiding elder (see Discipline, paragraphs 229 and 230) shall proceed against the accused as directed.

Question.—Is there any specific law in our Church Discipline against members going to a theater to see some standard play, such as Shakespeare's "Hamlet," etc.?

Answer.—The theater comes under the head of that class of diversions which cannot be used in the name of the Lord Jesus. It is strange, nevertheless true, that there is a difference of opinion on the part of ministers and laymen of our Church with regard to theater-going. In our judgment, it is certainly an evidence of moral weakness when the professed followers of Jesus not only cannot resist the temptation to indulge in this questionable diversion, but who are continually trying to get their consciences up to the sticking point that they may do that which is interdicted with impunity. As to the standard plays mentioned, it is to be regretted that professing Christians who have a desire to witness them cannot do so without bringing a reproach upon their profession, as long as the modern theater stands for what it does. The learned Dr. John Hall, in one of his lectures before the students of Yale Divinity School, made use of the following language which should be reasonably safe guide in such matters:

"All the evidence I have seen yet is to the effect that, whatever its abstract powers might be, the theater is, in point of fact, mischievous on the whole. The best evidence of its effect is that the pure plays cannot get players or spectators. Those of Shakespeare are, it is alleged, kept on the stage at a ruinous cost. The average play-goer must have his moral teaching at the theater highly spiced, and increasingly so from year to year. So I never go, never advise any to go, am sorry when I hear of Christians going, and think a minister's usefulness in danger from going."

On the whole, the theater should be avoided prayerfully, conscientiously and persistently.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—The sweet little girl that came to the editor's home a short time ago is doing well. Already she has given evidence of her ability to manipulate things, and everybody in the home, fore and aft, have given her the right of way. We are trying to bear our joy, and receive the many congratulations that are coming in with becoming gratefulness.

—Rev. C. D. Crockett, of the South Louisiana District, has been assisting Dr. Albert in holding some of his quarterly conferences. He visited Slidell, Shady Grove, Franklinton and Mandeville, where he preached and rendered excellent service. He also did good work for the SOUTHWESTERN. Like his namesake, "Davy Crockett," he believes in making things go. He gave the office a pleasant visit last week.

—We are indebted to Rev. L. J. S. Bell for a brief report of the late Ministers' Theological Institute, held at Meridian, Miss. There was a large attendance of pastors. Rev. A. M. Trotter, P. E., conducted the institute. The full course of study was systematically arranged. The preachers visited Meridian Academy, and were highly pleased with the work under Principal J. L. Wilson, A. B., B. D., and faculty. The outlook is said to be very promising.

We are informed that Rev. J. F. Cox, late a member of the Louisiana Conference of the A. M. E. Church, has recently become a member of Wesley M. E. Church of this city.

One of the most expensive books ever published will be "The Life of Christ," soon to be issued at Tours, France. It will have nearly four hundred illustrations reproduced in color from the paintings by James Tissot, upon the production of which the artist has been engaged for the past ten years. The first twenty copies of the book will sell for $1,000 each, and the remaining copies, 990 in all, for $300 each. The publishers ask no less than $12 for a single specimen illustration. By a special concession from the artist and publishers to The Century, that magazine will be enabled to reproduce twelve of the choicest of these pictures in its Christmas number.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

Lafon Old Folks' Home—The Corner-Stone Laid With Impressive Ceremonies.

Quite a representative gathering met at the new building in process of erection on the occasion of the laying of the corner-stone of the Lafon Old Folks' Home. Among those present were Rev. J. W. Hilton, E. W. S. Hammond, D. D., editor of the SOUTHWESTERN; A. E. P. Albert, D. D., vice president of Gilbert Seminary; Revs. J. F. Marshall, S. Priestley, T. G. Montgomery, T. J. Johnson, William Davis, Frank Walker, W. R. Butler, H. Taylor, J. H. Burrell, J. H. Pierre, J. F. Cox, E. Baptiste, J. W. Hudson, D. J. Price and D. W. Boatner.

The ceremonies were imposing, full of inspiration, and will be a historical epoch in the history of Methodism in New Orleans.

J. W. Hilton, president of the board, opened the exercises by announcing Presiding Elder Marshall as master of ceremonies. He introduced Rev. T. G. Montgomery, who read hymn No. 776, which was sung by the assemblage. Rev. Wm. Davis then invoked the blessing of the Almighty. The Simpson Chapel choir then rendered "The Savior Precious." Rev. J. W. Hudson, in the absence of Rev. D. J. Price, read Psalm 132.

Then the sermon of the occasion was delivered by Dr. A. E. P. Albert from the following portions of Scripture: Matthew xi, 5; I Peter ii, 6. The sermon was a strong presentation of the Christian religion as a promoter of institutions of benevolence. The speaker briefly contrasted the Christian with other religions, identifying Christian benevolence with the highest civilization.

Rev. Stephen Priestley then gave at length the history of the movement, taking in those who gave means, time and encouragement in order to bring this work to its present stage. He was interesting in his reminiscences.

Dr. E. W. S. Hammond delivered a brief, but much enjoyed, address. Rev. Pierre Landry, the builder, then spoke in eloquent strain. By a happy allusion to the ladies he won an ovation in closing.

Rev. Burrell, of the Baptist connection, then bade his hearers "go ahead."

A liberal collection was taken. The corner-stone laying proper then took place, conducted by Rev. F. McCary, assisted by Revs. F. Walker, D. W. Boatner, J. F. Cox. Benediction by Rev. J. W. Hudson.

Rev. A. E. P. Albert, D. D., acting president of Gilbert Academy, gave the office a pleasant call last week, and spoke very hopefully of his work which is improving grandly.

Revs. Frank Walker, J. W. Hilton and J. F. Marshall, P. E., were among the welcome visitors last week.

Italy greeted our office last week in the persons of Rev. Giuseppe Vital, late of the Italy Conference, and now pastor of our Italian church here, and Brother A. Palmisano of this city. They are royal Christian brethren, and are cordially welcomed into our Methodist circle.

Rev. D. G. Butler, pastor of Pleasant Plains M. E. Church, this city, was the recipient of a magnificent surprise recently. Quite a large number of members and friends called at the parsonage, leaving over two hundred pounds of valuable and serviceable articles. Pastor and wife are very happy indeed.

W. H. M. Society.

The reception given on Wednesday night at Wesley Chapel on Liberty street, this city, by the ladies of the Woman's Home Missionary Society, considering the inclemency of the weather, was in every way an agreeable affair. The reception was given in honor of the superintendent and industrial teacher of Peck Memorial Home, and the return of the delegate, Mrs. D. C. Mead, from the late annual meeting of the W. H. M. Society, held at Columbus, Ohio; also the lady who attended the meeting with her, Rev. Mrs. Frank Walker. Special invitations had been sent to each pastor and wife of the several churches in the city, and to each auxiliary, so there was a large attendance. Religious exercises; singing hymn, "A Charge to Keep I Have;" prayer by Rev. D. J. Price; the pastor, Rev. T. J. Johnson, in a short but pointed address welcomed the ladies to old historic Wesley Chapel (better known as old Saint Paul) in the name of the Lord and for his cause; Miss E. Johnson delivered the welcome address for Wesley Chapel Auxiliary; Mrs. A. Lavigne was to have given the response, but she being absent, Miss N. Williams, the teacher of Wesley Chapel H. M. School, favored the audience with a solo. Mrs. D. C. Mead, the delegate, addressed the meeting, telling of her visit and relating some of the things she learned while attending the annual meeting that was necessary for the advancement of the work here. Mrs. F. Walker next read an account of her trip in company with Mrs. Mead, she stated that it had been an expensive one, but that she had been benefitted in every way, and feels more enthusiasm about the work and thinks that much good can be accomplished. Misses Hickman and Gibson of Peck Memorial Home and Dr. L. G. Adkinson spoke in the interest of Peck Home. Dr. Adkinson asked that special prayers be offered for Peck Memorial Home and for New Orleans University. Simpson Chapel choir and the young choir of Wesley Chapel rendered sweet music. After the program had been gone through with, everyone went over to the hall adjoining the Church, where refreshments were served consisting of ice cream, cake and fruit. After all a good time was had; and as Dr. Adkinson remarked, although it was raining and disagreeable on the outside, it was all sunshine on the inside.

Paris District Conference.

The twelfth session of the Paris District Conference was held at Clarksville, Tex., October 24-28, Rev. C. C. Minegan presiding. Rev. W. Hartley Jackson was elected secretary, with Revs. P. Prewett, M. C. Dawson and W. B. Gasby as assistants. Rev. P. L. Jackson was elected statistical secretary, and Rev. Lewis Woodard conference treasurer. Rev. I. B. Scott, D. D., president of W. U., was introduced, and addressed the conference in behalf of the university; he also lectured to a crowded house at night. Rev. C. C. Minegan is a good presiding officer. Good sermons were preached by Revs. Wm. White, Samuel Heneycut, M. C. Gillispie. Sunday was a glorious day; Sunday School services at 8:30 a. m., and at 10 a. m., Fathers L. Woodard and Daniel Battle, Sr., conducted the conference love feast; it was a pentecostal shower. At 3 p. m., Rev. P. Prewett preached, and 125 communed. Rev. H. R. Smith also preached. Collection during conference session was $67.50. Considering the hard times, the pastors made grand reports. The SOUTHWESTERN was remembered and many cheering remarks were made in its favor. Revs. Wm. White, E. M. Alexander, Wm. Beckernall and V. M. Cole, Jr., were recommended for admission on trial in the annual conference. Total number of full members on the district, 1,650; probationers and conversions, 185; adults baptized, 150, and children, 62; raised for missions, $117.20. The district is doing a grand work in spite of the hard times. Pray for us. Fraternally yours,

The Woman's Home Missionary Society.

Held at Columbus, Ohio, October 16, 1895

On Sunday morning the pulpits of Columbus were, with few exceptions, occupied by members of the society, and interesting addresses made upon its different fields of work.

On Sunday afternoon a large concourse of people assembled at Wesley Chapel for the meeting devoted to the consideration of young people's work in charge of the secretary of that bureau, Mrs. W. A. Ingham. Excellent addresses were made by a number of speakers and much enthusiasm created.

The address of the anniversary meeting on Sunday evening was given by Mrs. Henry Wade Rogers. Among other excellent things she said: "The Woman's Home Missionary Society has done a great and good work, North and South, East and West, in the cities and on the frontiers, in town and country, among black and white, yellow and red races in our country. It has taught and visited, worked and prayed faithfully, saved many souls both for this world and the next, lightened many burdens, and helped to preserve a Christian civilization in our conglomerate nation. But there are broader opportunities, greater and more far-reaching undertakings lying just before the society and beckoning it to larger and nobler work for God and humanity. To-night the message I bring you is a call to this larger work, an appeal to you, and through you to the womanhood of the Church, to go forward with redoubled energy and consecration to meet the new opportunities of this new time. The work of the Woman's Home Missionary Society is two-fold to Christianize the needy and unsaved, especially women and children; and to do this by arousing and enlisting the women of the Church for active Christian work. I need not dwell on the importance, the vital necessity, of Christian work for the sinful and the suffering. The patriot and the Christian sees the dangers which threaten our modern society to-day. He appreciates the necessity of civilizing and transforming the multitude of people living almost as heathen in our midst. The city's slums, the country's indifference, the evils of the newly settled regions, of the lumbering and mining camps, the rudeness, poverty and immorality of life in certain regions of the South, are all familiar to you, and have called you together in this annual meeting to devise ways and means for their relief, to seek to let in light upon this darkness. The earnest desire of every heart here is to find the way to a wider usefulness, to a speedier salvation and regeneration of the multitudes living in darkness. We each believe heartily that the power exists in God, and the forces or energy in man and society to regenerate society, if we but knew how to use those forces. May not our society become a larger factor in using the forces that make for righteousness. The demoralization of our great cities, socially, politically and spiritually, and the poverty, misery and discontent of vast numbers who live in them, is the most marked feature of the social organism of our time. That the Church fails to reach these unsaved multitudes is a remarkable and deplorable fact admitted everywhere. No religious conference assembles without discussing the question, "How shall the Church reach and uplift the masses and thus regenerate society?" Mr. Moody said a few years ago, and it is still true—"The gulf between the Church and the masses is growing deeper, wider and darker every hour." Careful estimates show that more than half of the entire population of our country, or about 32,000,000 people, never attend any church service, Protestant or Roman Catholic, and that it is upon the working man and the farmers that the Church has lost its hold. It has lost its hold because it has got so far from the Christianity of Christ. But we may not forget the wonderful growth of the altruistic spirit which marks our time, the eager longing to see humanity uplifted, the many successful efforts toward this, and the discontent with the Church's slow accomplishment of its great mission. All these are born of the Christ spirit, are the beautiful fruit of Christianity and of the preaching of it among men. And I call upon you to-night to awake to the immense opportunities and responsibilities of our society. It may be ours to lead the Church into new and wider ways of reaching the needy people, it may be ours to be the medium of communication and interpretation between the poor and churchless and the rich and favored. It may be ours to teach the lesson of the brotherhood of man, and that the service of mankind is a true worship of God. Our society may follow Christ's method in dealing with present day realities and inciting the whole Church to do this. We do this now very largely in working for and talking about the actual condition and needs of suffering and needy people, and our personal responsibility for them, whether in frozen Alaska, the one-roomed Southern cabin, or in the slums of our great cities. We cannot do this larger work, nor inspire others to do it, without being filled with the Christ spirit ourselves, first of all, above all. We must be emptied of self and selfishness and become the instruments through which the spirit of Christ works in the world for the saving of men."

The elections held on Monday resulted in the election of Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk as president, Mrs. R. S. Rust as corresponding secretary, Mrs. F. A. Aiken as recording secretary, and Mrs. J. W. Mendenhall as treasurer. All the ladies who have so faithfully served the society in the past received most hearty thanks for the service rendered and pledges of loyalty to them on the part of the society. The managers elected were as follows: Mmes. Anna Kent, G. H. Thompson, N. L. Boswell, W. C. Herron, I. D. Jones, Ampt, J. W. Gosling, J. L. Whetstone, Earl Cranston, A. R. Clark, Joseph Thorne and W. A. Goodman, Jr. The following ladies were elected as provisional managers: Mmes. J. M. King, Geo. W. Mansfield, Samuel Hamilton, E. L. Albright, H. M. Teller, J. P. Negus, Henry Wade Rogers. Mmes. James Dale, Geo. Thompson and Mr. Richard Dymond were appointed auditors, and Mr. Wm. Boyd legal adviser of the society. Mrs. H. C. McCabe was elected editor of "Woman's Home Missions," and Miss Belle Evans publisher. Miss Fish was elected editor of the Annual Report.

The need of a children's paper was so strongly felt that it was decided to publish a monthly paper at ten cents a year, and a guarantee fund of $465 was immediately pledged.

Mrs. E. Marcy, chairman of the Leaflet Committee, reported that 79,895 leaflets and 2056 pamphlets had been distributed during the year. Interesting conferences were held each morning under the direction of Mrs. Ingham for the discussion of work among young people.

An invitation given by President Canfield of the Ohio State University to visit that institution as a body was accepted. A short session was held in the chapel, at which Dr. Scott and others made addresses, to which a response was made by Mrs. H. C. McCabe.

Mrs. Simpson gave an encouraging report of the work among the Indians of New Mexico, Mrs. Maroy of the work of the Bohemian Mission, Mrs. Spurlock of the work of the Mother's Jewels' Home, Mrs. George of the work of the Watts de Peyster Home, and Miss Matthews of the Immigrant Home at New York.

The secretary of the Bureau for Local Work, Mrs. D. L. Williams, reported an expenditure of $8,420.07 in miscellaneous lines of missionary work not reported elsewhere.

Mrs. Jane Bancroft Robinson, secretary of the Bureau for Deaconess Work, reported twenty-one established homes and gifts of valuable property for this use. An earnest plea had been sent for the establishment of a home at Honolulu showing that the influence of this work was extending, not only from ocean to ocean, but far out to the isles of the sea. The National Deaconess Convention held at Ocean Grove brought together a large number of representative workers who formulated a petition asking that cities and towns having a deaconess home in their bounds be permitted to use one half of the membership dues raised in these cities. This privilege was granted them by the Board of Managers.

The report of the secretary of the Bureau of Supplies, Mrs. James Dale, abounded in pathetic incidents occurring in this department of work, and the story of this line of work in the California Conference, as given by Mrs. Welch, elicited both tears and laughter. During the year this bureau has distributed $113,122.95 in supplies, and $220 to cases where only money would be of help.

On Tuesday evening, Rev. Newell Albright, D. D., made a most excellent address. He spoke of this nation as a missionary people in both religious and political affairs. He said it was evident that America Christianized means the world Christianized, and that any temporary defeat in America's great problem of civilization and self-government means a delay of the world's evangelization for many centuries.

The hearth-stone is the corner-stone of civilization, and the world's redemption lies in the elevation and Christianization of the home. Then no civilization can be better than that found in the home. All national decay begins in the home, and all national vigor must root itself there. And again no home can be better than the woman who presides in it. The mother is the great trainer of American citizenship.

With great eloquence the speaker pictured the poverty, ignorance and vice that exists to-day in our civilization, and showed how all things tend to their lowest level and so-called attention to the results that must follow. He concluded by appealing to the Church to go into the homes of the poor, the ignorant, the vicious, with the Gospel, and so elevate them to higher aims and ambitions.

The closing hours of the convention were given to the discussion of proposed changes in the constitution and by-laws, and the unfinished business referred to the General Executive Board.

Resolutions of thanks for the abundant hospitality of the city and unnumbered courtesies from many people were passed, and the convention adjourned.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 8, 1895.

David and Goliath.

[1. Sam. 17. 38-51.]

GOLDEN TEXT.—"The battle is the Lord's. (1. Sam. 17. 47.)

About the time David was anointed king over Israel, the Spirit of the Lord departed from Saul, and an evil spirit possessed him. David was called to play on the harp, and if possible drive away the "blue devils." He did so, "and the evil spirits departed from him." David returned to Bethlehem, and for some time kept his father's flocks. After a while the Philistines made war on the children of Israel. Saul collected an army and went out to fight against them. The two armies were camped on two mountains; and the valley of Elah was between them. This battle was fought about twelve miles southwest of Jerusalem. A champion of the Philistines, by the name of Goliath, came down into the valley every day to defy the army of Israel. He was about ten feet high, wore a helmet of brass, and a coat of mail. His armor weighed about two hundred pounds. The staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam. He called for a man of Israel to come down into the valley and fight him. Saul and the children of Israel were dismayed and filled with fear. About this time David went from Bethlehem to carry some parched corn and loaves of bread to his brothers who were in Saul's army. He saw this Philistine, and heard his challenge. He said to Saul—"Let no man's heart fail because of him: thy servant will go and fight with this Philistine." The king discouraged him, but he would not hearken. He told how God had delivered him out of the paw of a lion, and He would protect him from the hand of Goliath. In this lesson we have the weapons of David, the dialogue between him and the Philistine, and the death of Goliath.

I. The weapons of David (38-40). 1. The work of Saul—"And Saul armed David with his armor." The king was much larger than David. This armor may have been buckled up, or it may have belonged to Jonathan. (1) "He put a helmet of brass upon his head." This David did not need for his head was already covered with hope, the helmet of salvation. (2) "He also armed him with a coat of mail." Literally, "A coat of scales." It was a loose shirt, made of small plates of brass, that overlaped one another like the scales of a fish, or the shingles of a roof. This David did not need, for his entire body was covered with "the breast-plate of righteousness." (3) "And David girded his sword upon his armor." This was the sword of Saul, and was likely large and unwieldy. He had no use for it. The Word of God—here the Divine impression made on his mind—is the sword of the Spirit, and all the youthful warrior needed at this time. When he was thus armed with the brazen helmet, the coat of mail, and the sword of Saul, he began to walk, but soon found he could do nothing with them. He had never before worn such an armor, and it was in his way. He cast it off. We should never fight with weapons with which we are unfamiliar.

2. The weapons of David. (1) "He took his staff in his hand." This he did, not to fight with, but to deceive Goliath. The shepherd's rod was used as an instrument of correction, and of support. It may represent the law and the Gospel; the one corrects and the other supports the saint. (2) "He chose him five smooth stones out of the brook." He knew God would give him the victory, yet he did not know just how many stones he would need. Their smoothness enabled them to pass straight, and without noise, through the air. The smooth words of the Gospel often slay unto sin and make alive unto God. (3) "And his sling was in his hand." The sling was made of a leather thong, broad in the center and narrow at the ends. In using it a stone was placed in the middle, the person held to the ends, flung it over his head, and then let go one string. A skilled warrior could thus throw a stone with great force and exactness (Judges 20. 16). These instruments prove that David was trusting in the Lord, and not in the weapons he used.

II. The dialogue (41-47). 1. Goliath. (1) His approach—"He came on and drew near unto David." A man bearing his shield went before him. Goliath was very great in his own sight, but little in the eyes of the Lord. His appearance sent fear, dread and terror through the heart of his foes. Woe unto a man when all men fear him. He will soon be killed. (2) His spirit—When he saw David "he disdained him." He had a haughty contempt for him. He felt there would be no glory in killing such a foe. Those who think very highly of themselves usually think but little of others. "Pride goeth before destruction, and an haughty spirit before a fall." (3) His words. a. "Am I a dog?" Am I the most worthless of all the lower animals? It is likely David kept his sling out of sight, and that Goliath saw only his staff, and supposed this was all the youth had with which to fight him. This shows tact on the part of David. He threw the champion off his guard. b. He "cursed David by his gods." Not all that passed between them has been given. The words of this curse were not put on record. It is likely he called down the maledictions of all the idols of the Philistines upon him. c. "Come to me and I will give thy flesh to the fowls of the air." I will kill you, and leave you in the field, then will come the vultures, and jackals, and devour you. Such boastful language was then, and is to-day, very common. David soon indulged in a similar expression. What we are going to do and what we really perform are often very different.

2. David. (1) His spirit—"I come to thee in the name of the Lord of hosts." Goliath came trusting in his sword, spear and shield, but David met him in the strength of Israel's God. He was not self-confident, but put his trust in the Lord. He felt like St. Paul—"I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me." (2) His faith—"The Lord will deliver thee into my hands." It is well when entering upon any great work to believe we will succeed. Yet something more than faith is necessary to success. David had perfect confidence in God, yet he used all the wisdom, skill and strength he had to execute His plan. Great is the mystery of free will and free grace. (3) The effect on others—"All this assembly shall know that the Lord saveth not with sword and spear." The assembly means both armies. They would know the Lord saved because weakness would triumph over strength. Every advantage seemed to be on the side of Goliath. But "the race is not to the swift, nor the battle to the strong." Victory is "not by might, nor by power, but by my spirit, saith the Lord of hosts."

III. The death of Goliath (48-51). 1. The meeting. When the dialogue was over Goliath arose and came to meet David with great pomp and gravity. He likely thought he would make quick work of him. As he drew near David ran to meet him. There was no cowardice, no timidity, no unbelief, in the heart of the young warrior. 2. The conflict. David placed a stone in the sling and threw it with such skill and force that it struck, and buried itself, in the Philistine's forehead. This was the only exposed vital part. The champion fell forward to the ground. David ran, drew the giant's sword, and hacked off his head. This was a complete victory. It looks as though David did it all. Yet I clearly see the miraculous hand of Jehovah back of it. This was a typical victory, and teaches how the people of God will finally triumph over the world. As a result of this victory the Philistines fled, and the Israelites, with a great shout, pursued. Many fell. Saul slayed his thousands, but David his tens of thousands.

Twelfth General Conference District.

To the presiding elders and pastors of the Twelfth General Conference District embracing the following conferences, Central Missouri, Arkansas, Little Rock, Mississippi, Upper Mississippi, Tennessee, Central Alabama, Louisiana, Texas, West Texas and Austin:

As your General Conference representative, dear brethren, I am authorized by the secretary of the committee of General Conference entertainment to appeal to you by this method to urge an immediate collection of the General Conference expenses. We would for safety suggest that you at once apportion to each member and friends of the Church five cents each. Now, dear brethren, as members of the Church we cannot fail to raise our pro rata of the General Conference expenses. The expenses will be about $85,000 or $90,000, and your delegates will expect their expenses out of sams; hence you can readily see the urgent need. Let me hear from each presiding elder regarding the matter, as to whether you have or have not raised your apportionment. I pray an answer upon this very important matter. I am yours respectfully,

W. R. R. DUNCAN.

Pine Bluff District.

Dear Brethren—Our time is short; not long, before we must meet again at the seat of the annual conference to report our year's work. It remains to be seen what your work has been. No preacher in our great Methodism can fail to do his duty and get on well in his conference. Remember, now is the time to push these causes. Doubtless you may have put off your collection for this season; if you have, now is the time to rally. We all who have any pride of manhood in us wishes to be up with his claims if not ahead of some others. Oh, how small we look when standing before the conference with having done less than our duty. I remind you that the SOUTHWESTERN will help you as nothing else will. Get subscribers and send them in.

Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The Gunmaker of Ilion.

JEFFERSON M. CLOUGH REFUSES A TEMPTING OFFER FROM THE CHINESE GOVERNMENT.

His Health Was too Poor to Permit Attention to Business—A Great Sufferer for Many Years, But Has Now Recovered.

[From the Springfield, Mass., Union.]

There isn't a gun manufacturer in the United States who does not know Jefferson M. Clough, and why? Because he has been intimately associated all his life with the development of the two best American rifles, the Remington and Winchester. For years he was superintendent of the E. Remington & Sons' great factory at Ilion, N. Y. After leaving there he refused a tempting offer of the Chinese Government to go to China to superintend their government factories,—and accepted instead the superintendency of the Winchester-Arms Co., at a salary of $7,500 a year.

It was after this long term of active labor as a business man that he found himself incapacitated for further service by the embargo which rheumatism had laid upon him and resigned his position more than two years ago, and returned to Belchertown, Mass., where he now lives and owns the Phelps farm, a retired spot where he has five hundred acres of land.

Being a man of means he did not spare the cost and was treated by leading physicians and by baths at celebrated springs without receiving any benefit worth notice. During the summer of 1893 and the winter of 1894 Mr. Clough was confined to his house in Belchertown, being unable to rise from his bed without assistance, and suffering continually with acute pains and with no taste or desire for food, nor was he able to obtain sufficient sleep.

Early in the year 1894 Mr. Clough heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. He began taking these pills about the first of March, 1894, and continued to do so until the first part of September following. The first effect noticed was a better appetite and he began to note more ability to help himself off the bed and to be better generally. Last August (1894) he was able to go alone to his summer residence and farm of 163 acres on Grenadier Island, among the Thousand Islands, in the river St. Lawrence, where from the highest land of his farm he commands a view for 13 miles down the river, and 60 of the Thousand Islands can be seen.

Instead of being confined to his bed Mr. Clough is now, and has been for some time, able to be about the farm to direct the men employed there, and he is thankful for what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have done for him.

These pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., and are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark and wrapper, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and are never sold in bulk. They may be had of all druggists or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company.

—"Samantha at Saratoga," a popular book that has had an enormous sale at $1,50 a copy, will be furnished by us with the SOUTHWESTERN till January, 1897, both for $1.50, all postpaid.

WARMEST THANKS.

Now from the altar of our hearts,
Let warmest thanks arise;
Assist us, Lord, to offer up
Our evening sacrifice.

This day God was our sun and shield,
Our keeper and our guide;
His care was on our weakness shown,
His mercies multiplied.

Minutes and mercies multiplied,
Have made up all this day;
Minutes came quick, but mercies were
More swift and free than they.

New time, new favors, and new joys,
Do a new song require:
Till we shall praise thee as we would,
Accept our hearts' desire.

OUR ANNUAL MEETINGS.

During the last two weeks there have been annual meetings of departments of our Church—The Missionary Committee, Church Extension Board, Freedmen's Aid Board, Sunday School Union and Tract Societies. The meetings have been unusually interesting this year; great interests have been considered, plans formulated for more sweeping spiritual victories, and a general forward movement ordered in all departments of Church work. In another number we will give our readers detailed accounts of all these gatherings so far as they can be obtained. We regret that we were compelled to decline the generous invitation of the Chicago Methodist Social Union to be their guest at the recent entertainment tendered the bishops and others.

GOOD READING.

Our letters from the field are full of interest. All of the forty-seven letters published in last week's paper were interesting, and show that our brethren are making progress. Over eight hundred conversions and accessions are reported. New churches and parsonages are being built, Epworth Leagues organized, and a healthy increase in subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN. These letters come from our work in the following conferences: Mississippi, Upper Mississippi, Florida, Central Alabama, Little Rock, Louisiana, Texas, West Texas, Central Missouri, Savannah and Tennessee. Twenty-three of these letters come from within the bounds of the two Mississippi conferences, from which, up to date, comes the largest increase of subscribers. We call the attention of our readers to these letters, which will furnish some very suggestive facts. It is an old saying that "straws show which way the wind blows." So the list will show to what extent the SOUTHWESTERN is supported.

—Mrs. P. O. Jamison, one of the elect ladies of our Methodism in Mississippi, is in every way an up-to-date woman. She has espoused the cause of the SOUTHWESTERN in a way that is highly gratifying. She led the list last week in sending 13 cash subscribers. She is the wife of Rev. P. O. Jamison, presiding elder of the Starkville District of the Upper Mississippi Conference. We have been thinking down here that some more of our presiding elders ought to encourage their wives and daughters to work a little more for our Church enterprises.

—Rev. Warren McDonald, presiding elder of the Holly Springs District of the Upper Mississippi Conference, informs us that he is yet working for the SOUTHWESTERN, although he has sent in 27 subscribers—ten more than what his pledge called for. Amen.

OUR THANKSGIVING.

The SOUTHWESTERN will probably reach the homes of thousands of our people before the close of the day set apart as National Thanksgiving Day. Of course, our readers will not wait for the arrival of the paper to be reminded of their duty toward God and their fellowmen. It is an inestimable boon to be numbered among those that live, move and have their being among earth's mortals. It is yet a greater boon to be made a subject of the saving grace of the gospel, and to have our souls and bodies and spirits brought into perfect and complete harmony with the word and will of Almighty God.

It is no small privilege to be adopted in the heavenly family and to receive all of the benefits which grow out of that glorious relationship. Then there is the privilege and duty of growing into a well-rounded Christian life, and of comprehending more and more the length and breadth, and height and depth of the love of Christ, and of being "filled with all the fullness of God." What abundant reasons for thanksgiving! But these relations suggest other duties and obligations. There is our duty to the individual. If our profession of religion does not permit us to recognize the relationship which we sustain to our fellow men, we may well conclude it is not the genuine article, for the religion which is from above is "first pure, then peaceable, gentle, and easy to be entreated, full of mercy and good fruits." Hence, our enlarged opportunities for the exercise of mercy and humility, and just and correct living. Our blessed Master set the example. He went about doing good. Let us thank God for the glorious privilege of being like unto His well-beloved Son. Then, there is our duty to the nation. The privilege of being a loyal citizen of this Christian Republic is no small privilege. This day suggests the renewal of our pledges of fidelity to the Union and the constitution, with our prayers for the overthrow of all unrighteous and corrupt legislation which may be directed toward any class of the citizens of our great republic. To the seven and a half millions of Afro-Americans scattered throughout our broad land, the SOUTHWESTERN sends a word of encouragement and would direct the energies and aspirations, and hopes, and ambitions, and activities of our brethren to the Rock of our defense—the mighty God of Jacob. With the threatening and continued apathy of our professed friends; with the consummation of legislative enactments, depriving thousands of our brethren of their political rights; with the continued and easy enactments of odious and discriminating laws, designed to strike down the manhood of the race; with the indifference, if not the downright opposition, of many professing Christian people, and their unwillingness to help in the uplifting of their suffering fellowmortals; with lawless desperadoes, their aiders and abettors seizing suspected Negroes and hurrying them to the most horrible deaths without even the semblance of a trial, it might be asked, "Why should we be thankful?" But, why not? It is indeed a terrible ordeal, this baptism of blood, this unparalled ostracism and race hatred. But it is a discipline, nevertheless; bitter, severe, heartrending, though wholesome, and conducing more and more to the display and exercise of those salient traits of character which will, ere long, commend them to the consideration of all lovers of justice and fair play.

We should be thankful for the privilege of being persecuted for righteousness sake, and for the proud honor of contributing the blood of martyrs as a libation upon the altar of outraged justice. Let us be thankful that God reigns, and that through the darkness His countenance, radiant with smiles, is the promise of a better day. Let us then join with our fellow-citizens in thanksgiving to Almighty God for his manifold blessings upon our native land, and in a spirit of loyal devotion to all its institutions let us ever pray for their perpetuation in righteousness and peace.

A COMPREHENSIVE REPLY.

We rejoice with exceeding great joy that our distinguished confrere of the gallant Northwestern has so effectively replied to the attacks of the Epworth Era, whose sweeping charges would place every Negro in the South with the basest and most disreputable people to be found anywhere. It also seeks to discredit the work of Northern philanthropy, and the united efforts of the Christian Churches in the uplifting of the colored people; while it makes the broad charge that education, even Christian education, has encouraged the Negro to be vicious and law-defying. Dr. Edwards handles the subject with earnestness and ability. The Northwestern exerts a very helpful influence to our cause. We can give only an excerpt, as follows:

"Northern teachings tend to elevate the Negro. We have not taught social equality to either white or black in the North or South. Every man, white or black, must make his own social position. We have preached the Negro's equality before God's law and man's political justice. The Negro is a man, and if he is degenerate he needs and is entitled to the white man's aid, just as a white needs and is entitled. Our Church in the South includes 275,000 colored people, many of whom are in our Epworth League. They are our brethren. They are not 'darkies' nor 'niggers.' They are Christians. They are struggling to rise, and all good men and women will aid them to the utmost. We condemn the Epworth Era's cold-blooded treatment of the subject in hand, and we hope it will be deprecated and rebuked by the Southern Church. Young Negroes in our league are fruits of a 'Northern gospel,' and we have a right to be judged by them, rather than by colored criminals who are lynched, or white criminals who are not. The Era must do some very hard and valuable work, and continue to do it for a long time, before it will be forgiven for the ill judged article which we have the inverted pleasure of quoting. We refuse to believe that the Era justly represents the league of which that paper is, in this instance, the unwise and unworthy organ."

A GOOD WISH.

"I wish the SOUTHWESTERN were in 50,000 Methodist homes in the North. Its timely and able discussions of that class of questions relating to the Negro, that can never be settled until settled right, must be of great value to the Church and to the country."

So writes one of the most able and cultured ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and for which we are grateful beyond expression. We have ardently, earnestly, persistently and hopefully tried to get a larger hearing among the Methodist people of the North, believing that we have very superior facilities in the collection of facts and other data which will enable our Northern brethern to think and act intelligently on the great, the all-absorbing Negro question. There is not a minister or layman of any prominence in the Church who desires to keep in touch with the various phases of this great question, who will not be very greatly helped by subscribing for the SOUTHWESTERN. More than at any other time in the history of the paper, we need the substantial cooperation of our white Methodist people in the North. Our interested friends will please pass this along.

TIDINGS FROM THE FIELD.

Hensley, Ark.—Pastor H. Bright says: Our rally was a grand success; realized $14 30.

San Diego, Cal.—Brother H. Hauson writes: The time for revivals has come while the evenings are long, and if we do not do our best in the way of work, our churches will suffer loss and souls will not be saved.

Cave Springs, Ga.—Pastor E. D. Giddens writes: The Lord has wonderfully blessed us. Revival closed with 121 accessions and many backsliders reclaimed. The church is greatly edified, and all financial claims will be in advance.

Garlandsville, Miss.—Brother W. N. G. Lipscomb says: I have just closed a grand revival on my circuit and resulted in 40 precious souls converted to the Lord, 75 probationers and 25 backsliders. I also baptized 50 adults and 55 children.

Kilmichael, Miss.—Bro. John Everett writes: Our church is flourishing in all departments. Quarterly meeting was a precious season. Total collection $25. Sister Sarah Hood and Brother Robert McNutt, faithful members, passed to the glory land recently.

Lauderdale, Miss.—Brother A. Butler writes: Conference reports are all encouraging and show the work to be in a prospering condition. We have added 21 to the church and raised $68. With these two it makes 10 subscribers sent in to our paper. Sixty eight partook of the Lord's supper.

Dermott, Ark.—Pastor J. M. Clark writes: Presiding Elder W. R. R. Duncan held our third quarterly conference here and we had a nice time. We organized an Epworth League with 30 members. We are using the reading course, and are moving nicely. Dermott is alive. Here is one subscriber for our paper.

Bodcau, La.—Brother F. Bryant writes: We had a grand rally, conducted by Rev. P. Bibs, our pastor. Presiding Elder S. Duncan was with us. Rev. Anderson Johnson and his people from the Baptist Church were also with us. We are moving along nicely. Total collection, $30 15. Our pastor and wife are highly esteemed.

Montgomery and Conroe Circuit, Tex.—Pastor S. M. Bolden writes: All departments are in line and had successful revivals. We are now worshiping in a new church in the town of Montgomery, with others repaired. Total collection for building $575, pastor $675, presiding elder $190 and benevolences $175. We have put the SOUTHWESTERN into ten homes, besides circulated other good literature.

Fort Scott, Kan.—Brother A. W. Talbert writes: In this city we have a growing little plant. In addition to which we have organized an Epworth League chapter of about 35 or 40 members, and hold a literary meeting once a week, to the enjoyment of large audiences. Our literary exercises recently were profitable. The participants in the debate and other features of the meeting did credit to the occasion.

Lake Charles, La.—Brother T Larkins writes: Rev. George W. Wells of Pineville delivered two able lectures and was with us in our rally meeting. We collected $43 10. We have bought a good bell for our church, costing $52 30, and are preparing to finish ceiling our church. The new organ inspires the young people. Our Sunday school is among the best, with J. Huston as superintendent. I am trying to put the SOUTHWESTERN in the hands of every official, member and friend of the church.

Washington, Ky.—Brother J. H. Ross writes: Sunday, Oct. 27, was our grand rally, in which we succeeded in raising $80 72, paying the entire church extension debt of thirteen years standing. Haven Church is out of debt for the first time in its history. Rev. Felix Rees was with us, and rendered excellent work. We have raised and paid $126 35 to Church Extension Society and $151 35 benevolent money besides meeting other current expenses. We have an excellent revival meeting in progress; pastor and people working in perfect harmony. I am earnestly pushing the interests of the grand old SOUTHWESTERN and hope to send a good list of subscribers soon.

OUR PRESIDING ELDERS.

REV. HARRY SWAN.

The subject of this sketch was born in Arkansas, March 9, 1854. During the days of slavery he was taught to read by his father. After emancipation he was taught by a white friend who had an interest in his future. At eighteen he taught public school. In 1873 he was converted and licensed to exhort, and was shortly afterward licensed to preach. In 1875 he was admitted on trial in the West Texas Conference and appointed to Cuero, Tex., where he remained two years. He increased the membership and built a beautiful church. From thence he was appointed to St. Paul in Dallas, where he increased the membership from 35 to 95, paid considerable of an old debt, repaired the church, built a neat parsonage, did efficient work as pastor and rendered eminent service as teacher in Dallas city schools. He was next sent to Calvert, Texas, where he remained two years, teaching and preaching; built a church in the county, and conducted a revival, which resulted in 96 converts and accessions to the church. His next charge was Wesley Chapel, Austin, where he did excellent work; he built and paid $6,000 on Wesley Chapel—the pride of Methodism, and is one of the finest colored churches in the South; he conducted a revival which resulted in 200 converts and accessions. He was appointed presiding elder of the San Antonio District, where he served six years. He was next made presiding elder of the Waco District, where he is now serving his fourth year.

He was elected delegate to the General Conferences of 1888 and 1892. He is a man of sterling qualities; is urbane, pleasant, genial; successful in his ministry, benevolent and kind. He is noted for his moral qualities; sound, common sense and business qualities; and a man whom all delight to honor, for he pays due honor to all men. He has altogether a record which stamps him as a leader of men. He is an ardent lover of the literature of the Church, and is especially a strong supporter of the SOUTHWESTERN. A. E.

The Modern Negro.

By Rev. S. A. Steel, D. D., Editor of "The Epworth Era," Organ of the M. E. Church South.

"I am fully convinced that the Methodist Episcopal Church South ought to take hold of this question of Negro evangelization. The experiment of the North has failed. It has broken down completely. Its fine theories about the Negro are blown to the winds by the actual results of thirty years of freedom. The South received the Negro from Africa as a barbarian of the lowest type, and by its mild and humane system of bondage, almost misnamed slavery, it converted him in a generation into an industrious, useful, contented and happy race, devoted in their attachments and faithful in their services to the white people they called their masters. The North set them free, enfranchised them with the ballot, preached the doctrines of equality to them; and, in a single generation, has succeeded pretty nearly in undoing all that had been done for them. A few schools here and there are educating a few hundred, but the level of the race is slowly sinking. The Negro is to-day far below what he was in 1860, in all that constitutes moral character. Take this single crime of rape as an illustration. In 1860 a lady might have walked, unattended, without fear of harm, from the Atlantic to the Mississippi. Every man, white or black, was bred to that chivalrous regard for woman, that almost reverential sentiment of esteem for the female sex, that pledged him to her defense against every evil agency. So thoroughly had Christianity done its work in the hearts of the simple Africans that their masters left their homes, their wives and daughters under their protection while they went far away to war; and not a life was lost, not a house was burned, not a woman touched in all the chaos of that time. Thirty years have passed under the Northern system of instruction, and to-day there is not a country district in the South where it is safe for a lady, unattended, to go out of sight of her home. The modern Negro is a failure. Our Northern friends—and many of them read the Era—will not like this; but it is the good Lord's truth, and the sooner we all face it, the better for all parties concerned....

"This problem can't be solved by the Boston Monday Lecture Course, or the philanthropic visionaries, who know about as much of the Southern darkey as I do of the aborigines of the moon. Under their policy he is drifting to inevitable destruction. What modern philosophers call the 'social efficiency of the race' is far below the point where he can successfully compete with the dominant white race, and it is steadily sinking lower. Hic haec, hoc, will be the ruin of the African. ....I want to see Southern Methodism grapple with this great problem with an energy and earnestness and intelligence that will clear its conscience of all responsibility for the further degeneration of the Negro. I give the North credit for the best intentions, and admire the generosity that has prompted their efforts, and the heroic self-sacrifice of many earnest men and women who have faced obloquy and toil to elevate the Negro. But they have proceeded on a wrong theory, and the deplorable lynchings that disgrace our civilization are the fruit of their mistaken policy. That old race, born and reared in slavery, is almost gone. Now and then a venerable old man, with the high bred politeness he learned as a slave, takes off his hat and salutes you as 'Marster;' or an old auntie, with a kerchief around her head, 'curtsies' as once she did in stately halls; but such touching courtesies are fast becoming a memory. The old darkies are nearly all gone to their long home; and, as far as we have been able to ascertain, not one of all who have been lynched in the South belonged to this old panel. We are dealing now with the 'new Negro,' the product of freedom; and he is about as worthless, good-for-nothing a specimen of the genus homo as can be found in creation. Politeness he does not know, morals he has not; insolent, lustful, and trifling, he is a candidate for 'the pen,' or, like too many of his race, finds himself caught in the cyclone of a mob, and dangling, bullet ridden and mutilated, from a limb. Nobody would put him back in bondage—too glad to be free ourselves. But there are plenty of people who, unless we can improve him, would put him where the mythical McGinty is said to have gone—at the bottom of the sea. We must do something to make a better man of him, or his doom is sealed. Let us try the Gospel."

The body must be well nourished now, to prevent sickness. If your appetite is poor take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

AYER'S PILLS

"I would like to add my testimony to that of others who have used Ayer's Pills, and to say that I have taken them for many years, and always derived the best results from their use. For stomach and liver troubles, and for the cure of headache caused by these derangements, Ayer's Pills cannot be equaled.

When my friends ask me what is the best remedy for disorders of the stomach, liver, or bowels, my invariable answer is, Ayer's Pills. Taken in season, they will break up a cold, prevent la grippe, check fever, and regulate the digestive organs. They are easy to take, and are, indeed, the best all-round family medicine I have ever known."—Mrs. MAY JOHNSON, 368 Rider Avenue, New York City.

The Status of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the Colored Man.

By J. C. HIBBLER, Jackson, Miss.

We have often heard and seen discussed the condition of the colored man in the M. E. Church. Can we with any logical or grammatical propriety look at the subject reversed?

The Methodist Episcopal Church was born of the principles of trust, love, piety, consecration and intelligence. These principles are inherent in its organism, inculcated in all its operations; and having their embodiment in a personality, produce the highest type of manhood, qualified to operate in the varied spheres of activity in State and Church. Because of these inherent principles, notwithstanding the difficulties, mistakes, a little falling from grace, a little backsliding, the universal verdict is that the Methodist Episcopal is a success in all its various departments and operations. Her faith is universal, her "parish is the world." She believes in the "Fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man."

With these invincibles the Church has set about to complete her machinery of operation, that she may operate among all races and nations, implanting the true idea of manhood and establishing the kingdom of God.

Because of her magnificent institutions, splendid operations, and ennobling influences, men and women have arisen to the greatest proportions of manhood and womanhood as known to our civilization.

The Methodist Episcopal is known by the fruit she bears. She has and shall reap what she sows. Her motto is success in whatever, wherever she goes, in the name of God and humanity. For about a generation the Methodist Episcopal Church has been planning, planting, sowing, pouring and growing in the colored man all that the Church is. The Church has been in direct contact with his environments with all of her splendid ecclesiastical equipments of modern sciences, of social improvements, implanting her principles and building manhood. The Church believes in a broad spiritual and intellectual manhood, rounded in Christ Jesus. That the Church may develop such manhood in the colored man she has come in him, reared altars, built churches, preached the Gospel of free salvation, until many, yea many, have received the spiritual possession—sons of God in Christ Jesus. That the colored man should be an intellectual man, versed and conversant in the various departments of knowledge, the Church has established well-equipped institutions to unfold in him the wealth of truth and knowledge.

Has the Church failed? Has the colored man failed to receive and retain? The colored man is of the soil of the Nile and fertility of the Congo. Is he barren of fruitage? Cannot the Church blossom, bloom, flourish and fruit in such soil and fertility?

The Church's past history guarantees glorious results. She is in the colored man with all of her germanating powers and leavening influences. What shall be the harvest? No less glorious than the Church itself.

She believes in freedom, independence and justice. That every man will have a backbone of his own, and on his own merit stand, not relying on others, but on one's own strength and dignity; that each man think, act, speak and decide for himself; that each man be justly respected and treated, and each shall share in the duties, labors, positions and responsibilities, and none shall be oppressed because of color or previous condition.

This being the spirit of the Church, taught and officially proclaimed by the highest authority, it has entered into the very existence of the colored men and women.

Can the colored man be any otherwise and spirited than the Church? Impossible.

The Methodist Episcopal is a Church of high aspirations, culture and consecration. In her ranks are found the most aspiring, best cultured, and fullest consecrated sons of God.

This spirit the Church has been impressing and inspiring in the colored man for a generation by its general officers, preachers, teachers, literature and institutions. Has the Church failed?

The Methodist Episcopal is a Church of great business capacity. No Church has a more complete machinery, more wisely, judiciously and successfully operated. The successful management of the Book Concern, the different boards and societies, is a great evidence of its business capacity. The colored man has been under this business influence, studying its principles, embedding its spirit, until there has been developed in him such business capacity and spirit of management. Is it any wonder why that he should won't to do what he can, knows and feels, as the Church has taught and he has learned?

So I repeat that the Methodist Episcopal Church is in the colored man with the idea of the Fatherhood of God and brotherhood of man which is divine; with the best idea of true manhood, of civilization and Christianization. In him with its culture, piety, consecration, patriotism, ecclesiasticism and devotion to God and humanity. In him with all its holy fires of love, purity of heart and home, of righteous ambitions, enthusiasms, inspirations and aspirations of the noblest attainments of man; fires of the love of liberty and freedom; fires of benevolences and disinterestedness, whose flames flow out in fiery streams unto all people and tongues; fires of her holy songs and flaming Gospel to preach to all nations. For a generation these fires of the Church have been kindled in the colord man, and the flames are burning his dross and consuming his imperfections, and in due time he will come forth a tried, refined, Christ man, whose qualifications measure up to the requirements of the Church, college professors, teachers and presidents; business managers proficient and trustworthy; agents and secretaries representing the various departments of our Methodism; editors to send out the printers' ink; preachers—able, pious and profound; last, but not least, a bishop robed in all the qualifications of the sacred office to the general good and helpfulness of universal Methodism.

The signs are favorable, the evidences are pregnant, the inevitable must come.

Let not the colored man be too hasty, but be prepared, guarded, and on the alert. Oft-times an attempt to assist nature in its operations make tardy the results, sometimes hinder for all times.

Where did you get that Cough? No matter; the great question is, How shall I get rid of it? Use THE PINEOLA BALSAM, a soothing combination of the remedies nature has put in the pine and other balsamic trees. It cures the inflammation and tickling in the throat and if taken in time will prevent the spread of the disease to the lungs. Ely's Pineola Balsam is strongly recommended in cases of asthma. Twenty-five cents is the price. Tell the neighbors about it.

Aberdeen District Conference Notes.

The conference convened at Crawford, Miss., and was ably presided over by Dr H. R. Revels, presiding elder. Most of the local preachers and exhorters were present, and the first evening was given to the examinations. One of the requisites for renewals and licensing, other than that of the course of study, was the subscription to the SOUTHWESTERN. The presiding elder and pastors seemed in earnest about our church organ.

The topics were ably discussed.

Brother L. J. Terrill and his good people deserve much credit for the grand manner in which they prepared and cared for the conference.

All reports showed gratifying progress. Many precious souls have been converted and the Church generally revived. The presiding elder's report gave great satisfaction.

Revs. W. McDonald and P. O Jamison, presiding elders of the Holly Springs and Starkville Districts respectively, were visitors and spoke kind words. There were several visiting ladies and gentlemen from different parts of the district, who spoke in high terms of the deliberations of the conference.

The writer presented a complaint against the presiding elder, to the effect that "he had been bountifully blessed with good health this year, and strength to travel the district efficiently and ably and met his appointments, even through very inclement weather, to the satisfaction of the brethren." After hearing the complaint he pleaded guilty in his modest way, and the brethren presented him with $11 as token of respect.

Prof. E. H. McKissack, A. B., of Rust University, represented that institution of learning ably with a lecture, which was highly spoken of by all. The brethren turned over to him $46 15 of assessment collected on their charges, and adopted a complimentary resolution as to his efficiency and acceptability.

West Point was selected as the seat of the next conference.

"THE EPWORTH ERA'S" INCONSISTENCY.

We are indebted to our esteemed contemporary, the Zion's Herald, for this latest fulmination upon the modern Negro, from the pen of Rev. S. A. Steel, D. D., editor of the Epworth Era, organ of the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church South.

See article "The Modern Negro" on another page.

We submit that it is rather unfair to our Methodist traditions and history to have our beloved Epworth, the name that stands for so many precious memories which are common to all Methodist people, dragged down into the arena of a bitter controversy to gratify the whim of an impulsive and unreasoning editor. So far as we are able to analyze this strange outburst of offended dignity, we can perceive but one desire, viz: to open up the old controversies and to intensify race prejudice. When Dr. Steele says that "the Methodist Episcopal Church South ought to take hold of this question of Negro evangelization," any reasonably intelligent person would infer that this great Church had not taken hold of this very humane work to the extent of its splendid opportunities and its greater responsibilities. Now, we do not believe that the Methodist Episcopal Church South is ready to endorse the sentiments of the Era as it is, and especially upon this question. Our Southern Methodist brethren will not admit that they have not taken hold of the work of Negro evangelization. The contrary is true. The mistake being, however, in the use or methods which have been considered by many people as not conducive to the fullest advancement of the Negro. The facts are, however, that since the separation more than half a century ago, of those members from the Methodist Episcopal Church who held views on the subject of slavery contrary to those held by a majority of their Methodist brethren, the work of Negro evangelization has been carried on by them. And, believing as they did in the divinity of the institution of slavery, their work among these people has been conducted in perfect harmony with their belief in their natural, necessary and absolute inferiority. With inherited and unreasoning prejudice enthroned against the Negro and those who have sought to make him a man and a brother, everything promotive of opposite objects was considered legitimate. These impulsive and unnecessarily severe declarations of the Era concerning the Negro and his staunch friends need occasion no surprise since its eminent and chivalrous editor is one of the products of that peculiar condition of Southern society with hereditary biases that are as peculiar as they are stubborn. Hundreds of thousands of the best people of this and other lands have pronounced human slavery as an unmitigated evil. The immortal founder of our Methodism characterized it as the "sum of all villainies." The best statesmen of this country have, with united voice, deprecated the existence of the unholy institution, and rejoiced in its overthrow. But it remained for the Era, that modern exponent of the better sentiment of the younger and more progressive Southern Methodism, to characterize it as a "mild and humane system of bondage, almost unnamed slavery." On behalf of four and a half millions of bondmen, emancipated by the proclamation of the immortal Abraham Lincoln, and three millions more of their children born under the bright and glorious sun of freedom we emphatically deny the allegation. The Negro has not degenerated since slavery. Coming out from the accursed institution which for all nigh crushed every virtue out of the race, with men of the stamp of the Era's editor protesting against the change, the magnanimous and philanthropic North sent its best sons and daughters to the Southland, devastated by war and cursed by slavery, to relieve its imperative want—the Christianization and education of the freed men. It was to bring to bear a newer and a better Christian civilization upon these freed Negroes that humane people consecrated their wealth and made sacrifices of their time and talent and social positions, and even their lives. To say that the Negro has degenerated in the face of the most conclusive testimony from the living witnesses who know him best, because they know him as a free man and a citizen, is the quintessence of arrogant assumption. Ask our Congregational, and Presbyterian, and Baptist, and Methodist Episcopal brethren, and they will point to hundreds of institutions of learning with an excellent corps of white and colored teachers. Thousands have graduated from these schools who could, if given an opportunity, break lances successfully with their prejudiced opponents in "hic, haec, hoc," and in other important subjects as well. It is estimated that there are at least 30,000 colored teachers at work to-day, nineteen-twentieths of whom are appointed by white boards, before whom they have stood satisfactory examinations as to their qualifications to teach. These go forth under the sanction of the best white people in their respective communities and in their work; it is safe to say that they reach at least two millions of our people. What they have done and are doing is evidence of the progress they have made. From the most reliable information we learn that our schools have sent out thoroughly equipped 500 preachers, 500 doctors and 300 lawyers, "who are practicing their professions in nearly every city and large town in the country." The colored people are conducting, and that successfully, two banking institutions—in Washington and Richmond, Va., respectively. Their holdings in real estate is estimated at three hundred millions of dollars. We would like to ask the Era man if he ever heard of such a thing as a Negro bank or a graduated Negro doctor or lawyer in the South in slave times.

And mark you, the friends of the Negro would have done a thousand times more to better his condition in all respects had it not been for the opposition of that class of Southern white people who recognize good Negroes only in those, who, with "high-bred politeness" learned in slavery, take off their hats and salute them as "marsters," or in the venerable "auntie who with kerchief around her head 'curtsies' as once she did in stately halls." Thank God those days are gone forever. There is a "new Negro," the product of freedom, who must have something to do with the solution of the problems in which he is a most important factor. And the people who are undertaking the solution of that problem philanthropically and patriotically will not allow him to be left out, the fulminations of the Era man to the contrary notwithstanding. The doctor would have his readers believe that the Negro is especially addicted to committing outrages on white women. We do not believe that this charge is true. For the very reasons which the doctor gives there is a suspicion of unfair dealing. Says he: "Let us try the law. The only objection that has any force in it to a judicial proceeding against the ravisher is the painful publicity it would give to the sufferings of his victim." In our judgment this is one of the principal reasons why Negro suspects are hurried to an execution. The statements of nervous, excited and suffering victims, often with the most flimsy circumstantial evidences, are put in the scale against the suspect. The tremendously awful thought that a "burly nigger brute" is the offender, together with just such inflammatory language as we are now reviewing, are largely the determining influences which seals his doom. The yelling, infuriated mob does the rest.

Let us have the law rigidly, promptly and justly enforced against all lynchers. Let this feeling against the Negro, because he is a Negro, be modified. Let the Negro have a fair and impartial trial. It is difficult for the black man to disguise himself. The white man can do so with ease. In our judgment, there are white men walking about free to-day for whose crimes black men have paid the penalty. Let the law take its course, and we venture the assertion that the crime of rape as charged to Negroes will be reduced ninety percent. Then, if the doughty editor of the Era will bend his splendid energies in leading a crusade against the unholy spirit which regards the Negro as unfit for the sympathies of the race that is dominant because of its superior advantages, and will secure the co-operation of his Southern Methodist brethren in grappling "with this great problem with an energy and earnestness and intelligence that will clear its conscience of all responsibility for the further degradation of the Negro," we will be willing to stake our reputation, that so far as the Negro is concerned, a white lady or a colored lady may walk unattended "without fear of harm from the Atlantic to the Mississippi," and that there will be just as chivalrous regard, just as reverential esteem, for the female sex by the Negro as could be evinced by the most chivalrous Caucasian. We believe we are authorized to tender the sincere and hearty co-operation of more than two millions of Negro Christians in this good work. But we could not under any circumstances part with the "Boston Monday Lecture Course, or the Philanthropic visionaries," who believe in the highest possibilities of the Negro. Neither could we consent to sever our relations with our distinguished Christian friends, who, in the face of misrepresentation, opposition, social ostracism, and even death, stood by their convictions and at their posts to secure to their unfortunate fellowmen the benefits of a Christian education.

A BEAUTIFUL CALENDAR FOR EVERY ADVOCATE HOME.

The patrons of the SOUTHWESTERN will be pleased to learn that its publishers have arranged to furnished every subscriber for 1896, old and new, with a copy of the EPWORTH CALENDAR FOR 1896 FREE OF CHARGE!

This calendar, printed in colors, is a handsome specimen of the lithograpic art, and is valuable and interesting as a souvenir of the great founder of Methodism. It contains a bust picture of John Wesley, copied from the most acceptable portrait of this distinguished man, who grows greater in the world's estimation as the years go by. Also pictures of the Epworth Rectory, Epworth Church, Wesley's Study, Old Clock, Teapot, Susannah Wesley's Grave, City Road Chapel, and Tombs of John Wesley and Adam Clarke. It also contains a selection of comforting and elevating thoughts from the writings of John and Charles Wesley and others. A calendar of some sort is to be found in most of the better homes of to-day. Surely none other would be so appropriate in a Methodist home as the ADVOCATE CALENDAR for 1896. Ready about December 1.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Brother S. Duncan, P. E., writes us from his work on the Shreveport District that he is in very poor health, but is toiling on, expecting to soon be well again. We trust that he will be.

—Formal opening day at Gammon Theological Seminary, Atlanta, Ga., occurred on the 14th. It was a most interesting occasion. Five bishops were present, besides other distinguished ministers representing several denominations. Gammon has the largest attendance and the finest body of candidates and ministers in its history.

—Brother Joseph Johnson, of Mexia, La., sends the sad news of the death of Sister Lieley Williams, an old and faithful member of St. Mark's Church at that place. She was in her 84th year at the time of the accident which resulted in her death. She was shot by some unknown, and survived only a few hours. Her last words were, "I am waiting on Jesus."

—We are informed by the local committee at Atlanta that the attendance upon the Congresses on Africa promises to be so large as to necessitate the engagement of the Moody Tabernacle for several of the splendid illustrated lectures on Africa. We wish that every representative man and woman could attend. Keep the dates in mind—Methodist Congress, December 12; Congress on Africa, Dec. 13 to 15.

—The Bible Institute Colportage Association, under the presidency of D. L. Moody, is doing wonderful work. Up to the end of October the association, through its agents, distributed 12,619 volumes among prisoners in our jails in twenty-three different States. Those who do Christian work in jails, and other Christian workers, would do well to communicate with Mr. Moody at East Northfield, Mass., who will give invaluable counsel.

NEW ORLEANS AND VICINITY.

Lafon Old Folks' Home.

The site whereon is being erected a very commodious building for the old folks of New Orleans was the scene of a large and interested gathering of the best people of New Orleans. The occasion was the laying of the corner-stone of the Lafon Old Folks' Home, a very visible expression of the munificent bequest of Mr. Lafon. Rev. J. W. Hilton, chairman of the Board for the Old Folks' Home, began the ceremonies by introducing Rev. J. F. Marshall as master of ceremonies. The program, as per announcement, was carried out. Rev. T. G. Montgomery read hymn No. 766, which was sung by the assemblage. Rev. William Davis then offered prayer. The Simpson Chapel choir beautifully rendered "The Savior Precious," which was followed by reading of Scripture by Rev. J. W. Hudson—Psalm 132. The sermon of the occasion (from the following portions of Scripture: Matt. 11:5, 1 Peter 2:6) was delivered by Dr. A. E. P. Albert; the speaker contrasted the Christian with other religions, showing that the spirit of the highest civilization fosters philanthropy. The sermon on the whole was brief but comprehensive. Rev. Stephen Priestley, who was then introduced, gave at length the origin and subsequent history of the movement leading up to the present stage. Dr. E. W. S. Hammond delighted all with a few cheering remarks as to the scope and significance of the occasion. Rev. Pierre Landry, the builder, was called on, and with many expressions of appreciation on the part of the people, recounted some of the difficulties and discouragements attending his work as builder. He received an ovation from the ladies by making the ladies the theme of his climax. Rev. Burrell, of the Baptist connection, offered a few encouraging remarks.

The following were among those present: E. W. S. Hammond, D. D.; A. E. P. Albert, D. D.; Revs. T. J. Johnson, T. G. Montgomery, J. F. Marshall, Pierre Landry, J. W. Hudson, J. W. Hilton, W. R. Butler, Stephen Priestley, Henry Taylor, Frank Walker, Wm. Davis, J. H. Burrell, J. H. Pierre, F. McCary, D. W. Boatner, D. J. Price, J. F. Cox, E. Batiste.

The exercises were closed by the laying of the corner-stone by Rev. F. McCary, assisted by Rev. F. Walker, D. J. Price, D. W. Boatner and J. F. Cox. Benediction by J. W. Hudson.

D. W. BOATNER, Reporter.

Rev. C. Monroe, of Williams Chapel, reports a successful revival resulting in eight conversions. The church is in a splendid spiritual condition. The collections on Sunday, Nov. 17, was $116. The pastor is hopeful of a successful wind-up.

It was a source of great pleasure to have our presiding elder with us at Mount Zion M. E. Church, Nov. 17. He preached at 11 o'clock, and his sermon gave great satisfaction to all.

At 3 p. m., the pastor preached the funeral sermon of James Cooper, who died in full triumph of faith in Christ. He also preached at 7:30 p. m., and had a good time, for the Lord was with us. Collected $12.75.

Dear Editor—Our last district conference organized the W. H. M. Society in the Birmingham District, Central Alabama Conference. The writer was elected one of the vice presidents. Owing to the ill health of Presiding Elder Prottyman, Rev. N. H. Speight, D. D., was requested to hold a quarterly conference for him at Hetlin. It was my pleasure to take the trip with him. I am glad to say that while my husband held the quarterly conference, I succeed in organizing the W. H. M. Society in that circuit. Rev. H. Adams is doing a grand work there and seems to be much loved by the people. He has a firstrate church in course of erection, which they hope to occupy in a few weeks. We were nicely entertained at the home of Rev. Adams and wife.

Dr. Prettyman is strong again and was in our parsonage quite recently.

We expect to have the district fully worked up soon along the line of Woman's Home Mission.

Tuesday night, Oct. 29, quite a number of people met in the Congregational Church in Anniston and succeeded in organizing a Sunday School Union Association for the county of Calhoun. Among the visitors were Judge Carthell and Hon. Mr. Keith, who took part in the organization. The association is composed of all denominations. Dr. Speight was elected president, and called a meeting for the following Thursday night to organize best associations. We hope through this movement to reach the mass of our people and bring them to Christ.

Truly yours for the Master,
MRS. L. H. SPEIGHT, Anniston, Ala.

Rust University.

The opening exercises of this grand institution was indeed a most interesting occasion. The spacious chapel was filled to overflowing with visitors and students. Many distinguished visitors graced the rostrum and delighted the audience with short but interesting addresses.

We listened with pleasure to Bishop Cottrell, Elders Nevils and McDonald, Rev. Sowell and Prof. Keen.

President Libby had wisely chosen our beloved and honored Dr. H. R. Revels orator of the day. He surprised even his most ardent admirers with the excellence of his address. It may be truly called the oration of his life.

In Dr. Revels, Rust University has an invaluable friend. He gives to her his labor, means, talent and time.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

Something New! A calendar for 1896 has been issued by the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society. It is unique and attractive. On each of the twelve pages is a half-tone picture of a native girl. The calendar will be pretty and useful as a Christmas or New Year's gift. Price 25 cents; societies or bands 20 cents. Orders sent to District Secretary or committee on literary supplies, Room 8, 1026 Arch St., Philadelphia.

The Preacher's Magazine for November is crowded with Thanksgiving thoughts. Rev. Henry M. Field, D. D., furnishes "A Thanksgiving Sermon. "Outline Addresses on the Golden Texts," are continued. Fifteen cents per copy; $1 50 per year. Wilbur B. Ketcham, Publisher, 2 Cooper Union, New York.

The Treasury of Religious Thought for November has eight full sketches and synopsis of sermons. The publishers of Littell's Living Age announce a reduction in the price of that unique eclectic from $8 to $6 a year; the change to take effect with the first of the new year. New subscribers, however, remitting before 1st of January, will receive the intervening numbers of 1895 free. The Living Age now nearing the close of its fifty second year has ever been the faithful mirror of the times, reflecting only that which was highest and best and most desirable in the whole field of literature. Published by Littell & Co., Boston.

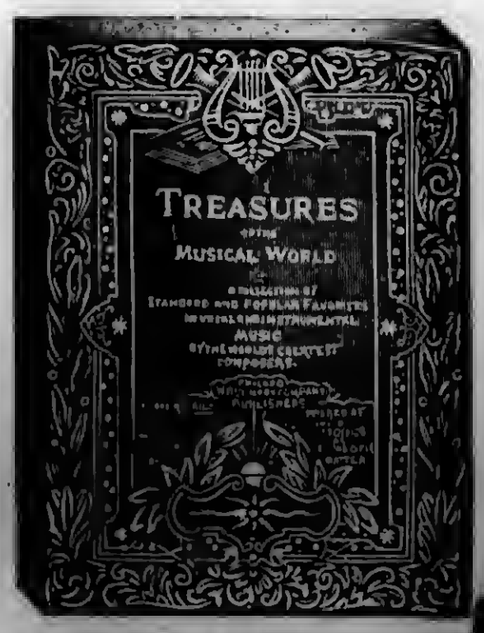
Events or occurrences in American history are always regarded with interest by magazine readers. The November issue of The Monthly Illustrator and Home and Country contains three such as we have referred to. "Edison on Inventions" is title of an interesting article by Rufus R. Wilson, based on an interview with Mr. Edison. Jos W. Kay, 149-153 Leonard street, New York. Subscription, $2 a year.

In the latest numbers of the Fashion Magazines published by A. McDowell & Co. are a large variety of latest styles. These periodicals are always very attractive and are constantly increasing in popularity. "La Mode de Paris" and "Paris Album of Fashions" cost $3 50 per year's subscription, or 35 cents a copy. The "French Dressmaker" is $3 per annum or 30 cents a copy: and "La Mode" $1 50 a year or 15 cents a copy. A. McDowell & Co., 1 West 14th street, New York.



Hood's is Wonderful.

No less than wonderful are the cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla, even after other preparations and physicians' prescriptions have failed. The reason, however, is simple. When the blood is enriched and purified, disease disappears and good health returns, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier.

HOOD'S PILLS are prompt and efficient and do not purge, pain and gripe. 25c.

Our Falls City Letter.

The great Grand Army of the Republic encampment was a grand success; it brought many people here from all over the country, and some of them have not got out of the city yet.

The revival spirit seems to be swelling up in the churches. Some of them are having very good meetings. Rev. A. Booker, of Loyd Street Church, this city, is having quite a successful meeting.

Rev. S. G. Turner, of Cook Chapel, had a rally a few Sundays ago, and his people responded royally.

Rev. S. H. Ferguson, of Jeffersonville, reports a good time at his quarterly meeting a few weeks ago. Rev. Gilliam, his presiding elder was in the city.

Rev. Miller is doing well with the mission in Portland.

We visited the mission at Parklin, a suburb of this city, a short time ago, and administered the Lord's Supper. We had a glorious time. Twenty-three communed.

We are arranging for a special collection at Jackson Street Church, to repair the windows. We want more light and less noise. We have received thirty-five good members this year so far,

Obituary—Maggie E. Speight.

Maggie E. Speight, daughter of Rev. N. H. Speight, D. D, departed this life Sept. 25, 1895. She was born at Gainsville, Ala., Aug. 30, 1879. Her age was 15 years and 27 days. She was converted at Oxford and joined our church in August 1891, and lived a consistent Christian life, and died in great faith. She told her father that she was trusting in the good Lord, and she was not afraid to die, for the Lord was with her, and she knew He would save her. She asked her father if she would know her mother and brother.

Her funeral was conducted in Sixteenth Street M. E. Church, in Anniston, Ala., by the writer, and her remains were laid away in the cemetery to await the roll call of the just. Peace to her ashes.

She leaves a father, step-mother and a brother and sister to mourn.

God Does Command

That all we do in the affairs of life must be done with an eye single to His glory. To please Him we must impart to others anything we have that may save them from intense and continued suffering. A sincere conviction of my duty to my fellowmen impels me to advertise my Oil Cure for Cancers, Tumors and Malignant Diseases. To do this and avoid all appearances of exaggeration I know of no better way than to publish every week reports which I receive from my patients. Thousands are being cured, but some die. We give reports from both classes.

Excuse me for not writing sooner. Enclosed you will find $7.50 due you for the last month. Aunt is well, and the sore is nearly healed. She is so glad the cancer is gone. She had awful pain in it before she used your Oils. It was through the Religious Telescope that we found out about your Oils. We are very grateful to you for what your Oils have done.

Yours truly, LIZZIE PARTHEMORE.

BUENA VISTA, ARK., July 20, 1895.

My Dear Doctor Bye:

I was wanting to see if the tumor on my husband's face would again make its appearance. I am happy to tell you the tumor has disappeared, and not even a scar is left on his face. I never was so happy in my life. I do wish you could have seen him before I commenced your Oil treatment. And to see him now—his face is as clean as any one could wish, and he is looking better than he did ten years ago, so say all his friends; and we all feel thankful for the restoration of my husband, and I pray with all my heart that God will continue to bless your good work. MRS. A. C. ROSS.

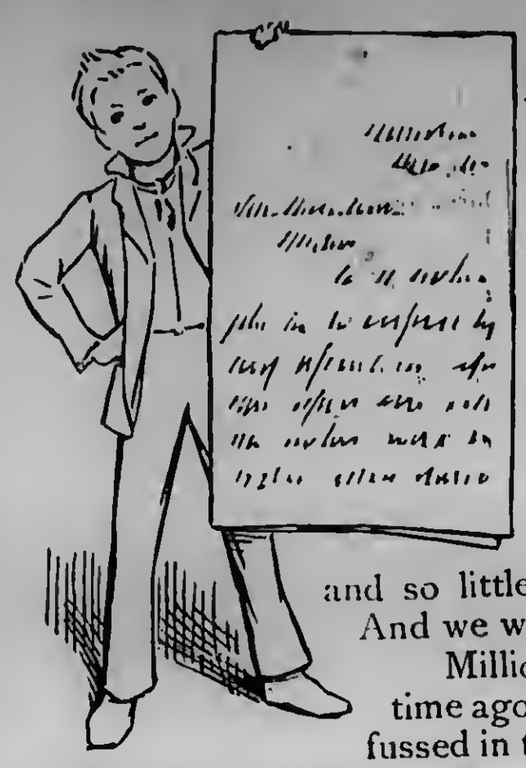
D. D. M. Bye, Indianapolis, Ind.:



DEAR SIR—It gives me much pain to write and inform you of the death of our dear mother, which occurred on last Sunday evening, about seven o'clock. No one who did not see her does not know how much she suffered. The cancer seemed to have gone to her stomach and lungs.

We cannot speak in too high terms of your Oils. They gave her more ease than anything she ever used. As for curing her, we think her case was beyond any treatment. Please accept our thanks for your kindness and sympathy in our behalf.

A Letter

just to hand says: "It is needless for me to express my high opinion of Pearline, and that no clean family lives without it." Thousands of letters come, praising Pearline, but they don't all put it so strongly. We wouldn't want to, ourselves. We don't say that things can't be made clean without Pearline. But we do say that things can't be made clean with so little labor and so little damage by any other means. And we want to say that, loudly.

Millions use Pearline. Only a short time ago they rubbed and scrubbed and fussed in the old-fashioned way without it.

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you, "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, if your grocer sends you an imitation, be honest—send it back. 436 JAMES PYLE, New York.

David and Jonathan.

GOLDEN TEXT.—"There is a friend that stiokoth closer than a brother." (Prov. 18. 24.)

Whou the army of Israel returned from pursuing the Philistines, the women—tbe men were not in it—came out of tbeir oities singiug and dancing, saying—"Saul hath slain his thousands and David bis ten thousands." The king was wroth and "oyed David from tbat day forward." An evil spirit came upon bim. David played for him upon the harp. He tried to smito him to the wall with his javeliu. "David avoided out of his presence." The son of Josse behaved bimself wisely and the Lord was with him. All Israel and Judah loved him. Michal, the king's second daughter, loved him, and was given to be his wife. Saul determined to kill him, but Michal let him down from a window, and he escaped. The king searched for him tbat he might be put to death. But God was with David. On the feast of the new moon, Saul and his sons sat at meat. David was absent. The king asked about bim. Jonatban, as David bad requested, told for him a mistake. We study to-day the love of Jonathan for David. We have only a few of his acts of kindness recorded in tbis lesson. Other passages (as Cha. 18. 1-4, 19. 1-7, 20. 1-31, and 23. 16-18) should be read in connection with it.

I. His Love.—1. "The soul of Jonathan was knit with the soul of David, and Jonathan loved him as his own soul." It is not certainly known why Jonatban loved David so truly. But it is likely his appearance, for he was fine looking; the work he did in slaying Goliath, and scattering the Philistines; and the words he spoke to Saul, and his bearing while in his presence, were the chief causes of this affection. This was a fellowship of souls. The love of Jonathan was wonderful—"Passing the love of women." It proves his goodness of heart. He was not jealous. Love makes ourselves and others happy. He that never loved has lived in vain. Joseph had a like affection for Benjamin. "God so loved tbe world tbat He gave His only begotten Son."

2. "Then Jonathan and David made a Covenant." They entered into an agreement to be true friends: to love, protect and defend each other. The love of God for the world has constrained Him to enter into a covenant with man. He has seen fit to Redeem him from sin and death by the Atoning sacrifice of Christ.

3. Jonathan gave to David his robe, garments, sword, bow and girdle. These were raiments of beauty and comfort, and weapons of war. They were tokens of high esteem and great love, and to wear them was a distinguished honor to David. We who are saved are the friends of Christ. He clothes our souls in robes of beauty and glory, and arms us for the spiritual warfare.

II. His Defense (32-35).—1. "Saul spake to Jonathan his son, and to all his servants, tbat tbey should kill David." Jonathan asked what evil he bad done, and wby he should be slain. He also reminded the king that he had performed many good works. He had slain Goliath and defeated tbe Philistines. Saul first promised to spare him, but afterwards changed his mind and determined to kill him. The justice of God is not mutable like Saul, but is ever calling for our life. But we have in the heavenly world a High Priest who is touched with a feeling of our infirmities. He is ever pleading our cause. Were it not for the intercessions of Christ we would all perish.

2. "And Saul cast a javelin at him to smite him." The king's anger toward David was so great that he was ready to slay anyone who defended him. Heretofore Jonathan had been successful in pleading this cause of his friend, but now all his efforts were vain. His hopes were gone. He saw it was useless to speak further for David. There is a bound beyond which we may not pass. When the evil spirit was upon Saul he had not self-control. He could in one moment speak of his son as heir to the throne, and in the next thrust him through with his spear. No one can be trusted who is controlled by Satan.

3. "Jonathan arose from the table in fierce anger." This anger was produced by the words and deeds of his father. We cannot bear to see those we love abused. Jonathan clearly saw his life and the life of his friend were in danger. He did not resent his father's conduct, but arose and left the table. We should not return evil for evil from anyone, but especially when it is from our parents. Jonatban had a soul too large for jealousy or revenge. A bad father sometimes raises a good son, and a good father sometimes grows a bad boy.

III. His Report (35 40).—Jonathan made other reports of his father's conduct to David besides the one found in these verses. The prince fulfilled his obligation. In vain is love without action. If we love God we will serve him. The time. It was "in the morning." That is, the morning following the events recorded above, and also the hour agreed upon by them for this meeting. It is well to begin important duty early in the day. Work before play. We should dig before we shine. It is also right to look ahead—to plan for the future. Knowledge, wealth and happiness depend upon it. The Lord has so done. The place. They met "in the field." It was likely in the open country near Gibeath, about four miles north of Jerusalem. Places are not so important as facts. The company. It was composed of Jonathan, David and the lad. David was concealed, and the lad was too small to imagine any secret plan. We are sometimes made unconscious workers for the Lord. But if we unknowingly do His will our reward will be just as great. The agreement was simple, but it was sufficient. It is the simplicity of many things that show their wisdom. When Jonathan called out—"Is not the arrow beyond thee?"—David well knew Saul meant to slay him. No further information was necessary when they met. It is probable that Jonathan shot three arrows in rapid succession, and all of them passed over the lad's head. The bow was to Jonathan what the sling was to David. The arrows were soon gathered and the lad sent with them back to the city. The word artillery formerly meant weapons of art, or archery, and is correctly used in this place. It is our duty to help the persecuted if their cause is just: if they have done nothing wrong.

IV. His Separation (41, 42). 1. The salutation—"David fell on his face to the ground, and bowed himself three times." There was no affectation here. David only expressed the feeling of his heart. He felt that Jonathan was his superior and benefactor. As Jonathan loved David so Jesus loves us; and as David loved Jonathan so we should love Jesus.

2. The affection—"They kissed one another, and wept one with another, until David exceeded." This was no doubt the kiss of true affection. They likely kissed on each cheek. Hurlbut says—"Few races does as little kissing as the Anglo-Saxon." But does the doctor really know how much kissing that race does? It has the kiss of salutation, the kiss of affection, the kiss of deception, and the farewell kiss. It seems to make liberal use of all of them. Their weeping was an expression of their sorrow. But it was their love each for the other that caused their great grief. "David exceeded." But do not wonder at this. He was leaving all—home, wife, friends, and the sanctity of God.

3. The separation. (1) "Go in peace." Delay was dangerous. This precious interview must close. Awful things must be done quickly lest our heart fail us. Farewells are benedictions. This is a prayer for the peace of the Lord to go with him. Good-bye means—"God be with you." (2) "The Lord be between me and thee." May Jehovah stand as a witness between us, and punish the one that breaks the covenant we have made. This was a solemn vow that each would protect, defend and aid the other: and would do likewise to their descendants. This oath likely caused David in after years to hunt up and take care of Mephibosheth. (3) "And he arose and departed: and Jonathan went into the city." His heart was no doubt very sad as he went on his solitary way into the wilderness. He was for the time being destined to live in dens and caves of the earth, and to be hunted like a beast of prey. Jonathan returned to the city. He gave up a friend only, but David had parted with all. Many and sad are the separations in this life, but there will be a grand reunion in heaven.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials. Address

Nervous Prostration.

[From the Star, Washington, D. C.]

We Americans hurry too much. We do not take time enough for our meals. We haste to get rich, and wear out our bodies by the strain on our nerves. The result is nervous prostration. Probably there is no remedy which will reach all cases. Pink Pills come nearer being a specific for it than anything we know, however, and we have just interviewed two Washington people who have tried them for this malady in order to get some local testimony. The first is W. Henrich Robb, of 809 New Jersey Avenue, N. W.:

"For a long time, said Mr. Robb, I suffered horribly with nervous prostration, and tried many physicians and various highly recommended remedies without experiencing the slightest benefit. Last fall my business called me to Pittsburgh, Pa., and while there my mother, who remained in Washington, wrote recommending that I should try Pink Pills. To please her I procured a box. At this time and for a long period previous my condition was most deplorable. I could not walk alone, and had I attempted to do so would have fallen. After I had taken them for a month I felt stronger than I had for many months. I should have mentioned that, until I had been taking the Pink Pills for about a week and for a long time before, I had to force myself to eat, but after the first box of pills had been used by me my appetite returned and I was able to eat ravenously. I should also have said that when I began taking the Pink Pills my legs had become, as seemed to me, like wooden legs, and my body was fast becoming in the same condition. The use of two boxes of Pink Pills, however, drove all this trouble away, and I regard them as a wonderful medicine."

Miss C. E. Lewis, No. 1228 N St., northwest, one of the teachers in Miss Payne's School of Cookery, says: "Dr. Williams' Medicine Company's Pink Pills have been of great benefit to my health. I am very much averse to talking for publication, but feel that I ought to testify briefly to the facts in my case. I had suffered from nervousness for a long time and was all run down. I tried various remedies but none of them did me any good. Last summer while in Delaware I was told of some wonderful cures that had been effected by means of the Pink Pills, and bought a box. They helped me wonderfully after taking them for the past few weeks. I have been entirely cured of what was a severe and prolonged attack of nervous prostration."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain, in a condensed form, all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, such as suppressions, irregularities and all forms of weakness. They build up the blood and restore the glow of health to pale and sallow cheeks. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork or excesses of whatever nature. Pink Pills are sold in boxes (never in loose bulk) at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50, and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y.

Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute, Tuskegee, Ala.

Dr. J. L. M. Curry, agent for the Peabody and Slater Funds, visited the school recently. A powerful and instructive talk was given by him to the students before taking his leave.

The demand for graduates to teach in and to establish industrial schools is greater than can be supplied. Recently a call came to the school for graduates to establish an industrial school in Louisiana.

Besides doing all the printing for the school, our printing office does a large amount of work for citizens in and around Macon county. All of the work is done by students.

The school has secured a brickmaking machine, which is claimed to make 20,000 bricks per day. Heretofore, bricks have been made by hand at the rate of about 8,000 per day. All of this work is now done by students. Mr. Wm. Gregory, a graduate of this school, has charge of this department. ISAAC FISHER.

THAT GLORIOUS ANTHEM.

Soon may the last glad song arise,
Through all the millions of the skies;
That song of triumph which records
That all the earth is now the Lord's.

Let thrones, and powers, and kingdoms be
Obedient, mighty God, to thee;
And over land, and stream, and main,
Now wave the scepter of thy reign.

O let that glorious anthem swell;
Let host to host the triumph tell,
Till not one rebel heart remains,
But over all the Savior reigns.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—The Epworth editor of the Omaha Christian Advocate, speaking of Dr. Steel of the Epworth Era, says: "He is a representation of the young generation of the South. He seeks and enjoys a genuine fraternity with the North. Dr. Steel is a friend of the Negro race, and advocates a vigorous education of them by his own church." We can appreciate our brother's desire to cultivate social and fraternal relations with the good Dr. Steel; but we must inform him that if the editor of the Epworth Era is responsible for the utterances of his late "on the wing" letter, that he cannot expect to, nor does he enjoy, genuine fraternity with the North, whom he has charged with proceeding on a wrong theory, the deplored lynchings in the South being the result of their mistaken policy. Nor is he a friend of the Negro, whom he characterizes as worthless, good for nothing, without morals, insolent, lustful and trifling. We hope our Omaha brother will not be caught in a delusion and a snare.

"There is an alleged 'son of a genuine African king,' known as Monzarro, and his troupe 'faking' Ohio and adjacent States, that should be given a wide berth by our ministers and churches particularly. He has recently been here in Cleveland. The last time we saw the fellow he was about as full of liquor as he could be and walk. He makes a special effort to 'show' in churches. Watch for him and spread the news."

We clip the above from the Cleveland (Ohio) Gazette, one of the strongest and best of our race journals. We publish it especially for the benefit of some of the pastors in New Orleans as well as other pastors outside of our city. Our readers will doubtless remember, we called attention to this impostor more than a year ago; besides we had personal conversations with some of our preachers on the subject; notwithstanding, in the very face of our advice editorially and counsels personally, arrangements were made by several pastors hereabouts to give this "faker" and his crowd the right of way in our churches. There can be but one reason given by pastors who persist in the employment of such questionable persons and methods, and that is a desire to make money. And money is made frequently, but at the expense of the sanctity of our houses of worship and the morality of the people.

—It gives us no little pleasure to notice the increasing interest manifested in the SOUTHWESTERN by our Methodist women. Sister Nancy Anderson, of Gallatin, Tenn., says: "The SOUTHWESTERN is indeed a welcome visitor to my home. It is so full of information; just the kind needed by Methodist women, and men also. So helpful in building up the various [illegible] our Church work. It has been [illegible] up our church [illegible] revived

EMANCIPATION DAY.

The SOUTHWESTERN takes pleasure in calling attention to the celebration of a day that means so much to the Afro-American of this country. The first day of next January will be the thirty-second anniversary of the day which commemorates the emancipation of more than four and a half million of slaves. Every instinct of patriotism, love of country, and of race, should inspire our people to make this day a day of general rejoicing and thanksgiving. We call on all our pastors to see to it that the occasion is appropriately celebrated by their churches, Sunday Schools, Epworth Leagues, and other organizations. Arrange appropriate programs. Let the voice of singing and prayer and praise be heard throughout our whole patronizing territory. Begin at once, and make thorough preparations, and let the occasion be one that will never be forgotten. Let the lessons of the great emancipation be the keynote in all the exercises. It would give fresh impetus to the spread of religious literature among our people, if at every place where an emancipation celebration is held, that subscribers be secured for the SOUTHWESTERN. The managers of the meetings could easily devote a few minutes in canvassing for the official organ of our Church.

THE REIGN OF LAWLESSNESS.

A short time ago a Negro (who of course confessed his crime) was lynched by a mob at Frederick, Md. It was said to be a bad case, and that the Negro ravisher deserved death. The poorly-guarded jail was easily broken open and the terrified prisoner was taken out by an enraged mob of the best citizens (?) of course. When they arrived at the place of execution, the Negro asked for some one to pray for him. It is said that a Salvation Army girl came forward and offered prayers for the doomed Negro, after which he was "strung up to a tree and his black carcass riddled with bullets" by the gentlemen who were present.

On Saturday, Nov. 23, at Crystal Springs, Miss., a Negro who had been tried for alleged complicity in the murder of a white man several years ago, and having been sentenced to the penitentiary for life, was on his way to the State prison in charge of a deputy sheriff and others, was taken from the custody of these officials by a mob of bloodthirsty murderers; it is said from Copiah county—famous for its record in killing Negroes. Of course, the prisoner was put to death in the usual way by the distinguished Mississippians. Governor Stone has offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of each one of the mob engaged in the lynching. Not a man will be convicted even if arrested; or if convicted, they would be speedily liberated, as was the case of the notorious white cap, Will Purvis, who was liberated by a party of Mississippi gentlemen after he had been tried and sentenced to be hanged a short time ago.

Meanwhile, several Southern religious journals are stirring up the people against the whole race of Negroes as being worthless, indolent, insolent, vicious, etc., because forsooth some of the race are accused of "outraging white women," which in the eyes of some Southern white people is the unpardonable sin. We insist upon it that many more innocent Negroes than guilty suffer for their crimes. And we say without hesitation, that the secular and religous press of the South, when it expresses sympathy for the lynchers, and its sweeping denciation of all Negroes for the crimes committed by some of them, will be held responsible to God and outraged justice for the [illegible]

DR. STEELE'S INTERROGATIVE PARTICLE.

"Now, if the Negro is not to be exterminated by the superior white race, among whom he is obliged to live, his morals must improve; and the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, whose ministry is everywhere in the land where the Negro lives, ought to give him the Gospel. Do it by a purely missionary policy. Appoint, if there is no other way, missionaries to the Negroes, just as we do to the Chinese or the Indians. Let them be gradually formed into Sunday Schools and congregations of the M. E. Church, South. Let us try that policy. The conditions are difficult, but the demand is urgent. I wish that a beginning might be made by my own (the North Mississippi) conference, and that the preachers would resolve that where ten colored children could be gotten together a Sunday School should be formed, and that congregations should be organized and regularly supplied with the Gospel. I believe that in a few years it would work beneficent results, and go far to change the conditions of society. We have held off and given the North a fair chance long enough."

Taking more than a superficial view of the doctor's important query, we beg to assure him that there is hardly any probability of the extermination of the Negro by the "superior white race." We are glad to know, however, that when putting the two contingencies together, Negro extinction or evangelization, that the doctor not only chooses the latter, but urges it with characteristic eloquence and energy. We are heartily in favor of improving the morals of the Negro, and would not object to having it done as a missionary policy. In fact, we like the whole plan proposed; but sorry to say, we have but little confidence in its application by either the doctor's conference or those in the conferences in adjacent States. Somehow, we cannot resist the conviction that the studied indifference of many of the brethren of the good Doctor has not only not been helpful to the work of improving the Negro's morals, but has absolutely contributed toward the deterioriation of many. "The Methodist Episcopal Church South, whose ministry is everywhere in the land where the Negro lives, ought to give him the Gospel." [Italics ours.] Yes, assuredly; but it reveals a very unfraternal, it not un-Christian, spirit to say that that Church has been holding aloof from this work to give the North "a fair chance." It is a fearful confession, and a much more fearful responsibility. Now, then, if the North has failed to improve the Negro during thirty years of freedom, then the logical conclusion is that the South has not only manifested unpardonable neglect, but is responsible to some extent for the Negro's alleged immoral condition. Looking at this question from every practical standpoint we are forced more and more to the conclusion that the spirit which prompts any member of any Evangelical Church to despise and neglect a man because of the color of his skin is not in harmony with the Sermon on the Mount.

—Rev. John H. Jackson, pastor of our church at Falmouth, Ky., sends the following note: "Brother Elzie Hughes, a faithful member of Allen M. E. Church, died November 2, in full triumph of faith, aged 68 years, thirty of which he had lived an acceptable member of the church. He leaves a wife and a host of friends to mourn." How truly it is, "We are passing away like a short winter day." Brother Hughes was a substantial and loyal friend to our cause at Falmouth and our brethren of the Lexington District will recall many kind offices performed by this good servant of God and his estimable wife. But the crossing is near, and we will meet again. Let us gird up our loins and be ready.

OUR CONNECTIONAL BENEVOLENCES.

General Committee Meeting.

The meeting of the General Committee of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society in Chicago, November 11-12, 1895, was an occasion of very great interest. Of the bishops there were present: Bowman, Foster, Merrill, Andrews, Foss, Hurst, Ninde, Mallalieu, FitzGerald, Joyce, Newman and Goodsell. Bishop Walden is in China. Bishop Walden was providentially detained in Denver, Col. Bishops Fowler and Vincent were unable to be present. The officers of the board were all present, as follows: Drs. Hartzell and Hamilton, corresponding secretaries; Dr. Mason, assistant corresponding secretary; Dr. Rees, recording secretary; Dr. Cranston, treasurer, and Dr. Hunt, of New York, assistant treasurer.

From the General Conference Districts there were present: Rev. Drs J. M. Burrell, of New Hampshire; G. S. Wight, of New Jersey; Hard, of Pennsylvania; Freshwater, of Ohio; Carter, of Tennessee; Shier, of Michigan; Fleming, of Iowa; Chaffee, of Minnesota; Huntington, of Nebraska; Bentley, of Missouri; Scott, of Texas; Barth, of St. Louis, and Wilding, of Vancouver, Washington. Dr. Swindella, of Philadelphia, was present to fill the vacancy caused by the death during the past year of Dr. Hargis of the same city.

The representatives of the Board of Managers present were: Rev. Drs. Rust, Golder, Marlay, Courtney, Runyan, Hickman, Hayes, Pearson, Stowe, Johnson and Mr. George R. Johnson.

Monday night an anniversary mass meeting was held in Clark Street Church and a very large audience was present. Bishop Merrill presided. Bishop Joyce made a very strong address, and was followed by Dr. Mason in an effective presentation of the work. After this, a large number of stereopticon views, showing our schools in the South, with their buildings and students, were exhibited. The effect was most excellent in creating an enthusiasm in behalf of the work. The choir of St. Mark's M. E. Church rendered excellent music. Miss Linebarger added to the interest of the occasion by rendering several cornet solos.

Monday morning a large audience of ministers and laymen were present at the regular hour of the Chicago Preachers' Meeting. Dr. Parkhurst, on behalf of the ministers of Chicago and vicinity, introduced by Dr. Van Anda, who delivered an address of welcome. Rev. R. S. Rust, D. D., honorary corresponding secretary of the society, spoke in response. Both addresses were eloquent and appropriate, and were received with applause.

Bishop Ninde then took the chair and the sessions of the committee began. Dr. Hartzell, the senior corresponding secretary of the society, presented the annual report of the Board of Managers. The report set forth a number of very interesting and encouraging facts. Local self-help among the students and our Southern Conferences is being greatly increased. The students last year gave, in room rent and tuition, $57,553 15, being an increase over the year preceding.

Institutions of Learning.

The report shows that during the year 22 institutions among the colored people, with 223 regular and 81 practice teachers and 4845 pupils had been maintained. Also, 22 schools among the white people, with 144 regular and 25 practice teachers and 3880 students, being a total teaching force of 473 and a total enrollment of 8725. The courses of study in two institutions among the white people and ten among the colored, rank with the average colleges North. This fact has been decided by the University Senate.

The Church has 138 schools of all grades in the United States, and 44, or one-third, of these are those of this society, whose property represents one seventh the value of the lands and buildings of the whole 138 institutions. One-fifth of the 2045 professors and teachers in the Methodist Episcopal schools of the United States are appointed and almost wholly supported by this society; and of the 36,374 students in all our Church schools in the United States 8725, or nearly one-fourth, are in the institutions of learning under the direction of this board.

School Property and Receipts and Expenditures.

The property of these institutions amounts to about 42,000,000, nearly all of which is owned by this society. The following is a summary of receipts and expenditures for the year:

The above recapitulation shows that from the usual sources $292,809 59 were received. As compared with the preceding year this shows a decrease in conference collections of $7,950 87; an increase in annuities of $9,150; an increase in bequests of $12,249 25; an increase from endowment funds of $2,894 85; an increase in tuition from students of $2,781 61; an increase in donations to individual schools of $16,564 31 in cash, and $20,000 in land, and an increase from miscellaneous sources of $16,249 74. The net increase from these regular sources, exclusive of bond and loan accounts, is $49,826 08.

The above facts were received with great satisfaction, as indicating the continued hold our educational work in the South has upon thoughtful and conscientious givers.

Expenditures for the Year.

The fact was especially gratifying that $250,560 27 had been expended during the year directly in school work. Of this amount $46,961 52 had gone into lands and buildings.

Boarding Halls.

One of the difficult administrative problems in connection with the larger schools in the South is maintaining boarding hall accommodations at prices that the students are able to pay, and at the same time to prevent the halls from running in debt. This victory has been won, and last year thirteen of these halls paid their way, and some made a slight profit. The total receipts from these halls were $35,026 76. No account is taken of these boarding halls' receipts and expenditures in the financial exhibit of the society. The cost of board and room and incidental fees for the students range from $7 to $12 per month. The most remarkable success in collecting students' bills thus far, has been at the New Orleans University, where, out of bills of various kinds, during the last seven years, aggregating over $60,000, less than $400 remain uncollected.

Indebtedness.

The tide has at last turned, and a reduction of $11,241 63 was made during last year in the indebtedness of the society, but it is yet entirely too large to be comfortable, and the committee continued its wise and conservative policy to provide for its further reduction as rapidly as possible. The debt amounted, June 30, 1895, to $185,390 40. The debt of the society has been funded at 5 per cent. It has been a growth since the organization of the society, which began its work on $1500 of borrowed money. In 1887 the indebtedness was $93,411 29. The development in so brief a period of so great an educational system among a people too poor to provide for themselves, required from the very beginning such large expenditures for lands and buildings as to entail a debt. If necessary, lands adjacent to some of our schools, which have been bought to be held for endowments, will be sold, but the hope is that the Church will increase its contributions so that this need not be done.

All bequests not otherwise specified, and all receipts from the annual conferences, beyond what is necessary for the current expenses, have been set apart to pay the indebtedness.

Florida's Disgrace.

Florida has a law making it a penal offence for any individual, body of individuals, corporation or association to conduct any school wherein white persons and Negroes are instructed or boarded in the same building, or taught in the same school, or at the same time by the same teacher. The effect which this may have upon our institution at Jacksonville was discussed, and the action of the board, which has opened the school, and has determined that if any of our teachers, or officers who may be in the State, were molested, they would not shrink from whatever contest should result, was unanimously and heartily approved.

Annual Conference Collections.

The most discouraging fact in connection with the work is the decrease in annual conference collections, resulting, as the committee believes, not from lack of interest in the work among our people, but from lack of information and the proper opportunity to contribute in the congregation. The address of Bishop Foss on this point was clear and strong. He said that there was no recognized authority which could rightfully interpose between the pastor and the congregation to prevent the presentation of our benevolences once a year in every congregation, and to permit all persons to contribute directly as they may desire. The growing practice of "omnibusing" the collections be regarded as unmethodistic, especially as applied to the larger collections, including that of this society. The matter was referred to a special committee, of which he was chairman, and part of the report of that committee, which was unanimously adopted, was as follows:

Resolved, That we respectfully and earnestly memorialize the General Conference to direct every pastor to present the needs of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society in every congregation under his charge, on a Sabbath day, and take a collection and subscriptions for this society, separate from all other causes.

Appropriations for 1895-6.

The society is now in the midst of the scholastic year of 1895-6, but in view of the low appropriations made, some additional help was given to schools where the out in the appropriations had borne the

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL

"Two years ago, I had the grippe, and it left me with a cough which gave me no rest night or day. My family physician prescribed for me, changing the medicine as often as he found the things I had taken were not helping me, but, in spite of his attendance, I got no better. Finally, my husband,—reading one day of a gentleman who had had the grippe and was cured by taking Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,—procured, for me, a bottle of this medicine, and before I had taken half of it, I was cured. I have used the Pectoral for my children and in my family, whenever we have needed it, and have found it a specific for colds, coughs, and lung troubles."—EMILY WOOD, North St., Elkton, Md. *

heaviest. These special donations amounted to $2500, which amounts were given direotly to aid the teachers in the several institutions.

Additional appropriations were made for the present year, also to complete building enterprises, provided the money is raised, as follows:

SUMMARY.

Samuel Houston College, Austin, Tex..	$10,000 00
Morristown Academy, Morristown Tenn..	0,000 00
Philander Smith College, Little Rock...	5,000 00
Bennett College, Greensboro, N. C	3,000 00
Murphy College, Sevierville (besides $100 appropriated on certain local conditions),	500 00
	$18,500 00

Appropriations for 1896-7.

The appropriations for 1896-7 were as follows:

Appropriated from general funds:
Schools among colored	$50,425 00
Schools among white	7,650 00
	$58,075 00
Appropriated from general funds for all other purposes	43,425 00	$101,500 00
Appropriated from special funds:
Schools among colored	$91,167 73
Schools among white	27,780 50	118,948 23
For buildings, contingent on being raised		28,500 00
		$248,048 23

The general funds include those which come directly to the treasury, and the special funds are those which are received at the schools, including donations, local collections, tuition, room rent, etc. These so-called special funds are increasing every year, and are reliable, and indicate the wise policy of the society in developing as rapidly as possible the financial independence of the schools.

Apportionments to Annual Conferences.

The total amount apportioned to the annual conferences is $250,098. The discrepancies between the apportionments to the conference and the amount annually raised created considerable discussion, but it was thought wiser to let the apportionments stand as they are as an expression of the judgment of the committee as to what the Church ought to raise, and what the work really needs. It was ordered that all conference collections received in excess of what had been appropriated for the regular expenses of the society should be applied toward the reduction of the indebtedness. This gives a definite appeal which pastors can present to their people, that by increasing their collections they not only insure the growth and success of the work, but they also aid in wiping out the indebtedness. It is sincerely hoped that this important suggestion may be considered favorably by all the pastors.

The Close of the Quadrennium.

This meeting was the fourth and last for the quadrennium. The committee, both in its public action and private consultations was unanimous in congratulating the society upon being enabled to close the quadrennium preparatory to General Conference with so many evidences of God's blessing. The conference collections during this quadrennium, as compared with the preceding, show an increase of $63,718 57, and the receipts from all sources during the quadrennium, as compared with the preceding, show an increase during the quadrennium of $259,363 14.

The total amount expended since the organization of the society, in 1866, is $4,149,693 90. The indebtedness is larger than it was four years ago, but this increase is largely apparent, and has not come from the ordinary expenses of maintaining the schools. It must be remembered, also, that among our fixed expenses is the annual interest upon our indebtedness, which, exclusive of annities, amounted during the quadrennium to $33,650 87. Again, at several institutions, there were claims which had not been included in the society's debt. These have either been paid or are included in the indebtedness. Some special funds, because of exigencies in the past have been used in the general work. These have either been paid, or are included in the indebtedness. Some special funds, because of exigencies in the past, have been used in the general work. These have all been repaid and invested. Contracts had been made, which had to be carried out, that involved increased expenditures, notably Rust University and George R. Smith College. The real estate of the society has increased in value more than $125,000 during the quadrennium.

Annual Meeting of the General Missionary Committee.

We are under obligations to the Central Christian Advocate for the report which we here give, regretting, of course, that our space is so limited that we cannot give the report in full:

During two quadrenniums the policy has obtained of holding the sessions of this great body in various cities of the country, rather than in New York, where it used to be held regularly in November of each year. This year, by pre-arrangement, it has fallen to the lot of Denver to entertain the Committee. Of course the special place in Denver in which the body held its session was Trinity Church, one of the most commodious and graceful structures in the country.

Bishop Joyce occupied the chair at the opening session and Rev. Dr. S. F. Upham, of Drew Seminary, conducted the devotions. After the roll call by Rev. Dr. Baldwin, recording secretary, the report of the treasurer was read by the treasurer, Rev. Dr. Sanford Hunt. The salient items in this report are as follows, representing the state of the treasury Nov. 1, 1895:

The total receipts last year were	1,137,807 86

Additional "special gifts" for India, Italy, China, and other foreign countries, amounting to $68,000 have been sent out during the year, in addition to the sum of $1,174,554, above indicated, making the entire receipts for the year $1,242,554, the largest sum ever given by our Church for missions in any year in our history except in 1892, when the gross receipts reached a somewhat larger figure.

Grand total	$1,237,845 62

The first matter of moment facing the Committee concerned the amount of money to be appropriated for all purposes for the coming year. The amount of the debt—in round numbers $239,000—occasioned some anxiety, while at the same time the appeals for help and the openings and opportunities for missionary enterprise, in our own country and in foreign lands, are so abundant, so urgent, and so fraught with tokens of providential direction, as to make it almost imperative that no mission shall be weakened, and no missionary recalled. A most interesting discussion, covering all the phases of the situation, took place, shared in by Bishops Foss, Fowler and Merrill, Rev. Dr. Sanford Hunt, Rev. Dr. Leonard, Mr. E. B. Tuttle, Rev. Dr. Crawford, Chas. Scott, Esq., and others. After careful consideration the amount of one million dollars was adopted as the sum to be used for the whole work, in home and foreign fields, for the incoming year. This sum is $71,000 less than the amount appropriated to the entire field last year.

It was resolved that fifty-five percent of the amount to be appropriated shall be used in the foreign and forty-five percent in the home field.

Appropriations to conferences north of the Potomac and Ohio and east of the Mississippi rivers were made as follows: Detroit, $4,550; East Maine, $1,675; Maine, $1,260; Michigan, $4,100; New Hampshire, $1,210; Northern New York, $1,116; Troy, $840; Vermont, $1,260; West Wisconsin, $4,180; Wilmington, $500; Wisconsin, $3,700.

The conferences in Iowa, Kansas and Oklahoma, and states north of them, including Black Hills, were next considered, and appropriations were made in aid of the work in that section as follows: Black Hills, $4,500; for schools, $1,000; Des Moines, 1,134; Kansas, $1,300; Minnesota, $3,580; Minnesota Northern, 5,485; North Dakota, $9,000; Northwest Iowa, $3,720; Northwest Kansas, $7,000; South Dakota, $11,000; South Kansas, $1,500; Southwest Kansas, $6,000.

Domestic missions in the Rocky Mountain region were decided upon as follows: Arizona, $6,100; Colorado, 8,835; Idaho, $4,650; Montana, $5,778; Nevada, $4,000; New Mexico English, 5,500; North Montana, $4,000; Utah (for work) $9,000, Utah (for schools), $3,000.

The Pacific Coast region was carefully studied. The following appropriations were made: California, $6,115; Southern California, $5,000.

Our work among the white population in the Southern States was then considered. The following appropriations after due discussion of various phases of the situation, were decided upon: Alabama, $2,790; Arkansas, $4,650; Austin, $3,720; Blue Ridge, $3,255; Central Tennessee, $3,162; Georgia, 2,325; Gulf Mission, $1 600; Holston, $2,800; Kentucky, $4,371; Missouri, $3,620; St. John's River, $3,200; St. Louis, $4,800; Virginia, $3,500; West Virginia, $5,000.

Also to Nebraska, $3,000; North Nebraska, $6,200; Northwest Nebraska; $4,000; West Nebraska, $8,000.

Appropriations to the colored conferences are as follows: Central Alabama, $2,650; Central Missouri, $2,883; Delaware, $1,488; East Tennessee, $2,000; Florida, $2,100; Lexington, $2,418; Little Rock, $2,600; Louisiana, $3,720; Mississippi, $2,000; North Carolina, $3,000; Savannah, $2,790; South Carolina, $3,720; Tennessee, $1,950; Texas, 3,720; Upper Mississippi, 2,560; Washington, $1,860; West Texas, $3,900.

The Welsh missions in this country were considered, and these amounts, after deliberation, were appropriated: Northern New York, $300; Wyoming, $300; Rock River, $500.

The Swedish missions in this country, scattered through various sections, received as follows: Austin, $1,395; California, $2,325; Central Swedish, $4,000; Colorado, $372; East Maine, $372; New York, $930; New York East, $3,000; New England, $5,000; New England Southern, $1,700; Northern Swedish, $5,300; Puget Sound, $2,000; Western Swedish, $4,700; Wilmington, $582.

Erysipelas

Has been my affliction from childhood. It was caused by impure blood and every spring I was sure to have a long spell and my general health would give way. Doctors did me but little good and I became despondent. Last spring erysipelas settled in my eyes and I became totally blind for several weeks. Hood's Sarsaparilla was recommended and after taking one bottle my sight gradually returned, my blood became purified and I was restored to good health. ART THOU FOR US, OR AGAINST US.

Our own Methodist Episcopal press has rendered heroic service to the black man in the great discussions touching his status in the Church and in the Nation. He has found in most of our official, and several of our semi-official, journals strong, encouraging support. Indeed we could wish that with united voice from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Lakes to the Gulf, our press especially would not only be united, but speak out fearlessly, boldly and unequivocally in defense of our unfortunate "Brother in Black." If ever there was a time when the Negro needed strong and influential friends at the bar of public opinion, that time is now. The Methodist Episcopal Church has spoken in her official capacity in favor of his advancement in no equivocal terms. The following from the address of the bishops at our late General Conference is of unusual significance to-day: "We have always affirmed them to be our brothers of the same blood and stock of all the races which compose one common humanity. As such we have claimed for them the same rights and privileges which belong to all other branches of the common family. This is our unqualified position now." [Italics ours.]

These are the sentiments of our beloved Church, and we believe we can gain nothing by suppressing them or by apologizing for them. Of course there can and must be no compromise. Let our press stand for the rights of their fellow-sufferers in the South, as it does for those in Asia or Turkey, and backed by the spirit and power of a mighty ecclesiastical organization, even Cæsar will hear. The SOUTHWESTERN is in the midst of the battle. It has not knowingly retreated or thought of doing so. It fully recognizes its great privileges as an official organ of the Methodist Episcopal Church. As such it ought to have the right of way to every Southern Methodist's home, and thousands more of readers in the North. If it cannot often have the personal touch with its Northern contemporaries it would be inspired by the reflection that they are in full sympathy with the course which it has been and is pursuing with reference to the rights of our "brethren in bonds."

SOME HINDRANCES TO THE NEGRO.

Some modern writers, tourists and other interested or disinterested persons are diligently, persistently and earnestly giving to the readers of the various secular and religious journals the benefit of their observations on the great "Negro Question," which is one of the most important questions ever presented to the American people. The following, clipped from the Boston Transcript, and republished by Zion's Herald, from whose column we take the clipping, is suggestive:

"No people on the face of the earth are more priest-ridden than the Southern Negroes, or contribute to a more unworthy cause, it being undeniable that the plantations of the South swarm with 'churches' and 'preachers' of every known denomination, very few of whom can read a word; hence, their teachings are anything but Scriptural, their 'religion' generally a grotesque mixture of dreams, visions and physical manifestations, their examples anything but moral; yet it seems to suit a class of people in the South, brought up in the ignorance and vices of slavery, scarcely removed from the heathen customs and superstitious from Africa. Such preaching draws the crowd by pandering to their ignorance and defending their vices and immoralities as not incompatible with religion."

The colored people of the South do indeed have plenty of preachers, churches and denominations. It is equally true that in some places they are actually priest-ridden, and that there are dreams, manifestations, visions, etc., which at times places orthodox Christianity at a terrible discount. It is also true that in some cases, far too many, there is evidence of great moral decadence with but feeble protest against it by those who know and do better. But Mr. Grinstead is probably not as conversant with the causes of these things as he is with their results. Of course, the ancestors of these people were brought from Africa and kept under a system of bondage, which was not conducive to their highest moral and spiritual development. There was a vast difference between the civilization of the mansion and that of the cabin. It would be mere nonsense to suppose that the people who were by virtue of this enforced condition of servitude could find time to study or practice the ethics of the Christian religion. It was not the policy of those who believed in the institution of slavery to advance their bond people along lines which would indicate their social, moral and intellectual development. Such a proceedure would be out of all harmony with the spirit of the institution which they fostered and for which they were willing to sacrifice their lives. When freedom came, these people were thrust out with their crude ideas as to religion and the other habits and practices which were essential to their development. It should be steadily kept in mind that when help was offered to mold this shapeless mass into something presentable, that that help was persistently and sullenly refused for the most part by those who had recently ceased to be their masters. Nor has that opposition ceased unto this day. The good Christian people who are giving their means and making great sacrifices to improve the religions and moral condition of these same people of which Mr. Grinsted writes, are even to-day opposed with a persistency worthy of a better cause. That is the reason why the Negro in many instances does not measure up to the standard.

A LETTER AND A REPLY.

MARSHALL, Texas, Nov. 24, 1895.

Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, D. D., New Orleans, La.:

My Dear Brother—I have read with disgust the editorial of Dr. S. A. Steel, in the Epworth Era of Oct. 31, and think that the Negro should have the other side of the picture in the matter. It seems evident that the honored gentleman is determined to make the world believe that the position he sustained with reference to the Negro at the late Epworth League convention, was right and true. His latest utterances convince me that he is an outright enemy to the race. Please do not think me assuming in the matter of calling your attention to the editorial; it has burdened my soul, and I have watched for some vindication of the race through the Methodist press, and saw only a clipping in Zion's Herald under the caption—"Are these things so?" I am of the opinion that such charges will work detrimental to our highest good in public favor, especially when all sectional lines are being so rapidly obliterated and leaving the Negro to vindicate his own claims. I write you simply because I know what position the SOUTHWESTERN occupies with reference to all such prejudice and balderdash.

With best wishes, I remain yours fraternally,
J. H. REED, Box 111.

In reply to the above, I beg leave to say that my seeming tardiness in replying to the Steel editorial which was published in the Epworth Era of Oct. 31, is traceable to the following causes: First—The Era was not on our exchange list, and hence I could not notice the editorial referred to by brother Reed. Second—Our exchanges are often late, very late, in reaching this office, which is, of course, a very great inconvenience to the editor in a great many ways. Third—I had not noticed the editorial in any of our exchanges until the arrival of Zion's Herald of Nov. 13, in which I read for the first time, under the caption of "Are these things so," the editorial reference; also an excerpt of the editorial of Dr. Steel, followed by other editorial mention by the editor of Zion's Herald. Owing to the late arrival of the Herald, which was about the 16th, probably the 18th, I could not notice the excerpt editorially in time for the following number of the SOUTHWESTERN. I prepared my reply for the number dated Nov. 28th, which Brother Reed and others of our readers have doubtless received.

E. W. S. HAMMOND.

We can hardly blame our brother for feeling indignant at the cruel and unnecessary attack upon the whole race; but we beg to assure him that this thrust at a defenseless race has not gone unnoticed by the journals of our own Church official and semi-official, some of which have spoken with an emphasis which is exceedingly gratifying to the colored members of our Church. We cordially join in the hope of Brother Reed and thousands of others of our people in this Southland, who love the Methodist Episcopal Church, and who believe that that great Church, as an acknowledged agency in the hands of Providence, has done more for their elevation than any other; that its great official organs may, with one accord, stand unequivocally in favor of the work which the Church is doing for her colored membership in the South as well as in the North. We would ask the same fearless and unequivocal defense on the part of our great semi-officials. The gauntlet has been thrown and the challenge accepted. Understanding the situation as we do, and believing in the righteousness of our cause, the SOUTHWESTERN could afford to stand alone in this great battle. But our contemporaries will not allow us to have a monopoly of this business.

EX-PRESIDENT HARRISON ON LYNCHING.

In a paper on "This Country of Ours" in the November number of the Ladies' Home Journal, our honored ex-president expresses himself on the monumental atrocity of the age in such a forcible and practical way as to convince even the most skeptical that the head and heart of the great American statesman is all right on the questions of law and order:

"A lynching is a usurpation—a dethronement of our constitutional king—the law—and the crowning of a cruel and unbridled tyrant. No excuses nor extenuation should be allowed, for none will hold in a State where the courts are in the orderly exercise of their powers, and the judges are subject to impeachment. The persons who are the victims of mob violence are mostly not the rich and influential, but the ignorant and the friendless—those of whom an undue influence with courts and juries cannot be predicated; and the imputed crimes are mostly of a nature to exclude the sympathy of the trial officers. The feet of justice may well be quickened without any loss of dignity or certainty; but the inquest, the open trial, the judicial sentence and execution are the constitutional rights of every man accused of crime; and every citizen is under the highest obligation to make the case his own when they are denied to any other citizen. A lynching brutalizes those who take part in it, and demoralizes those who consent to or excuse the act....There should be a medal of honor for the sheriff or jailor who, at the risk of his life, and in the face of an inflamed community, defends his prisoner against the mob. The man who loathes the guilty and cowering wretch in his custody, and yet dies to defend him because the law makes it his duty to keep him and to present him before the lawful tribunal, is worthy of a monument. I can think of no higher test of the loyalty of a soul to duty."

These are brave, noble words, and the man who thus deliberately and conscientiously utters them is worth ten thousand of those who, to gratify a morbid sentimentalism, are ever ready with their little pens and tongues to apologize for the wrongs inflicted upon an oppressed people.

A BEAUTIFUL CALENDAR FOR EVERY ADVOCATE HOME.

The patrons of the SOUTHWESTERN will be pleased to learn that its publishers have arranged to furnished every subscriber for 1896, old and new, with a copy of the EPWORTH CALENDAR FOR 1896 FREE OF CHARGE!

This calendar, printed in colors, is a handsome specimen of the lithograpic art, and is valuable and interesting as a souvenir of the great founder of Methodism. It contains a bust picture of John Wesley, copied from the most acceptable portrait of this distingnished man, who grows greater in the world's estimation as the years go by. Also pictures of the Epworth Rectory, Epworth Church, Wesley's Study, Old Clock, Teapot, Susannah Wesley's Grave, City Road Chapel, and Tombs of John Wesley and Adam Clarke. It also contains a selection of comforting and elevating thoughts from the writings of John and Charles Wesley and others. A calendar of some sort is to be found in most of the better homes of to-day. Surely none other would be so appropriate in a Methodist home as the ADVOCATE CALENDAR for 1896. Ready about December 1.

—We are pained to hear of the death of Bishop A. W. Wayman, of the A. M. E Church. The sad event occurred at his home in Baltimore, on Saturday last. We will give further particulars in another number.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

Everything printed concerning Lincoln the Great is read with avidity. The Christmas Century gives a chaptor under the title, "Appeals to Lincoln's Clemency."

Mrs. Burton Harrison, James Whitcomb Riley, J. T. Trowbridge. George Parsons Lathrop and Robert Louis Stevenson are among the contributors to the Christmas St. Nicholas.

A trio of stories fitting the season, and of just the right length, starts the list of good things in the Thanksgiving Youth's Companion. It is followed by an exciting account of a wolf-hunt, by J. E. Chamberlin, while a liberal supply of miscellany, of a most interesting and instructive order, helps fill the number.

The complete novel in the December issue of Lippincott's is the "Old Silver Trail," by Mary E. Stickney. It deals with Colorado mining. Under the title "Opposing View-Points," Frederic M. Bird considers the question whether editor and contributor are natural enemies.

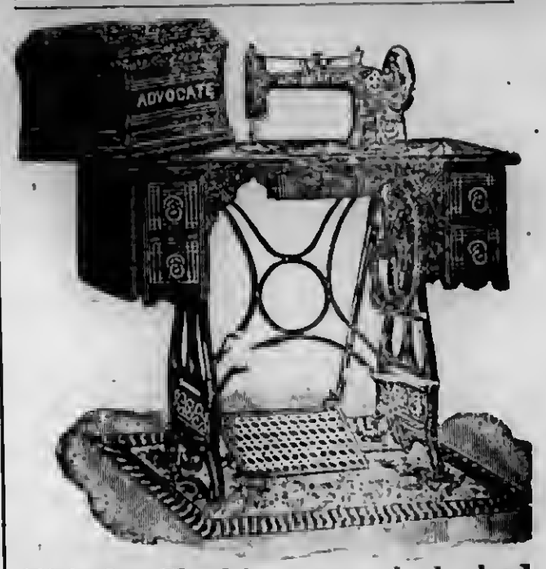
Mary E. Wilkins has done something new in the piece of work just completed and given by her to The Ladies' Home Journal for publication. It is a series of "Neighborhood Types." These "types" are the most unique characters, and are found in a supposed New England village; There are six "types," and all are illustrated.

"Calendar of Southern Beauties," by Caroline C. Lovell.



This unique calendar for 1896 of some noted Southern beauties is a wonderfully attractive souvenir. The fac-simile sketches of water-color designs increases its beauty. The publishers have thus furnished an interesting and useful leaflet.

Frederick A. Stokes & Co., publishers and importers, 27-29 W. 23d street, New York. For sale by Geo. F. Wharton, 212 Carondelet street, New Orleans. Price, $1 50.

Littell's Living Age for 1896. The announcement of a reduction in the price of this famous eclectic from eight dollars to six dollars a year will prove of more than usual interest to lovers of choice literature. Founded in 1844, it will soon enter its fifty-third year of a continuous and successful career seldom equalled. This standard weekly is the oldest, as it is the best, concentration of choice periodical literature. To those whose means are limited it must meet with especial favor, for it offers them what could not otherwise be obtained except by a large outlay. For the amount and quality of the reading furnished, the new price makes The Living Age the cheapest as well as the best literary weekly in existence. Reduced clubbing rates with other periodicals offer still greater inducements, and to new subscribers remitting now for the year 1896, the intervening numbers of 1895 will be sent gratis. Littell & Co., Boston, are the publishers.

"Select Notes" A commentary on the Sunday School lessons for 1896. By F. N. and M. A. Peloubet. Illustrated. Cloth, $1 25. W. A. Wilde & Co., Boston.

This invaluable commentary stands in the very front rank of publications of its kind, having for twenty-one consecutive years presented just the doctrinal illustrations, instructing and illuminating anecdotes, comments, and explanations of the text that every scholar and teacher needed, to easily grasp the interior thoughts of the inspired writers. This volume for 1896 presents in its beautifully printed and judiciously illustrated pages an immense amount of culled matter, carefully edited and understandingly applied to the year's lesson. The lessons for the first six months are in Luke, and the notes are particularly well chosen, and clearly indicate the author's accurate knowledge of the Scriptures, as well as a wide reading of the thousands of volumes based on the life of our Master. The last six months are devoted to the Old Testament, in which field Dr Peloubet years ago earned an unrivaled reputation as an earnest student and an apt teacher, and his work in this volume is the outcome of his ripe scholarship and personal acquaintance and conception of the best method of applying Old Testament history and teachings to modern needs. The publishers have embellished the book with eight splendid full-page original illustrations from photographs secured this spring in Palestine. They will prove both interesting and instructive as being absolutely correct views of the subjects illustrated. Peloubet's "Select Notes" stand without a peer in their special field, and are, therefore, well worthy of increased use by both the teachers and scholars of every Sunday School using the International Lessons.

General Missionary Committee.

I write this at the close of the General Missionary Committee meeting at Denver. The committéo met under very embarrassing circumstances. The Missionary Society's debt had increased to nearly $240,000, and this necessitated a general cut of seven percent on nearly every work that receives missionary money. The spirit of the committee was to deal impartially as between the sections and the different nationalities, and I really believe our Southern work has no reason whatever to believe they were discriminated against. It is true, many of the members of the committee believe that our conferences at the South ought to drop a portion of their missionary money each year until it is all withdrawn; but the number who believe our conferences ought to be dealt with just as are the Northern conferences is sufficiently large to prevent any discrimination on those grounds. The majority believe in appropriating the money in hand according to the necessities of the work. Hence, the appropriations to most of our Southern work would be much larger than they are if the collections had not fallen off so greatly. I mention this because some of our brethren think we are not properly dealt with. Our friends on the committee are of two classes—those who think the missionary money we got is injuring us in that it is making us more and more dependent, and those who think it will not hurt Southern conferences any more than Northern, and that its withdrawal would be a real calamity to our work. Both seem equally honest, so I leave it with you to decide with which you agree. You will please understand, I have done my best for the conferences I represented, white and colored, and I can assure you there has been no heavier reduction on the appropriations to our work than on those to foreign lands.

I give the list of appropriations for my district for 1896: Arkansas, $4,650; Austin, $3,720; Central Alabama, $2,650; Central Missouri, $2,883; Little Rock, $2,418; Louisiana, $3,720; Mississippi, $2,000; Tennessee, $1,950; Texas, $3,720; Upper Mississippi, $2,560; West Texas, $3,900.

Missions: Gulf Mission, $1,600; Italian Mission, $1,200; Swedish Mission, $1,395.

Heed the Warning.

Most every one will remember how the Keely Bi-chlorate of Gold, for the cure of drunkards, was imitated by frauds all over the country. So it is now with the Oil Cure for Cancer. Many imitators are advertising to cure with oils, with the hope of making money from the reputation our Oils have made. We send a book free, which tells all about our discovery and price of Oils. DR. D. M. BYE,

HIGH GATE, MO., Sept. 3, 1895.

Dr. D. M. Bye, Indianapolis, Ind.:

DEAR SIR AND BRO.—The place where the cancer came out on my face is healed up nicely, and there has been quite a number of people that have come to see me and look at the place, and I am doing all I can for you. I am so thankful to God and to you for the cure of my cancer that I cannot express my feeling as I wish; but God knows my heart, and may God's blessing rest on you and family, and may you live long to cure cancers and other diseases, and if I never see you on earth I hope to meet you in heaven. Your sister in Christ, LOUEASY NEEPER.

ELMIRA, N. Y., Sept. 23, 1895.

Dr. D. M. Bye, Indianapolis, Ind.:

KIND SIR—I am now very happy that I can say to you that my face is entirely healed; it commenced healing soon after I wrote you last. I feel very grateful that I learned of your Combination Oil Cure. Now, in regard to my rectal trouble, I used the last of the Oils you sent for rectal trouble August 19th, and I feel that what I did use helped me—and perhaps cured me, or nearly so, as I have not had any discharge of pus since. Do you think I should have further treatment for that trouble? If so, let me know.

Yours respectfully,
MRS. WILSON HIBBARD,
66 Park Place.

MARSHFIELD, MASS., Oct. 3, 1895.

DEAR DOCTOR—The cancer on my face, I am very thankful to write, has healed. It healed very slow, but very nicely. I should have written to you sooner.

Very gratefully,
MRS. JNO. MAGOWN.

Too Late.

MARIANNA, FLA., March 15, 1895.

DEAR DOCTOR—Since I heard from you I have parted with the nearest and dearest friend on earth—my mother. I feel satisfied you did all you could; but, alas, it was too late. She has gone to a home with her God, free from all this world of trouble. Her last request was that I write to you thanking you for the ease she received while life lasted. Oh, if we only had known of your Oil sooner, I feel sure to-day I would have had a mother. I think it one of the greatest medicines on earth, and do truly hope that every other sufferer may get it before it is too late.

Many thanks for the large portion of Oil you sent; it did me good to have plenty to use, even when I knew death was near. May God bless you shall ever be my prayer.

Yours in grief, ANNIE VICKERY.

"A Good One, Though"—Another Chattanooga Incident.

"When I was in Chattanooga" has come to be almost as stereotyped as "When I was at the World's Fair" or "When I was in college." Nevertheless there is at least one more episode or incident which I have thonght worthy of record. On the Snnday morning of the great Epworth Leagne convention, a few of us from the North took it into our heads to use the opportunity of visitiog one of the colored ohurches, and hearing one of the prominent representatives of the colored race. We first went to a small Baptist Church, where the editor of the SOUTHWESTERN was advertised to preach. Owing to some misnnderstanding, or other mishap, Dr. Hammond failed to appear at the appointed hour. Onr little group quietly retired and went over to a oolored Congregational Chnrch, where Dr. Bowen had heen advertised to preach. As we had already heard Dr. Bowen's splendid address (none better, in our jndgment) dnring the convention, we were more than delighted with the prospect of hearing him preach. At the door we asked an usher if we were correctly informed about the announcement; he said we were, and gave ns seats. Bnt Dr. Bowen was not in sight. A minister arose and announced a hymn. We inqnired of another usher who came to give us hymn books, and he told us that Dr. Bowen had been snddenly called ont of the city the night before. Disappointed again; but still bent on hearing some "notahle," we qnietly withdrew when the oongregation stood to siug the opening hymn. Just as we came ont we passed a oompany just arriving at the ohnrch, evidently regular attendants. As we passed them I happened to remark to onr oompany, "I presnme that man is only the pastor of the chnrch." One of the ladies in the company approaohing the chnrch heard my remark and retorted, "a good one, though." We passed on, indnlging some wholeseme reflections. Happy the pastor, we thought, who has members who will speak up for him and stand by him, even when notables are in town. We went to another churoh and heard a good sermon from a colored preacher, bnt more abiding is the sister's remark abont her pastor—"a good one, though."

Lient. Yonng is preparing to take the examination for promotion to the first lientenanoy. A yonng man of snoh vigorons application and thorongh soholarship, we entertain not the shadow of a doubt of his snccess.

All day long there was unusnal activity at Industrial Hall. At 3 o'clook the belts were slipped to their pnlleys, the dynamo started on its dizzy whirl, and the electrio ourrent leaped into flame before the switch board and into power dowu at the great spring. Four incandescent lights glowed in dazzliug radianoe, and another epoch felt the first thrill of its inception.

Yesterday there was laid to rest the silent form of the last snrvivor of the fonr colored members of the first board of trustees of Wilherforce University, elected Aug. 29, 1856,—Mr. Alfred J. Anderson, formerly of Hamiltou, Ohio, then of Washington, D. C., and for a brief period of Xenia. He remained a trustee until his death, his tennre of office covering a term of nearly forty years. Stalwart in principle and race interest as he was in form, he leaves behind an illustrious career worthy of emulation. S. AND H.

FROM PRESIDING ELDERS.

North New Orleans District.

Dear Brethren—Our annual conference, as you have learned, meets in New Orleans, Jan. 15, 1896. We are all specially anxious our district shall not fall behind in a single instance but rather that we make some advance. Suffer, then, a word of exhortation. See to it that your full apportionment is raised for each of the benevolent causes, the General Conference expenses, and the old, current and next conference minutes. I need not say a word about the quarterage, as you are sacredly pledged to see to it that it is raised on the basis of your own salaries. Please attend to all these matters at once in your own way, as directed by the Discipline; and come to conference prepared to report every claim and assessment fully met. Probationers and others in the courses of studies must come prepared to stand their examinations. Their advancement will depend in a large measure upon them. See to it that the delegates elected to represent your charges in the lay conference are present for the third day of the session, when they are to meet. All my pastors are requested to meet me at my residence in New Orleans on the day before conference meets, at 2 p. m. Pastors will report to me at once the number of conversions and accessions they have had this year, together with all the items that they are required to make in their reports, as found on page 54, paragraph 84 of the Discipline.

Address at Gilbert Academy, Baldwin, La. Your yoke-fellow,

St. Joe District.

Brethren—Our representative of committee on General Conference entertainment wishes you to collect five cents from each member of your charge for General Conference expenses. Please don't fail to begin at once, as the time is short; also your benevolent money.

J. J. CLARK, P. E.

Louisville District.

Brethren—We are entering on the last quarter of the year. If you have left any part of the year's work undone we urge you to duty. Do not fail in your minute money. We ask for full reports this round, Yours, GEO. A. SISSLE, P. E.

Lexington District.

Dear Brethren—The annual conference meets March 18, 1896, are you ready for it? We shall expect full reports at this quarterly conference. Have no excuses. At this quarterly conference lay delegates are to be elected to the Lay Electoral Conference which meets on the third day of the annual conference session. Yours ever, JOSEPH COURTNEY, P. E.

The district conference met at Tallahoma according to appointment, Elder White presiding. J. A. W. Moore was re-elected secretary. A majority of the pastors presented good reports. The presiding elder's report showed progress and enthusiasm in behalf of missions and the SOUTHWESTERN. The conference was one of interest from the beginning. Dr. J. Braden lectured to the conference on education. Elder White is giving satisfaction. J. A. W. MOORE.

Notice—Texas Conference.

The I. & G. N., the T. & P., the Cotton Belt, and the Colorado and Santa Fe, will sell tickets to the Texas Conference, to convene in Galveston, Texas, Dec. 11, on the following terms: Round trip tickets, from places within 75 miles of Galveston, 4 cents; between 75 and 100 miles distant, $3; beyond 100 miles, one fare. We recommend as many to come over the I. & G. N. as can make it convenient. Tickets will be on sale Dec. 10 and 11; good till the 18th. F. GARY, Sec'y.

The After Effects

OF DIPHTHERIA, DEFECTIVE SIGHT, PARALYSIS, DYSPEPSIA.

[From the Journal, Detroit, Mich.]

In a neat, home-like cottage at 112 Fifth street, lives Mrs. A. T. Lyon, a remarkably pleasant and motherly lady who tells a very interesting story of her life, and, incidentally, speaks of her gratitude for a remedy which has wrought such a wonderful change in her.

Said Mrs. Lyon: "About thirty years ago, before we knew how to pronounce the word diphtheria, I was stricken with that awful disease, which left me blind, nearly, and paralyzed in my lower limbs.

"There seemed but little hope for me, but I did improve gradually until I was able to sit in a chair and drag myself around the room by pulling the chair along with me.

"I doctored for years, but was not cured. I spent a great deal of money and tried many of the most noted physicians. They only gave me temporary relief. I never was well. Finally, I began to have dyspepsia. My stomach refused all food. I had the most dreadful feelings. I cannot describe them. It was a peculiar burning sensation, as if I had been poisoned. I would fall down in the streets, and became so weak that I could not sit up only part of the time. I suffered intensely. Nothing seemed to do me any good. I became thoroughly discouraged. To add to my misery, I had trouble with my heart.

"One day a lady friend called to see me. She told me about the Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People. I did not want to take them, and it seemed foolish to bother with them when physicians failed to help me. She said so much about it, however, that I was at last induced to try them. After taking the first half of the box I began to feel differently. They made me feel so much better I continued taking them and they have made a different woman of me. I feel like a new creature. I feel better than I have since I was a girl.

"I am over sixty now, and I am stronger and can endure more than the ordinary young woman. I do my own work and feel well, which I haven't been able to to say before for over thirty years."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

FITS CURED

(From U. S. Journal of Medicine.)

Prof. W. H. Peeke, who makes a specialty of Epilepsy, has without doubt treated and cured more cases than any living Physician; his success is astonishing. We have heard of cases of 20 years' standing cured by him. He publishes a valuable work on this disease which he sends with a large bottle of his absolute cure, free to any sufferer who may send their P.O. and Express address. We advise anyone wishing a cure to address, Prof. W. H. PEEKE, F. D., 4 Cedar St., New York.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

IN OUR DEFENSE.

That the religious press of this country is a very potential agency for good or evil no intelligent person will deny. If it aligns itself with the forces that make for peace and righteousness its influence for good is absolutely incalculable. If the opposite course is taken it thereby becomes responsible for immeasurable harm.

The social, civil, moral and political rights of the Negro in his country have always been in dispute, the religious and secular press either favoring his advancement to higher planes of thought and action, or opposing it. The great battle has been fiercely waged, with not only partisan and sectional bitterness, but with religious and denominational fanaticism.

The transference of the disputed questions to the arbitrament of cruel and relentless war found the press on both sides of the question equally vehement in the establishment of its cause. Disputants have passed from the stage of action, but their places have been filled by others, some of whom, but for their ability to promote strife and keep alive the fires of sectional hatred, would be without any employment.

Happily for us, there are very hopeful signs of an awakened public sentiment, for which the religious and secular journals of this country, which have stood for fair and honest treatment of the Negro, are largely responsible.

While the Methodist Episcopal Church has furnished a royal quota of champions of the Negro official and semi-official, other denominations, North and South, have stood by the race with unswerving devotion.

A large majority of the leading secular journals in the North have bravely stood by the Negro. Of course, it is a difficult thing to counteract the influence of an almost united Southern press against the Negro and his friends, yet we are glad to record a convert or two among the better class to our cause.

As a watchman out on the picket line, we are glad to report signs of a coming day. The SOUTHWESTERN will try and "hold the fort," with the firm belief that re-enforcements are nigh.

The brave and helpful words of the Northwestern and the Central Christian Advocates, which we publish in this number, will be read with unusual interest by our "brethren in bonds."

Brother Speight, of the Central Alabama Conference, urges the brethren to "stay aboard the ship" in a very strong and interesting article. So that in the absence of much editorial matter we have that which will be equally, if not more, helpful.

OUR CRYSTAL STREAM.

"KINGS, Ga., November 19, 1895.

"DEAR BROTHER—Enclosed please find $5, for which you will please send the SOUTHWESTERN to the persons named in my letter of this date. I have opened up a 'Crystal Stream' running from my circuit to the office of the SOUTHWESTERN, and I reassure you, sir, that it shall ever be kept clear and flowing.

"Yours, VINCENT D. JENKINS."

Let the good work go on until there is a "Crystal Stream" of interest in the SOUTHWESTERN flowing from every charge in the Savannah and in all of the patronizing conferences.

—Mr. C. C. Morse, our business manager, has returned from a very pleasant visit to Atlanta, Ga.

"A QUESTION OF PRIVILEGE."

[From the Northwestern Christian Advocate, M. E. Church, Published at Chicago, Ill., Rev. N. S. Edwards, D. D., editor.]

We cheerfully give space to the following editorial letter, entitled "A Question of Privilege," written by Rev. Dr. S. A. Steel, editor of the Epworth Era, it being a response to our editorial comments, Nov. 20, upon an article printed in the Era October 31. It will be remembered that we reprinted the Era article in full in the same issue, whereby our readers are enabled to judge whether or not we have in any way misstated the editor's opinions, or have in any manner perverted his language. Dr. Steel says:

To the Editor of the Northwestern Christian Advocate:

I have just read your editorial on "A Southern Epworth View of the Negro," and, as I value very highly the good will of your readers, I rise to a question of privilege. You entirely misapprehend my meaning when you think that I charge up the present status of the Negro to the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South. No such thought entered my mind. On the contrary I gladly hear testimony to the good done by the schools established and conducted by Northern benevolence for the benefit of the colored people of the South. I wish you had a hundred where you have one. Let that be understood once for all.

When I say that the North is responsible for the present condition of the Negro race in the South, I mean that the present state of things is the natural result of the sudden emancipation of millions of slaves and their enfranchisement with all the responsibilities of citizenship. By this policy, the Negroes were turned loose to take care of themselves when they were utterly unfit for such a task, and a generation has grown up in abject ignorance, and without the restraint of either slavery or intelligent freedom. This policy, I say, has broken down.

You failed to state that what I wrote was in the interest of the Negro. The Southern Epworth view of the question is that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, ought to preach the Gospel to these colored people in our midst, and not leave the work to be done alone by others. This proposal you characterize as "inhuman" and "cold-blooded," and call on the Southern Methodist press to repudiate the idea and rebuke me for it. If you really desire to help elevate the Negro, as nobody doubts, you ought to thank the Lord that a man in my position will urge this view instead of trying to skin him alive with that sharp pen. I denounced lynching. I admitted the good done by the few schools maintained for them. I urged my own branch of the Methodist Church to help to save them by giving them the Gospel, and you turn loose your guns on me! You shoot your allies.

I see the Negro every day. I see him as he is, from Virginia to Texas, in town and country. What is the use of blinking the actual truth about his moral condition? What are the few hundreds educated at Fiske, Rust, Hampton, Tuskegee, and other schools to the millions living in the densest ignorance and with most frightful immorality? The task of saving them and redeeming the race and lifting them up to manhood and womanhood will require all we can do. Your Church can't do it alone. I hope my own will help you.

Now, my dear brother, I have no intention of arguing about our respective opinions of the Negro. I only want to set myself right before your readers, and to correct the erroneous impression that I disparage the work done by the Northern churches in behalf of the Negro.

As to fraternity, that will grow all the stronger by a frank expression of the truth. Your Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society ought to invite our bishops and representative men to conference on this great work. It is reasonable to say that we know something about these people and the conditions that surround them that you do not know; and, on the other hand, your relation to them enables you to do what we cannot do. But mutual counsel would promote the end in view. I hope you will soon disabuse your mind of the mistake that I propose to antagonize any force at work to help the Negro to the highest place he can attain in our Christian civilization. I shall help all I can.

S. A. STEEL.

We are glad to record the Era editor's avowal that he does not in any sense attribute the Negro's alleged modern degeneracy to the work of our Church. The article upon which we have animadverted is entirely responsible if the contrary appeared to be the editor's persuasion. We reprint a few sentences:

> The North has set them (the Negroes) free, enfranchised them with the ballot, preached the doctrine of equality to them, and in a single generation has succeeded in undoing all that has been done for them.
> Thirty years have passed under the Northern system of instruction, and to-day there is not a country district in the South where it is safe for a lady unattended to go out of sight of her home. The modern Negro is a failure.
> I give the North credit for the best intentions * * but they have proceeded on a wrong theory, and the deplorable lynchings that disgrace our civilization are the fruits of their mistaken policy.
> We have held off and given the North a fair chance long enough.

These fair quotations show the trend of the entire article which does not contain a single sentence, line or word to suggest that our Church is excepted from the forces in the South, which, in thirty years, have made women unsafe when out of sight of their homes, have aided to undo the good which a Southern gospel accomplished in slavery days, have begotten lynchings as the deplorable fruits of a mistaken policy, and have helped to make the Negro a failure. We claim that, under existing circumstances, and in view of the fact that our Church has been discredited by our Southern brethren from the first day of our advent, the Era cannot complain of our challenge. Indeed, it would seem that the Era must have anticipated that challenge when it expressly said in the first instance, "Our Northern friends—and many of them read the Era—will not like this; but it is the Lord's truth," which it certainly was not, and is not. Northern readers of the Era are Northern Methodists, as a rule, who were not expected to "like it." We certainly did not like it.

When our contemporary says that he alluded to the sudden emancipation and enfranchisement of the Negro as reasons for his present moral and social state in the South, we are in candor bound to accept the statement, even though we do not entirely agree with him. Emancipation was a just and logical penalty for civil war, and enfranchisement was the only protection for the Negro against those who resented his manumission. While it is true that no human beings in history have endured so creditably a strain like that thus put upon the freedman in his changed social conditions, it is appalling to contemplate the still worse state of the Negro had not the North begun its ministry in the South. The Era admits that the Southern Church has "stood back to give the North a fair chance," and we therefore were more than pained at the suggestion, fairly inferable from the Era's words, that some sort of mistaken Northern Methodist policy has availed to bring about the dire fruits named in the extracts we quote above. If our Church work in the South is appreciated as the Era says, God's praises should have taken the place of the deprecations which, we fear, are not entirely explained away by our correspondent. The republic will never recall either its manumission or its enfranchisement. That policy has not "broken down." South Carolina cannot break it down, though it is trying to do so. It has come to stay. The Negro's ballot need not be feared if he is treated justly, and is held to answer for even his crimes as white men are held. We are criticised in the South as if we hold that Southern people are wicked and bad, whereas we hold that, with respect to the special crime for which the Negro is lynched, they are blind. That crime causes lynchings, and lynchings cause that crime. If that crime is less in the North, the just administration of law accounts for the fact. The Negro alone does not account for the Southern Negro. The white man is an element in the equation, and the just white man must become the chief agency which will bring to pass a Negro race better than the one whose moral condition our contemporary laments.

The Era editor should not complain that we omitted to state the motive of his article, which was fully reprinted by us. It spoke for itself. We are the very last to pronounce inhuman, cold-blooded or unfraternal any proposal to enlist the Southern Methodist Church in the

The Epworth Era's 'Dark Spot."

[From the Central Christian Advocate, M. E. Church, published at St. Louis, Mo., Rev. Jesse Bowman Young, D. D., Editor.]

Rev. Dr. S. A. Steel, in a recent issue of the Epworth Era, which he edits for the Epworth League of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, pleads with his own denomination to undertake the double task of the education and evangelisation of the Southern Negro, a task which this Church has for thirty years almost wholly neglected. In making his plea, however, Dr. Steel goes out of his way to assail "the North," and to discount the educational enterprises undertaken in behalf of the Negro by Northern Churches, with representations and assertions which seem to us most unjust. In order to do him justice we will allow him to speak for himself. He says:

"I am fully convinced that the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, ought to take hold of this question of Negro evangelization. The experiment of the North has failed. It has broken down completely. Its fine theories about the Negro are blown to the winds by the actual results of thirty years of freedom. The South received the Negro from Africa as barbarian of the lowest type, and by its mild and humane system of bondage, almost misnamed slavery, it converted him in a generation into an industrious, useful, contented, and happy race, devoted in their attachments and faithful in their services to the white people. The North set them free, enfranchised them with the ballot, preached the doctrines of equality to them, and, in a single generation, has succeeded pretty nearly in undoing all that has been done them. A few schools, here and there, are educating a few hundred, but the level of the race is slowly sinking. The Negro is to-day far below what he was in 1861, in all that constitutes moral character.

"We have held off and given the North a fair chance long enough. The problem can not be solved by the Boston Monday Lecture course or the philanthropic visionaries, who know about as much of the Southern darky as I do of the aborigines of the moon. Under their policy he is drifting to inevitable destruction. What modern philosophers call the "social efficiency of the race" is far below the point where it can successfully compete with the dominant white race, and it is steadily sinking lower. Hic, hæc, hoc will be the ruin of the African. He needs sensible, sympathetic, kindly instruction from those of us who know his place, and will see that he does not get out of it.

"At any rate, I want to see Southern Methodism grapple with this great problem with an energy and earnestness and intelligence that will clear its conscience of all responsibility for the further degeneration of the Negro. I give the North credit for the best intensions, and admire the generosity that has prompted its efforts, and the heroic self-sacrifice of many earnest men and women who have faced obloquy and toil to elevate the Negro. But they have proceeded on a wrong theory, and the deplorable lynchings that disgrace our civilization are the fruit of their mistaken policy."

These utterances, duly studied, will suggest to most of our readers their own corrective answer, and will evoke regret that Dr. Steel could not make his plea to his own church to undertake a long and lamentably neglected work without attacking "the North," and its representatives in the South. At the risk, therefore, of undertaking a work of supererogation we will suggest some of the elements of rank injustice in this article, which is headed, "A Dark Spot."

1. Dr. Steel is unjust to his own views and knowledge in the case, which are inadequately stated in his production. Within the past two months we heard him say, "There are two classes of Negroes in the South which have not been accomplices in these frightful crimes of violence; the first is made up of those who were well trained in good families as slaves under the old regime; and the second includes those who have been educated in your schools,"—the expression "your schools" moaning, as we apprehended, the institutions of various kinds which have been in operation in the South in recent years for the education of the Negro, established and maintained chiefly by Northern generosity, evangelism, and educational zeal. Unless, now, Dr. Steel knows that a considerable number of the colored race, educated in these schools, have deteriorated and have become clements of demoralization among their fellows he is doing violence to his own intellectual integrity by such utterances as we have quoted from his pen. So far as we have been able to learn, the men and women educated in those schools and sent forth as pastors, physicians, teachers and workers into the South have been the saving element in the case—the leaven that has kept the whole mass from destruction. But for the presence, ministry, example, and influence of these evangelized and educated colored people can any one doubt that matters would have been immeasurably worse in all respects with the Afro-American race in the South than they are at present?

2. Again, Dr. Steel is unjust in his representations of the work of the schools referred to. Were we to speak of the work of Christian missions after the same fashion which he has employed in dealing with these schools for the colored race in the South, he would indignantly resent the utterances as doing injustice to the greatest enterprise of the ages. It might be said, for instance, about China—"Methodist missionaries have been at work in that land for more than forty years, while a few hundred children have been gathered into the schools, and some thousand converts have been added to the Church—yet the vast mass of the Chinese are steeped in superstition and heathenism. Nearly four hundred million of them are as far as their fathers from Christianity." Who that is at all acquainted with the facts does not know that this utterance would be a caricature of the actual work accomplished in China by our missionaries? And yet this representation of the case is fairly paralleled by this article.

He does not discriminate at all in his statement of the matter at issue, but lumps up all the efforts which have been made "to elevate the Negro," and declares that "the deplorable lynchings that disgrace our civilization are the fruit of their mistaken policy." He blames the men who made the colored man free, and who have tried to give him the elements of education and endeavored to evangelize him, for the crimes of violence and the lynchings which have in recent years disgraced the regions where they have occurred! This accusation might fairly be equaled were a man to charge the atrocities and savagery of the tribes of Central Africa upon Bishop Taylor and his missionaries. The school at Hampton, famed throughout the world; the Tuskegee Institute, carried on with singular skill by Booker T. Washington; the achievements of the Allen, Biddle, Claflin, Atlanta, Clark, Howard, New Orleans and other Universities, the Central Tennessee College, the Meharry Medical and Dental Schools,—these are all set down, it appears, as the schemes of "philanthropic visionaries." To these agencies ought to be added the Slater Fund of $1,000,000, the Peabody Fund of $3,500,000—a part of which has been employed in Negro education,—the Daniel F. Hand Fund of $1,000,000, with other munificent gifts for the same purpose. The grounds, buildings, and funds, leaving out of the calculation the three specially indicated "Funds" above noted, represents an aggregate valuation of perhaps $5,000,000 and they have been the means of sending out into the South many thousands of young colored people,—the Presbyterian Board of Missions for Freedmen having in its own schools in a single year over 10,000 pupils, and our own Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society almost reaching that figure.

The mere enumeration of these institutions and the bare figures which suggest what they have been doing, ought alone to correct Dr. Steel's misrepresentations. That these beneficences have prompted the Negro to crimes of violence, or that they have brought forth lynchings as their fruit, or that they have 'failed, broken down completely' in what they have undertaken, are amazing utterances to come from a man who surely knows some of the facts in the case. What these institutions have failed to do is this: They have failed to reach the great mass of the Negro population; the work was too large for them to master. Were all the denominations in the South, together with all the State institutions, and the scores of schools established by gifts from the North, to combine in the attempt to educate and evangelize the colored race, the enterprise would tax all these united resources. On the other hand one trouble has been that for many years the workers from the "North" were ignored, allowed to undertake their enterprises absolutely alone, and had to face obloquy, reproach, ostracism, and almost martyrdom, as they tried to build up their schools and administer the benefits of education to the rising generation of the colored people.

3. Dr. Steel, moreover, is unjust to the Afro-American race, and to the facts of history, in his representations of the present condition of that race in the South. No one, it is true, who has been through the black belt, who has looked upon the thriftless portions of the colored race massed in some of our Southern cities, and who has been brought into contact with the "problem of the black man" can ignore its shadows and its difficulties. The wisdom of the wisest men of both races is needed, and will be for generations to come, in order to solve that problem. But to say that the race—as a race—has deteriorated, and is slowly sinking, is to declare what the best judges of the case in the South deny.

[Dr. Young gives the testimony of Bishop Haygood of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; Hon. W. H. Jack, superintendent of public instruction for the State of Louisiana; Dr. W. T. Harris, United States commissioner of education; Dr. J. L. M. Curry, administrator of the Peabody and Slater Funds, and Hon. James S. Hook, State commissioner of schools for the State of Georgia; all of whom speak in glowing terms of the progress of the Negro in our Southern schools.]

* * * * *

But it would be idle to quote other testimonies in this direction. Educating and evangelizing influences afforded to the black man will do for him just what it did for our own pagan ancestors. The progress made may be slow, but it is sure. So far as freedom and its privileges are concerned, the first fruits of them may have been license and laxity of conduct; but taking the Afro-American people altogether and considering the fact that in many sections they are thrifty, that in Georgia alone they doubled their holdings of real estate in a single decade,—and that there are now at work among them many hundreds of educated men and women of their own blood, teaching, evangelizing, and doing all they can to uplift their fellows,—there is surely no room for despair. As to the "place" in which they belong, it is a little late in the day to argue with Dr. Steel. The Bible, the Emancipation Proclamation, the doctrine of human brotherhood, the statutes of the government, as well as God's providence, fix the black man's place in America. He is a man, and a brother. With generous brotherly recognition and help he is not likely to get out of his place, or into that of any one else.

A Significant Departure.

With the departure of another year when a review is made of the condition of affairs, it is only right that some thought be given to the physical body which enables every one to battle with life's problem and figure for themselves the profit or loss on the trial balance sheet. Though the bank account may be large and each one's material gain be great, it would not be surprising if it suddenly dawns upon many that good health has been greatly impoverished by the low condition of the blood. It is in this state that the lactic acid in the vital fluid attacks the fibrous tissues, particularly the joints, making known the local manifestations of rheumatism. Thousands of people have found in Hood's Sarsaparilla the great blood purifier, a positive and permanent cure for rheumatism.

"For five years, I suffered untold misery from muscular rheumatism. I tried every known remedy, consulted the best physicians, visited Hot Springs, Ark., three times, spending $1000 there, besides doctors' bills; but could obtain only temporary relief. My flesh was wasted away so that I weighed only ninety-three pounds; my left arm and leg were drawn out of shape, the muscles being twisted up in knots. I was unable to dress myself, except with assistance, and could only hobble about by using a cane. I had no appetite, and was assured, by the doctors, that I could not live. The pains, at times, were so awful, that I could procure relief only by means of hypodermic injections of morphine. I had my limbs bandaged in clay, in sulphur in poultices; but these gave only temporary relief. After trying everything, and suffering the most awful tortures, I began to take Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Inside of two months, I was able to walk without a cane. In three months my limbs began to strengthen, and in the course of a year, I was cured. My weight has increased to 165 pounds, and I am now able to do my full day's work as a railroad blacksmith." *

"What are the Negroes in the M. E. Church going to do?"

The above question has been asked over and over, North and South, by friends and by foes. The same question stands before us now—what are the Negroes in the M. E. Church going to do?

There are about 250,000 Negro members in the Church, and I dare say that I voice the sentiment of the majority of them when I say we are going to remain in the Church. If there be any among us that are dissatisfied and want to leave, let them go. If they do not care to remain in the M. E. Church, there are other churches that will receive them and hail their coming with joy. The Church cannot send one away. There will be Negroes in the church until the millennium comes. No legislation can send the Negro out of the church. We are members of the church as our white brethren are, and form a part of it. If any of the blacks want to leave our Zion because there are no bishops in black in it, they can go into the other churches where none but the Negroes can be. If any of the whites want to leave because we are black, there are other churches they can find shelter in, where the Negro cannot come. But there are a host of us that will stay in the M. E. Church. We are members of the M. E. Church as true as we are citizens of the United States. It is just as much impossible for the church to send us away as it is to send the Negro from this country. If the Negroes chose to leave the United States they may do so. In both cases it must be a volitional act of their own. No power in the M. E. Church can send the Negro out—the Negroes are in the church and an important part of the church. Should the Negro go out of the church, it must be an act of his own. We form a part of every side of our Zion. We are in the church to stay.

In the issue of the SOUTHWESTERN of October 17, I noticed an editorial headed "A Strange Document." It referred to a circular written and sent out by Dr. W. Nelson of our Central Alabama Conference. I am indeed sorry that Dr. Nelson takes the fever of some kind every year. Last year, Bishop Turner of the A. M. E. Church, in his African movement, brought Africa so near to Dr. Nelson until he wanted to go at once and take it by force. Now, Bishop Foster's book and the election of a colored bishop in the M. E. Church has given the doctor the antonomy fever. I have'nt seen one of the strange documents sent out by Dr. Nelson. I have talked with brethren who have read it. I have tried to get hold of one; don't know why the doctor didn't send me one. I have gathered a few thoughts from the editorial referred to. The circular charges Bishop Foster's book with being the cause of great unrest and dissatisfaction among the colored ministry and membership in the church. I have read Bishop Foster's book with care. I have only to say that the book contains the thoughts of Bishop Foster. Bishop Foster is only a member and minister in the M. E. Church, as our Dr. Nelson is, and he has a right to his opinion. Bishop Foster is not the M. E. Church, but only a part, as Dr. Nelson is. Why should the book frighten the doctor, or any other colored minister of the church? Since the book has been out, Dr. Nelson is the third colored minister I've met or heard of that is or was frightened. I have not met a single laymen frightened yet. They get frightened just as some one holds a ghost up before them, if they get frightened at all. "It takes away from us the hope of our aspiration and a covetous desire of the best gift." Bishop Foster's book kills the manhood in the whole Negro membership, or takes the spirit out of us. The Negro ministers and members are just the same to-day as they were before Bishop Foster's book was written—at least, the majority of them. They are pushing forward every interest of our Zion. We are true, faithful and loyal.

"Covetous desire of the best gifts."—A Negro bishop of course! Yes; we want one; we are expecting one; there is a demand for one; we would hail the election of a colored bishop in the church with joy. But can we afford to despair? God forbid. I am by the church as the old brother was about the boots. The story is, he was promised a pair of boots if he didn't shout, but when the spirit came upon him, he cried out, "Glory to God; boots, or no boots." We want a Negro bishop, and can but ask for the election of one; but we are going to stay in the church, bishop or no bishop.

"Stand still, brethren, and see the salvation of God, which He will show." "The colored members in the M. E. Church is the obstacle in the way of organic union." The obstacle will remain in the way—we are in the church to stay. Those that want organic union of Methodism without the Negro, might just as well leave now, for we are in the church to stay. Bishop Merrill tells us in his book on Organic Union, that the M. E. Church "sent none away, and cannot lower her standard to receive any back. If they come, they must come just as the church is." We, the colored part of our Zion, will not give up our homes to others. If they will come, we will give them shelter with us. The Church is cosmopolitan in foundation. Her watchword is, "The World for Christ."

"Autonomy?" We do not want such thing. We would not have it, if it was tried to be imposed upon us. I think Dr. Nelson and his converts are the only ones that would accept autonomy. I think his converts are but few. Let all that be of fearful heart turn back, but the faithful and fearless one will march onward.

"Since God is God,
And right is right,
The day of right will win:
To falter is disloyalty,
To be a shame is sin."

Holly Springs District.

The Holly Springs District, Upper Mississippi Conference, convened at Batesville, Miss., Nov. 20. Rev. W. McDonald presided. The meeting opened with a goodly number of pastors, local preachers, Sunday school superintendents and Epworth League representatives. This was the largest and most encouraging session we have had within the last two years. Reports show that the pastors have had success in saving souls and diminishing old debts on the churches.

Reports from local preachers, Sunday school superintendents and class leaders gave evidence of progress.

We have an Epworth League chapter organized and at work in every station and circuit. Having no church in the fair city of Water Valley, one of the most thrifty towns on the Illinois Central Railroad, the several chapters have resolved to raise $5 each to aid in buying a lot, and College Hill, Hernando, Byhalia and Elliott chapters reported their money ready, and the delegates from other chapters will take immediate action. Rust University was ably represented by Revs. R. Sewell, J. C. McGee and N. H. Williams.

Our ranks having been broken this year by the death of Rev. H. B. Gladney, who was assigned by Bishop Vincent to Hernando, Friday afternoon was set apart for memorial services. Revs. Warren McDonald, C. W. Walton and other brethren made short eulogies.

Revs. W. L. Lee of the Z. M. E. Church and A. Phillips of the Baptist Church of Batesville, also Rev. C. W. Walton of the Greenwood District, were among the visitors. The people of Batesville distinguished themselves for their hospitable way in caring for the brethren.

The following new missions were organized: Harmontown, Water Valley and Taylor. Senatobia and Coldwater and several other points were added to the old circuits. Presiding Elder McDonald and his faithful brethren are looking after all interests of the work.

Dr. Bye, Indianapolis, Ind:

My Dear Friend and Brother—I thank you for what you have done for me. You have cured me of a terrible cancer. It gave me much trouble and pain. I heard of you through my Pastor, Rev. H. H. Butler. I got him to write to you for me; you sent the oils. I began to get better from the very first treatment, and in a few weeks it was all healed up, and now I am a well man. God bless you. Yours in Christ, WESLEY BRINKLEY.

Rev. H. H. Butler, referred to in the above letter, has been the means of having many of his members cured of cancer with the balmy oils. Old Jessey Ballard was the first one, and while writing for oil for Bro. Johnson he makes this reference to Bro. Brinkley:

He writes: "My Dear Friend and Brother, the Lord bless you in your good work. Do all you can for Brother Johnson. I went to see dear old Brother Brinkley last Saturday afternoon. He and his dear wife were glad to see me. They are about seventy years old, both members of my church, and they are as good as they know how to be. I felt it was good to be there, as I heard them talk and tell what the Lord had done for them. He said his father died of cancer, and he was so glad that he learned of the oils. He said: "You see now that I am well, God bless Dr. Bye," and his good old wife said, "Yes, God bless that man, he has cured my dear husband." They will love you as long as they live.

SUFFOLK, Va., May 8, 1895.

DEAR DR. BYE—You have made one of the most wonderful cures in the case of Bro. Jessey Ballard I ever knew. He was at death's door; now he is well.

SKIPPERVILLE, ALA., Nov. 1, 1895.

DEAR DR. BYE—I write you to let you know that my brother, Daniel N. Munn, who was taking your medicine, is dead. He died October 16. Your medicine at first seemed to do him a great deal of good, but alas! it was too late. I believe if he had gotten it in time that it would have cured him, but he commenced it too late. But he died thanking you for the good it done him, and for the kind feeling that you always expressed toward him in your letters. Allow me to return thanks for your kindness towards him. May the Lord bless you.

THE BATTLE IS THE LORD'S.

Goliath was a great, big, blustering bully. He was the terror even to his friends. He depended upon his great muscular frame, his big fists, and limbs, and feet. When angry, his countenance assumed a terrible expression. Among the Philistines he was the "boss." He was monarch of all he surveyed. No one would dare to arouse him, and the poor fellow that had the temerity to differ with him would hear a roar that would make him tremble in his very boots. My! what a big fellow. We imagine he was the pride of the weak-minded women. Such fellows generally are. He was also, probably, the admired of those who look on the outward appearance. It is possible that this great, big, blustering braggart would not allow any one to express an opinion contrary to his, without having the riot act read to him. He boasted, doubtless, of his ability to take care of himself. Just think of it, six cubics high, with a great helmet of brass upon his head, and his body covered with a coat of mail weighing over five thousand sheckles of brass. Behold the champion! The staff of his spear was like a weaver's beam. No wonder the cowardly Israelites were scared. One can almost hear him roar. He stamps the ground in pretended rage, and cowards shrink as they always do. But there was one person among all the hosts of Israel who did not fear the wrath of this overgrown braggart. One who had the most positive evidences that the Almighty arm was strong in his defense, and while his brethren and others were cringing and ready to retreat, he goes forth to meet this Philistine champion. What an unequal contest! Yes; to human appearance only. The young David goes forth in the name of the Lord God, knowing that "the Lord saveth not with sword and spear," and that the battle was "the Lord's." It is a beautiful picture of moral courage, and faith, and trust, and which is repeated over and over in our great world's history. We have these giants all about us. We are frequently annoyed by their swaggering boasts, their blasphemous defiance of the true and the living God. But there are those like David whom the Lord hath raised up to meet these boasting and blatant demagogues. They may be armed and helmetted, but the fear of God in the heart of the true Christian will nerve his right arm and direct the missile which will bring these giants low. Courage, Christian brother! The clouds may be dark and lowering; the thunder may roar; all things may seem against you; "principalities and powers," "spiritual wickedness in high places," may combine to discomfort, defeat and destroy you. Fear them not, for "the battle is the Lord's." In his own good time and way he will send deliverance. Only trust Him.

—The burning of the new Lafon Old Folks' Home in this city, on Monday night, Dec. 2, was a public calamity. The contractor was hoping to have the building ready for occupancy by the 25th of this month. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin. Up to this writing we have not been informed as to the course which the directors will pursue. The building was insured for $5,000, which will cover the loss sustained. It will be a great disappointment to the old people and the board of managers, who were expecting to have the building dedicated during the session of the Louisiana Conference, which will be held in this city January 15 next.

—Rev. R. B. Isam, of Abeline, Tex., endorses the resolutions passed by the Huntsville District Conference refusing to renew the licenses of local preachers, or to grant licenses to those who will not subscribe for the SOUTHWESTERN. We hope all the districts in the Texas Conferences will take similar action, all of which we most cordially endorse.

—After nearly four years' residence in this Roman Catholic city, and carefully studying all the conditions favorable and unfavoreble to the development of Protestantism, especially among our colored population, we are of the opinion that but little headway has been made. A careful study of the statistics which usually show an increase or decrease in membership, reveals the astounding facts that the churches among our people are no stronger numerically, and in all probability not any stronger in those essentials which go to make aggressive spiritual power.

—A few weeks ago two sections of a large brick building in the city of Detroit, Mich., were instantly blown into fragments by a boiler explosion. Thirty-seven persons were hurled instantly to a horrible death, while many more were seriously injured. In seeking to find the cause of this terrible disaster, it has been found that the engineer was somewhat careless. Indeed, it has been suggested that he was a frequenter of a neighboring saloon, and that he was either in the saloon at the time of the accident or that he had been there a short time before the dreadful accident occurred. No person ought to be entrusted with such a great responsibility who indulges in intoxicating liquors.

PERSONAL AND GENERAL.

—Sister Elizabeth Harvey, beloved and faithful helpmeet of Rev. F. H. Harvey, of Gretna, La., has been an invalid for several months. Let the Church pray for the recovery of this good woman.

—Rev. J. C. Hartzell, D. D., corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, was in the city, and preached at Simpson Chapel M. E. Church on Sunday morning last.

—Brother H. C. Dennis, pastor of our church at Augusta, Ga., has been greatly afflicted in the severe illness of his beloved wife and the death of one of his little boys. May the Lord comfort him and speedily restore Sister Dennis to her usual health.

—The sad news comes informing us of the death of Rev. Archibald Samuel, for years a successful pastor in the Savannah Annual Conference. He died at his post at Blackshear, Ga., November 12. He leaves a wife and six children to mourn.

—We are happy to acknowledge the receipt of an invitation to the marriage of our estimable brother, Rev. Alexander P. Camphor, A. M., of Germantown, Pa., to Miss Mamie A. R. Weathers, at Atlanta, Ga., on Tuesday, Nov. 19. The SOUTHWESTERN wishes the happy pair "bon voyage."

—Rev. F. D. Bowers, of Winsted, La., is enthusiastic in his praises of Gilbert Academy, under the vice presidency of Dr. A. E. P. Albert. He speaks especially in commendation of the Misses Vinet, Brown, Duncan and Albert, who are ably assisting in the development of the promising institution.

—Rev. George A. Payne, of Bayou Goula, La., writes of the death of Mrs. Sally Ann Norris. She was a faithful member, highly respected, and died as she had lived in the faith. She passed over the river singing "Guide me, O thou great Jehovah!" Revs. Warren Ford and R. Dickerson officiated at the funeral.

—There was a happy gathering of friends of the high contracting parties to witness the wedding of Rev. Morgan E. Blair, of the Upper Mississippi Conference, and stationed at Arcola, Miss., to Miss Annie E. Trice, estimable and cultured daughter of Rev. A. J. Trice, an honored member of the Upper Mississippi Conference. The ceremony took place Nov. 26, 1895. Rev. J. W. Wimbush, of West Point, Miss., officiated. We wish the happy pair "bon voyage."

—From an interesting letter written by Bro. Austin Anderson, which is too long to publish entire, we gleam the following items of interest: "St. John's Church at Monroe, La., is in a splendid condition. Love feast and quarterly meeting were grand and helpful. Presiding Elder Chinn presided and rendered splendid service. The pastor, Rev. G. J. Rogers, was pounded by his loving people, who would like to have him returned for another year. The Woman's Home Missionary Society had quite an interesting meeting. Outlook good."

missionary work proposed by the Era. We have desired the co-operation from the very first. We went South on that very errand years ago, and our regrets since that time have related solely to the unwelcome we then received. It is a Christ like errand and work, and nothing will please our own Church more than the prompt acceptance by our Southern brethren of the proposal for the postponed missionary work now made by the Era. If it were conceivable that we are ever to cease work in the South, the best condition precedent thereto would be the hearty enlistment of the Southern Methodist Church in work for the Negro, and an eagerness of zeal which might make our continued presence unnecessary. However, we shall probably remain in the South. We are needed, and our growth there justifies our original errand. The Tennessee Methodist says that the Methodist Episcopal Church is "rapidly developing numerical, financial and educational strength in the South. It now has a white membership one fourth of that of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South." That paper, therefore, cordially and generously "shakes hands with our Northern brethren over these figures" and "welcomes us in the name of the Lord." Words like these prompt our Church to reinforce its Southern workers, and from this time henceforth and forever to co-operate with all evangelical churches in a reinvigorated mission to the colored people of the suffering and endangered South. In the presence of such a combined assault all Southern moral and religious questions among white and black alike would speedily assume a better aspect. We, too, would profit by such Christian co-operation in the Northern part of the vineyard. A grand day will dawn to bless the entire republic when all churches combine for united effort, and become one in the spirit of work for the Master. The gun that aims at a Christian ally deserves to blow out its own breech-pin.

As to the proposed conference between the bishops and representative men of the Southern Methodist Church and our Freedman's Aid and Southern Education Society, we have not the least objection. We should include our own bishops in any consultation that might seem practicable, and so would our correspondent, of course. However, it is not clear to us that our Southern Methodist brethren know any vital things about the colored man which are unknown to us. We have been making the colored man's acquaintance for at least thirty years. We know him, and he knows us pretty well by this time. After this proposed conference between white leaders in the North and in the South, a joint conference between these and the colored man may follow. In that case we are sure that the Christian Negro will thrive best, and the joint conference will thrive best, if the Negro is met as a Christian brother. We must forget that he is a Negro, that he has been a slave, and remember that he is our equal before God's law and human law, and should be dealt with as a brother. There are several millions of him, and he is a factor without any just disabilities. If anyone imagines that he needs change or reconstruction, let it not be forgotten that so, also, do white men need change and reconstruction. No conference of white Methodists that seek to settle the "Negro question" by setting him to one side deserves to thrive. We are not sanguine about that conference, but we shall not oppose it nor hinder it in any way. However, it is altogether best to enter that conference with some rather clear understandings in advance, so that no one will be disappointed.

Some progress has been made in this episode, in that it is now clearly settled that our Church has done no harm in the South, and that Dr. Steel did not say to the contrary. We thought he did. Further, it appears that our Southern brethren have omitted their recent missionary work among Southern colored people, and that it should be recommenced. The way now seems clear for further Southern campaigns by our own Church, and we are encouraged to hope for early and cordial co operation by our Southern Methodist brethren. Therefore, The Northwestern does not regret this interchange of mutually sincere opinions with the Epworth Era.

—Rev. J. H. Jackson and wife, of Falmouth, Ky., celebrated their eighth wedding anniversary recently. They were remembered handsomely.

Mrs. S. A. Boatner, wife of Rev. D. W. Boatner, of this city, is prepared to give instruction in German shell shadow painting, also rustic painting. We have seen some of her sample work, and cheerfully add our testimony to her ability to do first-class work in these departments. We are always pleased to recognize talent and ability among our Methodist women, and especially so among the wives of our Methodist preachers. By all means call and see the excellent work done by Sister Boatner, 1021 Burdette street, city.

Vicksburg, Miss.—Brother A. McNeal says: The first Sunday in November marked the completing of Wesley Chapel. We held dedicatory services and enjoyed a grand time. Rev. William McMorris labored faithfully to complete our church and did so at a cost of $230 within one month's time. He deserves great credit for the noble year's work which he has done. He is putting forth every effort to secure subscribers.

A Letter from Bishop Mallalieu.

[Rev. S. B. Danley, P. E., of the Tennessee Conference, sends us the following letter, hoping its publication may do good in other conferences. There are so many things that will apply to all parts of our work that we gladly publish it.—ED.]

My Dear Brother—Daily my mind turns to the Tennessee Conference, and there are several things to which I wish to call your attention.

1. By every possible means try to promote revivals in every charge before winter; encourage all the preachers and people to expect revivals, and live, and work, and pray for them. Be sure and gather in all the converts.

2. In all cases, where it can be done wisely, have the preachers take the three principal collections before Christmas, and send the money where it belongs and get the vouchers. Try and have all the preachers do this.

3. Encourage all your preachers, both by precept and example, to read and study good books, especially the Holy Bible and our Hymnal.

4. Encourage the preachers to procure tracts; read them; circulate them.

5. Search out the promising young men and women in all our congregations and Sunday schools, and persuade them to attend Central Tennessee College.

6. Carry out faithfully and kindly all the requirements of the Discipline.

7. Join me daily in praying for the outpouring of the Holy Spirit.

W. F. MALLALIEU.

The outlook is grand.

On the church debt we raised $95, and converted and added to the church 43 souls. Never was there a brighter day among the colored people for the growth of the M. E. Church than now. We send nine subscribers to the SOUTHWESTERN.

Mayesville, Ky.—Pastor R. L. Dickerson writes: We have just closed our third quarterly conference. Rev. W. H. Evens of Covington, acting as proxy. It was the grandest occasion ever experienced in Scott Chapel; 170 persons communed; $48 collection, and 65 accessions to the church in one day. We are taking Maysville for God and Methodism. We have been in a revival for almost four weeks and have had 85 conversions and 105 accessions to the church. We have almost doubled our church in every respect. When we came to our work last March we had one young man and five young ladies, and now we have thirty young men and fifty young ladies—and, still they come.

Meeting of College Presidents.

The College Association of the Methodist Episcopal Church has just held its fifth annual session at Delaware, Ohio, where the Association was most hospitably entertained by the Ohio Wesleyan University. In the absence of President John, the Association was called to order by Vice President Rogers of the Northwestern University. Twenty-one members of the Association were present. The Atlantic and Pacific coasts were represented by President Warren of Boston University and President Thoburn of Puget Sound University. The purpose of the Association is to consider the educational interests of the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the annual meetings afford opportunity for the free and full discussion of every question pertaining to the same.

The following topics were presented by the committee on program and discussed by the Association: Report of Committee appointed, at meeting held November, 1894, to formulate matters pertaining to the work of education, which, in the judgment of the Association, should be brought before the next General Conference; "To what extent may the laboratory method be employed in college work?" "Should chapel exercises be compulsory?" "How can Methodist children be induced more largely to attend the institutions of the Church?" "What should be the program for Commencement Day?" "How much authority should be vested in a college president by the governing board?" "Should the College Association be enlarged so as to include principals of collegiate preparatory schools and presidents or deans of theological seminaries?" There were several reserve topics relating to the advisability of maintaining a preparatory department, to social amusements, the influence of fraternities on college life, and to questions of school and college advertising; but the regular program occupied all the time up to the close of the session, and these topics were not discussed. Like the preacher who sees the whole Gospel in every text, no matter what it may be; so these topics, each and all of them, opened with wonderful facility the minds of the educators to the bearings of every question, in heaven above and earth beneath, upon the general subject of education. Perhaps it would be of interest to the readers of our Church papers to know the issue about which interest turned upon these several questions. Upon the first question the point of interest was whether the General Conference should give some recognition to those candidates for the ministry who had spent in academy, college and theological school from seven to ten years in their preparation for the ministry, or whether they should be required to pass examinations, the same as those who have spent very little or no time in preparatory studies outside of the common schools. The peculiar interest in this subject, perhaps, may be summed up in the statement that there was no division of sentiment; the speeches were all on one side. The second topic, in the absence of President Wilder, was opened by Professors Nelson and Mann of Ohio Wesleyan University, at the request of the Association. That the laboratory method can be very largely extended and that the method lies at the heart of the new education seemed to be the conviction of all those speaking upon the question. Its limits are, as yet, not very well defined, but that it may be greatly extended is pretty evident. In the field of psychology and sociology the method of observation and experimentation is easily applicable. In the department of history the student will probably do his best work by testing his own powers in the discovery and handling of material relating to a historical subject. There was no dissent to the paper read by President Crawford, who insisted that chapel exercises should be compulsory. Many good things were said on the question "How to induce Methodist children to attend Methodist institutions," Why, indeed, should not the children from our Methodist homes go to our own institutions? In some instances, the proximity to other institutions, or the desire to have the children at home, or some financial advantage, may make it desirable to send our boys to other institutions. But it is an open question whether there are not considerations that outweigh the other advantages, in the case of many of those in other schools. What of the moral and religious influences in our schools, and of their importance during these school years? More than this, there is no better intellectual work done in any institutions than is done in many of our institutions. Do our people know the facts? That the facts in the case should be far more frequently brought to the attention of the people in all our congregations; that by the use of the press and especially by the preacher in the pulpit these facts should be emphasized seems evident. What theme can a Methodist preacher find to preach upon that is more vitally connected with Methodism than the subject of education? Strange enough the discussion of the program for Commencement Day revolved around the question as to whether the cap and gown should be used; and strange enough as it would seem for a body of Methodists, a vote was carried suggesting the use of the cap and gown for the Commencement occasion. It should be said, however, that the present practice is almost universally against the custom, and that the division of sentiment in the Association seems likely to be perpetuated. The Association showed no disposition to modify the present position of the college president either to his faculty or the trustees; neither did it seem advisable to enlarge the constituency of the College Association.

That this Association is to render real service to the cause of education in the Church is more and more evident to those who have attended its sessions and heard its discussions. The clear conviction that we ought not to multiply institutions; the ambition to improve the quality of our work; the devotion to the Church; the interest in the moral and religious welfare of the students; these are the most marked characteristics in the discussions of this Association.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, J. W. Bashford, of Ohio Wesleyan; vice president, Isaac Crook, of Nebraska Wesleyan; secretary, B. P. Raymond, of Wesleyan University. The Association adjourned to meet with the Northwestern University at Evanston, Illinois, in November, 1896.

for them not to give you Pearline for your washing. Your folks can't know much about it. My! They could save their money, and all your hard work besides. I'm thankful the lady I live with is just the other way. She knows what Pearline will do, and she wants it. She'd never let me lose my time trying to get things clean with soap—and she wouldn't stand it to have her clothes all worn out with rubbing, either."

That's the truth. The lack of Pearline comes just as hard on the mistress' clothes as it does on the laundress' back.

Send it Back

Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers will tell you "this is as good as" or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—Pearline is never peddled, and if your grocer sends you something in place of Pearline, be honest—send it back. 437 JAMES PYLE, New York.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, DEC. 22, 1895.

The Birth of Christ.

(Luke 2. 8-20)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Behold, I bring you good tidings of great joy." (Luke 2. 10.)

Just before the birth of Jesus, Cæsar Augustus sent out a decree "that all the world should be taxed." The time of this edict was "in those days," that is, the days of the events recorded in the former chapter. The person who sent forth this order was the ruler of the Roman empire: but the order brought to Bethlehem a King who was in every way greater than he. This was an enrollment as much as a taxation. The chief design may have been to find the number of sword-bearing men in each tribe of Israel. The world here only means the Roman Empire.

Joseph and Mary dwelt at this time in Nazareth—a small village of bad report, located among the hills of Northern Palestine. They were of the house and lineage of David. They were poor, and dwelt in an humble home. They had unshaken faith in God, and were intensely pious. The journey from Nazareth to Bethlehem was about seventy-five miles. There were many difficulties in the way, but all were overcome. Mary was probably placed on a camel, which Joseph led by a leather strap. On the fourth day they likely reached the end of their journey. Bethlehem is six miles south of Jerusalem. It means—"House of bread." It was proper that He who is the "bread of life" should be born there. When they reached Bethlehem the inn would not receive them. We know by this they were poor. That inn-keeper was a cruel, unfeeling wretch. The blessed Christ has ever been excluded from the great thoroughfares of life, from many shops and offices, homes and hearts; and I fear some churches have, through wealth and pride, crowded Him out. He was born in a manger—a stable where the lower animals were kept. It may have been, and likely was, a cave.

1. The shepherds. (8) God has always shown marked kindness to shepherds. Abraham, Moses and David were keepers of flocks. These shepherds were in the fields near Bethlehem—possibly the fields in which Ruth had gleaned, and from which David had been called from keeping the sheep to be anointed king over Israel. These shepherds were on duty—they were keeping watch by turns over their flocks. God usually appears to those who are employed. Blessed is that servant whom his Lord, when He cometh, shall find at work. They kept watch by night. This indicates that the weather was warm. Jesus may not have been born on the 25th of December. We know not positively the year, month, or day, in which Christ was born. But these facts are not essential or God would have given them.

2. The messenger. (9) This visitor suddenly came upon them. He may have been Gabriel, who before this was sent to Zacharias and Mary. The angels often revealed the will of God to the people. "The glory of the Lord shown about them." This was likely the Shechinah—the white shining cloud of intolerable brightness. It appeared to Moses in the bush; it guided Israel through the wilderness; it was seen by the apostles on the mount of transfiguration, and by Saul when on his way to Damascus. Jesus, after His ascension, was shrouded in the same glory. The angels, who come from heaven, are robed in a like brightness. The saints may, after death, be clothed in the same way, for "we shall be like Him." The shepherds "were sore afraid." The inhabitants of earth have never felt comfortable in the society of the occupants of heaven. Sin may have caused this feeling. The bad do not feel pleasant in the company of the good. Superstition may have produced it. The ancients believed that an angel's visit was the harbinger of death.

3. The message (10-12). "Fear not." This angel had not come to take life. "I bring you good tidings of great joy." This angel was a herald of the Gospel. The good tidings was the story of the cross—of the birth and life of Jesus. This salvation was for them: "I bring you"—Jews and shepherds, this good news. It was not only for them, but for "all people," for Gentiles same as Jews. Here, in the head of the Gospel, it is declared by a heavenly messenger, that Jesus is a Savior of all nations. This good news is—"A Savior which is Christ the Lord"—Christ the anointed of the Lord. God has anointed Him to be our Prophet, Priest and King. "A Savior" implies that we are unsaved; that we may be saved; and that He has come to save us. This Savior may be found in the city of David, in a manger, and wrapped in swaddling clothes. This was a lowly birth for so great a personage.

4. The heavenly host (13, 14). They joined this angel suddenly. At once, as quick as the lightning's flash there was a band of singers from the glory world about them. They increased the brightness and confirmed the story. They sang no solo or quartette, but—"Glory to God in the highest." The salvation which will be wrought out by this babe of Bethlehem will bring glory to the highest God in the highest heaven. "And on earth peace, good will towards men." By nature God and man are not at peace. But this Savior has come to bring about a state of reconciliation. When we are justified by faith, we have peace with God. "Good will towards men" may mean more than the peace of God towards them. It likely refers to the Lord keeping him in all his ways, causing him to grow in grace, establishing him in the Divine life, and finally leading him up to glory. 5. The visit of the shepherds (15, 16). Return.—The angels went back into heaven. Our visions of glory are of short duration. They are soon passed, and we return to our lowly walks of life. We go with clearer faith, stronger hope, and greater energy than we had before. Advice.—The shepherds talked one with another. They exchanged views and reached conclusions. It is well to advise with others in religious duties, and if possible, have concert of action. Investigation.—They came to the place and found everything as the angel had said. When we investigate the Word of God we will find that all of it is true. "If any man will do His will, he shall know of the doctrine, whether it be of God, or whether I speak of myself."

6. The report of the shepherds (17-20). Publication.—"When they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them." When we know Jesus we should tell others about Him. We are His witnesses. Effects.—"All they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them." To one class the Gospel is a surprise, to another it is a pleasing story, to another it is the power of God unto salvation, and to another it is a savor of death unto death.

Reader, how do you receive it? "But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart." The words of the angel Gabriel, the story of the shepherds, and the visit of the wise men, were all retained in her memory. She knew there was mystery connected with the conception, birth and life of her Son: but I do not suppose she realized the nature or greatness of His mission. St. Luke likely got the events recorded in the first two chapters of his Gospel from her, or from some one who had received them from her.

Throat Paralysis.

[From the Courier-Herald, Saginaw, Mich.]

It was publicly talked all over Clare County, Mich., for some time before the Courier-Herald sent a reporter to Dover to fully investigate the Conlter matter. He finally went, and we publish to-day his full report. The Conlters are prominent people, though Mrs. C., in response to the question whether she objected to being interviewed, said, "Certainly not." Her story follows:

"About 14 years ago we decided to take up our abode in Dover and everything went along smoothly for several years. business progressed, and being of a saving temperament we accumniated quite an amount. Our family increased as the years rolled by, and we now have 5 children living, the oldest 15, youngest 3, but sickness made its way into our household, and doctors' bills flooded upon us, until we have nothing left but our home, and these sweet children. Everything went to satisfy the claims of physicians.

"About 3 years ago I had a miserable feeling at the back of my ears, my right hand became paralyzed, and the paralysis extended to my arm and throat, and would affect my head and eyes, sometimes for days I would lose my sight, my face was deformed, lifeless as it were, my nose was drawn to one side, and I presented a pitiable appearance and never expecting to regain my natural facial expressions. I employed the best physicians that could be procured, expending thousands of dollars for their services, but could not obtain relief. At last, they stated my case was beyond the reach of medical skill, and it would be but a short time until the end would come. This certainly was not very encouraging to me, but I never gave up hope. In connection with receiving the attendance of physicians I have tried every medicine known to the apothecary, but never received any relief until Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People came to my assistance. Before I had taken half of the first box the deformity in my face had left me, and before four boxes had been consumed the paralysis had disappeared entirely, and much to my surprise I felt like a new woman I have not taken any medicine since last spring, just about a year ago, and my trouble has not appeared since. I owe my health, my life, to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

"A short time since my little boy John was afflicted with St. Vitus' dance. He could not walk across the room without assistance, in fact he would fall all over himself, but after taking a few boxes of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, St. Vitus' dance entirely left him, and no trace of the affliction is left. These Pills are worth their weight in gold. You may say in this connection that I am willing at any time to make affidavit to the truth of these statements, and furthermore I will answer any communication concerning my case, as I consider it nothing more than right and just that I should assist suffering humanity."

JOY TO THE WORLD.

Joy to the world! the Lord is come;
Let earth receive her King;
Let every heart prepare him room,
And heaven and nature sing.

Joy to the world! the Savior reigns;
Let men their songs employ;
While fields and floods, rocks, hills, and plains,
Repeat the sonnding joy.

No more let sin and sorrow grow,
Nor thorns infest the grounnd;
He comes to make his blessings flow
Far as the curse is found.

He rules the world with truth and grace,
And makes the nations prove
The glories of his righteousness,
And wonders of his love.

EDITORIAL COMMENTS.

—When the black men of Texas find ont that their best interests are to be prompted by hanging together they will find a different condition of affairs in front of them and all abont them.—Texas Freeman.

Yes, Brother Scott, if onr Texas brethren do not hang together, there is a strong possibility that they will hang separately. See?

—Dr. J. C. Hartzell, corresponding secretary of the Freedmen's Aid and Sonthern Edncation Society, made an appreciative visit to Wiley University on Thursday, Dec. 5. He expressed himself as being delighted at the condition of things. At night the doctor spoke to a large audience in the college chapel, and delighted all hearts as he discussed the relation of mind and body. His visit was indeed infinential for mnch good.

—The protest of property holders and residents in the vicinity of Liberty and Lafayette streets against allowing the establishment of any more places in that vicinity for the pnrpose of having wakes over dead bodies of Negroes was reported favorably, and the clerk was instructed to draw up an ordinance prohibiting snch places except by permission of the connoil; also to call the attention of the chief of police to the character of the place in qnestion. The "wake" bnsiness, as it is popnlarly condncted in these parts, is undonbtedly an unmitigated nuisance. It is a relic of barbarism, and its contInnance in this civilized and enlightened age is without any palliation. There can be no objection to an orderly and qniet watch in the homes where there are deceased persons by a few persons selected by the members of the family or immediate friends or the deceased. But the gathering of a promiscnous crowd in the home, or at the church, hall, or other place, for the pnrpose of holding a "wake," where there is eating and drinking, and lond and boisterons demonstrations in the name of religion, is a disgrace to onr civillzation. Our ministers can accomplish a vast amount of good by nsing their efforts toward connteracting this glaring evil. It does the Church no good, nor can it be regarded as an expression of real sympathy for the relatives and friends of the deceased persons. There are very many intelligent and respectable colored people in this city who deprecate these practices, and who must feel hnmiliated to know that our city connoil is compelled to draw up an ordinance prohibiting such practices, especially by people of color. Let us make this reprehensible practice unpopnlar by disconntenancing it, as well as those who insist on keeping it up.

OUR BROTHER IN BLACK.

Dr. Palmore favorably comments upon Ex-President Harrison's remarks on "Lynching," and also gives him a gentle pen thrust for having, as he says, "snccessfully evaded and avoided a discussion of the legalized liqnor traffic" in many of the great speeches which he has made from time to time, and closes with the following timely, able and temperate words:

"Few men can voluntarily and deliberately look upon a mob plunging a fellowman into an eternal hell with no time to repent, without being more or less demoralized; and fewer still can consent to torture such a victim into prolonged, excruciating agonies, without being somewhat brutalized. We have studied the career of a nnmber of men who have taken a part in such lynchings, and they never seem to recover from the hardening effects. The instigators and leaders of such mobs often die with their boots on, without a hope of heaven. 'Blessed are the merciful for they shall obtain mercy.' In the time of peace in a civilized land there is nothing like the dignity and majesty of law for the repression of crime. From the standpoint of St. Louis, it seems about time for Chicago and Nashville to close their war of words and recrimination on the question of lynchings in the South. For Dr. Sam Steel to hold the M. E. Church responsible for the darkie diabolism in the South, is as unreasonable as Dr. Arthur Edward's talk of the spirit and methods of John Brown. If the victims of Sonthern mobs had been educated and trained in the schools and churches of our M. E. brethren, then there would be some grounds for Dr. Steel's ntterances, but such is not the case. If every branch of American Methodism had come up to the full measure of duty to the Southern Negro, there would still be a multitnde of lawless ones among them. It is certainly about time for our side to cease ringing the changes on what Bishops Andrew and Capers did before the war, and what the State has done since, in the education and elevation of the Negro. Immediately after the crimson-crested wave rolled over onr Southland, leaving us in such poverty and desolation, we were hardly able to help onrselves. Bnt thirty years of prosperity has placed us in such a position that we must do more for our brother in black or go to record as ignoble sons of noble sires. If we were doing anything for the 'Dark Continent' there would be a shadow of apology for neglecting the 'Greeks at our doors.' George Williams Walker must have help, and Payne Institute a new building, or we will be disgraced!"

"SPRINKLING CHRISTIAN BAPTISM."

We have called attention to the book on this important subject, pnblished by Rev. J. C. Houston, presiding elder of Jackson District of the Mississippi Conference. The cnt, and especially the sketch of his life, which is published elsewhere, will enable our readers to form some conception of the man. His book, however, which is really meritorious, is in every way one of the best treatises on the subject we have ever read. Clear, comprehensive, logical, scriptural; his arguments are absolutely nnassailable. The book onght to be in the library of every Methodist preacher, especially in the Sonthland. Address him at Yazoo City, Miss.

NEGRO DAY AT THE EXPOSITION.

We clip the following extract from the Atlanta Journal:

"Thnrsday, Dec. 26, has been set apart as Negro Day at the exposition. In taking this action the directors have done a simple act of justice to our Negro fellow-citizens. The Negroes have patronized the expositiou nobly. Thousands of Atlanta Negroes have attended the great show, and thousands have come from other parts of Georgia and from other States to see it. The Negro building is one of the uniqne attractions of the exposition. It is filled with most creditable displays of work showing the progress and achievements of the Negro in the South, and should be visited by everyone who desires to gain a comprehensive idea of the exposition. The management has shown consideration for the Negro throughout the entire conrse of the exposition. One of the chosen orators for the opening day was a Negro, and his speech has attracted attention throughout the country; not only on account of its eloqnence, but even more by reason of the sonnd and wholesome counsel it contains for the Negro race in this country. We believe that many thousand Negroes will visit the exposition on the 26th. They will show their appreciation of the day which has been especially assigned to them. In order to make the day a complete success it will be necessary for the people of Atlanta to give their Negro servants holiday as far as they can. Hundreds of citizens have already agreed to do this, and to give their Negro servants money to pay their way into the grounds. We hope that the example thus set will be very generally followed. Every family in Atlanta which has Negro servants should, if it possibly can, let them go to the expositiou on Negro Day, and where they are able to do so should pay their way. Negro Day will be one of the notable occasions of the exposition. Let us all co-operate to make it a big snccess."

AN UNPREJUDICED OPINION OF THE AFRO-AMERICAN OF TO-DAY.

The Atlanta correspondent of the New York Sun, of December 8, among other things relative to the Exposition, gives his views on the "The Negro Exhibit" as follows:

"The Exposition here has done wonders in modifying race prejudice. 'The Negro Exhibit' is creditable from every point of view. It is one of the principal features of the show. It has opened the eyes of the white men of the Sonth to the educational, artistic, and mechanical progress Afro-Americans have made in little more than a qnarter of a century, and, I believe, has disposed them to have more respect for that race than ever before. It certainly has created a better, a more cordial feeling between the races and put in operation influences for good which will bear abnndant frnit in the futnre. But managers of such enterprises mnst expect in the futnre, as in the presence instance, to lose largely in the moral and financial results as long as the present conditions obtain. Afro-American congresses, male and female, with the attendance they shonld ratnrally draw, will not be unmerously attended as long as conditions remain what they are. The plantation Negro—'the Aunt Dinahs' and 'the Uncle Remnses'—are passing away with 'Miss Susan' and 'Marsa Geems,' just as the Old Sonth is giving place to the New South. The Atlanta Exposition has demonstrated this much at least."

—All the elements of manhood in their right place and action are constituent parts of religion; but no one of them alone is religion. It takes the whole manhood, imbned and inspired of God, moving right both heavenward and earthward, to constitute religion.—Beecher.

REV. J. C. HOUSTON.

The Rev. J. C. Houston, presiding elder of the Jackson District, Mississippi Conference, was born near Richmond, Va., in 1852. He was brought to Mississippi by his owners when about eight years of ago. His knowledge of text books was obtained principally in the public schools of Yazoo County, Miss. Studied theology in Central Tennessee College. Was married to Miss Sidney M. Freeman, of Roseneath, Miss., in 1880. His first appointment was Pickens, Miss , in 1881, where he remained two years, and during which time 152 members were added to the Church, a parsonage built and paid for, and a large amount was raised on building a new church. In 1883 he was made deacon and appointed to Winona, where he remained three years. Here he built a church in town at the cost of $3,000 and one in the country for $1,000, all paid for. Also added 160 members to that work. In 1885 he was ordained elder by Bishop Mallalieu at Aberdeen, and appointed to Meridian, where he remained three years; during which time he built a brick church at a cost of $6,000, which was nearly paid for, and added 226 to the membership. In 1889 he was appointed to Yazoo City, and remained four years; 203 members were added, a brick church was built and paid for at a cost of $7,000, and also improved the parsonage. In 1892 he was appointed presiding elder of the Jackson District.

As a man, he is affable and dignified; as as a speaker, eloquent and forcible; as a preacher, theological, philosophical, spiritual and practical; as a church builder, he excels. He is a carpenter by trade and an artisan by practice. As a financier, he has few equals; having collected at the corner-stone laying of the church at Yazoo City $1,180; entrance day, $1,200; dedication day, $1,300.

As a presiding elder, he is abreast with the times, and has brought his district to a very gratifying point of efficiency. He is a staunch friend of the SOUTHWESTERN, his district having doubled its subscription list as well as taking front rank in benevolences. As an author, his book on "Sprinkling Christian Baptism" is a monument to his ability.

A Preacher's Experience.

"Three months ago, I took a violent cold which resulted in an attack of acute bronchitis. I put myself under medical treatment, and at the end of two months was no better. I found it very difficult to preach, and concluded to try Ayer's Cherry

Pectoral. The first bottle gave me great relief; the second, which I am now taking, has relieved me almost entirely of all unpleasant symptoms, and I feel sure that one or two bottles more will effect a permanent cure. W. H. M. Society.

The first qnarterly meetng of the General Exeontive Board of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church was held Thnrsday, Friday and Saturday, Nov. 21, 22 and 23, at the Methodist Book Concern, Cincinnati, O., with the president, Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk, in the chair and a large attendance, inclndiug Mesdames Boyt, Williams, Rnst, Meudenhall, Whetstone, Herrou, Kent, Thompson, Thorns, Gosling, Cranstou, Albright, Potter, Dale, Trisler, Wiley, Honse, Taylor and Aiken.

The requisite standing committees were appointed by the president, and Mrs. W. C. Herron was elected Chairman of the Board. The nnfinished business referred by the Fourteenth Annual Meeting of the Geueral Board of Managers first engaged the attention of the Board.

The following memorial from the North Ohio Conferenoe Society to the General Confereuoe of the Methodist Episcopal Church to oonvene in Cleveland, O., May, 1896, was snbmitted, aud on motion referred to special committee, consisting of the corresponding and recording secretaries of the society to oonfer with the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society and report:

"Whereas, The superintendent of Sabbath schools and presidents of local ohapters of Epworth Leagne are members of their respoctive Quaterly Coufereuces; while the presidents of the loosl auxiliaries of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Sooieties are not so recognized; and

"Whereas, Snch official recognition of these latter organizations in her qnarterly deliberations would in the judgment of this body aid the Church in her missionary and philanthropic work and be especially helpful iu seonring the realization of the thought of the Church as set forth in Art. 361 of the Disoipline;

"Therefore, The Thirteenth Annual Conveution of the Womau's Home Missiouary Society ot the North Ohio Conference do hereby respectfnlly memorialize your honorable body to amend Art. 95 of the Discipline, by adding after the words 'Epworth Leagne Chapters' these words, 'and the presidents of local auxiliaries of the Woman's Home and Foreign Missionary Socioties.'"

The appended resolntion from the North Ohio Coufercuce was referred to the secretary of the Bureau for Home Missiouary Reading Circles:

"Resolved, That the New Testament be added to the first and second year's conrso of the Reading Circle and the whole Bible to the third year's course."

The request of Mrs. E. S. Spriggs, corresponding secretary of West Texas Conference to have authority to gather fnnds for the purpose of building an Industrial Home for girls within the limits of this conference was grauted, snbject to the by-laws of the society as printed in the Thirteenth Annual Ropert, pages 214 and 215, Art. III, Sec. 9, Nos. 1 and 2, and Art. IV, Sec. 1, 2 and 3. It was resolved to allow the auxiliaries in the West Texas Conference to collect special funds for the erection of this bnilding, the location of which shall be determiued hy the bureau for Texas. It was further resolve that all money in West Texas above the membership dnes shall be so applied, and that the special fnnd for this purpose shall he sent direct to the treasnrer of the society.

Lucy Webb Home.

The special committee on the consideration of the pnrohase of the property in Delaware, O., formerly occnpied by Mrs. Webb and her danghter, Lucy, afterward Mrs. Hayes, the first president of the society, reported throngh Mrs. Williams, that in their jndgment it is not wise at this time to pnrchase the property. Mrs. Webb never owned this property and occupied it for a short time only, so that Mrs. Hayes' associations with the house are not marked enongh to add to its valne or to make its possession important to the Woman's Home Missionary Society. It was the sense of the committee that the society has no nse for this house if it owned it, and therefore oven were there enongh sentiment oonneoted with it to make its ownership a pleasant thing the pressnre on the society for means to carry on its work is such that it would not be justified in this expenditure, and therefore recommended that the matter be laid on the table. The report was adopted.

New York Office.

Mrs. Fisk oonveyed the gratifying intelligence that she had furnished the office of the Woman's Home Missionary Society in the New York Book Concern without exponse to the treasury. Miss Ainsworth, of Brooklyn, was chosen office secretary.

Syetematic Beneficence.

To meet the awakeniug in the Chnrch npon the obligation of the Christian to render to God the tithes which He olaims as His own for the advancement of His Kingdom aud worship throughout the world, and call upon every individual who has received this inner illumination to seek out his fellows and indnot them into its blessed mysteried, a bureau for Systematio Beneficence was created with Mrs. James Mather, Hyde Park, Mass., as secretary and the conference corresponding secretaries as a co-operatives committee to call for a report of the status of the work in each auxiliary and see that a colnmn is set apart for this report in onr quarterly blanks.

Leaflets.

Mrs E. E. Marcy, Evanston, Ill., who has so acceptably served as chairman of Leaflet Committee, having resigned, Miss M. Van Marter was appointed her successor and given power to ohoose the associate member of this committee.

Leaflets oan he had on application to the office at Cincinnati and New York Book Concerns. It was decided to drop from the list ont of date leaflets when the present supply is exhausted and to request conference societies to make an annnal donation to the leaflets fund to aid in the free distribution of leaflets hy the conference corresponding secretaries.

Mrs. W. M. Ampt was authorized to prepare a leaflet in the interest of mite boxes aud to co-operate with the special committee on blanks in the preparation of blanks for the reports of conference, district and auxiliary mite box secretaries.

Children's Home Missions.

The committee on publication, through its chairman, Mrs. F. Hoyt, recommended that a twelve page paper be published monthly, at Delaware and called Children's Home Missions; that Miss Martha Van Marter be the editor, and the first nnmber of this paper be issued in January, 1896. Subscription price, 10 cents per annum. Adopted.

Ritter Home.

Mrs. Jas. Dale, chairman of the auditing committee, reported that at the request of Mrs. W. G Williams, chairman of the committee on Ritter Home, the accounts has been audited aud fonnd to he correct.

Immediately following this report came the good news that "A Friend," devotedly interested in the work of Ritter Home from its beginning, offered as the result of her own earnings the sum of $1,000 to he considered the first thousand dollars toward an Endowment Fnud of $10,000, which she hopes to secnre for Ritter Home. The hearts of the ladies were deeply touched hy this magnanimous gift and the responsive vibrations sounded forth in joyous notes of "Praise God from Whom all Blessings flow," repeatedly snng with Harrison-like earnestness and effect.

In gratefully accepting this noble gift, the society pledged payment of five per cent annually to the beneficiary fnnd of Ritter Home, Athens, Tenn.

Mrs. Harriet Gillette, Jacksonville, Ill., having given the snm of $100 to Ritter Home, was voted an honorary manager.

Another pleasant incident was the statement made by the honored president, Mrs. Clinton B. Fisk, that she was endeavoring to raise the snm of $100 by sale of her own handiwork as the nucleus of an endowment fnnd for the Watts De Peyster Home and School, Tivoli, N. Y., and it was her desire that this $100 might be used to constitute her daughter, Mrs. Mary Fisk Park, an honorary manager of the society.

It was voted that it would he in harmony with usages and law of the society to be use as special funds for the purpose of constituting life members and honorary managers of the society.

Teasury.

Mrs J. W. Mendenhall, treasurer, reported receipts for the qnarter, including balance $932.75, as $13 050.37. Expenditnres, $12,238.05. Balauce on hand, $812.32.

Sympathy.

A resolution of sympathy was adopted for Mrs. H. C. McCabe, whose ministrations is the home of her daughter, bereft of her husband, deprive us of her gentle presence and wise counsels.

Aehville, S. C.

Mrs. E. L. Albright, secretary for the bureau for East Central States, was authorized to secnre plans for the projected Home at Ashville, S. C., aud to proceed with building as the treasury may he able to meet this obligation. Mrs. Albright was granted permission to personally respond to invitations from conferences in the interest of securing additional funds for this Home.

Miscellaneoue.

Mrs. Wm. Caldwell was appointed organizer for Holston Conference, and Mrs. Adda M. Snow was appointed corresponding secretary for Utah Mission.

Mrs. Anna F. Kent was authorized to visit her field of work in New Mexico.

The discovery that the anniversary of the birthday of the faithful president of the society was at hand, was made the occasion of a testimonial of appreciation of her services and devotion to the cause, in the shape of a chest and beautiful crystal vase, presented by the General Executive Board throngh Mrs. Williams, who regarded it as emblematic of the purity and transparenoy of the character of the president and of her motives in sustaining this relation to the society.

With suppressed emotion Mrs. Fisk accepted this tribute from the ladies in words of mingled admiration and gratitude and an expression of determination to stand erect and upright as this vase in her effort to dare and do for the right, free from an undercurrent of deceit and with motives pure and transparent as this beautiful crystal offering.

Mrs. Hoyt offered a touching prayer of dedication to the service of the Master, with faith in His guiding hand and sure promises.

Mrs. Fisk referred to a visit from the sainted Bishop Jones in her summer home at Seabright, N. J., when upon leaving he turned and said: "Peace be unto this house." At the moment of separation for a journey to New Mexico and the Pacific Coast she uttered this benediotion to each member of the board: "Peace be unto your house—peace be unto each one of you."

To this a member responded, "Peace go with you and your companion, abide with you and may you return to your loved ones and to continue service for the Woman's Home Missionary Society."

Adjournment then followed the singing of "God be with you till we meet again."

THE METHODIST EPISCOPAL CONGRESS.

Thursday, December 12, was a great day in Atlanta, Ga. It was the day set apart by Chief Commissioner I. Garland Penn, Esq., and the commissioners appointed by the bishops of the M. E. Church, to represent said church at the Cotton States Exposition. The sessions were held at Lloyd Street M. E. Church, which was filled with a splendid audience of the most representative people from the city and from a distance.

The following conferences were represented: Tennessee, East Tennessee, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Central Alabama, Little Rock, Mississippi, Upper Mississippi, Louisiana, Savannah, Washington and Lexington.

It is said by many to have been the most largely attended of any of the congresses thus far. The morning session began at 9:30 o'clock, with Bishop I. W. Joyce, D. D., as chairman. Rev. Geo. W. Arnold, B. D., presiding elder of the Atlanta District, made the address of welcome, to which Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, A. M., presiding elder of the Beaufort District, South Carolina Conference, responded. Then followed the regular addresses by President W. P. Thirkield, of Gammon Theological Seminary, on "An Educated Ministry;" Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., assistant corresponding secretary Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, on "The Work and Results of the F. A. and S. E. Society." Discussion opened by Rev. J. P. Wragg, presiding elder of the Griffin District, Savannah Conference. Short addresses were made by Mrs. Elizabeth Rust, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Rev. J. C. Hartzell, D. D., corresponding secretary F. A. and S. E. Society; Rev. John Braden, D. D., president Central Tennessee College, Nashville, Tenn.; Rev. R. S. Rust, D. D., honorary secretary F. A. and S. E. Society, and Rev. George Standing.

At the evening session Rev. Geo. W. Arnold, B. D., presided. Rev. A. M. Trotter, presiding elder of the Meridian District, Mississippi Conference, conducted the devotional exercises; after which the editor of the SOUTHWESTERN spoke on "The Negro in the Life, Power and Spirit of the Methodist Episcopal Church." Dr. E. L. Parks, professor in Gammon Theological Seminary, followed in an address on "The Stewart Missionary Foundation for Africa." Chief Commissioner I. Garland Penn also made some interesting remarks touching the Negro exhibits, and the congresses to be held.

The singing was excellent, helpful, inspiring, and the Congress in every way a grand and a glorious success. For this day at least Atlanta is ours. The Methodist cohorts have come, they have seen, and they have conquered. This Congress marks an important epoch in the history of our Church, and it is a very inspiring sight to see so many of our best representative men and women ready to do honor to our great Church. Verily, it was good to have been there.

In another number we will give our readers an account of the great Congress on Africa, which followed the Methodist Congress.

RACE LEADERSHIP.

We are indebted to Prof. George W. Wells, of the Louisiana Conference, for the following article on "Race Leadership:"

"The deadly cobras of the race are bad, selfish and designing leaders, be they in Church or State. Leaders of such characteristics can easily impede the race's onward march in racial and material development. The future greatness of the 'New Negro' in every department of life in the sunny South, lies in his ability to seize upon the benefits and opportunities which the altered condition of the South places in the race's grasp. The white man of the South, whose face is toward the development of the South's undeveloped resources, and the struggling Negro, are each to the manor born, and are the outgrowth of the same institution. We cannot, therefore, stand apart from each other and thrive. It is true, at this juncture the Negro needs well-trained leaders. Leadership must be planned for, but this leadership must be broadly cultured and conservative. Nations die from want of fit leaders, and not for want of rank and file. However, some wiseacres seem to think they have discovered the real Joshua of the race. But may not the answer of the Lord be: 'Behold, he hath hid himself among the stuff?' And when he is 'fetched hence' and stands among the people, he must be 'higher than any of the people from his shoulders and upwards.'"

HOME LIFE.

We are indebted to the Pittsburg Christian Advocate for the following timely article on "Home Life." It is applicable to all sections of our country, and its wholesome advice on this subject is worthy the space here given:

"The home life of a people is the clearest index to their character. Indeed, it, more than anything else, determines their character. If the home life is rude, coarse, vulgar, the inmates will have these same characteristics. If it is refined, pure and noble, all that are within its influence will be fashioned by these elevating qualities. The home is, therefore, the most potent institution and the most important in society. It is the centre of the affections, an asylum from oppressions, a refuge from storm and trouble, and the school of discipline and authority in which children are trained to be profitable members of society and good citizens. Whatever injures the family strikes at our most important interests.

"But the thing we wish now to point out with the greatest clearness is the neglect of the home and its duties and influences by fathers and brothers. This, it seems to us, is one of the greatest dangers of the day. This is a busy age. Industrious men are taxed, and often severely strained, to meet the demands made on them in their vocations. As a rule, they are absent during the day, multitudes of them not being at home after they leave it in the morning until they return late for the evening meal. Then it often happens that the evenings are given to business, society, clubs, lodges, or some other engagements, so that men become mere visitors in their own families. Some of them are scarcely seen by their families in daylight, except on Sundays. This is a great evil, and fatal to the best interests of domestic life. Some of it is unavoidable, under the present arrangements of business and social life; but this only makes it the more important to guard against adding that which may be avoided.

"It should be an established rule of every man's life that his home must have the first claim upon his evenings."

A BEAUTIFUL CALENDAR FOR EVERY ADVOCATE HOME.

The patrons of the SOUTHWESTERN will be pleased to learn that its publishers have arranged to furnish every subscriber for 1896, old and new, with a copy of the EPWORTH CALENDAR FOR 1896 FREE OF CHARGE!

This calendar, printed in colors, is a handsome specimen of the lithographic art, and is valuable and interesting as a souvenir of the great founder of Methodism. It contains a bust picture of John Wesley, copied from the most acceptable portrait of this distinguished man, who grows greater in the world's estimation as the years go by. Also pictures of the Epworth Rectory, Epworth Church, Wesley's Study, Old Road Chapel, and Tombs of John Wesley and Adam Clarke. It also contains a selection of comforting and elevating thoughts from the writings of John and Charles Wesley and others. A calendar of some sort is to be found in most of the better homes of to-day. Surely none other would be so appropriate in a Methodist home as the ADVOCATE CALENDAR for 1896.

—We take subscriptions, at a club rate, to all the magazines in the country, in connection with the ADVOCATE. Among the higher priced and well edited publications is the New England Magazine, which, with all the features of general interest of the other great illustrated monthlies, has, besides, its own specialty in which it is unrivalled. As its name implies, this is the art, history and literature of New England. Three dollars per year. With this paper, $3.65. Sample free. Warren F. Kellogg, publisher, Boston.

OUR FOREIGN AFFAIRS AND NATIONAL FINANCES.

Under the above caption the Zion's Herald says:

"These two subjects were the principal ones treated in the President's Message to Congress. His unequivocal utterance on the Venezuela question—that 'the traditional policy of the United States is firmly opposed to a forcible increase by any European power of its territorial possessions on this Continent;' that the dispute can be settled only by arbitration, and that such arbitration should include the whole controversy, neither power being permitted to draw an arbitrary line and submit only the portion lying on one side of it—won universal commendation as reflecting earnest popular sentiment on this long-pending question. In dealing with Cuba the President was more restrained. He alluded to 'the futile efforts thus far made to restore peace and order,' to suppress the uprising of people 'struggling for a larger autonomy and greater freedom;' but he uttered no words in favor of the recognition of the Cubans as belligerents. The Armenian question he relegates to the European Powers, who alone by treaty have secured the right, 'as agents of the Christian world,' 'to enforce such conduct of the Turkish government as will restrain fanatical brutality.' He alluded to measures taken to protect American citizens and interests not only in Turkey, but also in Hawaii and China. The Alaskan boundary survey has not been completed for lack of appropriations. 'It is imperative that the jurisdictional limits of the respective governments in this new region be speedily determined.' The President reiterated his recommendation that this country should surrender the privileges in Samoa that came to us by the Berlin agreement, and withdraw from those islands. He favors the improvement of our consular service, and champions the cause of our shamefully-underpaid ambassadors and ministers. Turning to domestic matters, the President sturdily defended the principle of the existing tariff despite its revenue deficiencies. He ignored the deficit entirely, making no suggestion for immediate relief by usual methods of taxation. He insisted that the drain on the gold reserve was due to the 'endless chain' of greenback redemption. He recommended the retirement of the greenbacks and the treasury notes and the issuing of short and long term low-interest bonds in their place with increased circulation of national banknotes at one fourth of the present interest tax to prevent a contraction of the currency. The State Bank proposition was not pressed. The President evidently had no expectation that his suggestion of increasing the bonded debt in order to take up and cancel the greenbacks would be heeded, and he therefore assured Congress that he 'will co operate in perfecting any other measure promising thorough and practical relief.'"

AN ANNUAL OPPORTUNITY.

Poor and needy indeed is he who has no assistance to give. But it is not usually the "poor and needy" who are anxious to prove themselves unsympathetic and useless to their fellows in need. It is a mistake to suppose that because one sometimes rightly accepts assistance he is therefore in no wise able to give assistance. Many a one in the depths of poverty is cut to the quick by the implication that he is denied the right and privilege of ministering to others simply because others now and again indulge in the privilege of ministering to him. It is disheartening and depressing to be taught that to poverty in material possessions must necessarily be added poverty in heart-power. None is so poor that he must be denied the right to exhibit a generous, sympathetic, noble spirit. The Christmas season is the time of all times when the Sunday School has an opportunity to make itself a living object lesson on the right of ministry. It teaches the Scripture doctrine that it is more blessed to give than to receive, and that it is better to minister than to be ministered unto. But it too often confutes that very doctrine in the claim that its pupils are too poor to minister, and do good, and give of their scanty substance to others. The Christmas anniversary is the golden opportunity to teach by doing, and to illustrate and enforce doctrine by practice. It is the great occasion when rich and poor alike may be uplifted and ennobled by the opportunity to relieve and to comfort their fellows by showing a Christ-like spirit of ministry.—Sunday School Times.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

"Methodist Magazine and Review."

Through the amalgamation of The Methodist Magazine and Canadian Methodist Review under a combined title, the best features of both periodicals will be united. The new series of The Methodist Magazine and Review will be one fourth larger than The Methodist Magazine, and will retain all the popolar features which made that periodical such a household favorite, and will add new and important departments without any increase of price.

The announcement of The Methodist Magazine and Review for 1896 is a very attractive one. The splendidly illustrated articles on "Britain's Keys of Empire," "Aronnd the World with the Union Jack," and "The Greater Britain of the Southern Seas," with several papers on our own great Dominion, will give it a patriotic character that should appeal to the patronage of every loyal Canadian. The articles on "Every Day Life in Bible Lands," will throw much light on many passages of Holy Scripture. Its stories of the heroism and romance of missions, its character-studies of the men and women who have moulded history, its sketches of social and moral reform, and its papers on Popnlar Science will furnish instructive reading to all classes.

A feature of great attractiveness will be its admirable social stories. One of these will be read with a special interest, "The Hand on the Helm," a tale of Irish life, of smugglers and Methodists, of true love and its trials, of Irish brogue, Irish hnmor, Irish pathos, and Irish piety. It will be illustrated with a score of engravings. "The Elder's Sin" describes the heroic character of the Covenanters of Scotland. "The Man Trap" is a strongly written temperance story, by the anthor of "Lost in London." "The Trials of Philip Strong," and "The New Socialism," by the author of "Philip Meyer's Scheme" are also powerfully written stories. These stories purchased in book form would cost several times the price of the Magazine and Review for the entire year.

William Briggs, Toronto, Publisher. Price, $2.00 a year, $1.00 for six months. Trial trip for three months 50 cents.

St. Nicholas in 1896.—For almost a quarter of a century the St. Nicholas Magazine has been bearing its welcome messages each month to the young people of the land. It consolidated with it in its early years all of the leading children's periodicals of that day—"The Little Corporal," "Children's Hour," "The School-Day Magazine," and "Our Young Folks." The last children's magazine to be merged in St. Nicholas was "Wide Awake." It has been fortunate in securing contributions for its pages from the leading writers and artists of the language, while it has given to its readers many works that have become imperishable classes in juvenile literature. St. Nicholas has had for many years a large circulation in Europe, and it is said to be read by many royal children. When the children of the Prince of Wales' family were young the prince took six copies for his household, and the present crown prince of Italy grew up a constant reader of St. Nicholas. The magazine is a help to those that have the care and up-bringing of children, in that it is full of brightness and interest, and tends to cultivate high aspirations, without being "preachy" and prosy and lagging in too apparent moralizing. The leading feature for next year will be a delightful series of letters written to young people from Samoa by Robert Louis Stevenson. Rudyard Kipling, whose first Jungle Stories appeared in St. Nicholas, will write for it in 1896, and James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, will contribute a delightful poem. The serial stories represent several favorite names.

"The Swordmaker's Son" is a story of boy life in Palestine at the time of the founding of Christianity. It is written by W. O. Stoddard. "The Prize Cup" is one of J. T. Trowbridge's best stories. Albert Stearns, of "Chris and the Wonderful Lamp," has written another story that promises much. In "Sinbad, Smith & Co.," he has again gone to "The Arabian Nights" for inspiration. During the coming year $1,000 will be given in prizes. Full particulars concerning it will be found in the November number.

Mrs. Alice C. Fletcher, who has lived among the Indians for some years, depicts a phase of life that has a historical interest and that is fast passing away, in "Tribal Life Among the Omahas," to appear in the January Century.

Our Bellaire (O.) Correspondent.

This has been the most prosperous year in the history of the Second M. E. Church. Our pastor has worked faithfully and saved the church. We have raised and paid on the church debt up to the present $300, which, with other collections, amounted to nearly $700 this year. We had a glorious revival with 8 conversions and a goodly number of additions to the church, several from other churches. Pastor W. M. Longford is a good worker and leader, and an able minister. All departments of the church are thoroughly organized for effective work.

Yours, W. H. ROLLS.

Presiding Elders, Please Help Us.

Mrs. Willing has been sending good literature to Methodist pastors who have families to support on $300 a year and less. Her list has numbered as many as six hundred. It needs revision on account of the changes of the itinerancy. Will presiding elders kindly help this good work by sending immediately the address of the wives of pastors who receive $300 a year and less, to Mrs. J. Fowler Willing, 463 W. 32d street, New York City?

Brookhaven District.

We have just closed one of the greatest district meetings ever held on the Brookhaven District—at Brookhaven, Miss. You will receive by this mail money order for nine subscribers, most of them yearly subscribers. Much good work has been done on the district, mostly where the SOUTHWESTERN is taken. Five hundred souls have been added to the Church. Collections better this year than last. Only one travelling preacher absent from the conference; he is building a church "about a good work," and could not come down. The enclosed list brings my list up to 59 since December, 1894.

A loud ring of your doorbell in the dead hours of the night is alarming. So is the first hollow sound of a cough from one's husband, wife, son, or daughter. It is disease knocking, with perhaps a certain silent visitor waiting not far away. Arrest that cough. Stop it. Stop it at the start. A few days' use of Ely's Pineola Balsam and the danger is past. Relief is immediate; a cure certain. This remedy is rich in the curative principles of the balsams and also contains certain ingredients that are new.

Meeting of Board of Education.

The Board of Educatien of the Mothdist Episcopal Chnrch held its annual meetlng at its office in New Yerk city, Dec. 4. There wore present Bishop Hurst, Drs. L. R. Fiske, W. F. King, J. W. Lindsay, and A. S. Hnnt, Messrs. J. S. Stout. John D. Slayback, and James Long, and Secretary C. H. Payno. Bishop Hurst presided.

The annual reports of the treasurer, J. S. Stout, aud of the secretary, Dr. C. H. Payne, showod a very prosperous year. The total receipts fur the year were $89,-061.48. There was an increase in the collections and the returned leans above last year. Tho board has aided during the year 1,540 studouts of twenty-four different nationalities studying in 134 different schools. About threo-fourths of this nnmher were intending to euter the ministry or the missionary work. The total nnmber of students aided from the beginning of this work in 1873 np to the close of the last school year was 6,593. The total amonnt loaned to those students was $603,579. Tho report showed a large increase in the income of tho board and in the disbursement in aid to stndents dnring the last quadrennium above any previons quadrennium in its history. The general work of the board also as an agency to promote higher edncation in the Chnreh has been greatly iuereased, and the supervisory power given to it by the last General Conference has largely added to its duties and respousibilities. The aotion of the last Geueral Conference in adopting a system of edneation, including the federation of tho colleges and nniversities of the Church, marked an epoch in the history of education in tho Chnrch which will doubtless be remembered as the greatest in its history.

The University Senate has formulated a standard of requirements for graduation at a Methodist college, and the board has faithfully applied these requiremonts, tho result of which has heen the changing of the curricnla in the direetion of a marked advance in more than forty of the colleges of the Church. The question of applying some general standard to the colleges of the country has recently boon discussed hy the Chancellor of the Uuiversity of New York and other eminent educators, the necessity for it being fully acknowledged. It is not a little gratifying that Methodism has taken the lead in this important advance. Its effeet upon the educational interests of the Church can not hnt he eminently satisfactory.

The work of the board in gathering and pnblishing complete statistics of our educational institntions is of great value. It is helieved that no other denominatinn presents sueh full statistics of its edueational work. From these statistics it appears that we have over two hnndred higher institutions of learning, with property valued at moro than $26,000,000, and 43,000 students.

The board also maintain a Teachers' Ageney, doing this important work gratuitonsly for sehools and teachers. Notices of important beqnests have been received hy the board during the year, and it is expected that the Board of Education of the Methodist Episcopal Church will be remembered in all wiils making beqnests to the general benevolences of the Chnrch. The secretary reported that Children's Day was more widely observed this yoar than ever befere, and that nearly eight hnndred thousand of the exercises prepared by the board had heen used by the Chnreh, which secured an andience on that day of between two and three millions of people, including the flower of the yonth of the country.

The meeting was enthusiastic over the growth and large development and eminent snccess of the work of the board.

Missionary Apportionments.

The apportionmeuts for 1896 will be the same as fur 1895. There will be no change till the whole Chnreh comes up to the million and a half line. If auy charge or district exceeds the present apportionment, it will not be Increased.

If every charge and district wonld raise the full apportionment in 1896, we should have a million and a half, which wonld pay all the appropriatious aud every dollar of the debt, and wonld enable the Geueral Committee to restore the seveu per eent to the appropriations for 1897.

A Doubting Thomas.

The following letter was just received from one who had a bad cancer beneath the left eye. He came to my office, but did not take treatment until he investigated me two days, and after we gave him a good cure, he refnsed to give us a statement of the facts, for fear it would come back in a few weeks. Read this letter.

Shinnston, W. Va., Sept. 29, 1895.

Dear Doctor—I have thought ahont writiug to you a number of times. It is about one year since I started to your offieo. My face is sound and well. Your Combination Oil Cure is a wonderful eure and I wish you well in your work. I shall ever feel grateful to you for your good and kind treatment tnward me dnring my stay with you. I shall uot forget to recommend your treatment whenever I can. I recommended it to Mr. Moore, of Clarksburg, fur his cancer on bis lip, and he sont to yon for your oils. Now I am willing to give you my testimonial. If you will please write ont your blank and send it to me, I will give you my name.

Very respectfully yours, John M. Sapp.

Naperville, Ill., March 4, 1895.

Dr. D. M. Bye—Dear Sir: It has been two months since I got your remedies and all traces of cancer are gone. Now, if this cancer stays away it is something nnheard of. I am satisfied it is the most wonderful cure I have seen yet. I am used to paying from $100 to $300 to have it taken away, and if it comes back every year it is better than all others I have tried, and I did uot have near the pains I had by nsing caustics, etc I will recommend your oils to all sufferers of cancer I know.

Yours very truly, Mrs. H. Manbeck.

Glidden, Iowa, October 1, 1894.

Dr. D. M. Bye: Dear Sir—Your last box of oils received, and oh, so thankfully, by our poor mother; hnt, Dr. Bye, it eame too late, or else we did not send in the first place soon enough, for she left on Saturday, Sept. 15, for a hnme with her God. She seemed to suffer little or no pain at the last, and her cancer on the surface seemed to be almost entirely cured. I think it had gone to her lungs, and then one grew on the bronchial tnbes. She had so much faith in your medicines, as we all had. It took the soreness ont of the one on her side, and we think now if we had known of the one in her throat and put the medicine on there, probably it would have prolonged her life a little longer. Whether it would have done any good or not, she is gone uow. She died with strong faith in yon and your oils and her blessed Savior. We thought it best to write and tell yon how things had gone. All her family join in hoping God will bless yon and your oils.

Sincerely yours, Mrs. O. Mavity.

Fads.

REV. J. H. REED, A. M., Texas Conference

As the centuries retreat there are left on record many events, the impress of which has influenced human society either for good or for bad. Some new fashion or custom suddely making its appearance upon the face of society, is commonly known as a "fad." The fashionable world adopts very readily any new form of dress and the costumes of social circles change in such rapid succession that woman scarcely has time for higher intellectual development, owing to the fact that she must keep pace with the ever changing sentimentalities and foibles of her age.

In watching the drift of popular excitement along this line of worldly tastes, one cannot be mistaken that they are all short-lived, soon serving their day and giving place to the latest "fad." In less than a decade the "skating rink," with all of its concomitant amusements, absorbed the attention of pleasure seekers, and large sums of money were expended upon buildings and amphitheatres, erected for the purpose of satisfying public curiosity in the exhilarating pleasures of the "rink," but this popular craze has subsided, the giddy things have passed on to other innovations, these places of public resort are left vacant, having contributed nothing to the material resources of the nation.

In the world of athletic sports the development of physital strength has run into the brutal fisticuffs of a thousand club rooms and every pitiable "lightweight" imagines himself the champion athlete of the world, until pounded into a pulp by one somewhat more of beast than himself. This popular craze holds high carnival among the inhabitants of the civilized world and Corbett stalks the land as the champion specimen of physical manhood, while Sullivan, who once laid claims to the same plaudits of the sporting world, now lies away as a wreck upon the face of human society. And what shall we say as to this "fad?" The cry of physical culture forsooth, may be heard all over the land in defense of this brutal practice, but when we look at it from point of man's higher and nobler being, it demoralizes the individual and leaves a blot upon the pages of Christian civilization, as well as setting forth influences that impel society by mere brute force. The marital relation is destroyed by those who give themselves up to the "ring" and notwithstanding the financial gains as claimed by the cities where such contests are "pulled off," the nation, in reality, is left poverty striken in that it is robbed of morality and virtue, the main bulwarks for the perpetuity and safety of any government. To say nothing of the fact that law is mocked and authority discarded, these convocations of popular excitement and brutal disorder are intimately blended with that other giant evil of our country—the liquor traffic. This, like other "fads" will in time pass off the stage and leave the nation depleted of some of its noblest types of true manhood and in sowing the wind we shall reap the whirlwind.

Amid all these various changes that affect the social conditions of mankind none stand out more alarming than does that latest of all "fads," the "bloomer" and the bicycle. The all absorbing question in this connection is, has woman a moral right to develop physical strength at the entire expense of modesty and common decency? The masculinity of the whole affair seems to exclude the feminine sex from this rolling and denunciations of the pulpit, a mighty sweep of feminine cyclists now roll over the land in defiance of those tender feminine virtues that should make woman the uncrowned queen of creation. Many claim it as her right to indulge in a sport in which men take delight, notwithstanding its highly sensational tendency. This so-called exercise has become a mania throughout the nation and we can only hope that it is now at its high water mark and will soon subside. We may call it puritanical, pharisaical or what not, but no one can deny the truth that the bloomer and the wheel are developing woman into a monstrosity, to say the least and subjecting her to public ridicule and unholy comment. If we deplore and condemn the publication and circulation of vicious and corrupt literature as dangerous to public morals, we should no less brand this feminine craze as immodest and one that tends to excite the lower propensities of the general masses, gazing with unrestrained appetite. The strongest safeguard to public morality is to keep woman highly exalted from all the influences that will drag from its lofty summit the true standard of virtue and trample it in the dust. The interwoven meshes of our modern civilization demand that the warp and woof shall be filled with the tender touch of feminine modesty and to do this we cannot allow the social foibles of this fast ages to strike at the very foundation of our national greatness by eliminating from our social fabric its femininity.

Woman's rights must be sacredly guarded, and everything that tends to ennoble her sex should be accorded to her, but that defined line of masculine coarseness in contradistinction to feminine refinement should never be crossed in the midst of heated ambition and false pride of being equal to man.

Sad will be the day when the homes of this land shall lose their most potent influence in the person of mother, all brought about by the ever-changing kaleidoscope of human society. In order that we may still cherish the three most precious words in the English language—mother, home, heaven, let feminine virtues continue to blossom in the home, and not be destroyed by the "fads" in our nineteenth century.

Brethren—Do not put off one day, but start now. I will send you your apportionment soon. Do not wait for that. If you begin early you will be sure to end soon. Yours in Christ,

Dear Brethren—Let us begin our work at once and plan for another successful year. Meet your estimating committees and let them do their work and be ready to report when called for. I trust all of the officers will feel themselves interested and turn out in full force. Remember the SOUTHWESTERN. Do your best to put the paper in every home. Let the people read, and see what the Church is doing throughout Methodism. Yours in Christ,

H. SWANN, P. E.

Brethren—Please have all of your benevolent reports and the money at quarterly conferences on Saturday.

H. W. KEY, P. E.

Cumberland River District.

Dear Brethren—Please stay on your own work this year and work for the SOUTHWESTERN, the Central Tennessee College, the benevolent collections, circulate tracts, buy books from our own Book Concern, pay for them, then read and study them, and sell books to our people. Hold your own revivals. Please get the converts into our own Church and give them something to read. See after the class, prayer and Epworth League meetings. You must lead and not drive the people into heaven, for if you drive them into heaven you may be shut out; but if you will lead them to the Holy Land, like the Master, you may go in yourself if quite a number is left out. So go to work as a leader and not as a driver, and you will win every time. We are using a great deal of powder, but we are not killing anything. Please put in the shot with the powder. It is the shot that kills. We made great gains last year; we must work for greater ones this year. Let me hear from you soon,

L. M. MOORES, P. E.

Austin District.

Dear Brethren—Most of us are beginning our work in a new field. It is not like the old one. We have got to learn how to handle the new people, and the new people will have to learn how to handle us. Let us do our best to get close to those we must work with. Take the Lord with you in all things. God bless you with a happy new year.

MOSES SMITH, P. E.

Dear Brethren—The annual conference is now over, and we are about to commence another year's work. Success has attended our work in the past year. Now let each start with the year and pray for greater success. Yours in the work,

R. W. Edwards, of Lansingburgh, was prostrated by sunstroke during the war, and it has entailed on him peculiar and serious consequences. At present writing Mr. E. is a prominent officer of Post Lyon, G. A. R., Cohoes and a past aid de camp on the staff of the commander-in-chief of Albany Co. In the interview with a reporter, he said:

"I was wounded and sent to the hospital at Winchester. They sent me together with others to Washington—a ride of about 100 miles. Having no room in the box cars we were placed face up on the bottom of flat cars. The sun beat down upon our unprotected heads. When I reached Washington I was insensible and was unconscious for ten days while in the hospital. An abscess gathered in my ear and broke; it has been gathering and breaking ever since. The result of this 100 mile ride and sunstroke was heart disease, nervous prostration, insomnia and rheumatism; a completely shattered system which gave me no rest night or day. As a last resort I took some Pink Pills, and they helped me to a wonderful degree. My rheumatism is gone, my heart failure, dyspepsia and constipation are about gone, and the abscess in my ear has stopped discharging and my head feels as clear as a bell, when before it felt as though it would burst, and my once shattered nervous system is now nearly sound. Look at those fingers," Mr. Edwards said, "do they look as if there was any rheumatism there?" He moved his fingers rapidly and freely, and strode about the room like a young boy. "A year ago those fingers were gnarled at the joints, and so stiff that I could not hold a pen. My knees would swell up and I could not straighten my leg out. My joints would squeak when I moved them. That is the living truth.

"When I came to think that I was going to be crippled with rheumatism, together with the rest of my ailments, I tell you life seemed not worth living. I suffered from despondency. I cannot begin to tell you," said Mr. Edwards, as he drew a long breath, "what my feeling is at present. I think if you lifted ten years right off my life and left me prime and vigorous at forty-seven I could feel no better. I was an old man and could only drag myself painfully about the house. Now I can walk off without any trouble. That in itself," continued Mr. Edwards, "would be sufficient to give me cause for rejoicing, but when you come to consider that I am no longer what you might call nervous and that my heart is apparently nearly healthy, and that I can sleep nights, you may realize why I may appear to speak in extravagant praise of Pink Pills. These pills quiet my nerves, take that awful pressure from my head, and at the same time enrich my blood. There seemed to be no circulation in my lower limbs a year ago, my legs being cold and clammy at times. Now the circulation there is as full and as brisk as at any other part of my body. I used to be so light headed and dizzy from my nervous disorder that I frequently fell while crossing the floor of my house. Spring is coming and I never felt better in my life, and I am looking forward to a busy season of work."

EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION.

BY ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Issued January 1, 1863.

WHEREAS, on the 22d day of September, in the year of our Lord 1862, a proclamation was issued by the President of the United States, containing, among other things, the following, to-wit:

"That on the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, all persons held as slaves within any States, or designated part of a State, the people whereof shall then be in rebellion against the United States, shall be, then, thenceforth, and forever, free, and the Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authority thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of such persons, and will do no act, or acts, to repress such persons, or any of them, in any effort they may make for their actual freedom.

"That the Executive will, on the first day of January aforesaid, by proclamation, designate the States, and parts of States, if any, in which the people thereof, respectively, shall then be in rebellion against the United States, and the fact that any State, or the people thereof, shall on that day be in good faith represented in the Congress of the United States, by members chosen thereto at election wherein a majority of the qualified voters of such State have participated, shall, in absence of strong countervailing testimony, be deemed conclusive evidence that such State and the people thereof, are not then in rebellion against the United States."

Now, therefore, I, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, by virtue of the power in me vested, as Commander-in Chief of the Army and Navy of the United States, in time of actual, armed rebellion against the authority and government of the United States, and as a fit and necessary war measure for suppressing said rebellion, do, on the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and in accordance with my purpose so to do, publicly proclaimed for the full period of one hundred days, from the first day above mentioned, order and designate as the States, and parts of States, wherein the people thereof respectively, are this day in rebellion against the United States, the following, to-wit:

Arkansas, Texas, Louisiana (except the parishes of St. Bernard, Plaquemines, Jefferson, St. John, St. Charles, St. James, Ascension, Assumption, Terre Bonne, Lafourche, St. Marie, St. Martin and Orleans, including the City of New Orleans), Mississippi, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, South Carolina, North Carolina, and Virginia (except the forty-eight counties designated as West Virginia, and also the counties of Berkeley, Accomac, Northampton, Elizabeth City, York, Princess Ann and Norfolk, including the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth) and which excepted parts are, for the present, left precisely as if this proclamation were not issued.

And by virtue of the power, and for the purpose aforesaid, I do order and declare that all persons hold as slaves within said designated States, and parts of States, are and henceforth shall be, free; and that the Executive Government of the United States, including the military and naval authorities thereof, will recognize and maintain the freedom of said persons.

And I hereby enjoin upon the people so declared to be free, to abstain from all violence, unless in necessary self-defense; and I recommend to them, that in all cases, when allowed, they labor faithfully for reasonable wages. And I further declare and make known that such persons of suitable condition will be received into the armed service of the United States to garrison forts, positions, stations and other places, and to man vessels of all sorts in said service. And upon this act, sincerely believed to be an act of justice, warranted by the constitution upon military necessity, I invoke the considerate judgment of mankind and the gracious favor of Almighty God.

In testimony whereof I have hereunto set my name and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty-three, and of the independence of the United States the eighty-seventh.

AMERICA, O LAND OF LIBERTY!

Dedicated to America and Emancipation Day.

America, O land of Liberty!
Long may thy noble banner wave,
O'er happy homes of free and brave,
O'er hearts that blood was shed to save,
From the dire curse of slavery.

America, O land where the oppressed
Have found a home in ages that are past,
Long may thy beauty and thy glory last,
And many others who their lot may cast
Upon thy shores, in thee find rest.

America, O heaven-favored land,
Still may thy arm the weak protect,
And freedom's holy light reflect,
A monument to honor thus erect,
Forever, and for aye to stand.

America, thy land may God preserve,
And be the Keeper of thy blood-bought peace,
Nor let thy greatness e'er cease,
But with the ages still increase,
And ever thou the right conserve.

O God of truth, thy scepter wield,
We pray thee, now, in this our land,
Withstay the proud oppressor's hand,
And ever for thy people stand,
Thou art our sun and thou shield.

—JOSEPH WHEELER, Harrisburg, Pa.

EMANCIPATION DAY.

We have already made some suggestions as to the proper observance of January 1, 1896, as the day which commemorates the emancipation of more than four and a half million of slaves. January 1, 1863, to January 1, 1896, is a short period as we measure human events, but they are years fraught with tremendous interests to a race of people who began their march toward freedom and Christian citizenship thirty-three years ago. We hope that every minister within our patronizing territory will see to it that the day is properly observed.

"UNTO US A CHILD IS BORN."

Centuries before the dawn of the Christian Era, the great prophet looked down through the vista of the ages and beheld the world's great Redeemer coming to rescue poor fallen humanity from the thraldom of spiritual darkness. It is more than probable that with his prophetic tongue, touched as it was with the divine Spirit, he was pre-eminently qualified to give the world the benefit of His touching predictions concerning the coming Savior. The Shiloh that should retrieve the lost fortunes of the royal house of Judah; the reign of the Son of the Everlasting Father, the Wonderful Counselor, the Prince of Peace, was so thoroughly fixed in the thought and in the faith of the Man of God, that one almost forgets, in reading His message, that it was prophecy, and not fulfillment. He looked up, and out, and on toward the promised day of the enthronement of Israel's hope. His was pre eminently a day of trial and of experiment. He could only give feeble encouragement to those who waited. He could indeed prophesy, but could not bring his prophesies to pass; yet He would thrill, and awe, and inspire with the majesty of his presence and the grandeur of his message. His work finished, he folded his mantle about him and fell on sleep. He had not witnessed the fulfillment of his burning and thrilling prophecies. His eyes had not beheld, nor had his hands touched, the child that should be born. He excited hopes and encouraged desires in the people which languished and, perhaps, faded away when he ceased at once to work and live. What a contrast between those days and the times in which we now live! Then, the burden of the Lord's message was given only to the privileged few; but

"How blessed are our eyes,
That see this heavenly light,
Prophets and kings desired it long,
But died without the sight."

They looked forward toward Jerusalem, restored with the Son of David upon the throne, reigning for those alone who were the children of Abraham. But the "fullness" of the time came, and the good prophet was vindicated. God, the everlasting loving Father, sent His Son into the world as the highest manifestation of His love: "That whosoever believeth in Him might not perish, but have everlasting life!" The Lord be praised! That Son was born unto us, and the government is now upon His shoulder. He is indeed, and in truth, the world's "Wonderful," "Counselor," its "Everlasting Father," and its "Prince of Peace." How we are reminded to-day of the Son's reign, not in the ancient Jerusalem, the "City of David;" but in the hearts of His people of every hue, and clime, and tongue.

"People and realms of every tongue
Dwell on His love with sweetest song,
And infant voices shall proclaim
Their early blessings on His name."

All hail! glorious anniversary of the birth of the Son of God and the Son of Man! Let us go forth rejoicing, not as the ancient Magi, but as those who know that Jesus the Savior is born; that "His dominion shall be from sea to sea and from the rivers to the end of the earth."

—Rev. John Miley, D. D., one of the most scholarly and eminent ministers of the Methodist Episcopal Church, died at Madison, N. J., Dec. 11.

"The greatest of these is charity."—1 Cor. 13:13.

—Whether Jonah was ever made to see his hardness of heart and brought to repentance is a question of uncertainty, for the narrative is incomplete, but the lessons which divine love sought to impress upon the rebellious prophet should not be lost upon us. It may be that the reason for leaving this wonderful story in an unfinished state was to teach us that when God's mercy ceases to have a softening effect upon a man, his life from that hour has nothing in it worthy of notice, for is it not written, "The way of the ungodly shall perish?"—Ex.

The Methodist Episcopal Church Congress.

Never since the day of the reorganization of the M. E. Church in Georgia has a more heroic and venerable body of men representing this cosmopolitan Church of God met to do honor to God in sincerest thanksgiving, and to praise his holy name for what has been done by the "Old Church" for humanity, than those that met in the Methodist Episcopal Church Congress, held in Loyd Street M. E. Church, Atlanta, Ga., Thursday, Dec. 12, 1895, with Bishop I. W. Joyce presiding.

The devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. J. C. Hibbler, presiding elder of the Mississippi Conference. The address of welcome was delivered by Rev. George W. Arnold, B. D., presiding elder of the Atlanta District. The response was made by Rev. B. F. Witherspoon, presiding elder of the Beaufort District, South Carolina Conference.

President W. P. Thirkield, of Gammon Theological Seminary, delivered a forcible address on the subject, "An Educated Ministry."

After the most excellent and eloquent address of Dr. M. C. B. Mason, assistant corresponding secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society—subject, "The Work and Results of the F. A. and S. E. Society"—was delivered, and the discussion of that society by Rev. J. P. Wragg, presiding elder of the Griffin District, Savannah Conference, five minute speeches were made by the following distinguished speakers: Mrs. Dr. R. S. Rust, president of the W. H. M. Society; Rev. J. C. Hartzell, D. D., senior corresponding secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society; Rev. R. S. Rust, D. D., honorary secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society; Rev. J. C. Braden, D. D., president of Tennessee College; Rev. George Standing, one of the pioneers of the M. E. Church in the South.

The evening session was presided over by Rev. G. W. Arnold, P. E. Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. A. M. Trotter, of Mississippi.

The address of Rev. E. W. S. Hammond, editor of the SOUTHWESTERN, was scholarly and truly eloquent. Many hearty amens and cheers greeted his ears as he so ably discussed "The Negro in the Spirit, Life and Power of the Methodist Episcopal Church."

Rev. Dr. E L. Parks, of Gammon, in a short, forcible address, spoke of the "Stewart Missionary Foundation for Africa."

The first teacher sent out by the Freedmen's Aid Society—Rev. George Standing—was present. Rev. Dr. J. W. E. Bowen, the first graduate from the schools of the F. A. and S. E. Society, was present.

Among the many ministers present were: Revs. McMorris, Paine, Jamison of Mississippi; Collett, Smith, Connell, Moorehead of North Carolina; Moultrie, Hickson, Goodlett, E. W. Adams of South Carolina; and others from nearly every conference in the South.

Among the educators were President J. D. Chavis and Professors Morris, Logan and Byrd.

The good effect of this Congress will be felt, and our beloved Zion better known in the City of Atlanta and the State of Georgia.

Texas Annual Conference M. E. Church.

The conference convened Wednesday morning at 9 o'clock at St. Paul's Church, Galveston, Tex., Bishop E. G. Andrews presiding. W. A. Spencer, corresponding secretary of the Church Extension, and Dr. W. B. Rankin, of the American Bible Society of New York, were introduced.

The roll of the conference was called and nearly 130 answered. Rev. Frank Gary was elected secretary; Edward Lee, statistical secretary, his assistants being J. A. Tillory, J. E. Bryan, W. O. Williams, S. M. Bolden, B. Fisher, W. A. Jackson and B. M. Taylor. Rev. Fortson was elected treasurer. William Bartley, presiding elder of the Houston District, made his report. The bishop appointed Dr. I. B. Scott to preside over the afternoon session.

Thursday A. C. Culbreth, presiding elder of the Huntsville District, reported that district to be in fair condition, the members of the district numbering 2550 and 16 preachers in charge.

W. H. Logan, of the Marshall District, submitted his report. The progress of the Wiley University was very good. The faculty, he said, is able and efficient. The total enrollment last year was 284 and the number enrolled since October 1 this year is 281.

The reports of W. L. Duncan, William Wesley and C. C. Minegan were also submitted.

Friday morning Revs. Jenkins, Todd and Hutcherson were admitted into full connection. Next came the election of three delegates to the General Conference. The tellers reported that Dr. I. B. Scott received 66 votes, W. H. Logan 59 and Rev. F. Gray 56. They were declared elected. Wm. Bartley and Edward Lee were declared elected reserve delegates.

Bishop Andrews introduced Mr. C. C. Morse of New Orleans, business manager of the SOUTHWESTERN, who spoke in the interest of his work; also, H. G. Breed of Kansas Northwest Conference, Mr. Ovall, Revs. A. Barbour and Dupree.

Saturday morning the constitutional questions were submitted: The Hamilton amendment, that lay delegates must be male members, the vote stood 34 for and 32 against; on the second proposition, that the delegates may be men or women, the vote stood yeas 62, nays 17. Then came the vote on the constitutional proposition to dimish the ratio of representation, the vote stood 36 for and 46 against.

On Saturday the work of the conference was completed, save adopting the final reports. Paris was chosen as the seat of the next conference.

The lay conference elected Prof. T. A. Fortson of Prairie View and E. D. Patterson of Jefferson lay delegates to General Conference. Prof. Fortson has had two terms' experence as delegate, having been sent from the Savanneh conference in '88 and '92.

On Sunday Bishop Andrews preached from Luke xi:13. He shows no diminution of pulpit ability on account of his years. It was a wonderful plea for prayer and seeking for the Holy Spirit.

TURNING GRAY

WITH BALDNESS
The Danger is Averted by Using.
AYER'S Hair Vigor.

"Nearly forty years ago, after some weeks of sickness, my hair turned gray and began falling out so rapidly that I was threatened with immediate baldness. Hearing Ayer's Hair Vigor highly spoken of, I commenced using this preparation; and was so well satisfied with the result that I have never tried any other kind of dressing. It stopped the hair from falling out, stimulated a new growth of hair, and kept the scalp free from dandruff. Only an occasional application is now needed to keep my hair of good, natural color. I never hesitate to recommend any of Ayer's medicines to my friends."—Mrs. H. M. HAIGHT, Avoca, Neb.

Christmas.

Is there significance in the fact that Christmas as a family festival like the American Thanksgiving, is so much confined to the different branches of the Saxon race? The Latin races, such as French, Spanish and Italians, make the observance a purely religious ceremonial, in harmony with the original meaning of the word, "Christ's Mass"—wont, in cities like Paris for example, to be celebrated with all the pomp traditionally belonging to that chief representative of ecclesiastical grandeur. The giving of presents and other like features as seen in Protestant countries, is there mostly reserved for New Year's Day.

And still that feature in the Christmas observance to which Protestants object least—the giving of presents—would seem to be that which had originally most of the Roman mark upon it. Thus, Mr. Laurence Hutton quotes from a writer of about the middle of the last century, John Dunton, the following account of its origin. Speaking of Christmas, he says: "It is as old as the word mass itself, which the Roman priests invented from the Latin, mitto, to send, by putting the people in mind to send gifts, offerings, obligations, to have masses said for anything they might chance to want. Thus the mass at the particular time of the year was the Christ's mass, and the money gathered was deposited in the Christ-mass box; hence the term still employed in England, particularly among dependents, who were given something by their employers to help them buy a seasonable paternoster of the church."

It is interesting to observe how time, and changed ideas and habits, will work changes in things of this nature. One finds it difficult, if not impossible, to clearly associate in his mind that ancient practice of buying some participation in the great Christ-mass of the church with a gift of money to feed the wealth and luxury of the priesthood, and that which one observes, now, in some family of children when the stockings are emptied of a Christmas morning with gleeful shouts; or on the days preceding Christmas as one walks along the cities crowded street, watches the throng of people as they pour in and out of the places where Christmas gifts are on sale, or enters these places themselves and takes note of the commodities which have come in room of the old-time gift of the worshiper for "the Christ-mass box" in church or cathedral.

As intimated at the beginning, this change has been wrought by races among whom the Roman ritual never gained such a foothold as among those of the south of Europe. Has the colder climate of the north, besides, anything to do in making the fireside and the home so much the center of the people's life? That may be so, while as a natural consequence other things center there as well. Yet many things in use by our German, Saxon and Scandinavian ancestors, have mostly ceased to have a place even at the Christmas fireside. The Yule-log, the mistletoe, the boar's head on the dinner table, these are no more, though the holly, and the tree, and the stockings hung for the accommodation of Santa Claus, remain.

Mr. Charles Dudley Warner seems to hold, in an article copied in The Standard last week, that Christmas is in danger, as he phrases it, of being "run into the ground" just by overdoing the matter. "Since the American nation fairly got hold of the holiday—in some parts of the country, as in New England, it has been universal only about fifty years—we have made it hum, as we like to say. We have appropriated the English conviviality, the German simplicity, the Roman pomp, and we have added to it an element of expense in keeping with our own greatness. Is anybody beginning to feel it a burden, this sweet festival of charity and good will, and to look forward to it with apprehension?"

That is quite possible. What is of more serious consequence is the danger that Christmas worries, Christmas traffic, the crowding, the weariness, the worldliness, the high-flown festivities, the tumult and the fashion, may rob the festival of that which, after all, is its chief beauty and blessing; its reminder of that wonderful morning when the angel-message announced to the shepherds on a Judean hill, and through them to all the world—"This day is born to you, in the city of David, a Savior, which is Christ the Lord."—Standard.

The only chance of recovery from scrofulous consumption is in using Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

The Relation of the Pastor and Presiding Elder.

By D. BAKER, Pastor at Wellington, Mo.

There is no problem in the category of the many subjects of the ways and means planned by the Methodist Church that is more scrutinizing and watched with more diligence and care than that of the relation of pastor and presiding elder. Ezekiel's vision is a complete illustration of their relation proper. "It is a wheel in a wheel." In their relation proper there is unity of work and strength to support, and power to propel and espouse the great cause of the Church. The most vital interest of the Church depends upon it. Their relation should be strictly harmonious and according to the doctrine and usage of the Church, in order to elevate the people to a higher social, moral and religious standard and assist largely in developing the financial interests. If their relations are energized, the result is a strong, vigorous and prosperous Church; but if obliterated, these forces will greatly hinder her in her mission of mercy. And some are called to teach, some to preach, some to be evangelists, some apostles and some pastors according to the Scriptures, some men are called to the pastorate and are fitted to that office only, and are not successful out of that sphere of work, and can never be adapted to the office of a presiding elder. The pastor or pastors that seek the position are apt to be a failure. Presiding elders are indispensable to the general good and success of the Church. A good presiding elder is called or appointed through the carefulness of the bishops of the Church. That being the only way to get a good one. He watches all the interests of his people, both pastors and churches. A good presiding elder is to his pastors and churches what the sun is to the universe. He is in part their light and their strength. A good presiding elder has both pastor and church greatly at heart. Both share his sympathy alike. He is greatly felt when present in the charges, by both the pastors and the people, and greatly missed when absent. A good presiding elder will work for the betterment of his district generally.

THE AFRICAN CONGRESS.

This great gathering might be appropriately called the World's African Congress, representing as it did some of the most distinguished explorers, scientists, missionaries and Christian philanthropists in the world. From the opening session, December 13, to the closing lecture, Sunday night, December 15, interest never flagged. It was a royal company. Aside from the distinguished gentlemen who filled the several numbers on the elaborate program nearly all our conferences were represented by many of our ablest and best men. It was a feast of reason and an occasion never equaled probably in the world's history.

Governor Atkinson, of Georgia, welcomed the delegates in one of the best speeches we have ever heard. Clear, crisp, eloquent, he spoke of his interest in the evangelization of Africa, and closed in a splendid declaration in favor of fair treatment to the colored citizens of the State of Georgia so far as he had authority to enforce the laws. He was greeted by tremendous applause.

Bishop Duncan, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, presided at one of the sessions with great acceptability. His remarkable and brilliant address, though brief, made a profound impression. He was applauded to the echo when he declared that character and not color was the measure of a man.

The Congress was also very highly favored with the presence of Rev. W. B. Palmore, D. D., the able and brilliant editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate, of the M. E. Church South.

Lloyd Street Church and Bethel A. M. E. Church were crowded to their utmost capacity with enthusiastic people, and at the meetings held in the Moody Tabernacle the congregations were very large. A large number of prominent white ladies and gentlemen attended all the sessions. Mr. Heli Chatelain, a celebrated African traveler and philologist, read the first paper on "A Bird's-eye View of African Tribes and Languages." Thence on during the Congress we had the following, viz:

The Hon. J. H. Smythe, Richmond, Va., ex-minister to Liberia, on "The African in Africa and the African in America;" Rev. Alexander Crummell, D. D., Washington, D. C., author of "The Future of Africa," on "The Absolute Need of an Indigenous Missionary Agency for the Evangelization of Africa;" discussion opened by Rev. C. S. Smith, D. D., of the A. M. E. Church Sunday School Union; Orishetukeh Faduma, of the Yoruba Tribe, West Africa, on "Success and Drawbacks of Missionary Work in Africa, by an Eye-Witness;" Bishop H. M. Turner, editor The Voice of Missions, essay on "The American Negro and his Fatherland," read by Rev. Dr. Alexander of the A. M. E. Church; Rev. J. C. Hartzell, D. D., corresponding secretary Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, on "Africa in America and Beyond the Seas;" Rev. J. W. E. Bowen, Ph. D., D. D., on "The Comparative Status of the Negro at the Close of the War and To-Day;" letter from H. K. Carroll, LL. D., New York, editor The Independent and superintendent U. S. Census of Churches, on "The American Negro in the Twentieth Century," read by Dr. E. L. Parks of Gammon Seminary; Cyrus C. Adams, editor of The New York Sun, on "New Things We Have Learned About Africa," illustrated by a series of original slides; Rev. J. W. Hamilton, D. D., Boston, corresponding secretary Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, on "Occult Africa;" Mr. T. Thomas Fortune, editor The New York Age, on "The Nationalization of Africa; Miss Alice M. Bacon, secretary Hampton Folk-Lore Society, essay on "The Study of Folk-lore;" Mr. Cyrus C. Adams, editor New York Sun, address on "Some Results of the African Movement;" discussion opened by E. M. Cravath, D. D., president Fisk University, Nashville; Orishetukeh Faduma, of Sierra Leone, West Africa, address on "Religious Beliefs of the Yoruba People in West Africa;" experience, "My Life in Africa," by a young woman of the Bassa Tribe; Mrs. M. French-Sheldon, F. R. G. S., author of "From Sultan to Sultan," address on "Practical Issues of an African Experience," discussion opened by President Council, Alabama State Normal School; also lecture on "Glints of Native African Life," illustrated by a large number of views taken by her own artist in her journey to Kilimanjaro, and by African curios and fabrics.

SUNDAY SERVICES.

At Lloyd Street M. E. Church, 11 a. m.: Sermon by Rev. Bishop I. W. Joyce, LL. D; Mr. Frederick Perry Noble, Chicago, secretary World's Fair Congress on Africa, paper on "The Outlook for African Missions in the Twentieth Century, read by Dr. Roy; Heli Chatelain, address on "African Slavery—its Status; the Anti-Slavery Movement in Europe; What Can and Ought to be Done by Americans for the Relief of African Slaves; African missions—statistical summary based on reports from the leading societies; editor SOUTHWESTERN, address on "Africa in its Relation to Christian Civilization."

At the Bethel, African Methodist Episcopal Church, 7.30 p. m.: Rev. M. C. B. Mason, D. D., field agent Freedmen's Aid and Southern Education Society, address on "The Methodist Episcopal Church and the Evangelization of Africa;" Rev. Joseph E. Roy, D. D., chairman World's Fair Congress on Africa," lecture on "Africa and America," illustrated by a series of remarkable stereopticon slides.

The eminent African scholar, Dr. Edward W. Blyden, D. D., LL. D., was prevented from attendance by severe illness. His letter created great enthusiasm, as did also the letter of Bishop H. M. Turner of the African M. E. Church.

It was an inspiring sight to see such distinguished workers upon the platform as Bishop Duncan, of the M. E. Church South; Rev. W. B. Palmore, D. D., editor of the St. Louis Christian Advocate, of the same Church; Bishop J. W. Gains, D. D., of the A. M. E. Church; Revs. C. S. Smith, D. D., corresponding secretary Sunday School Union, and G. W. Alexander, D. D., of the same Church; Bishop I. W. Joyce, D. D.; Revs. R. S. Rust, D. D., honorary corresponding secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society, and J. C. Hartzell, D. D, and J. W. Hamilton, D. D., corresponding secretaries, and M. C. B. Mason, D. D., assistant corresponding secretary of the F. A. and S. E. Society; L. M. Dunton, D. D., president Claflin University; J. Braden, D. D, president Central Tennessee College; J. D. Chavis, A. M, president Bennett Seminary; D. C. John, D. D., president Clark University; Professors Logan and Byrd of Rust University and Central Tennessee Colleges respectively; Professor W. H. Crogman, LL. D., of Clark University; President W. P. Thirkield, Rev. Professors J. W. E. Bowen, Ph. D., D. D.; E. L. Parks, D. D., and J. C. Murray, D. D., of Gammon Theological Seminary; Professor I. Garland Penn, chief commissioner; Mr. T. Thomas Fortune, editor New York Age; Hon. J. H. Smythe, LL. D., United States ex-minister to Liberia, and editor True Reformer; Mr. Cyrus F. Adams, editor New York Sun; Professor W. H. Councill, the eminent president of Alabama State Normal School; Miss Alice M. Bacon, of Hampton Institute; Mr. Charles Alexander, editor Boston Monthly Review; Mrs. M. French-Sheldon, F. R. G. S.; Prince Orishetukeh Faduma, of Sierra Leone, West Africa; Dr. Darnell, ex-president Cookman Institute; G. W. Arnold, B. D., of Georgia; B. F. Witherspoon, B. D., of South Carolina; Mrs. Elizabeth L. Rust, of Cincinnati, Ohio; Rev. George Standing; Dr. Kellar, author of "Twenty Years Among the Zulus;" Rev. F. T. Chinn, of Louisiana, and other distinguished gentlemen of both races.

The representation from our conferences was unusually large, there being present leading brethren from the Upper Mississippi, Mississippi, Little Rock, Central Alabama, Savannah, North Carolina, South Carolina, Lexington, East Tennessee, Tennessee, Washington and Louisiana Conferences. It is safe to say that no such meeting has ever been held before, and the delegates and visitors will return to their homes with a better knowledge of each other and with renewed interest in the redemption of Africa. The proceedings will be published in book form at such a price as will put the history of this remarkable gathering within the reach of the hundreds and thousands of our people. Of course the SOUTHWESTERN made many more strong and influential friends.

—The veteran educator, Dr. R. S. Rust, and our genial, soulful and capable Bishop I. W. Joyce, D. D., with the venerable Dr. Joseph Tyler, who had spent more than a quarter of a century among the Zulus, made an historic and interesting group.

—The missionary hymns, chorals and melodies rendered by the choir of Gammon Theological Seminary were grand, helpful, inspiring and added not a little to the interests of the Congresses. Mrs. A. Bowen, estimable and accomplished wife of Rev. Professor J. W. E. Bowen, D. D., presided at the organ.

—It was a high privilege, and was very highly appreciated, to have the handshake and association and touch with the great representatives of the Afro-American Press, Timothy Thomas Fortune, of the New York Age, and and Hon. J. H. Smythe, of the Reformer. The magnificent addresses of these eminent knights of the quill ranked among the best of the congress. Nor could we fail to mention the inimitable and magnetic Dr. C. S. Smith, of the African M. E. Sunday School Advocate, whose witty and brilliant but brief talk made him hosts of friends. Also we are favored with the acquaintance of the young and brilliant editor of the Boston Monthly Review, Mr. C. E. Alexander.

THE CRUISER "SOUTHWESTERN."

Off CRESCENT BAY, 12th month A. D. 1895.
Longitude 90, Latitude 30.

We ran into port on the 17th with a goodly list of passengers and as gallant a crew as ever spliced a brace or handled a marlinspike. After inspection our purser handed to the commodore the following encouraging report:

"To the Commodore commanding the cruiser SOUTHWESTERN:

"Our fall campaign has been on the whole a pretty successful one, and we have a goodly passenger list booked for the entire voyage of '96. Some, however, have shipped for only intermediate ports. These we hope will like the craft and route so well as to continue for the full round trip on the especially low excursion rates offered. Several are only booked to Port January, which is now about in sight. The commodore, and in fact, all the 'officers' are so well pleased with these noble men and women that they hope they will at once call at the purser's desk and secure round trip tickets. The voyage of '96 is destined to be the most eventful and interesting of any yet attempted."

Arrangements will be made to give tourists a most delightful trip, and special attention will be given to the preparation of the pabulum mentum, which will be served once a week. This diet is said by all who have tried it to be very conducive to health, and is an invariable cure of the "sulks." Persons afflicted with the "kicking" fever, or those who are predisposed toward surliness and a score of other imaginary complaints, would do well to take passage for this cruise. The SOUTHWESTERN will touch at Grenada and Canton, Miss., Griffin, Ga., Batesville, Fla., Charleston, S. C., Charleston, W. Va., Philadelphia, Pa, Louisville, Ky., and other points to take in supplies and passengers. Persons desiring to take the round trip, including a few weeks' cruise about the waters of Lake Erie during the month of May, passengers will doubtless find this an unusually interesting cruise. There is room for a limited number of passengers; but in order to secure staterooms and other accommodations, application should be made at once accompanied with $1.25 for the round trip. We are putting in supplies for the cruise, examining machinery and getting things in order for what we believe will be the best cruise of the series. Rear Admirals, admirals, commodores, captains, ensigns and non-commissioned officers are requested to read these orders before their respective commanders.

PORT HOLE.

—We desire to call especial attention to the Week of Prayer, which will begin with Sunday, Jan. 5. As far as possible let the program which is published elsewhere be faithfully observed, and we feel assured that in this united and concerted movement the churches will be very greatly strengthened and built up. Don't mend the program nor tinker with it, but follow it.

—Use the poem, "America, O Land of Liberty," on Emancipation Day.

Women's Exalted Mission.

Better to create a good home than to excel in any other endeavor. Certainly there is wisdom for two young people who have sworn to love each other, no matter whether there is poverty or wealth, no matter whether the days are bright or dark, to have a home of their own, writes Ruth Ashmore discussing "The Mistress of the Small House," in November Ladies Home Journal. Boarding-house life is bad for women, and I do not believe that any man has ever really enjoyed it. God created women to make homes—to make homes for the men they love and for the children whom God will send to them. And a home must be started at the beginning of this new life. Do not wait for a big house and many servants, but make happiness exist in a little house if necessary. It can be done. I know it can. Do not shrug your shoulders, and say you do not like housework. Work is only disagreeable when it is badly done, and from washing the silver and glass to dusting the bric-a-brac and beating up a cake, everything may be daintily done and well done if you go about it in the right way and with the right spirit. You will have to be considerate and you will have to be patient. You will certainly make mistakes, but each mistake is one step toward success. Burden yourself with patience, consideration and tenderness; you will need to make calls upon them often and often. Then you will gain so much. You will be the happy housewife, the lady of the house who has the right to dispense hospitality and good will; the mistress, not only of the house, but of the heart of your husband, because for him you have created a home. And that is a womanly work—a better monument to you, my dear, than the painting of a wonderful picture, the writing of a great book, or the composing of a fine piece of music. From out a home all virtues and all great works may come. No man ever made a home. He does not know how. The woman's brain, heart and hands are necessary, and a home is such a beautiful thing. It means rest, it means peace and it means love. Make one for your husband and let him find these three great joys in its four walls.

Obituary—Mrs. Annie E. Morris, wife of Rev. W. H. Morris, presiding elder of the Little Rock district, Little Rock Conference, died Friday evening, Nov. 1, 1895, and was laid to rest the following Sunday afternoon. The deceased graduated from Clark University, Atlanta, Ga., in 1885, and after spending the next year in special study at Wellesley College, Mass., was appointed teacher in the New Orleans University. In 1887 she was transferred to Philander Smith College, Little Rock, where for eight years she held the chair of History and English literature. She was converted and united with the M. E. Church when but a girl and remained a faithful member of the same until her death. Rev. W. O. Emery, her pastor, Dr Thomas Mason, president of Philander Smith College, and Prof. J. M. Cox spoke words befitting the memory of this excellent Christian woman. J. C. M.

Use It in Time.

Catarrh starts in the nasal passages, affecting eyes, ears and throat, and is in fact, the great enemy of the mucous membrane. Neglected colds in the head almost invariably precede catarrh, causing an excessive flow of mucus, and if the mucus discharge becomes interrupted the disagreeable results of catarrh will follow, such as bad breath, severe pain across forehead and about the eyes, a roaring and buzzing sound in the ears and oftentimes a very offensive discharge. Ely's Cream Balm is the acknowledged cure for these troubles.

Perhaps no book of the year has been received with greater interest, has had warmer commendation or sharper criticism than Dr. Mudge's "Growth in Holiness." Those who have watched the controversy with interest, friendly or otherwise, will be glad to know that the critics have found a champion, and that we are soon to have a masterly presentation of the "Doctrine of the Higher Life" from their point of belief.

Within a few days the Western Methodist Book Concern will put out a review of Dr. Mudge's work from the pen of the gifted Lewis R. Dunn, D. D. His eminent biblical scholarship, recognized piety, and successful ministry covering a period of over fifty years, give assurance of the value of whatever he may write. He has long been an acknowledged authority on all questions of practical and experimental theology.

The book will be a 12mo, somewhat smaller than Dr. Mudge's work entitled "A Manual of Holiness and Review of Dr. James B. Mudge."

DR. D. M. BYE,
Indianapolis, Ind.

INVERNESS, FLA., Aug. 26, 1895.

Dr. D. M. Bye, Indianapolis, Ind.:

MY DEAR DOCTOR—I am happy to state to you that I am completely well now and have been for three weeks. Your oils killed the cancer. They sloughed out to the bone and the places filled up level and left only a little scar. My physician here watched the places with marked attention and as they would come out and go to healing would remark: "Well that is a powerful remedy," and it is doing the work so nicely and promptly. He had treated me about one year, and then said he could do me no good; besides two other doctors here, one of them claimed to cure cancer, but they all failed. Their treatment gave me great pain and I am satisfied it started them to spreading. One of them was located above the right eye, one on the right side of nose, and one on my cheek, close to my ear and running up under the hair a little, all very bad places, they had been there for 8 years, and in the last year had doubled in size, and the doctor failed to arrest their growth. There were three other places appeared on my face in the last year and seemed to start as the first did. I put the oil on them and they are gone. My face is smooth again.

After giving you the facts, I would love to tell all suffering ones of your oils; that they too could be healed, for the treatment will do the work quickly and with less pain than any one would expect, and while other remedies may give some relief, your oils cure. You can but imagine how one feels so afflicted and know they must be eat up alive and die an awful death; then to be cured and no trace of it left.

May God bless you with a long life, and may those afflicted learn of your oil cure and be healed, is my prayer for them and your co-workers. Yours in faith,

W. W. VINCENT.

CLIFTON, KAN., July 2, 1895.

Dr. Bye, Indianapolis, Ind.:

DEAR SIR—The fistula opening has not been visible for quite a while, say one and a half months. The lump inside still bothers me, but not so bad as before. I do wish you would send me more treatment to finish up the job, for I received more benefit from your treatment than from many physicians in three years, including a painful surgical operation. Send me more medicine if you think best.

LESSON FOR SUNDAY, JAN. 5, 1896.

The Forerunner of Christ.

[Luke 1. 5-17.)

GOLDEN TEXT.—"Thou shalt go before the face of the Lord to prepare His way." (Luke 1. 76)

St. Luke was born in Antioch, in Syria, and was taught the science of medicine. In early life he became a convert to the Jewish religion. He is likely the only Gentile that ever wrote any part of the Bible. The date of his conversion is uncertain. He traveled much with St. Paul in his missionary journies. He probably died a martyr. His gospel was likely written at Caesarea, between A. D. 58 and A. D. 60, during Paul's imprisonment there. Theophilus, the person to whom it is dedicated, was a man of rank and consideration, a native of Italy, and likely dwelt in Rome. The entire gospel was written for Gentile converts.

I. The Priest (5-10). 1. The time of his ministration—"In the days of Herod." This Herod, miscalled "The Great," was an Idumaean, and was appointed king of Judea by Julius Cæsar He adorned Jerusalem with many splendid monuments. The Temple, which he rebuilt with care, was his greatest work. As he advanced in years he became suspicious, cruel and blood-thirsty. He put to death his beautiful wife, Mariamne, and his two sons by her. This bloody despot committed so many great murders that the slaying of a few infants in Bethlehem was too small a matter for Josepheus to record. The Church of God has hard trials in any country where a cruel, blood-thirsty despot rules.

2. Zacharias and his wife were of the house of Aaron, and of the course of Abia. From Eleazer and Ithamar the two sons of Aaron had descended twenty-four families. David distributed among them by lot the various temple services. Each family group, or course, officiated one week. The priests for each day of the week were selected by lot. The course of Abia, or Abijah, was the eighth in order. This family served each year in April and October. This would bring the birth of John, and also of Jesus, in January or July. Zacharias means "remembered of Jehovah," and the signification of Elizabeth is "one whose oath is unto God." John was well born. Zacharias awaited his turn to serve God, but we may do his will at any time.

3. This priest and his wife were deeply pious. (1) "They were both righteous before God." They were strict observers of the Mosaic law. They ate, labored, worshiped, traveled, studied, slept and awoke by rule; the slightest deviation from which was to them sin. (2) They walked "in all the commandments and ordinances of the Lord blameless." They kept the moral and ceremonial laws to a dot. So pure was their heart, and so perfect their life, that God imputed no blame unto them. If they were not sinless, they were blameless. No one is compelled to be a sinner. We may live without breaking the laws of God.

4. They were in great trouble because "they had no child." The fact that grieved them so much is a source of great joy to many. Jewish families had a burning desire for children. They hoped the Messiah would be born in their home. Not to have any offspring was considered by them a moral reproach. Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Samson and Samuel were born of women who had been long childless. Children are in many ways a blessing to the home. They teach parents to be affectionate, patient, careful and self-denying. They instill young life into old hearts.

5. The work of Zacharias on this day was "to burn incense." It was burned twice each day, at 9 a. m., and at 3 p. m. This was probably the morning service of the Sabbath day. In burning incense a pan full of live coals were placed on the golden altar, the priest dressed in white robes, advanced and poured the incense on the coals. Immediately the room was filled with soft light and sweet fragrance. Our hearts should be an altar from which the holy incense of prayer, praise and thanksgiving should continually descend.

6. The work of the people—They "were praying without at the time of incense." Among that multitude was likely the aged Simeon and the prophetess Anna. When the column of incense arose the petitions of the people ascended. The burden of their prayer was for the salvation of Israel. While the minister conducts the services of God's house the whole congregation should be praying for the prosperity of Zion.

II. The Angel (11-17). 1. The messenger. (1) "There appeared unto him an angel of the Lord." This was likely the first angel that had been seen for four hundred years. It seems to us proper that the Christian dispensation should be introduced by messengers from the heavenly world. From other angelic appearance we infer that this angel looked like a young man in shining garments. In the Lord's house even now angels assemble with the saints to worship. (2) The angel stood "on the right side of the altar." This was considered an omen of good fortune. But which was the right side? Zacharias entered the Holy Place from the east and advanced toward the west. The angel to be at his right hand would stand by the table of show-bread on the north side of the altar. May we stand at God's right hand when He comes to make up His jewels. (3) When Zacharias saw the angel "he was troubled, and fear fell upon him." Such has been the uniform effect of supernatural appearances. Such fear is not to be attributed to astonishment so much as to superstition and dread of death. There was a popular belief among the Jews that he who saw an angel would soon die. Our whole duty is to "fear God and keep His commandments."

2. The message. (1) The son. a. "Fear not" The angel first removed all dread. He had not come on an errand of judgment, but of mercy. We need not fear when receiving God's message, but when doubting or rejecting it. b. "Thy prayer is heard." In early life Zacharias had no doubt often prayed for a son. God had not granted the desire of his heart. He had likely long since ceased to offer this petition. His prayer on this day was probably for the "consolation of Israel." Prayers offered in early life may be answered in old age. c. "Thou shalt call his name John" This name signifies "The grace of Jehovah," and was very suitable for one given in answer to prayer. It was given in anticipation of the favor God would show him.

3. The character of the son. a. "Thou shalt have joy and gladness." His life will bring happiness to the aged priest. The father will be proud of the son. May all sons do as well. John would have to be exceedingly good to go beyond his father in piety. b. "He shall be great in the sight of the Lord." Here only is true greatness. Many are great in their own eyes, some are great in the eyes of others, but he only is mighty who is great in God's sight. c. "And shall drink neither wine nor strong drink." He shall be a Nazarite, or a separated person. The vow of the Nazarite was temporary or for life. Samson and Samuel were life long Nazarites As the leper was a living symbol of sin, so was the Nazarite of holiness. Nothing intoxicating passed his lips, no razor came upon his head, and no ceremonial defilement was contracted. The Nazarite appeared to the world as a man filled with lofty thoughts that absorbed all his interest. d. "And he shall be filled with the Holy Ghost." The spirit of love, joy, peace, truth, temperance and faith shall be in him all the days of his life. No minister will fail who is thus equipped for his work.

4. The work of the son. a. "He shall go before Him in the spirit and power of Elijah." John was to go before Jesus and open the way—the mental and moral way—for His coming. This he did by his preaching and baptizing. b. "Many of the children of Israel shall he turn to the Lord." An idea prevailed among the Jews that Elijah would come again before that Great Prophet would make His advent. John came in the spirit—the wisdom, courage and zeal of Elijah. John was a turner. He turned the children of Israel to the Lord, the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just.

Starkville District Conference.

The Starkville District Conference convened its fall session at French Camp, November 6 to 10, 1895. This conference was held in a neat church erected since July, 1895. Too much praise can not be given Rev. F. H. Bunton and his good people for their hospitable manner of caring for the conference and visitors. F. H. B. has his forces well marshaled and they are coming. Elder Jamison was at his post full of vigor Thursday morning. After a short talk of well selected words he declared the house in order for business. G. Orange called the roll and a great many of the members answered to their names, after which J. M. Thompson was elected secretary, with G. Orange and C. E. Moody assistants. J. M. Nevels and F. H. Bunton were elected statistical secretaries. J. W. Terrell preached Wednesday night. All of the brethren made good reports, which showed growth in the men and progress in the work. Stewards, class leaders, Sunday-school superintendents, local preachers and exhorters all made favorable reports. C. E. Moody, M. S. Collins, T. W. Lampkin, J. A. Russell, John Chiles, E. D. Montgomery and Sam Gladney were licensed to preach. D. Cohen and J. W. Terrell were recommended for admission on trial.

Mrs. K. B. Jamison was elected critic and agent—critic for the conference and agent for the SOUTHWESTERN. Her criticisms of the careless expressions of the brethren caused them to so improve their expressions that her election proved a blessing. As an agent for the SOUTHWESTERN she is a wonder; she secures subscribers with perfect ease. Quite a number subscribed. She is a warm friend to the paper. She is no less faithful to Rust University. Seven dollars were paid to Prof. E. H. McKissack by her for this school. The roll was called and the brethren responded with $14 for the same cause. E. H. McKissack, professor of commercial department in Rust University, made a strong talk for the school, receiving $21 in all for the building. About this time the conference caught on financial fire, brought charges against Elder Jamison, and as a penalty for his impartial and fatherly manner of ruling the conference for four years, $21 were presented to him by the brethren through F. H. Bunton, who presented it in a most appropriate style. Eighty-seven dollars in all were collected during the conference. The paper on "Welcome" was rendered by Miss Edwards; she deserves much credit for the clear and forcible style of rendition.

C. E. Moody responded in a few well-selected words. The following brethren preached excellent sermons: G. Orange, Wm. Roberts, M. Adams and A. G. Houston. Brother A. G. Houston has been in bad health all the year, but his sermon on the text, "I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth," was a season of great joy; our hearts burned while our cheeks were bedewed with tears. God bless Brother A. G. Houston. Sunday's services were also a great manifestation of the power of God. M. Adams conducted the love feast. 11 a. m. J. M. Thompson preached; 3 p. m. W. H. Gold; 7:30 p. m. John Everett, Sr.

Conference adjourned sine die, to meet again at Bellefontaine.

HE TALKS OF HEADACHES AND NERVOUSNESS AND GIVES A CURE FOR BOTH.

[From the Evening News, Newark, N. J.]

It was the drug clerk's turn to tell a story of one of his experiences, and the reporter, expecting something good, as usual, settled himself comfortably in a chair prepared to give his undivided attention to the speaker. The latter was Henry Maier, who resides with his parents on Acqueduct Street, Newark, N. J., and who hands out medicine over the counter of Dr. Andrew F. Burkhardt's drug store at 271 Orange street, this city.

"Perhaps I can do nothing better," he began, "than to tell you the secret of my good health. It is a story that I have told to many, recently, and as it resulted in good in each case, it may be worth your while to listen to it. To begin with, I was not always strong and robust, as I am now. Long hours of work and hard study had left me in a wretched condition. Frightful, lingering headaches found me a ready victim, and at times I was so nervous that the dropping of a pin would cause me to give a violent start, and then I would be seized with a fit of trembling that was, to put it mildly, exceedingly bothersome. Well, I began to doctor myself. Now I flatter myself that I know something of medicine; but with all my knowledge, I could find nothing that would cure those terrible headaches or put an end to my extreme nervousness. When I picked up a bottle my hand would shake as though I had the chills, and if it was a powder that I was handling I stood a good chance of sprinkling it all over these black trousers. Things went from bad to worse, and I soon realized that a man of my physical condition had better not attempt to mix any medicine.

"'Try a box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills,' said Dr. Burkhardt, one day; and as you know the doctor's advice is always worth following, I got the Pink Pills and began to take them. Aladdin's lamp never performed the wonders of these pills. Would you believe it? Before I had taken the contents of one box my headache began to give me a day off occasionally, and soon it left me entirely. How about my nervousness? Well, the pills put an end to that with almost startling abruptness. You see I know enough about the business to appreciate the importance of following the prescribing physicians' directions, and by paying strict attention to those given by Dr. Williams with each box of his Pink Pills, I was soon another fellow. Look at me now! A picture of health, eh? Well, that is what Dr. Williams' Pink Pills will do for a man, or a woman either. See, I can hold this glass of water out now without spilling a drop, but I couldn't do that two months ago and—

"What is it, ma'm?" he asked as a neatly dressed woman came up to the counter. "A box of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." "Yes, ma'm, fifty cents, please. Thank you."

"These Pink Pills are great things," said Mr. Maier as he turned to the reporter again, and the latter, after all he had heard, thought so too.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills contain all the elements necessary to give new life and richness to the blood and restore shattered nerves. They are for sale by all druggists, or may be had by mail from Dr. Williams' Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y., for 50 cents per box, or six boxes for $2.50.

A Book of Travel.

THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC MARKS AN ERA IN RAILWAY LITERATURE BY THE PUBLICATION OF A SUMPTUOUS BOOK.

The railway literature of the past decade has, in some instances, been so surprisingly good that as examples of book making it has occasioned revolutions in the art of printing

The Passenger Department of the Southern Pacific is about to put forth a book which will make a distinctive advance upon anything heretofore achieved in this line, and which is likely to astonish those conservative people who wonder how costly books, especially prepared, can be given away. The work referred to is entitled "Through Storyland to Sunset Seas," and was written by H. S. Kneedler. It will be issued as a handsome volume of 250 pages, printed on enameled paper, made especially for the work, and illustrated by 200 fine half tone engravings executed in the highest style of art The work contains no advertising, except as the narrative indirectly advertises the Southern Pacific.

It is a narrative, largely in dialogue, of the journey which four people made over the entire Southern Pacific System, and it tells cleverly all the things of interest which they saw and learned along the way. The unpublished romance which attached to the section of Louisiana traversed—the story of the Acadian and the traditions of LaFitte, as well as much of romance in family history, are dwelt upon, together with anecdotes of the Texas plains and the table lands of Arizona and New Mexico where Indian and Spanish rule have left a legacy of tragic history. Then up and down through California the story takes the reader to every point of interest, and as far North as Portland, Oregon, and out on the Central Pacific across the Sierras to Salt Lake.

The book is the embodiment of careful research and it describes all the points of interest along the line and tells so graphically the story of what is to be seen, that it is a perfect guide book, while at the same time the narrative style which has been adhered to takes it out of the class of guide books and makes it what it really is—a work of travel, and one as fascinating to a person who has never seen the great Southwest or the Paradise of the Pacific Coast, as to him who has traversed all the region. It is a book which people will read and keep, and when one contemplates the cost of publishing such a work, it is a marvel that the Southern Pacific generously offers to send it to an applicant who will send 20 cents in stamps to pay the cost of postage. Write to S. F. B. Morse, General Passenger Agent, Southern Pacific, New Orleans, La., enclose 20 cents in stamps and receive in return a book which, in the regular way, would cost you $1.50 or $2.
